Library Notes Nov. Schedule

All branches of the Ruth Enlow Library will be closed this month according the following schedule:

All day on Thursday, Nov. 11, for Staff Day activities; and at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 24, and all day on Thursday, Nov. 25, for Thanksgiving.

In addition, the Kitzmiller branch will be closed from Nov. 24 until Nov. 29.

For an up-to-date listing of closings and announcements, persons may visit the library's web site at relib.net.

State Merchants Group Creates Antiques Council

Recognizing the growing popularity of antiques and the unique needs of dealers, the Maryland Retailers Association (MRA) has created the Maryland Antiques Council.

The MRA is the retail community's largest statewide organization with more than 800 members representing every industry segment and all areas of the state, according to an MRA spokesperson.

"The Maryland Antiques Council will serve as the focal point and chief representative for the antiques industry within the MRA," said Tom Saquella, MRA president.

He said the council has a broad mission statement, ranging from legislation to joint marketing. A portion of each dealer's MRA dues will be used to support council activities.

Elaine Ezell, owner of AAA Antiques in Hanover and a member of the MRA board, was the driving force behind the council's creation.

"There is so much that can be done to enhance the opportunities for dealers," she said, "and being part of MRA gives dealers a respected organization to help them realize these opportunities."

Antique dealers interested in joining MRA and the council may call Sandy Oliver of the MRA at 800-669-1445.

HIGH SCHOOLS RECEIVE EXXON GRANTS – Northern High School and Southern High School each received $500 grants from Exxon Mobil Educational Alliance program to support various programs for the schools. Northern High School received the grant from Slopeside Market Exxon at Deep Creek and plans to use the money for reading and writing resources. Southern High School received the grant from the Oakland Exxon/Subway and plans to use the money for the general fund at the high school. Oakland Oil Company is a local distributor and retailer for ExxonMobil and worked with school officials to secure the grants. Only 4,000 grants are made available to schools across the country served by Exxon or Mobil stations. The grants were made possible by funding from the ExxonMobil Corporation. The ExxonMobil Educational Alliance program is designed to provide Exxon and Mobil retailers with an opportunity to invest in the future of their communities through educational grants to neighborhood schools. "The schools work hard to make learning interesting and fun,' said Steve Stuck, owner of Oakland Oil Company. Missing Hunter Found After Two Nights In Woods

An Anne Arundel County turkey hunter who got lost in the Savage River State Forest spent two nights in the woods before venturing into a search party's staging area late Sunday morning. Authorities said that he was in fairly good condition, and very fortunate that overnight temperatures ranged from the high 30s to low 40s while he was missing.

William Redman, 25, Pasadena, stumbled into a party about to resume the search off Fairview Road at approximately 10:30 a.m. Sunday, according to Mike Gregory, manager of Savage River State Forest and New Germany State Park. Redman had minor blisters on his feet and was very fatigued, but otherwise unhurt.

Redman's hunting party, which was staying in a New Germany State Park cabin, entered the woods after parking their vehicle along Fairview Road around 3 p.m. last Friday, Nov. 5. The group was planning to hunt the woods 2 to 3 miles eastward to Savage River Road by keeping to the north of Peapatch Ridge and to the south of Point Ridge. Redman was not as familiar with the area, which is also known as the Bear Pen Wildlands, as the other hunters.

After getting separated from his comrades, Redman decided to walk upstream along a stream in hopes that his party's vehicle was nearby. In doing so he became disoriented as he made his way upwards. "The numerous branches of the creek threw him off and got him disoriented," Gregory said. "He just couldn't find his way out."

Redman was able to conserve his water supply over his two nights in the woods, and successfully built a fire both nights. He told authorities at one point he saw a Maryland State Police search helicopter fly overhead, but it was at night and the chopper's searchlight failed to spot him out.

The search was conducted by the State Forest and Park Service in conjunction with Natural Resources Police. Rangers Rick Lewis and Mike Berry of the State Forest and Park

NOT TO BE FORGOTTEN are the millions of war veterans of the United States who risked, and often lost, their lives in service to the country. They are being remembered and honored on this date, as the nation observes Veterans Day. A ceremony was held in Oakland this morning at Veterans Park, located at the corner of Oak and Third streets. Pictured above at the podium is the featured guest speaker, Col. Warren T. (Tom) Lillie, U.S. Army ret. In addition to his address was special music, other words of commemoration, a wreath-laying, and a military salute. The Southern High School band performed several patriotic numbers for the event. A Veterans Day feature story appears in today's issue about one Garrett County son, Robert Stevenson, who served in WWII aboard the USS Indiana. Best wishes and honor to all who have served, as well as to all who are serving now. Photo by John McEwen.

Planning Commission To Reconsider Proposal To Change Marina Zoning

The Garrett County commissioners announced this week that three proposed amendments to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance needed to go back to the Garrett County Planning Commission for further review.

As currently written, the proposed amendments would allow the sale and rental of boats and other watercraft on lots smaller than two acres, which is the current requirement for a "marina." Boat repairs, boat storage, and fuel sales, however, would not be permitted on these smaller lots.

Developer Karen Myers, Swanton, proposed the amendments to the Planning Commission this summer. She has been considering establishing a boat rental/sales business with a showroom in McHenry on a lot that is smaller than two acres.

The Planning Commission approved the amendments in July. They must be approved by the commissioners, however, before they can be added to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance.

The commissioners held a public hearing on the amendments last month. Phil St. Moritz, owner of Bill's Marine Service, noted at the hearing that the amendments would greatly affect his business and employees. He said one of the determining factors in his purchase of the business a few years ago was the potential for competition. The MELODRAMA READY TO ROLL AT OTT – Audiences will be encouraged to cheer for the hero and hiss at the villain next week at Our Town Theatre during performances of Only An Orphan Girl. The show will be presented Nov. 17-20 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 21 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $5 on Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday, and $8 on Friday and Saturday. The cast, all of whom "play their roles to the hilt," said Director Jane Avery, is pictured above. In front is Taylor Upole. Seated from left are Crystal Towne, Donna Miller, and Chelsea Davis. In the back, same order, are Richard Hill, Anthony Oliverio, Bruce Steele, John Armstrong, Matt Eary, and Lyndsie Rush. Avery said the show is a "delightful family comedy with all of the elements of an old-time melodrama." Reservations are strongly suggested, and can be made by calling 301-334-5640, option 1.

200 Area Residents Study Rt. 219 Proposals At Grantsville Meeting

An open-house public meeting to provide information on the proposed alternatives for an upgrade of U.S. Route 219 from Pennsylvania into Garrett County drew just over 200 residents to the Grantsville Inn Tuesday night, according to officials with the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT).

"It was a fairly standard turnout, as each of the four public meetings we've had so far have drawn about the same turnout," said PennDOT's Dave Sherman, project manager for the combined Pennsylvania-Maryland venture. "We're glad to see so many people involved and interested as the process continues. We're getting good feedback, and taking the public's comments into consideration."

The U.S. Route 219 project seeks to upgrade the two-lane highway to four-lane Interstate status from Buffalo, N.Y., through western New York, western Pennsylvania, and into western Maryland. At this time the terminus of the four-lane route will be in the immediate vicinity of the two-lane's current junction with Interstate 68 on the east end of Grantsville.

Walk-Ins Welcome At GC Chamber's "Our Story" Event

The 2004 Our Story Conference will offer a strategic look at Mountain Maryland and surrounding areas. Speakers will focus on education, politics, and the economics of business at the Strategic Thinking Conference, being held Friday, Nov. 12, at Garrett College.

Registration begins at 8 a.m., and programs start at 9. Although registrations will be accepted at the door, full-conference provisions cannot be assured for walk-in registrants.

"We want as many people as possible to benefit from this conference," said Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "It is especially important to small businesses."

The one-day event will feature leaders in education, politics, and economic analysis, including Dennis Castleman, assistant secretary for tourism, film, and the arts and executive director of the Maryland Office of Tourism; Jim Rzepkowski, Maryland assistant secretary for Business Development – Rural Region; William W. Destler, provost for the University of Maryland and

Yough Watershed Assn. Reviews Current Projects

Members of the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association recently heard reports of the progress being made in several of the projects in which the association is involved. These projects involve such issues as acid mine drainage, bore holes, stream bank stabilization, and others.

In Crellin, the association is working on a bore hole project. The Crellin bore hole is the largest source of acid mine drainage to the Upper Yough River, according to an association spokesperson. This discharge consists of approximately 500 gallons of acid water per minute discharged into Laurel Run and eventually into the Yough. The discharge also contains high levels of iron, which turns Laurel Run red. This source of pollution is from the old Turner Douglas Mine.

The Watershed Association, along with the Maryland Bureau of Mines, the Western Maryland Resource Conservation and Development Council, the West Virginia Dept. of Environmental Protection, Wood Products Inc., and the Federal Office of Surface Mining, have been working together to put in operation a treatment works that will neutralize the acid water discharge. Since the discharge originates in West Virginia and flows into Maryland within 100 yards, both states are involved, the spokesperson said. If this discharge is treated, the Yough should be capable of supporting trout as it passes through Crellin.

Danny Bess, an official with the W.Va. Dept. of Environmental Protection, told the group that his department hopes to be able to drill an exploratory hole to locate the water source soon. If a well can be successful in that location, a treatment facility could be

Southern Band Wins Chapter XIII Title; Will Compete At Scranton

The Southern Garrett Marching Band of Southern High School closed its regular season of field show competition with two more victories, including the Group I title in the annual Tournament of Bands Chapter XIII Championships, held Saturday at Musselman High School in Inwood, W.Va.

The next engagement for the band will be the Atlantic Coast Championships in Scranton, Pa., set for this Sunday, Nov. 14.

Under the direction of Richard Clever and Duane Salisbury, the SHS band also won first place, Group I, in the Musselman High School Big Apple Tournament on October 30.

In that event, the band earned a score of 86.5, plus won the Best Drum Major (Allison Richter), Best Percussion, Best Auxiliary, Best Music, and Best Visual Performance specialty awards.

The Northern Garrett Marching Band placed second in Group I with a score of 82.9.

The Keyser High School Band won the Group IV title with the top score in the entire competition (89.8), and also swept the specialty awards in that division.

The Southern band upped its score to a season-best 89.3 at the Chapter XIII Championships on Saturday, and again won all of the specialty awards.

Allison Richter has now won both the Maryland and the Chapter XIII titles for Best Drum Major, and the

GC Officials Adopt New Policy To Cover Capital Water, Sewer Projects

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners adopted a new policy this week to help pay for numerous pending water and sewer projects. The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities will now be provided with an appropriation from the county's general fund to cover capital projects to "minimize user rates, tap fees, and/or debt service obligations for all customers," as noted in a written draft of the policy.

The new approach also means that all Garrett County tax payers will help pay for sanitary district projects, whether they use the services or not.

Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Dave Beard voted in favor of the policy, while Commissioner Fred Holliday voted "no."

Holliday said he had a problem with the policy. "Pieces of this I like, and pieces of it I don't like," he said. He felt that public water and sewer projects should be paid for by those receiving the services through user fees and not by the general public.

Gregg and Beard, however, equated the policy to public education. They noted that even though many residents do not have children in the school system, all taxpayers pay for the schools because they indirectly benefit from them.

Beard added that some areas of the county needed public water and sewer services, but would never be able to afford them without the new policy. It would not only help those residents to get the needed services, but it would also protect the environment and health of all residents.

"Having everyone paying a small amount seems fair enough to me," he said.

Fred Thayer of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association called the policy's focus "a marvelous attempt to address inadequacies" in the county. He was just one of about 40 residents, developers, and local officials anxious to hear the commissioners' policy announcement at a meeting on Tuesday meeting.

Gregg said county officials had spent numerous hours and days writing and rewriting the policy.

"While this obviously is not going to please everybody, it is for the good of the whole," Gregg said.

Mtn. Lake Park mayor Leo Martin was concerned about the policy's affect on towns with their own water and sewer systems. "How can you explain to our taxpayers that they're paying for something that's not going to help them," he asked.

"We're helping the county as a whole," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

Martin disagreed. "You're helping parts of the county," he said.

Oakland mayor Asa McCain said he had looked at the issue from various angles, not just as a mayor. Prior to the commissioners announcing their decision, McCain asked them to look at the "big picture."

He was concerned about

Garrett Native Graduates From MSP Academy

Trooper Vincent Upole, a native of Garrett County, graduated with the Maryland State Police 121st Academy class recently. The Southern High School alum was ranked fourth in the academy class of 25 graduates, who were sworn into the force by Maryland State Police secretary Col. Thomas E. Hutchins last month in Pikesville.

Trooper Upole has been assigned to the Prince George's County barrack, located in Forestville, where he has begun eight weeks of field training with an experienced trooper before receiving a patrol assignment of his own.

A 2001 SHS graduate, Upole entered the McHenry barrack's Explorer Program in his freshman year of high school. The volunteer program gives participants ranging from high school age to 21 years old the opportunity to experience a law enforcement career by riding in patrol cars and studying seasoned troopers as they work. Explorers also provide assistance at accident scenes, sobriety checkpoints, and public events, and receive classroom and firearms instruction. While a member of the program, Upole also attended national conferences in Flagstaff, Ariz., and Atlanta.

"Vince is our first Explorer in Garrett County to graduate from the academy," said Tfc. Bryan Wil-

Gunlocks To Be Distributed To Promote Safety

Project ChildSafe, which is a program to promote firearm safety in the home, will be in Garrett County on Friday, Nov. 12, to distribute free cable-style gunlocks and accompanying educational materials. Representatives from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Oakland City Police Department will be at Wal-Mart on Friday from noon until 5 p.m. Gunlocks will also be available at each police department office.

The National Shooting Sports Foundation has partnered with the local law enforcement agencies to distribute 150,000 free gunlocks in Maryland as part of the national Project ChildSafe (PCS) initiative. PCS reminds gun owners to take steps to prevent a loaded gun from falling into the hands of a child, thereby preventing tragic accidents, according to a spokesperson.

Phase Two of PCS is funded by two grants from the U.S. Department of Justice that total $30 million. These two grants will fund the program from Sept. 1, 2004, through Aug. 31, 2005. A $50 million U.S. Department of Justice grant funded Phase One of PCS when 223,000 free gunlocks were distributed throughout Maryland.

The current campaign will distribute more than 12 million free firearm safety kits. "There continues to be a significant demand for firearm safety education across America, and we are pleased that Project ChildSafe is able to meet that demand with millions of additional free firearm safety kits," said Doug Painter, president of the National Shooting Sports Foundation. "We are continuing to remind gun owners that their most important responsibility is to know how to safely handle and properly store their firearms in the home."

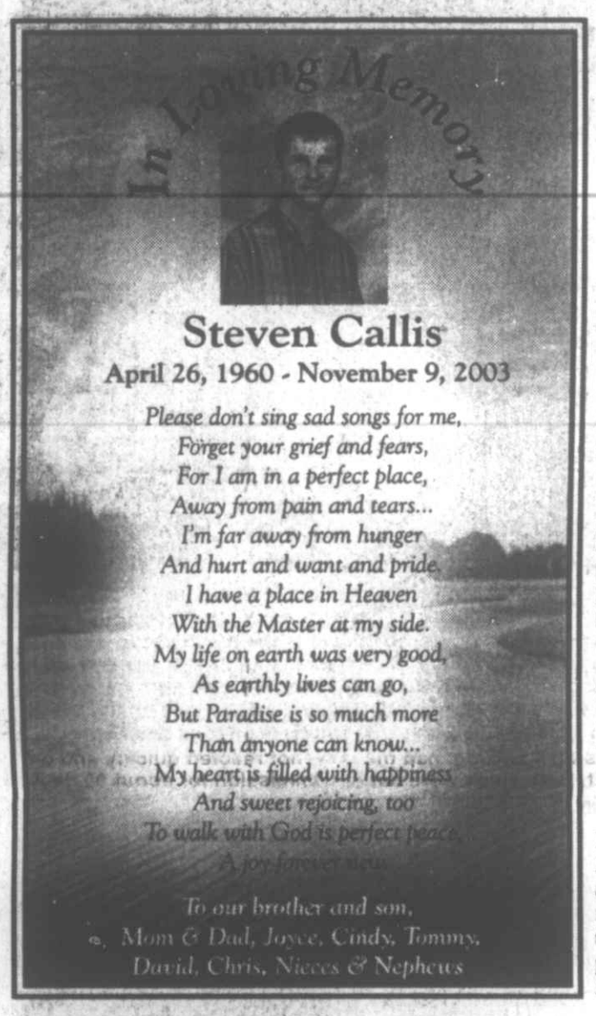
LOCAL OFFICIALS PICK UP AWARD – Garrett County was the recent winner of the Outstanding Rural Economic Development Award from the Rural Maryland Council. As was reported last week in The Republican, the award was given for a joint venture between Oakland and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce which established a satellite Visitors Center and the Shoppe at Heritage Square in the town's train station. The station is now staffed by a tourism specialist, with 39 artists, artisans, and farmers selling their products at the shop. A spillover effect in economic development has begun as well, according Oakland mayor Asa McCain. Since railroad freight traffic still passes the station eight times a day and four times a night, property developed had not blossomed along Liberty Street. But now the station's parking lot is constantly full. A secondhand book stall is located in a box car beside the train station. Shops around the corner praise the project for the additional traffic generated, the mayor noted. Governor Bob Ehrlich presented local officials with the award last Thursday. Pictured, left to right, are Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action Committee; Cherie Ross, Oakland's Main Street manager; the governor; Charlie Ross, president/CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce; Delegate George Edwards; Phyllis Kilby, chair of the Rural Maryland Council; and Stephen McHenry, executive director of the Rural Maryland Council.



Swanton Man Arrested After Alleged Assault

A Swanton man was arrested Wednesday afternoon after police responded to 122 Decatur Street for a reported 911 hang up and possible assault in progress, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Shannon Lee was arrested and charged with second-degree assault. According to police, they observed injuries from an apparent assault on Anthony Hardesty of Mtn. Lake Park. Both Hardesty and Lee told police they had been in an argument prior to the deputy's arrival.

GOBA, Main Street Meeting Set For Nov. 16

A combined GOBA and Main Street meeting will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at Oakland Town Hall. The focus of the meeting will be to discuss and create a work plan for the next year utilizing the town's Strategic Plan which was released in March of this year.

The agenda of the meeting will be to identify portions of the plan that have been achieved, identify those in progress, analyze the remaining portions, and set priorities for the upcoming year, said Cherie Ross, Main Street manager. Utilizing the Main Street model, those involved will break these projects down into Design, Economic Restructuring, Promotions, and Organization.

Elements of the Design committee work would include façade and streetscape guidelines, landscaping, banners and other street enhancements, and outdoor public art works. Economic Restructuring project examples include ways to work with local businesses for success and retention, recruitment of new businesses, training, and mentoring.

Promotions examples include planning and implementing existing and new events, advertising and marketing, and reviewing and analyzing existing materials. Organization examples include communication among GOBA and Main Street members and the town.

"An annual work plan is a Main Street program requirement which is due to the state every January. As this year saw the introduction of the completed Strategic Plan for the town, GOBA and Main Street want to work together on this plan, and invite everyone who is interested in participating in this planning meeting," said Ross.

The meeting begins at 5:30 p.m. at Town Hall. For further information, persons may call call Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026.

Phone Call Leads To DUI Arrest Of Oakland Woman

An Oakland woman was arrested on drunk driving charges after police investigated a telephone call indicating a traffic complaint on Rt. 560 Wednesday evening, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Sharon Arnold, 51, was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired, DUI per se, and negligent driving. She was released on her own recognizance.

Westernport Man Faces DUI, Drug Charges

A driver involved in two-vehicle collision on Westernport Road just inside the Garrett County line last Tuesday, Nov. 2 faces a variety of drug and traffic charges filed by Maryland State Police troopers.

Zachary Russell Jones, 18, Westernport was traveling south on Westernport Road at 8:35 p.m. when his 1990 Chevrolet Lumina collided with an oncoming vehicle just west of the border separating Garrett and Allegany counties. Both Jones and the other driver, Stacey Wassell, 36, Westernport, escaped injury.

After state troopers arrested Jones for driving while under the influence (DUI), they located a bag of suspected marijuana packaged in a manner giving the appearance of distribution.

Jones was charged with DUI, possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, negligent driving, failure to reduce speed in dangerous weather conditions, failure to give up half-portion of an unlined roadway, and violation of a license restriction.

Jones was released from police custody under unspecified conditions.

Friendsville Man Charged With Burglary, Assault

A Friendsville man was arrested by Maryland State Police troopers last Thursday, Nov. 4, after he reportedly removed a sliding glass door from a home along Old Morgantown Road and entered the residence, where he allegedly assaulted the homeowner.

Gary Lee James Coddington, 23, is also accused of driving his vehicle through the yard of that home and a separate residential yard also located along Old Morgantown Road. The incidents occurred at approximately 1 p.m.

Coddington faces charges of first-degree burglary, second-degree assault, and two counts of malicious destruction of property. He is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $5,000 bond.

Man Accused Of DUI, Assaulting Police Officers

A Grant County, W.Va., man faces a number of charges, including assault on three police officers, following a single-vehicle accident last Wednesday, Nov. 3, on New Germany Road. Maryland State Police troopers made the arrest with assistance from a Natural Resources Police officer.

Shortly after 7 p.m. Larry M. Bittinger, 37, Petersburg, was approaching Twin Churches road from the north when his vehicle crossed the roadway, went off the east shoulder, and struck a tree. The investigating officers subsequently arrested Bittinger for driving while under the influence (DUI), but as they attempted to take him into custody he reportedly forcibly resisted the arrest. An altercation ensued as Bittinger allegedly fought with two state troopers and an NRP officer working to subdue him. After he was taken into custody, Bittinger was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for medical attention.

Bittinger faces charges of three counts of second-degree assault, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, malicious destruction of property, DUI, negligent driving, failure to drive right of center, and driving on a revoked license.

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the accident scene.

School Personnel Changes Noted By Board Of Educ.

Four personnel changes were approved by the Board of Education at this week's monthly meeting.

Wendy Miner was employed as a part-time cafeteria worker at Northern High School, and Anthony Sean McGoldrick was assigned as head custodian at Grantsville Elementary School. Resignations were approved for Ruth Miller, cafeteria worker, and Angela Smith, part-time cafeteria worker, both at NHS.

Also at the meeting, Jadyn Swerbinsky and Andrew Goad were recognized for being selected as senators for the state of Maryland at their respective Girls' and Boys' Nations. Both are students in David Bender's AP U.S. government and politics class at Southern High School. This was the first time a student from Garrett County was elected as a senator in this program, according to Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent.

The board members also proclaimed the week of Nov. 14 through 20 as American Education Week to honor the efforts of the education employees. A resolution was also passed for Veterans Day observance.

Oakland Man Charged With DUI After Crash

A vehicle accident Saturday afternoon in front of the Oakland Wal-Mart store led to charges for an Oakland driver, including driving while under the influence of alcohol (DUI). Oakland police officers investigated the crash.

The 3:15 collision occurred when James Robert McMenamin, 74, attempted to turn from northbound Garrett Highway into the entrance to the Wal-Mart parking lot. McMenamin missed the turn, and his 2003 Ford struck a 2002 Chevrolet operated by David Lambert Garcia, 43, Mineralsville.

McMenamin, who failed sobriety and breath testing, was arrested and charged with DUI and failure to control speed to avoid a collision. He was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center into the custody of a friend.

If Roses Grow in Heaven
Lord, please pick a bunch for me.
Place them in my Husband's arms and tell him they're from me.
Tell him I love him and miss him, and when he turns to smile,
Place a kiss upon his cheek and hold him for a while.
Because remembering him is easy, I do it every day.
But there is an ache within my heart that will never go away.
In life we loved him dearly, in death we do the same.
It broke our hearts to lose him, He did not go alone,
For part of us went with him the day God called him home.
He left us beautiful memories. His love is still our guide.
And though we cannot see him, he is always at our side.
Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

SIGNALMAN FC ROBT. STEVENSON was just 17 when he volunteered to serve in World War II. Born in Mountain Lake Park to John and Vava Stevenson, the young man first became a Sea Scout with many of his peers in the Oakland and Mtn. Lake area. He joined the very young crew of the USS Indiana in 1942 and served aboard ship as a signalman until his honorable discharge in 1945. He and his crewmates endured much throughout those tumultuous years, including a devastating collision with a sister ship, the USS Washington. See feature story.

Two WWII Vets Meet By Chance; Recall Perilous Collision At Sea

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Today is Veterans Day, and across the country ceremonies will take place to honor those who offered themselves up in times of war, and in times of peace, to do their parts to preserve the freedoms all Americans share. Surely many will gather at the new World War II monument in Washington, D.C., to remember the multitude of sacrifices made during that conflict.

One native Garrett Countian, Robert H. Stevenson, has been to the site to see the memorial raised in honor of him and his peers. Stevenson served in the United States Navy from the moment he was eligible, at age 17, in February 1942 until November 1945. Stevenson, who was born in Mtn. Lake Park and now lives in Damascus, visited the memorial this summer, where he was surprised by a chance meeting with another veteran.

"I saw the insignia on his cap, and we started talking," Stevenson said. The man he met was Duane C. Day, and although they had never met, the two veterans soon learned that they shared a significant event.

Stevenson was a signalman on the USS Indiana battleship throughout his service. Day was a signalman, too, aboard the USS Washington. In the very early hours of Feb. 1, 1944, these two great ships collided in a terrific crash off the shores of Kwajalein.

The fleet had completed a bombardment of the island, and the huge ships had done their duty of refueling the accompanying destroyers. Stevenson had gone off duty late on Jan. 31.

"I was asleep on the signal bridge when the Washington hit," Stevenson said. "I saw her bow ride up over our main deck. The starboard side was a wall of sparks, and that entire 35,000-ton ship shuddered. You can't really imagine how that felt."

Men were thrown from their cots onto the floor, jarred awake by the noise and the quaking of the great ship. In the pitch dark, they scrambled to their collision stations.

"We shut down all engines, and someone had the brains to get the fire retardant thrown on the collision site. A catapult and an airplane in that area just disappeared," he said.

The two ships often traveled together, always several thousand yards apart. — except for that night. At the chance meeting between Day and Stevenson, which was reported in the Baltimore Sun in June, Day joked with his peer: "You guys got in our way."

The Indiana was attempting to leave the formation, according to reports, but turned into the path of the Washington. Stevenson's skipper, Captain J.G. Steele, was court-martialed after the event.

"He had only been with us for a few weeks before the crash," Stevenson said. "And he was held responsible."

The night of the collision was dark, and seemed to grow darker as the shipmates realized the toll it had taken. Not only were the ships badly damaged, but worse was the loss of life. Three servicemen were killed in the crash, including one young man by the name of Lawrence Neville whose body was visible, stuck in the wreckage. As is common among veterans who witnessed such tragedies, Mr. Stevenson has a difficult time recalling that sight.

"It was awful," he said. "We could see him there. He was just a kid."

Twelve others were injured, and a fourth man died about a day later from his wounds. Burials at sea were held on the decks of the ships.

Day and Stevenson had a lively discussion of the event, recalling every moment of the perilous night. The Washington sustained the worst damage, and the men worked feverishly to hoist up the main deck with huge anchor chains to keep it from falling into the ocean.

As for the Indiana, it was most likely the quick action of the crew that kept the great ship from sinking. Few realized at the time how critical the hit was, according to a report from the Pentagon. The collision occurred at a very vulnerable spot which could have easily led to rapid flooding, which could have in short order resulted in sinking.

However, in a report filed by Captain Steele, the crew was credited with saving the ship:

"During the emergency all officers and men conducted themselves in accordance with the best traditions of the Naval service. No confusion or excessive noise was noted, and all hands acted promptly and intelligently to localize the damage and to effect repairs within the capacity of the ship's force."

Day and Stevenson, both with the signal crews of their ships, had much to talk about as they stood in front of the memorial. Both can recall every detail, every sight. And this episode, while unforgettable, was just one of the many challenging — and frightening — events the men endured.

Stevenson was aboard the ship for nearly his entire time of service. He was among the original crew of 2,000. At the end of the war, just 432 of those remained on board. Others had been transferred or relocated, or were casualties.

The Indiana participated in no fewer than 12 intense campaigns. The crew traveled to Iwo Jima, Truk, Okinawa, and the Philippines, to name just a few. Benjamin M. Givens Jr., a fellow serviceman aboard with Stevenson, has compiled a history on the Internet of the Indiana and her crew. He said this of the young crew of 1942:

"Over eighty percent had not been out of the civilian way of life more than six months when they [first] came aboard. Most were 18-year-olds and had never seen an ocean before. They came from cities, towns, and farms. They came from the 48 states and the territories. They came from all walks of life. They came from coal mining and steel-making towns, auto-making cities, cattle country, and dairy communities. They came together for one purpose — to make the world safe for democracy.

"The older crew members trained and molded these young former civilians into a trim, trained, trusted, fighting crew that took their rightful and honored place in the annals and histories of the Third and Fifth Fleets of World War II."

Stevenson speaks of the Indiana, where he spent nearly three years of his young life, with great respect and care.

"I loved that ship. She was my home," he said. As is customary in the military, the ship was scrapped fol-

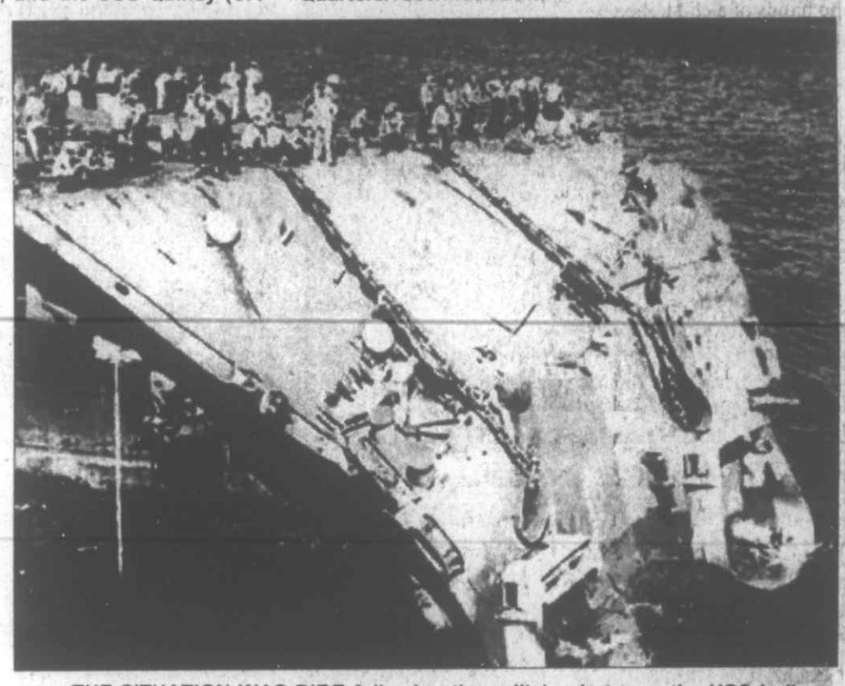
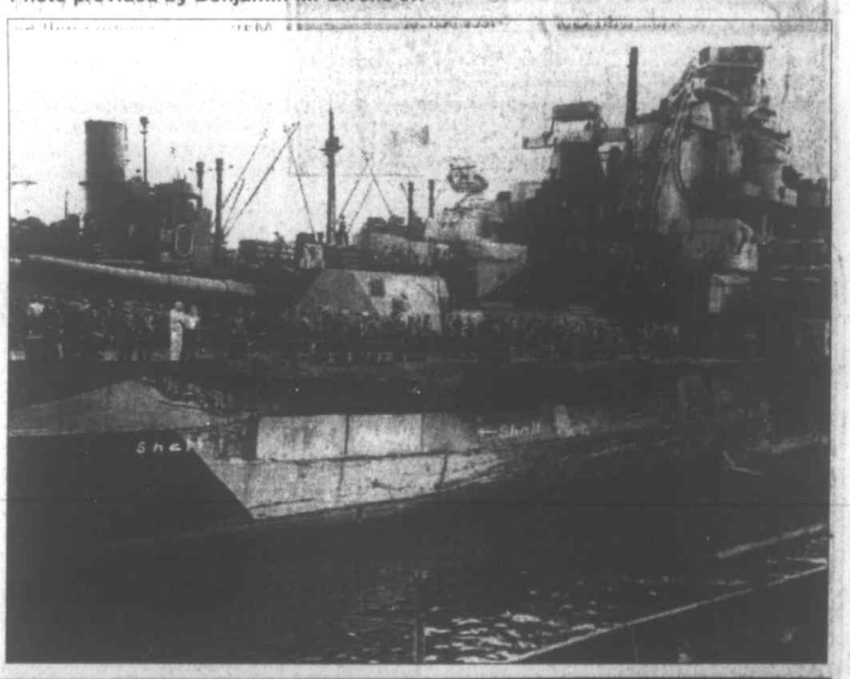
THE INDIANA IN ACTION — This photo was taken on July 14, 1945, as the Indiana crew bombarded Japanese shore targets. This was the first bombardment of Kamaishi, Honshu, Japan. The USS Massachusetts (BB-59) is in the immediate background behind the Indiana, and the USS Quincy (CA-71) is shown in the far background, slightly ahead of the Indiana. The photo was taken from the USS South Dakota (BB-57), and was borrowed from the Indiana's web site, created and maintained by Benjamin M. Givens Jr. It is located at www.geocities.com/Pentagon/Quarters/7858/index.html.



THE SITUATION WAS DIRE following the collision between the USS Indiana and USS Washington battleships. The two crashed into each other at about 4 a.m., Feb. 1, 1944, off the shores of Kwajalein. Shown above is the Washington, the deck of which nearly fell off into the sea. The enormous anchor chains of the ship were used to shore up the damaged area until it could be limped into port for repairs. The Indiana, shown below, did not sustain quite the evident damage as the Washington, but actually the hit (evidenced along the bottom center of the battleship) could have resulted in the ship's sinking, had the crew not reacted quickly and decisively shortly after impact. Both ships were out of commission for about 90 days. Photo provided by Benjamin M. Givens Jr.



"MY LIFE WAS ON THE SIGNAL BRIDGE," said Robert Stevenson, shown here with his signal crew aboard the USS Indiana. Stevenson is in the back at right, walking toward the right. "We lived, ate, and slept on the bridge," he said. There were 27 signalmen serving the ship during WWII. They took part in intense training before boarding the ship, learning hundreds of signals, as well as extensive ship recognition techniques. As often as he can, Stevenson still reunites with his surviving crewmates, who were his family during his wartime service. Photo provided by Benjamin M. Givens Jr.

THE COLLISION WAS ONLY ONE OF MULTIPLE CHALLENGES faced by the crew of the USS Indiana throughout WWII. Here the ship is shown under attack by the infamous Japanese kamikaze pilots. The ship was not directly hit by the falling plane, but other damages were sustained by the ship and her crew. And this was just one moment in Indiana's WWII history. Photo provided by Benjamin M. Givens Jr.

A SAD AND SOLEMN TASK — The collision between the two battleships was not without great cost. Three men lost their lives as a result of the crash, and burials at sea were required. This was not the first, nor the last, of tragic losses witnessed by the young crewmen. Photo provided by Benjamin M. Givens Jr.

Another Day of Thanks...

Taking our various freedoms for granted much of the time is something that most of us Americans just can't help, but writing this column the morning of Veterans Day can't help but spark a great appreciation of the freedom to do so. In this nation any one of us may publicly rant and rave about our government, verbally rip our elected officials — including the president — to shreds and know that we will not be placed in jail for such actions.

We also just had the opportunity to use another precious freedom, that of voting, available to every single citizen 18 and older, regardless of his or her political views.

We are able to enjoy and utilize our freedom of speech, freedom to vote, and our many other liberties because in our nation's nearly 230 years of history there have always been people — mostly very young people — who have been willing to take up arms and put their lives on the line to preserve and protect those liberties. Thanks to our veterans in the 18th century, we do not have to belong and answer to England. Thanks to veterans of the 19th century, the unity of our then-divided nation was restored. Thanks to veterans of the 20th century, we escaped dominance, oppression, and potential control of Germany, Japan, and others.

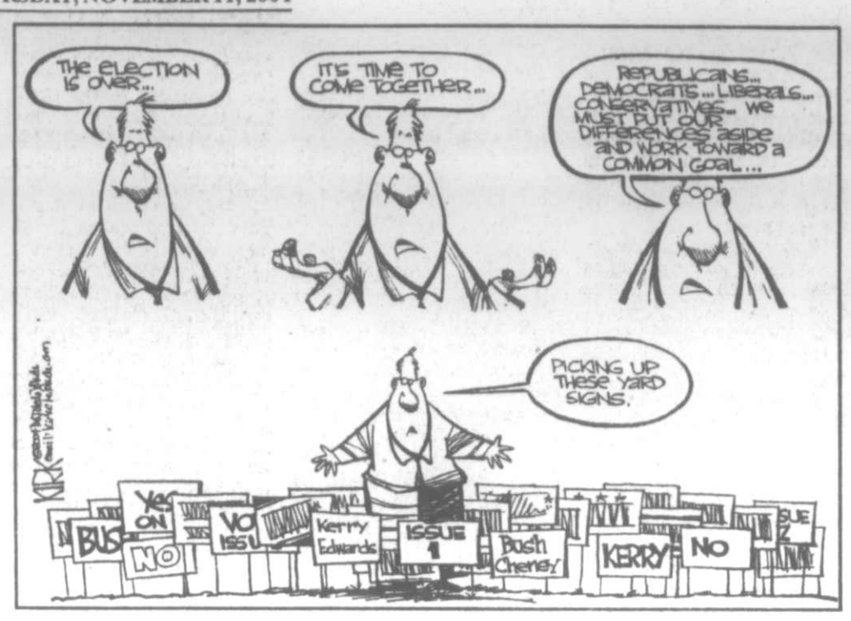
Frankly, much of the rest of the world owes much to the United States veterans, who have on numerous occasions served in an allied capacity, the end result being the preservation of many other nations and their liberties. Thanks to the American veterans of the 21st century, Afghani women are now back in school, back in the workplace, and free of intense persecution. It is hoped that the same can soon be said for the citizens of Iraq.

Those veterans who serve, but are fortunate enough to escape warfare, are also owed a great debt of gratitude, by our nation and many others. Their mere presence on bases about the globe, with South Korea being a good example, serves as a major deterrent to aggression and potential occupation.

It is also significant to keep in mind this day that only about 1% of our current population serves in the military — 1% protecting 100%. As Winston Churchill said, "Never have so many depended upon so few."

Finally, also on Veterans Day, thanks and gratitude should be extended to the family members of our veterans, who have also made and are making great sacrifice in their lives. Life must go on at home, and it can become quite difficult for a veteran's spouse. Not only is there double work to be done, but there is also mental anguish for loved ones who can do little but worry, wait, and pray that their soldier will come home safely.

Thanksgiving Day is still a few weeks away. But Veterans Day should truly be another day of Thanksgiving.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor.

You certainly deserve compliments for your editorials published on Oct. 28 and Nov. 4 concerning the election. The Republican comes to me via U.S. Postal Service. It was only yesterday that the October 28 issue arrived. Then I read your November 4 comments from the web site.

We live in an area where the local daily newspaper staff tries to "manage" the news in a way that reinforces their own predictable, left-wing opinions. I always look forward to reading your paper each week as it represents a breath of "fresh air" that is only occasionally polluted by letters from some of your readers.

Thanks and keep up the excellent work.

To the Editor:

I would like to use your newspaper as a vehicle to thank an unknown person for a kind deed. On election day I lost my FFW military service hat in the area of Café LaDonna in Oakland. It had fallen out of the pockets of a coat I was carrying. I did not realize it had been lost until several days later. Hoping that someone had turned it in to city hall, I checked with Chief John Sines and found that indeed someone had found it and turned it in, but he did not know who had done so.

To whomever found my hat, I give you my heartfelt gratitude. I wish I could thank you in person and tell you how much that hat means to me. Along with several Vietnam service pins, on it was my Presidential Service Badge, given to me for my tours of duty at the White House and Camp David. That badge in particular is irreplaceable. Thank you again for your kindness.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

How did this country, based on moral values, choose a president who went to war based on a lie? The actions of this lie have killed more than 1,000 Americans and tens of thousands of Iraqi citizens, including more "innocents" than can be counted.

If moral values are the basis for our nation's decisions, let us begin with truth. That is a moral value overlooked by the vice president during his televised debate, when he stated that we did not go to war because of weapons of mass destruction, but because Iraq was thought to be a "likely nexus" for terrorists.

For moral and spiritual reasons some Americans fought through the decades to make this country a better place for all citizens. They marched with Martin Luther King Jr. and, following his death, escorted citizens in the Poor Peoples' Campaign to Capital Hill in Washington in his honor to talk to elected officials about their disenfranchisement and lack of educational and economic opportunities. Because of their faith and their values, these Americans had earlier answered the shots in Selma, Alabama, offering their bodies as "living sacrifices," according to scripture. People by the thousands poured into that city from all over the country to stand up for justice and to do it because of their faith and moral values. Lay and clergy alike, they continued to work for peace and for equal opportunities through the years, remembering Christ's command "to give a cup of cold water in my name." These same Americans, always mindful of the connect between faith and action and representing a variety of Judeo-Christian disciplines, know about morality, and they have practiced it all of their lives through religious institutions. They know about truth and the search for peace. And no religious groups, many of which are "Johnnies-Come-Lately" to the political process, can hijack this country from them.

To the Editor:

You know it is getting pretty terrible when a person writes a letter to commend some hard working honest folks at a job that probably doesn't pay much and gets a comment completely off base. Mr. Cunningham from Virginia wrote a letter that was off base, and I mean that literally.

My husband's last tour of duty as the chief of staff of the 29th Division, U.S. Army, was Ft. Belvoir, Va. We had a great tour there and the people were wonderful, at least the Virginians were, as well as those guys like ourselves who were stationed there from all over the country. There is no crime on the streets of Ft. Belvoir. The tourists who came in hordes all the time were not so nice. That was what I experienced in Virginia when my property wasn't returned intact. Both places mentioned were tourist traps. My fault losing it in the first place. And yes, there are good and bad everywhere.

What I take umbrage with is the fact that he felt he needed to give me a lesson, that I don't need, about good and bad people everywhere when my letter was to give thanks for an honest act by some great people and to show that not all people are that honest. Mr. Cunningham needs to adjust his paranoid tendencies and stop reading things into other people's letters to the editor that were not intended. Loyalty to one's place of residence is nice to read about, but not at the expense of other peoples feelings.

To the Editor:

We are waiting first as individuals whose lives have been touched by cancer. We have both lost a parent and friends to this dreadful disease. One of us is a cancer survivor. In the past few months, two dear friends lost their battle with cancer within six months of diagnosis.

The American Cancer Society offers many services to those diagnosed with cancer. This funding comes from your local Relay for Life event. They also offer screenings in the prevention of cancer. A brochure with the various programs is available on request by calling the American Cancer Society at 1-888-227-9979.

The second reason for our writing is, as co-chairs for Garrett County's Relay for Life 2005, we are urging more individuals to get involved. Relay for Life is in desperate need of teams. Teams must have at least eight members and no more than 15. Team members collect donations for the American Cancer Society. As a team you can also choose to conduct fundraisers. There are incentive prizes for money collected.

The 2005 Garrett County Relay for Life will be held June 10-11, 2005, at the Southern High School track. We would like to urge all of you to get involved in this fun, yet important, event. If you have ever wondered what to do for someone fighting this disease, this is it. Teams can consist of any group of individuals, as long as there are at least eight members. We promise that the money your team collects will provide services to individuals in Garrett County fighting cancer. We hope with the services offered to help prevent someone from hearing the dreaded words "you have cancer" or possibly being diagnosed too late.

Our kick-off celebration will be January 18 (snow date, Jan. 25). The meeting will be held at Garrett College in the Continuing Ed. Building. The time is 6:30-8 p.m. Our theme for kick off is Hawaiian Luau. Refreshments will be served, so don your best Hawaiian clothes (optional) and join us.

Remember, there is no finish line until we find a cure. If you have any questions we would be happy to answer them, or we will find the answer. Please call us at 301-746-8717 or 301-387-4872.

Sincerely,
Garrett County 2005

To the Editor:

With special thanks to your paper and David Foster and to WMSG Radio and Paul Mullan for your continued support of the efforts of the American Red Cross. Last Sunday, we once again presented a Veterans Day Salute to all veterans with a special emphasis on those of Garrett County. Each year, we enlist the help of so many talented people of our area.

We wish to thank the choirs of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, St. Paul's Methodist Church, St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church, and the Oak Park Church of the Brethren Praise Team. Adding their special talents to the afternoon were the color guard of Post #71 of the American Legion, Fred Puderbaugh, Dave Martin, Tim Miller, Jane Nolan, Linda Goodrich, Neil Krebs, Bryson Upperman, Joe Ashby, and Royce Warnick. We appreciate the participation of Red Guthrie, William Crawford, Judy Wilt, Ann Rebele, Arzella Parsons, Spec. Christopher Menker, Pastor Patrick Kerr, Rev. Donald Parson, Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Commissioner David Beard, Commissioner Fred Holliday, Mayor Asa McCain, and Delegate Edwards. Adding their special touch to the afternoon was the Gospel Choir of Frostburg State University. This talented group of young college men and women gave up their Sunday afternoon to help support our community fundraiser.

We are definitely blessed by so many willing participants and especially the audiences who have come to be with us each year and have supported the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross. The good-will offering brought an additional $480 to help the citizens of our area.

Thank you to all of our caring volunteers, and we hope to see you next year.

With our sincere appreciation,

March of Dimes Prematurity Awareness Day on Tuesday, Nov. 16, hopes to educate folks in our communities and across the country about the need to prevent premature birth.

More than 470,000 babies are born early each year in the U.S. Prematurity has increased 27 percent since 1981 and accounts for 12 percent of all live births. It can happen to any pregnant woman.

Premature babies are not finished developing when they are born. Their lives and health are in jeopardy. Prematurity is the leading killer of babies in their first month of life. It is a major cause of long-term health problems.

Besides the devastating toll that premature birth can take on the baby's body, prematurity places tremendous financial burdens on everyone. Hospital charges for infants with a principal diagnosis of prematurity average $75,000 and add up to billions of dollars each year.

The causes for premature births are largely unknown. Some risks are pregnancy with twins, triplets or more;

ARMISTICE DAY

Long after Americans traded "Armistice Day" for "Veterans Day," the French, and Europeans in general, continue to honor the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of 1918 when the armistice went into effect, bringing to practical conclusion World War I.

When I was a student in Great Britain, 25 and 30 years ago, there were older people who bore a slight grudge against the United States of America because we had been "late coming to the wars." President Wilson had been safely elected to a second term and Franklin Roosevelt to a third before those two presidents, respectively, led our country into World Wars I and II.

The experience of Europe and of the United States in those two wars may go far to explain why their respective attitudes toward war, in general, have been inverted. America now shows an eagerness to engage in combat and Europe a profound reticence.

Europe was, after all, a primary battlefield for both of those wars. The United States has not had a war fought on its territory since the end of the Indian Wars, at best a dubious memory. We prefer to recall the Civil War, now distant enough to become fodder for nostalgia.

As a sign of how potent World War I remains in Europe, Jean-Pierre Jeunet – who gave the world the adult fairy tale Amelie – has just released a new film, Un long dimanche de fiançailles. That translates literally, "A Long Lord's Day of Engagement." The idea of the title is that a couple engaged to be married have their engagement put on hold by the war and its aftermath.

Audrey Tautot, who so winsomely played Amelie, gives us the role of another 19-year-old, Mathilde. Having lost her parents during her childhood, she is determined not to lose her fiancé.

World War I is over, but Mathilde's fiancé does not return. She is convinced that he has not died, and follows the threads of evidence which lead her to a knowledge of war which she had not wanted. Those threads also lead to a knowledge about what had happened to her fiancé which, one way or another, she needed in order to go on with her life.

The film depicts the trench warfare of World War I in a way which is not only grim, but gory. Beautifully made, well directed and acted, powerful in its message, this is a movie I am glad to have seen once. It is a film I would not choose to see again.

Jeunet portrays the level of horror which mere numbers on a page cannot convey. In the Battle of the Somme a million men died. Given the hysteria of Americans over the destruction of the World Trade Center and the deaths of 3,000 people, can one even imagine the reaction if a million people were to die in the American heartland?

A generation of European women were deprived of husbands and at a time when a husband meant the hope of financial security and comfort as well as of companionship. Part of this film's message is that, yes, the men fought. They were wounded, and they died. It was the women, however, who had to cope.

Un long dimanche is an anti-war film in a sophisticated way. It is also a film about strong women, and yet without being obviously feminist. That conjunction of portrayals suggests another question to me: In the present age when women as well as men are sent off to war, who will bear the burden of carrying on at home? Whose job will it be to persevere?

Another subtle point of the film is that there is only ever an armistice to war. There is never a true peace. It is interesting to see a secular thinker come to the negative point if not quite to the positive point which Our Lord made, "My peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you."

The choice of World War I as the locus for a discussion about war, in general, is an interesting one for France. It was a war in which France was in an entirely defensive posture. The great and terrible battles of World War I were mostly fought on French soil. It was also a war in which French resolve remained firm to the end.

Un long dimanche seems to say, "Even when defense of our country is entirely justified, and even when that defense is undertaken bravely, war still destroys the human soul."

The horrors of two world wars have led the French to undertake a new strategy; they have befriended the Germans. The Franco-German alliance is the cornerstone of the new Europe which, contrary to the opinion of Secretary Rumsfeld, is just old Europe yearning to be reborn. Perhaps, thus, Europe seeks a path which, even if it cannot ultimately be successful, is still worthy of being sought: the path from armistice to peace.

GCMH CELEBRATES HEALTH INFORMATION MANAGEMENT WEEK – Nov. 7 through Nov. 13 is National Health Information and Technology Week. This annual event recognizes the work of health information management professionals who maintain and protect the health information of Americans nationwide. This year's theme is "Health Information: Powered by Professionals." "Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Health Information Management (HIM) Department consists of 10 professionals who are dedicated to the effective management of personal health information needed to deliver quality healthcare to the public," said a GCMH spokesperson. They are responsible for ensuring that health records are complete, accurate, confidential, and available when patients or their doctors need access to the information. In celebration of this week, the department has put together a display, located in the GCMH lobby, which quizzes fellow employees on confidentiality. Prizes will be given to those who can correctly answer all the questions. "We are excited to utilize HIM Week as a way of increasing our fellow employees' knowledge on confidentiality," said Linda White, director of the hospital's HIM Department. HIM staff members pictured, left to right, in the front row are White, Irene Mersing, and Bev Greaser. In the back row are Kim Bender, Karen DeWitt, Linda Sines, Angela Maule, Donna Nordeck, Kim Mellinger, and Brian Snyder.

Public Support for Troops Trumps Pentagon's Holiday Mail Policy

Public Support for Troops Trumps Pentagon's Holiday Mail Policy...

by K. Kaufmann
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — It's hard to say "no" during the holidays, even for the Department of Defense.

As the holiday season approaches, the DOD is trying to stem the avalanche of mail and care packages sent by individuals and groups who get soldiers' names from nonprofits or Internet web sites. The catch: DefendAmerica.mil, a Defense Department web site, has links to the very groups the department is trying to restrain.

"The DOD can't win on this," said Marty Horn of La Plata, founder of "Attn: Any Soldier," one of the groups listed on the department's site. Horn estimates his group now sends mail and packages that reach about 31,000 soldiers in Iraq, Afghanistan, and other overseas bases.

The DOD's official holiday mail policy, according to a recent press release, is no letters or packages addressed to "any service member" or individual soldiers who have been "adopted" by nonprofits, schools, churches, or other groups.

"Service members should receive mail only from those friends and family members to whom they personally give their address," the directive said.

Part of the reason is sheer volume, said Mark DeDomenic, chief of operations for the Military Postal Service. Last year, the service delivered 8.4 million pounds of holiday mail to troops overseas, he said.

The service is now bracing for a 10-million pound Christmas, and DeDomenic is concerned about the impact on military supply lines. Too much mail "clogs up transportation," he said. But the popularity of groups like Attn: Any Soldier has effectively overpowered military policy. Horn started the group in August 2003, when he began sending packages to his son, Army Sgt. Brian Horn, in Iraq. The younger Horn shared the packages with other soldiers and asked for more.

The group's web site (www.anysoldier.us) now lists soldiers' names and requests for clothes, equipment or, sometimes, toys for Iraqi children. It logs about 8,000 visits a day, Horn said. And it is one of several groups — with names like Operation Gratitude and Soldiers' Angels -- listed on DefendAmerica.mil.

Air Force Lt. Col. Ellen Krenke, a Pentagon spokeswoman, said the department does not want to discourage groups like Horn's. Rather, she said, the holiday mail policy is aimed at ensuring "family members are able to reach family members."

"We just want people to know there are other ways to show support," she said. "There are programs that benefit families of deployed troops, veterans, and communities."

Horn, himself a veteran, said he worries about soldiers who may not have family. But even he is asking for a bit of restraint from the troop-supporting public.

"Troops can get too much," he said. "They don't even have the space to use this stuff. The most important thing is to show that you care. Send a letter, don't send a TV."

history of preterm birth; and certain anatomical abnormalities. Scientific research intends to identify more risk factors and understand how they contribute to premature birth.

Some successes of research funded by the March of Dimes in treating premature babies are:

• Medication to treat certain heart defects, instead of surgery.

• Surfactant therapy for respiratory distress syndrome.

• Inhaled nitric oxide treatment for life-threatening persistent pulmonary hypertension.

• Medication for jaundice to prevent permanent neurologic damage or death.

• Treatment for anemia that minimizes need for blood transfusions. These treatments save more premature babies than ever before, but the greatest need is to prevent babies from being born prematurely in the first place.

Folks in our communities help by participating in local March of Dimes events like WalkAmerica and Celebrate Chefs. More information about the March of Dimes fight to defeat premature births and save babies is available at marchofdimes.com/prematurity.

To the Editor:

In recognition of National Adoption Day, an unprecedented number of courts and communities across the country will come together to finalize adoptions of children from foster care and to celebrate all families that adopt.

There are approximately 542,000 foster care children in the United States, and 126,000 of them are awaiting adoption. Since 1987, the number of children in foster care has nearly doubled, and the average time a child remains in foster care has lengthened to nearly three years. Each year, approximately 20,000 children in foster care will age out of the system without ever being placed with a permanent family.

Four in 10 American adults have considered adoption, according to a national survey. That translates into more than 80 million Americans. If only one out of 500 Americans who have considered adoption adopted out of the foster care system, children in foster care who are available for adoption would have families.

To support National Adoption Day 2004, the Garrett County Department of Social Services is celebrating the joys of adoption and encouraging more people to give children permanent families through adoption.

Many people considering adoption are inhibited by fears linked to untrue stereotypes about adopted children, according to the National Adoption Attitudes Survey. Many prospective parents do not know that adopting children from foster care is virtually free. A growing number of companies and government agencies offer adoption assistance as part of their employee benefit packages, including time off for maternity/paternity leave, financial incentives, and other benefits. In addition, Congress has made federal tax credits available for foster care adoptions to help offset required fees, court casts, and legal and travel expenses. A federal adoption tax credit, effective this year, increased the amount of the credit to $10,000 for all adoptive families. Benefits such as these are enabling more people to adopt foster children into their families. Now, all these children need is a leap of faith and courage from adults with love to share.

National Adoption Day celebrations include activities to celebrate adoption and educate would-be parents about the adoption process, support for adoptive parents, and opportunities to meet families of adopted children. If you are interested in learning more about adoption, please join us on Saturday, November 20, 12:30-1:30 p.m. at Uno Restaurant, lower level, Deep Creek Lake.

Families can also learn more about adoption by calling 301-533-3045, or by visiting www.dbr.state.md.us/garrett, or www.nationaladoptionday.org.

To the Editor:

Recently I have been listening to many Garrett County residents who say they never saw a copy of Mountain Discoveries magazine, the Lakefront, or even the large Summer Sensations tabloid that The Republican distributes or they didn't know about a program or event. This may sound like an advertisement, but it is not. I've heard so many people say this.

That bothers me because we have so much to offer in this county and we need for residents to become better informed and participate. However, I offered advice to these people and I wish to share it. Please take the time to stop in our GC Visitors Center in McHenry or the satellite office in the Oakland Train Station. Each office carries a wonderful assortment of new brochures, magazines, flyers about events, maps, menu guides, and so much more! People should take time to talk to the workers and ask them questions. Once residents know more of what we have to offer, the better they can entertain their families and friends when they come to visit and even find more for themselves to enjoy.

The Republican does a wonderful job publicizing events and programs. Of course, anyone reading this already knows that. Please pass the word along to your friends about stopping in one of the Visitors Centers to gain knowledge of what we have to offer. Individuals must make the effort.

Thank you,
Patricia Manown Mash

To the Editor:

As the holiday season grows nearer, many of us will find that "spare" time is quickly filled with planning, shopping, and decorating. We may promise ourselves that this will be the year that we "scale down" or maybe the year that we take the time to give special thanks for the blessings we receive throughout the year. Some of us may find that we want to share our many blessings with those around us – those in our community who have fallen on hard times, are alone, or are continuously struggling to make ends meet.

Maybe you have considered donating in the past and weren't sure how you could make a difference. I am writing to tell readers that this is a great year for giving. As a Rotarian myself, I know that the annual Rotary Christmas Project really needs help this holiday season. This year, applications for children's gifts and for food boxes have increased by 125 households, many of which are headed by senior citizens. Other households include children, ages ranging from newborn to teenager. Over the next several weeks, Rotary Christmas trees will appear in local business, churches, and service agencies. Hanging from the trees will be tags identifying family needs and envelopes for monetary donations. Anyone can take a tag from the tree, make the requested purchase, and place the item back under the tree. Cash donations will be used to purchase grocery items, especially important this year due to the number of senior citizens. Last year, the cost for food alone was more than $12,000, and that is expected to increase this year by 20%. Checks made payable to Oakland Rotary can be mailed to the Oakland Rotary Club, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550, or given to any Rotary Club member.

Your donation does not have to be monetary. You can also donate the very important gift of your time. If you have time to give to the Rotary Project, especially during the assembly and delivery of food boxes on December 10 and 11, or have questions, or would prefer to speak with someone personally about your donation, please feel free to contact any local Rotarian or Rotarian Daryl Walters at 301-334-7601.

Whether it is to the Rotary Christmas Project, or any other service organization of your choice, please consider a gift of time or money. You can make this a happier holiday season for someone in our community!

Sincerely,
Erica C. Mowbray

To the Editor:

I was pleased when I read the large ad announcing: "Learn More about Industrial Windfarms," because I had questions, and I wanted to hear answers from both sides of the fence. Then I read the article describing the meeting as "Anti-Windfarm" and I saw that no wind farm advocates would be represented.

Then what's the point of going?

The meeting will be as biased as any political convention, with the hosting side slamming the opponent with exaggerations and misstated facts. As a wind advocate, I'm sure I'd be ejected (or lynched).

One of the outcries of "Friends of Backbone Mountain" is that wind turbines are the tools of big business, and that these businesses are only looking out for their own self-interest. That sort of influence is at work on both sides of the issue, and I wanted to ask about it.

One loud and influential anti-wind advocate is the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. Characterized as a "philanthropic" organization, they actually operate in a similar fashion to many other "businesses." Their name will be on "sponsors" lists right above Railey Realty, Coldwell Banker, and F&M Bank, but no one calls these companies philanthropic. The similarities don't end there. Sprenger-Lang Residential Properties LLC developed Roman Ridge, and the Trader's Landing Condominiums, so they've done their share of clearing mountainsides, destroying habitats, and building bird-killing structures for the sake of profit (I'm dramatizing here).

The final interesting factor is that Sprenger-Lang (the individuals) own over 500 acres of Garrett County land on Backbone Mountain, just below the proposed wind farms. So it's just possible that their self-interest is showing, more than their love for the environment.

Just for the record, I'm not saying that there's any thing wrong with protecting your own domestic and financial interests; I just think we should be up-front about it. Their full-page ads didn't give the full story.

It's ironic that Sprenger-Lang clearly understands the negative impact of coal mining, since they have also contributed to the clean-up of acid mine discharge (AMD) in Cherry Creek.

The old saying goes that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Surely it's better to use wind turbines to reduce the need for coal mining, rather than to be stuck having to repair the damage that we, all know is going to result if we don't.

CUBS COLLECT DOVE CENTER DONATIONS – Cub Scout Pack 31, chartered by the Oakland Elks BPO Lodge, sponsored a food drive for the Dove Center recently, and the efforts of the 14 Scouts paid off in over 800 pounds of food and personal items for Garrett County's Domestic and Sexual Violence Resource Center. The Scouts collected items from throughout their neighborhood around Dennett Road Elementary School and worked at the school Saturday morning sorting their collections for delivery. They met with a Dove Center representative who explained how their donations would be used to help victims of domestic violence in the community. "Our Scouts gained a better understanding of why these victims need help, and how hard it would be to leave home and leave everything behind," a scout leader said. Pictured in the front row, from the left, are Alex Mellinger, Nathan Ketterman, Wes Logsdon, Ethan Walkling, Bryson Meadows, and Zach Finch. In the back row are Cecil Smith, Brandon Uphold, Devon Jobe, Tony Orr, Greyson Messenger, and Ben Reichard. Not pictured are Mitchell Beeman and Trevor Jones. The event was held in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of America Scouting for Food Drive.

ROY E. DURST

In Loving Memory of Noah Rory Bernard

When God called little Noah to dwell with him above,
We mortals sometime question the wisdom of his love
For no heartache compares with the death of one small child
Who does so much to make our world seem wonderful and mild.
Perhaps God tires of calling the aged to his fold,
So he picks a rosebud before he can grow old.
God knows how much we need them, and so he takes but a few
To make the land of Heaven more beautiful to view.
Believing this is difficult still somehow we must try,
The saddest word mankind knows will always be "Goodbye."
So when a little child departs
we who are left behind
Must realize God loves children,
Angels are hard to find.

Sweet Dreams Baby Noah.

We Love and Miss You,
Jamie and Cindy Sanders-Hauser

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Warm Winter Clothing for Needy Children

The Republican newspaper and the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland are now engaged in the eighth year of Warm the Children. The program provides new winter clothing and footwear for Garrett County children in need. Because the program is a function of the newspaper and of volunteers, every penny donated goes toward the purchase of these items. The following individuals and/or organizations donated to the fund this week.

St. Mark's Will Host Thanksgiving Worship Service

The annual community Thanksgiving worship service coordinated by the Mountaintop Ministerium will be held Sunday, Nov. 21, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. It will begin at 7 p.m.

A number of Oakland-area pastors will conduct the service. Providing special music will be the Praise Chorus of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

The offering that is collected will be donated to the Warm the Children program, and it is hoped that there will be matching funds available.

All are invited to attend.

WAYNE'S DONATES TO VFDS — Wayne Bolden of Wayne's Water and Wells, Deep Creek Lake, is pictured above left handing a donation check of $1,000 to Oakland Volunteer Fire Department president Fred Callis. He made a similar donation to the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company. Being a former volunteer firefighter himself, Bolden said he knows how difficult it is for volunteer departments to cover their large and various expenses. He noted his great appreciation of the volunteers and said, "I wish I could afford to give more." Bolden and his water drilling crew were involved in the "miracle" rescue of trapped miners at Que Creek Mine near Somerset, Pa., in July 2002. The hard hat he is holding in the photograph, which he brought to show the OVFC members, carries the signatures of all nine miners who were rescued.

Dinner Planned By Bloomington Ladies Auxiliary

The Bloomington Ladies Auxiliary dinner has been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 17, at the Bloomington fire hall. Dinners will be served from noon until they run out. The cost is $6.50 for adults, $3.50 for children ages 4 through 8, and free for children 3 and under.

The dinner will include roast beef, dressing, boiled potatoes, green beans, cole slaw, and a roll.

For more information, persons may call 301-359-3729.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY KIDS
by Sarah Rexroad

The October meeting of the Country Kids 4-H Club was called to order by president Sharon Harvey.

Nichole Harvey reported on the Livestock Association meeting, and Briana Wagner reported on the Autumn Glory Festival petting zoo.

The community service project of fruit baskets was discussed. Beef tickets and money was collected. The cooking class for Six Easy Bites was discussed and was to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 2, at the Rexroads' home.

The date for beef weigh-ins and volunteer leader training were announced. The club decided to once again have a spaghetti dinner at its December meeting.

Members were reminded that officer elections would be held at the November meeting and that everyone should come prepared.

Bethany and Sarah Rexroad gave demonstrations about their clothing projects and the Fashion Revue.

The November meeting of the Country Kids 4-H Club will be held Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. at the Deer Park Community Building.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Staff Sergeant Kenneth W. Hook, Accident, was recently home for 15 days of rest and relaxation from his tour of duty in Iraq. SSG Hook is the task force S4 non-commissioned officer in charge (NCOIC) for the 1st Battalion, 27th Infantry Regiment, a position in which he oversees all logistical operations of the task force's mission.

Hook has been deployed in Iraq since January of this year. He is currently based out of Kirkuk Air Base in Iraq. He supports a task force of 738 personnel located in three separate forward operating bases in the Sunni Triangle.

During his 15-day leave, the staff sergeant was able to visit his children, Kenneth Jr. and Zachary P. Hook, and family and friends. He was also able to celebrate his 30th birthday on Nov. 3 with his twin brother David.

Hook will return to Iraq on Saturday, and expects to return to his home duty station, the Schofield Barracks in Hawaii, in January 2005.

Hook expressed his gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Patton of the Old Flour Shop, the "lunch ladies" of Northern High School, and the staff of Dr. David Tuel's office for all the support, letters, and care packages these individuals have offered to him.

SSG Hook is the son of Paul and Claudia Hook, and is a 1992 graduate of Northern High.

Garrett Student Earns Scholarship

Thomas Sheaffer, a third year student in the Adventure Sports program at Garrett College, has been awarded a scholarship from the Northern Tier National High Adventure Committee of the Boy Scouts of America and the Charles L. Sommers Alumni Association. This is the second consecutive year he has earned the scholarship.

For the past four summers Sheaffer has worked at the Northern Tier High Adventure Base in Ely, Minn., beginning as kitchen help, progressing to interpreter/canoe guide for two years, and this past summer served as the assistant chief interpreter sharing responsibility for the training, scheduling, and supervision of approximately 90 interpreters.

In the award letter from the association, Sheaffer was thanked for his "outstanding work in service to youth as a member of the seasonal staff of the Northern Tier National High Adventure Program, BSA." He has been able to count this work experience as the internship required in his Garrett degree program.

Sheaffer is a 2002 graduate of Salisbury-Elk Lick High School in Salisbury, Pa., a former member of Boy Scout Troop 140 of Salisbury, and son of Ralph and Ellen Sheaffer of St. Paul, Pa.

Seib Elected Chairperson Of College Trustees

Ruth M. Seib was elected chairperson of the Garrett College board of trustees recently, following the resignation of longtime member Rob W. Michael. George Tichnell will continue to serve as vice chairperson.

Seib, who has been a member of the board of trustees since 2000, is the general manager and co-owner of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, She has served as president and as a director of the Garrett County Board of Realtors and as chairperson of various committees, the Maryland Association of Realtors for Garrett County, and the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative. In 1993 she was named Garrett County Realtor of the Year.

An honors graduate of Eckerd College, St. Petersburg, Fla., where she earned a bachelor of arts degree in visual arts, Seib also holds a designation of the Graduate Realtors' Institute and a Maryland Associate Real Estate Broker's License. In addition to her experience in real estate, Seib had managed a marina for 10 years, and served as artist-in-residence at the Arts Center in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Seib is a founder of the Marsh Mountain Consort, and has sung with the Garrett Choral Society and the St. Mark's Lutheran Church choir. She lives in Oakland with her husband, Daniel R. Seib.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HONORS A&S SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENT – Steve Savage, a sixth grade science teacher at Southern Middle School, was recently selected as the 2004 recipient of the Garrett County Administrators and Supervisors Scholarship, and was recognized at the recent Board of Education meeting. This scholarship was started in 2000 with the intent of encouraging staff to pursue a certificate or advanced degree in administration. In addition to teaching, Savage coaches football and youth wrestling and serves as a technology resource to other teachers at the school. "Steve is an outstanding teacher who has a tremendous classroom environment," said Bill Ewing, a representative of the A&S Association. "His students are active participants in the learning process. Steven plans excellent lessons and combines the use of technology to create a dynamic learning environment." Pictured above from the left are Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent; Savage; Ewing; and Jim Raley, board president. Photo by Ervin Fink.

Veterans Being Recognized At Local Business

In observance of Veterans Day, the Oakland Wal-Mart store is currently honoring local military members by providing display space for their photos.

Family members are invited to contribute to the store's "Wall of Heroes" by bringing a photo of loved ones who have previously served or are currently serving in the U.S. armed forces. The Wal-Mart Photo Center will make prints of the pictures, one for posting on the Wall of Heroes and the other for the customer in the form of a yellow "picture ribbon."

At the store's jewelry center persons may utilize an electronic version of "Operation Dear Abby," with which they can select and sign a message of support that will then be e-mailed to deployed members of the military.

GOODWILL RETIREMENT VILLAGE

The auxiliary still has cookbooks for sale. Copies of the cookbook, which was compiled by the residents and their families, may be obtained by contacting Linda Beitzel or Julia Tice at 301-895-5194. The cost is $11. All proceeds will benefit the residents.

The Family Support Council will meet Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 2 p.m. in the conference room. Refreshments will be served.

TOWN HALL

A representative from the Register of Wills will be at town hall on Tuesday, Nov. 16, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. to offer assistance to the community in all matters pertaining to that office. Persons who wish to discuss any matter related to an estate currently open should call ahead at 301-334-1999. This would enable the representative to bring along the necessary files and papers.

Nimmich To Speak At Mtn. Laurel Club

Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich will speak at the Nov. 16 meeting of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club at the Inn at Point View, McHenry, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Following a short business meeting, Nimmich will present the program "Flowering Herbs and Bee Pollination." A luncheon will follow.

A portion of the program will include a description of the life cycle of honey bees, and their role in human health and well being, as well as which flowering herbs supply the bees with nectar and pollen. Nimmich will also focus on the healing qualities of herbs as well as herbs mixed with honey.

Having moved here from the Northern Virginian area, where she worked as a psychotherapist, Nimmich lives at Honey Grace Farm in the Pleasant Valley area on a 40-acre tract of land. She has planted dozens of perennial herbs that are useful for cooking and medicinal purposes. She has chosen to plant her flowers and herbs using organic methods. As a member of the Mtn. Laurel Garden Club, she is past chair of the herb committee.

Guests are welcome to attend, and the club is open to membership for men and women. For more information about the Mtn. Laurel Garden Club, persons may contact Karen Ewing at 301-387-6180 or Norma Hesen at 301-387-4384. The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland and the National Garden Clubs Inc.

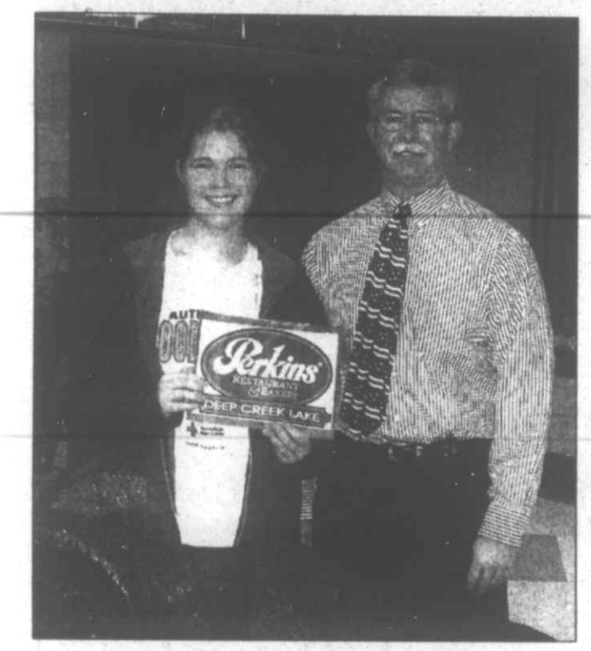
A NEW U.S. FLAG was presented to Route 40 Elementary School recently by the Grantsville Branch of the Woodmen of the World Lodge #41. The flag will be displayed on the flagpole near the front entrance. Janis Pope, past president of the Grantsville lodge, made the presentation to the fifth grade class. Betty Smith's fifth grade class is responsible for display and care of the flag during the school term. In the photo above, Pope presents the flag to Josh Mason, with Brandon Minnich in the background.



RAM STUDENT OF THE MONTH NAMED – Senior Lauren Jolles has been named the Perkins Ram Student of the Month for November at Southern High School. Jolles has shown exemplary leadership with her involvement in making public service announcements for the Garrett County Health Department. Her mature discussion over the local radio stations dealing with sensitive issues has made a dramatic impact on many families. "Congratulations to Lauren on being a shining example of maturity and excellence," said Principal Tom Woods. Above Woods presents a gift certificate to Perkins Restaurant to Jolles.

SHS CELEBRATES TEEN READ WEEK – The Southern Garrett High School media center recently observed National Teen Read Week, which is celebrated all over the country to encourage young people to read for enjoyment. Every patron who checked out a book was entered into a drawing for the Lord of the Rings trilogy on DVD. Librarian John Coffman (left) presents winner Taira Oliver (right) her prize. "I was very pleased with the students' participation and enthusiasm throughout the week," said Coffman. The media center circulated 157 books during the week.

by Elaine Kackley
Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center

Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center for the Mature Adult, a program of Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging, offers a comprehensive approach to achieving a better quality of life through appropriate exercise for county residents age 55 and over. Elaine Kackley, who has more than 27 years of professional fitness experience, directs all center activities.

Now that colder weather is with us and we are spending less time outdoors, many of our members are back to their regular fitness workouts at the center. They enjoy a variety of options to help them maintain strength, flexibility, and good health. In addition to providing instruction on our weight training equipment, treadmills, and bicycles, we schedule group classes three mornings a week, beginning at 9 a.m. On Mondays we offer freestyle aerobics, on Wednesdays the class is ball balance and flexibility, and Fridays you can take part in circuit training.

Information on responding to emergency situations will be offered next Wednesday, Nov. 17, starting at 10 a.m. A crew from Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, including Tom Riley, Pat Bowser, Sam Friend, and Dana Friend, will outline the proper actions to take when accessing emergency services. They will review the elements of CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation) and the use of the AED (automated external defibrillator). All Fitness Center members are strongly encouraged to attend this vital session.

Grant funding through Community Action has kept the Fitness Center membership fees affordable. We also remind members and future members that the fees are payable on very convenient terms. You may pay $150 annually, $15 monthly, or just $3 per visit for those whose schedules only permit occasional visits. So even if you can't get to the center three days a week, take the opportunity to stop in for a good workout when you can. We are always glad to see you!

Health Tip: Resistance exercises that build bone and fight off osteoporosis are: high intensity leg presses, overhead shoulder presses, lateral pull downs, rowing, and bridging.

If you are not a member of Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center, please stop in and see what we have to offer. It might make a big difference in your life. Give us a call if you want more information: 301-746-8050. Hope to see you soon.

FSU Dance Co. To Present Fall Dance Concert

Frostburg State University's Dance Company will present its annual Fall Dance Concert on Nov. 18, 19, and 20 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 21 at 2 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

This year, the concert will feature several guest artists from New York City, including dancers from the Incidents Physical Theater, with choreography by Heidi Latsky, and Bobbi Smith and Anthony Smith of the Juilliard School Dance Division.

The event will also feature guest ballet choreographer, Kari-Ann Lavalle Rocco and guest accompanist Ellen Putman.

The FSU Dance Company is under the direction of Dr. Barry Fischer, who is celebrating his 10th year at FSU, and will offer the premiere performance of Fischer's original work "The Butterfly Waltz."

Tickets are $10 for the general public and $5 for senior citizens and students with proper ID. For more information or to make reservations, persons may call 301-687-4145, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

GC Tellebration! Set For Nov. 20 At Deep Creek

Tellebration! was created by the National Storytelling Network as a night of storytelling around the world held by local storytelling groups in their own states and countries.

In Garrett County this year, Tellebration! will be held at Trader's Coffee House along Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake near High Mountain Sports and Brenda's Pizzeria on Saturday, Nov. 20, at 7 p.m.

"Everyone is welcome to come and listen to the stories," said Dr. Gail Herman, of Swanton, one of the featured storytellers.

Originated by the National Storytelling Network, Tellebrations are celebrations of families, folks, and stories held the weekend before Thanksgiving all around the United States and the world.

Among the tellers at the Garrett County event will be Katie Ross of Rawlings, the second place Storyteller of the Year. Ross entered the nationwide contest from the Creative Arts Institute, which was judged over the Internet by children and adults, as well as judges who watched the five finalists on videotape.

Others who wish to tell a story at the local Tellebration! during the second hour may call Herman at 301-387-9199.

Donations to the Storytelling Guild and to the AAUW Educational Foundation will be accepted.

For those who also want dinner, the group of listeners and tellers will meet upstairs at 5:30 p.m. in Brenda's Pizzeria to order from the regular menu.

For information about other Tellebration! storytelling events, persons may go to the National Storytelling Network web site at storynet.org.

Appalachian Ballet Theatre To Present The Nutcracker

The Appalachian Ballet Theatre Dance Ensemble will present the holiday favorite The Nutcracker at the Allegany College Theatre in Cumberland on three Saturdays, Dec. 5, 12, and 19 at 2 p.m.

"The Nutcracker is a wonderful ballet for the entire family, and is the perfect way to ring in the holiday season and to introduce children to the power and beauty of classical dance. For over one hundred years, the story of the ballet has proven irresistible to both children and adults alike," said an Appalachian Ballet Theatre spokesperson.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for seniors and children 12 and under. For reservations, persons may call 301-729-6722, or reserve online at abtdance.com.

Valley Ridge To Hold Open House In Thomas, W.Va.

Valley Ridge Theatre will hold its second annual Open House on Saturday, Nov. 13. The theatre is located along Front Street in Thomas, W.Va. The event is free, and refreshments will be available.

Valley Ridge has been in Thomas for 14 years, and as its board of directors and staff prepare for their 15th year of programming, they wanted to share information about their upcoming season and their hopes for the future at the open house.

"We believe that live theatre is an exciting and vital way to communicate thoughts, ideas, beliefs, feelings about what it is to be human," said a Valley Ridge spokesperson. "Good theatre can inspire, challenge, move, amuse, provoke, entertain, thrill, and so much more."

She said they aim to produce the highest quality work, whether working with children or professionals, and though they have fun, they take the work of theatre very seriously.

"We welcome anyone who is just curious, or who might be interested in getting involved with Valley Ridge, to come share your thoughts," she said.

The theatre will also offer a short, sneak preview of the upcoming production of A Tuna Christmas by Jaston Williams, Joe Sears, and Ed Howard. This holiday comedy has been entertaining audiences since 1994. Only two actors will portray 24 citizens of Tuna, Texas.

Alan McClintock, resident actor/technical director at Valley Ridge, and Matt Hedrick, actor and director, take on the challenging roles as they don one silly wig after another each portraying male and female characters.

THE GALLERY OF THE GC ARTS COUNCIL in Oakland is currently featuring artwork by Collen B. DuBose. The exhibit is a collection of recent drawings by the artist in a variety of media on various surfaces, including screen prints, digital prints, and renditions in paint, markers, and pencils. A graduate of Northern High School, DuBose is a senior art student at the Columbus College of Art & Design in Columbus, Ohio. He was guest illustrator for the 2004 edition of Ginseng, the annual literary journal of the Garrett County Arts Council. His Oakland exhibit reflects "an inquisitive and playful exploration into contemporary creativity," according to a Gallery spokesperson. DuBose's artwork will be on display through Nov. 27. Pictured is just a sampling of DuBose's work that is on display. Above left is "Naomi"; at right is "Key & Byrd"; and below is "Drop The Blue." Additional information about the exhibit and other Gallery events is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

WORKOUT FOR HOPE RAISES MONEY – The Workout for Hope event, coordinated by Brenda's Body Shop and sponsored by Mettiki Coal, raised $10,444 for the House of Hope this past weekend. "We are so excited to have broken our record once again," said Brenda Brosnihan, event coordinator. "The people of Garrett County are among the most giving people, and our community never ceases to amaze me at the generosity and the compassion they show for charitable functions." More than 150 children and adults participated in a two-hour dance exercise. Participants received pledges from family, friends, and co-workers, while audience members donated at the door with either a cash donation or a non-perishable food item for the House of Hope's food pantry. "Jungle Boogie" was the theme, and participants danced to a variety of jungle related musical selections. Entertainment for the event was provided by the students of Brenda's Body Shop, featuring the mat mates and jazz dance students. Special guest performers included the Southern youth cheerleaders, and special guest jazzercise instructor Lisa Malone led a segment of the workout for the adults. "The House of Hope is such a great cause as it helps people right here in Garrett County," said Brosnihan. "I believe our students and their families really fit their motto of 'A Community of Caring.' Workout for Hope provides us an opportunity to teach the children the importance of volunteering and giving back. We are all extremely proud of the event and grateful for everyone's support." More than 80 people turned in pledge sheets, and all pledge participants were awarded various prized donated by Mettiki Coal. The grand prize winner for the second time was Michaela McRobie, who won a season ski pass donated by the Wisp Mountain Resort worth $700. Other top prize winners were Jessica Snyder, first place who donated $617.65; Alyssa Cowgill, second place who donated $534.30; Emily Martin, third place who donated $360; Wistera Smith and Paranda Uber, fourth place who donated $350 each; and Katherine Drenna, fifth place who donated $347. The grand prizes were donated by the Wisp and Brenda's Pizzeria.

Planning Commission."

He said he had received several phone calls from people, and there was lots of concern about changing the ordinance. The commissioner added that Myers may have "additional thoughts" about her proposal and that the Department of Natural Resources had concerns as well about the proposed amendments.

"A number of people were in opposition to the proposal as it was presented," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

The commissioners asked John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office, to return the amendments to the Planning Commission for reconsideration.

The six-member commission will discuss the amendments again at its next scheduled meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 1:30 p.m. in the Garrett County Department of Economic Development office.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt noted that the commissioners could take action on the matter without scheduling another public hearing.

The commissioners will consider the Planning Commission's recommendations and announce a decision on Dec. 7.

Written comments may be addressed to Planning Commission chair Charles Bender, Planning and Zoning Office, 203 South Fourth Street, Room 210, Oakland, MD 21550.

Missing Hunter

Service coordinated search efforts of approximately 100 professionals and volunteers from a number of agencies and organizations, as well as concerned individuals. Among the participating agencies were Bittinger, Grantsville, and Clarysville volunteer fire departments, and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office K-9 unit.

As news of the missing hunter spread, a number of additional K-9 units who had been involved in a training exercise at Cunningham Falls State Park in Frederick County also responded. By Saturday evening the search party had grown to include the Mason Dixon Search Dogs, the Mid-Atlantic Search Dogs, the Chesapeake Search Dogs, Susquehanna Search and Rescue, Columbia Search and Rescue, Delmarva Search and Rescue, and Trot Search and Rescue.

According to authorities, the incident serves as a reminder that it is always preferable to walk downstream rather than upstream when lost in the woods. Even the smallest flowing streams lead to larger streams, which eventually lead to populated areas.

two-acre requirement, he said, led him to believe that he could compete in the area and could anticipate a reasonable profit.

Under the ordinance's current definition, a "marina" include, the sale or rental of boats and other watercraft as part of the services typically provided by marinas, which usually include boat repairs, boat storage, and fuel sales.

"Let's reconsider this," said Commissioner Dave Beard said this week about Myers' proposal. "I would like to see it go back to the

Huskies Shut Out Southern; Look To Avenge Alco Defeat

Friday night's annual Northern-Southern high school varsity football contest started out as a pitched battle, as usual, but the Huskies pulled away in the second half with some big scoring plays that gave NHS a 28-0 victory on the Rams' home field. Northern (8-2) now sets its sights on tomorrow night's 1A West Region playoff opener at Greenway Stadium in Cumberland, where the Huskies will look to take revenge for a mid-season loss to the Allegany Campers (8-2). Southern's campaign closes out with a 2-8 mark.

The visiting NHS squad got on the board first Friday night in Oakland, mounting an opening drive that covered 86 yards in 14 plays. Running back Tyler Warn capped the drive, and scored the first of his three touchdowns, when he rumbled into the end zone from 10 yards out. Although the two-point conversion attempt failed because of a botched snap, the long march resulted in six points and 6:46 being chewed off the clock.

Southern's defense stiffened for the rest of the half, and the two teams held each other scoreless into the intermission. The Ram defenders provided two especially bright moments for Southern fans in the second quarter. Early in the stanza, after a Northern drive had the Huskies knocking on the door to the red zone, SHS held fast to put NHS in a fourth-and-eighth situation at the Rams' 28 yard line. Too close to punt, but too far away to attempt a field goal, the Huskies went for the first down but were turned back by Southern's defense.

Northern's defenders immediately returned the favor, however, by holding the SHS offense to a three-and-out and forcing a Ram punt that gave the Huskies the ball on their own 40. NHS was able to move the ball to the Southern 30, but on fourth and short the Rams hunkered down and held off the explosive Northern offense again.

NHS's defense took another turn in the spotlight late in the second quarter when, with 1:40 on the clock, the "grave-diggers" forced an incomplete Southern pass on fourth down at the Huskies' 15 yard line. Northern took a slim 6-0 lead into the halftime locker room.

"The two defenses really rose to the occasion when they had to in that second quarter," NHS coach Phil Carr said. "We were worried about our two missed opportunities, thinking they might come back to haunt us, but thankfully that wasn't the case."

Southern received the third quarter kickoff and opened with a nice drive that stalled at the Huskies' 35, when a penalty pushed the Rams back into fourth and long, forcing a punt. The two offenses then traded three-and-outs, and when Northern got the ball again for one of only four offensive plays of the quarter, the Huskies hit pay dirt when senior running back Michael Wolf broke free for a 38-yard touchdown run. "It was an off-tackle power play to the left side," Carr recalled. "Tight end Nick Payne, tackle Eric Diehl, and guard Trevor Butler did a great job of opening a hole for Michael." Quarterback Robert Stark hit Brock Glotfelty for the two-point conversion pass, giving NHS a 14-point lead with 3:25 remaining in the stanza.

Early in the fourth quarter the Huskies faced a third down with less than a yard to go, and Carr called for a straight ahead dive play. Warn took the handoff from Stark, and with Butler and Diehl serving as twin battering rams, found a slice of daylight and streaked off 70 yards for a touchdown. "Tyler may be the fastest player on our team, a hair faster than Wolf and Stark," commented Carr. Wolf carried for the successful two-point conversion.

Up 22-0, Northern got its final touchdown from its defense when an SHS pass attempt hung up in the air and went beyond its target, where Warn was waiting to nab it. After gathering in the interception, Warn turned on the jets to explode for a 72-yard return and his third touchdown, capping the scoring with NHS up 28-0.

"It was exactly the kind of hard-hitting game you have to expect any time you play the Rams," Carr stated. "Although we were able to wear them down on the line with our strength, they put up a good fight and deserve a lot of respect."

Northern racked up 302 yards of total offense, 292 of which came on the ground. Warn scored three times and rushed for 123 yards on 11 carries, while Wolf gained 94 yards on 13 carries, and quarterback Robert Stark had 81 yards on 14 carries. On defense, nose guard Butler recorded 18 tackles, middle linebacker Corey Carr had 13 tackles, and strong safety Wolf contributed 12 tackles.

On the Southern side, Bret Dewitt and Andrew VanBogelen led the Rams with 33 and 36 yards rushing, respectively. Dewitt tallied 10 tackles while VanBogelen had nine.

"It was a very disappointing end to a disappointing season," SHS coach Fred Gregg observed. "Northern is an extremely talented team. We had an especially hard time trying to block Butler and tackle Warn, which were among the real keys to our lack of success."

One consolation for the Rams and their fans is that there were only two senior starters on offense and only two on defense this season. "We should have a real nice crew coming back," Gregg said, "and usually there is a big difference between juniors and seniors in terms of physical maturity. So if our players really spend the time in the weight room during the off-season, we have the potential of having a good team next year."

Gregg noted that there will also be an influx of some quality players from this season's junior varsity team, which finished with a 7-1-1 record.

PLAYOFF OPENER

There's little needed in the way of a scouting report for tomorrow night's 1A West Region playoff opener against Allegany, because the Huskies and their coaches and fans know exactly what they need to do to win over the host Campers. "We have to hold on to the ball, and handle split end Donavin Vinson," Carr said matter-of-factly. In their 39-12 loss to Alco on October 1, the Huskies uncharacteristically fumbled nine times, losing the ball five times, while Vinson scored on an 80-yard kickoff return and hauled in scoring passes of 61 and 30 yards.

"We have some business to take care of, and the guys are ready," said Carr. "Allegany is the best team out there, and anyone who wants to go anywhere has to go through the Campers first; so we're thinking, 'Why not start by taking on the best?'

"There's no way we're going to stop Vinson, he's that good of a player – so we'll be looking to slow him down. Our guys are well aware of the danger he poses, and we're also conscious of what we did wrong last time, both physically and mentally. I think our guys got a little too hyped for that first game, playing in that huge stadium for the first time. In a way, it's a blessing that we've played and lost to them already. Now we can redeem ourselves. The whole season depends on it."

The Huskies' road to redemption, and hopefully a West Region championship, begins with a 7 p.m. kickoff tomorrow at Greenway. Although Carr expressed hopes that the NHS crowd would be even larger than the raucous following that trekked down the mountain for the first contest, fans unable to leave home can tune in to WKHJ 104.5 FM to hear a live broadcast of the battle. The pre-game show gets under way at 6:30 p.m.

The winner of the contest will play the winner of the Smithsburg vs. Hancock Region semifinal tomorrow night at Smithsburg. The Leopards are a strong favorite over the visiting Panthers.

HUSKIES BLANK RAMS — Recording their third shutout and eighth victory of the season Friday night in Oakland were the Northern High Huskies, who coasted to a 28-0 victory over their Garrett County rivals, the Southern Rams. The Huskies' 8-2 record grants them a spot in the 1A West Region playoffs, and they will face Allegany at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland this Friday evening. Eluding the Ram defense in the photo above is Husky quarterback Robert Stark, as Southern's Andrew VanBogelen makes a desperate attempt to get a piece of him. Also identifiable are Ram Brad Reese (#21) left, and Northern's Nick Payne (#89) and Eric Diehl (#55). One of the few game highlights for Ram fans was captured below, as Southern's Jeremy Gregory picks off a Stark aerial in the second quarter. Would-be Northern receivers, suddenly turned defenders, in the photo are Huskies Eric Johnson (#22) and Michael Wolf (#24). It was the eighth loss in 10 starts for the Rams. In the regular season the Huskies fumbled themselves to a loss to Allegany, and will attempt to avenge that setback in tomorrow evening's West Region semifinal. The game, which will kick off at 7 p.m., will be broadcast locally over WKHJ Radio. Photos by John McEwen.

PLAYING FOR A REGION TITLE this Friday evening at home will be the Southern High School volleyball team, which defeated county-rival Northern in playoff action Monday in Oakland and then stopped visiting Smithsburg last night to earn a spot in the 1A West Region championship match against Williamsport. In the photo above, Southern senior Julia Bosley gets a dig against Smithsburg last night. Teammates, from left, are: Randi Bennett, Sarah Bittinger, Kayla Nazelrod, Sarah Stephens, and Chelsea Wassell. Below, Southern's Erica Pratt goes up high for a smash against Northern on Monday. Hoping to make the block are Huskies Keri Bachtel and Jessica Fratz. Also in the photo, from left, are Northern's Jayme Miller, and Sarah Bittinger, Chelsea Wassell, Sarah Stephens, and Julia Bosley, all of Southern. If the Rams, who are now 15-1 overall, are successful against visiting Williamsport tomorrow evening, they will travel to the Community College of Baltimore County Essex campus next week for the state championships. Ram Netters Hammer Huskies, Declaw Leopards In 1A Action

The top-seeded Southern High School varsity volleyball squad will play for the 1A West Region title tomorrow night in Oakland when second seed Williamsport pays a 7 p.m. visit. The Rams swept Northern 3-0 in a quarterfinal matchup, then trounced Smithsburg last night by a 3-1 margin to boost their season mark to 15-1.

SHS put together 25-13, 25-16 and 25-19 victories over the Huskies Monday night in Oakland, as senior Kayla Nazelrod recorded 14 points, five aces, and five kills, and classmate Julia Bosley tallied 11 points, four aces, and four kills. Junior Randi Bennett contributed 10 points, three aces, and four kills, while seniors Sarah Bittinger and Bethany Steyer dished out nine and six assists, respectively.

For the Huskies (7-9), senior Lakin Weimer mounted 15 attacks and two kills, and classmate Jayme Miller netted 14 points and four attacks. Keri Bachtel, a junior, had four attacks.

Last night the Rams hosted Smithsburg's Leopards, who had previously taken a 3-0 win over Hancock. Southern dropped the first game, 25-15, before answering with 25-21, 27-25, and 25-15 wins. Sophomore Sarah Stephens put together 16 points, 10 aces, and seven kills, while Bosley contributed nine points, four aces, and six kills, and Nazelrod had eight kills. Bennett and fellow junior Chelsea Wassell tallied six kills apiece, and Wassell and Nazelrod recorded two blocks each. Bittinger handed out three assists. Statistics for Smithsburg (10-6) were not available.

The Rams' next opponent, Williamsport, downed third seed Boonsboro last night in a hard-fought 3-2 match. The winner of that contest will advance to the Maryland 1A Tourney, which opens with semifinal action Wednesday at the Community College of Baltimore County Essex campus. The state championship will be decided Saturday, Nov. 20, on the Ritchie campus of the University of Maryland.

Huskies Sweep Past Cats Before Hitting Ram Wall

The Northern High School varsity volleyball team stormed into the 1A West Region playoffs by taking an opening round 3-0 sweep from visiting Westmar last Thursday, Nov. 4. NHS's post-season came to an end, however, in a 3-0 loss at Southern Monday night (see separate story).

Seniors Dani Glotfelty and Lakin Weimer put on clinics in their final home court outings as they paced the Huskies to three hard-fought wins by margins of 25-23, 25-21, and 25-18.

Glotfelty recorded 17 service points and Weimer had 24 attacks and six kills. Junior Angie Umbel tallied 11 points from the service line, and classmate Keri Bachtel contributed 10 attacks and one kill.

No statistics were provided for the Westmar squad.

Northern's season concluded with a final mark of 7-9.

Fint, Bosley Vie For Mr. And Ms. Mountaineer Title

Two area residents, Rebecca M. Fint and Jamie Bosley, have been nominated for the title of Mr. and Ms. Mountaineer during West Virginia University's 57th annual Mountaineer Week, which runs from Nov. 11 to 21.

Vying for Ms. Mountaineer is Rebecca M. Fint, a Preston High graduate and physical education teacher major. She is the daughter of Joseph and Stacy Fint, Aurora, W.Va. Sponsored by the Collegiate 4-H Club, Fint has held many leadership positions in 4-H including 2002-03 secretary and 2001-02 social chaired, and she currently leads the National Collegiate 4-H conference planning committee.

In addition to 4-H, she is involved with the Physical Education Majors Club. She has also been involved with the WVU. President's Committee for Nutrition and Wellness (2002-04) and Chi Omega sorority (2001-03). Among her honors are being awarded the Anna Shuman Physical Education Scholarship, which she received for three consecutive years, and the 2000-01 WVU Leadership Scholarship.

Fint also made the School of Physical Education dean's list in 2002 and 2004. In 2001, she was crowned Mountain State Forest Festival Princess.

Competing for the Mr. Mountaineer title is Jamie Bosley, a children's theater major and Southern High School graduate. He is the son of Jim and Mary Lynn Bosley, Oakland. He is a member of the WVU Division of Theater and Dance Student Advisory Board, the African Drum and Dance Ensemble, and the Taiko Drum Ensemble.

Bosley is a director of the WVU Community Theater Prep Program and has been involved in more than 10 main stage shows at the Creative Arts Center. This spring, he will spend three weeks as an assistant director at Peking University in Beijing, China. Aside from his participation in theater, he also plays intramural soccer.

Bosley is also a member of the Gamma Beta Phi Society, the Helvetia sophomore honorary, and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. He has also been named to both the dean's list and president's list.

The winners will be named during halftime at the Saturday, Nov. 13, WVU and Boston College game at Milan Puskar Stadium. This contest has been part of the Mountaineer Week since 1962. Along with this announcement is the naming of the Most Loyal Alumni Mountaineer, Most Loyal West Virginian, Most Loyal Faculty and Staff Mountaineers, and the Spirit Award winner.

JWCC DONATES TO TEAM – The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently presented a check to Southern High's volleyball team for donating their time to work in the club's fair booth, "The Pizza Shack," during fair week. "The Pizza Shack" is a major fundraiser for JWCC, and the help of the volleyball players made the "Shack" a success, said a spokesperson. JWCC member Kathy Meagher presented Coach Sue Newton and the girls the check.

Mt. Top League To Open Season

Play will begin this weekend in the Mt. Top Basketball League, with three games on tap for Sunday afternoon at the Southern Middle School gym.

ConDoerr will face Faze's at 1 p.m.; Copeland's will meet Mt. Top Paving in the 2 p.m. game; and Coney will play Price's in the 3 p.m. contest. Respective scorekeepers will be Copeland's, ConDoerr, and Mt. Top Paving.

The league has room for one more team. The entry fee is $275.

Lakers Open With One-Point Win, One-Point Loss; Defeat CCAC-So.

The men's basketball team of Garrett College opened its 2004-05 campaign this past weekend with a one-point victory followed by a one-point defeat in the Therasport Classic in Rockingham, N.C.

Garrett then upped its season record to 2-1 with a 95-79 victory last night over host CCAC-South in West Mifflin, Pa.

The Lakers edged Cape Fear on Friday, 83-82, but were nipped on Saturday by host Rockingham, 60-59. In both contests the Lakers held a sizable halftime-lead.

A game-high, 20-point performance by Adam Morgan, coupled with some clutch free-throw shooting in the final minutes by Marco Van Pelt, led the Lakers to their one-point win over Cape Fear.

Garrett was on top at intermission by a dozen points, 43-31, and led by as many as 17 in the second half, but then Cape Fear rallied to knot the score.

Van Pelt's only points of the game were four free throws on four attempts, all late in the game, while Morgan nailed three key three-point goals and two foul shots in those final minutes.

Morgan's 20 points came on seven goals and a 3-for-3 effort at the line, and right behind him was teammate Doyle Brown, who hit four long-range goals and finished with 18 points.

Also reaching double figures with 13 points was Tristan Largent, who also had a team-high five assists. Tauvon Pettiford netted nine points and led the Lakers in rebounds with six.

Pacing Cape Fear's offensive effort was Lee Moore, who scored 19 points. David Moore finished with 14, Brandon Barnes scored 12, Raheem Murphy recorded 11, and Marcus Stevens finished with 10.

At intermission of Saturday's game with Rockingham, it appeared that the Lakers were on their way to a second win, as they were on top by a 40-27 margin. But once again their opponents rallied, and this time eked out the one-point win.

With Rockingham up 60-59 and 24 seconds remaining in the game, the Lakers had possession. But the home team had only three team fouls at the time and could afford to foul the Lakers several times whenever they would inbound the ball. This continued and time ran out before the Lakers could set up for a winning shot.

Leading Garrett in scoring was the only returning starter from last season's team, Lavonti Jeter, who recorded 13 points and also had a team-high seven rebounds.

Morgan and Tyrice Watkins each added 11 points.

Hitting a game-high 19 points was Rockingham's Dante Wheaten, who was the only member of the winning team to reach double figures.

Morgan was again the scoring leader for the Lakers last night in their win over CCAC-South, as he recorded 23 points, a dozen of which came on shots from three-point range.

Again the Lakers held a double-figure lead at halftime (43-32), but this time did not let down in the second half.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett were Watkins with 17, Jeter with 14, and Tristan Largent with 11.

Garrett had an outstanding night at the free throw line, converting 23 of 26 attempts.

Jeff Washington pulled down seven of the Lakers' 30 rebounds.

Mike Miller and Robert Duck each netted 22 points for South, while Justin Mullen was right behind with 21. Duck also had five rebounds.

GC Netters Earn Region XX Honors

AUTUMN BEAVERS AMANDA FRANTZ

Two Garrett College volleyball standouts, hitters Autumn Beavers and Amanda Frantz, have earned post-season accolades from the Region XX selection committee. Beavers was named Second Team All-Region, while Frantz was recognized with Honorable Mention status.

Beavers recorded an excellent 86.6 serving percentage over the 2004 campaign, with 219 kills at 2.3 per game, 42 aces for .7 per contest, and 95 digs at 1.5 per game. She also recorded 21 solo blocks. The sophomore is a graduate of Keyser (W.Va.) High School and is majoring in business management. She is the daughter of Lisa and Jeff Beavers of Keyser.

Frantz, the Lakers' best passer, tallied a 78.1 passing percentage. She also had an 88.3 serving percentage, 179 overall kills for a 2.3 per game tally, and 42 aces for a .5 average. The sophomore accumulated 238 digs for a 3.0 average per outing. A math science major, the 2003 Northern High graduate is the daughter of Cindy and Mark Frantz of Friendsville.

"These two players will be difficult to replace," said Garrett coach Ann Wellham. "They've been a joy to coach, and both want to continue their volleyball careers although neither has decided where they will be transferring to next year."

Both Beavers and Frantz have also been nominated for the Maryland All-JUCO Volleyball Team, which will be announced in coming weeks.

Lakers To Host Wisp Tourney

The Garrett Lakers will open their home slate this weekend when they host the first Wisp Resort Hotel Classic, an event that will feature two of the top Division II teams in the East Region.

Joining the Lakers on their court will be Jamestown CC, Mercyhurst Northeast Campus, and Potomac State College.

The Lakers will tip off against Jamestown on Friday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. and meet Mercyhurst on Saturday at 3 p.m.. Potomac State will play Mercyhurst on Friday at 5:30 and face Jamestown at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Potomac State won the Region XX Division I championship last season, defeating the Community College of Beaver County in the title game, but then lost to Erie CC in the district championship. Four players from that PSC team are back this year.

Mercyhurst, which is a national contender in Division II, features 6-10 center Dave Fox, who has already been offered scholarships by numerous mid-major basketball universities.

Jamestown has been one of the top teams in the northeast region and returns a sophomore lineup that finished 16-10 last season.

Friday will be Southern Youth Cheerleaders Night, and Saturday will be Northern Youth Cheerleaders Afternoon at the Laker gymnasium. Members of those organizations will be admitted free on their respective nights, and their parents will be admitted for half-price.

NMS, Northern Youth Wrestling Sign-Ups Slated

The Northern Middle School and Northern Youth wrestling programs have slated sign-ups for the 2004-05 season.

NMS wrestling team sign-ups for sixth through eighth graders are slated for 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 16, in the Health Room of Northern High School.

Northern Youth Wrestling sign-ups for students from kindergarten through fifth grade are scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 23, from 6 to 7 p.m. at Grantsville Elementary School.

When reporting to sign up, each participant is asked to bring a parent or guardian. For further information, persons may call Aaron Hordubay at 301-334-5118.

DC Winter Sports Team Sets Meeting

The Deep Creek Winter Sports Team, a youth skiers' and snowboarders' program, has slated its first meeting of the season for 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, at Smiley's Fun Zone in McHenry. The meeting is open to all interested persons, and organization coaches, team members, and supporters will be in attendance to provide information and answer questions.

The DC Winter Sports Team opened its second season recently with a dinner. The event included the benefit auction of a Wisp Resort Platinum Pass donated by the Wisp to Dr. David Tuel of Oakland, who auctioned the pass off and helped the team raise $2,300.

In other team news, Bryce Taylor, an Oakland native who has resided in Mammoth Lakes, Calif., for the past few years, has returned to the area and been named freestyle snowboard coach. "While in Mammoth, Taylor took advantage of the resort's world-class terrain parks and superpipes, developing the skills necessary to safely instruct kids on the finer points of freestyle," a team spokesperson said.

Returning this year are Head coach Greg Rouse, assistant head coach Derek Berger, assistant coach Amy Anderson, and freestyle coach Josh Spiker.

Persons not able to attend the meeting, or who are interested in further information on the team, may call Tonya Vernon at 301-616-4756.

Southern Mat Club Sign-Up Next Tuesday

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team will begin its 20th season next Tuesday, Nov. 16, with another sign-up opportunity. Youth from kindergarten through grade 8 who want to participate, but missed last week's sign-up meeting, are invited to go to the Southern Middle School gymnasium on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

The team is the primary feeder program for the Southern Garrett High School wrestling team, and is open to all boys and girls in the K-8 age group. For more information, persons may telephone Coach Dave Taylor at 301-334-3855 or club president Terry Murphy at 301-334-2369.

Garrett Women Cagers Have Big Shoes To Fill This Year

One of the hardest things to do in sportS is to repeat a superb season, and the Garrett College women's basketball team has that challenge to face as the 2004-05 campaign opens this weekend.

No longer an unknown commodity on the national basketball scene, the Lakers are looking to defend their Region XX crown with a new head coach and a number of new but talented athletes. Thea Garland, assistant coach on last year's storied GC squad, is taking the reins in her first collegiate head coaching job, and has armed her Laker arsenal with a top recruiting class.

Garrett has only three sophomores returning this year, guard Denae Kennedy (5-7), and forward Autumn Beavers (5-8), along with off-guard Natasha Robinson (5-8), who was redshirted in her freshman season. Kennedy is expected to handle the point guard assignment, while Beavers, an experienced post player, will be asked to lead the inside scoring attack. Robinson will begin the season at the shooting guard spot.

Observers say the Lakers have an excellent opportunity to take advantage of their size when posting up along the baseline and under the basket. Incoming players vying for starting assignments at center and the forward slots are Jhonna Newby (6-2), Eugenna Carson (6-0), Shante Brickhouse (5-11), and Dekresha Davis (6-0).

Newby is a graduate of Perry Traditional High School in Pittsburgh who in her senior year averaged eight points, six rebounds, five assists, and two steals per game. Carson, who graduated from Randallstown's Milford Mill Academy, averaged eight points and four rebounds. Forestville High graduate Brickhouse netted a 12-point scoring average while ripping down 15 rebounds per outing to help pace her squad to a 16-7 record and the semifinals of the last year's Maryland State Tournament. Davis is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High in Beckley, W.Va.

A transfer from Frank Phillips College in Texas, Westia Russell (5-11) will give the Lakers some much needed post experience. Russell, who began her prep studies at Washington, D.C.'s, Calvin Coolidge High, finished her high school basketball at nearby Richard Milburn, where she averaged 12 points and 12 rebounds per contest on her way to team Most Valuable Player honors.

The 2003-04 Lakers were a speedy, guard-dominated team, averaging 86.3 points per game to finish third in the nation in scoring. The trio of guards who sparked that blaze are gone, as Ashley Liller is now at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmetsburg; LaSha Anderson is at West Virginia State College in Institute; and Jenna Bradford is at Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C.

Incoming guards looking to replace that potent trifecta include Victoria Lawson (5-1), Karley Hall (5-8), Jami Anderson (5-7), Danyell Thompson (5-5), Simari Pinno (5-5), and Tiffany Torres (5-7).

Lawson was among the top high school guards in Maryland last year at Laurel High, where her awards included MVP and Defensive Player of the Year. She led the state in assists at 10.2 per game, while also tallying 11 points and three steals per contest.

Hall, a Broadneck High graduate, averaged 14 points, five rebounds and five assists, and was named team MVP and Second Team All-County. She was selected for the Maryland vs. Pennsylvania All-Star Game.

Anderson, her team's MVP selection at Parkdale High, averaged 15 points, eight rebounds, and five steals per game.

St. Francis Academy alumna Thompson graduated in 2003 after leading her squad to the Catholic League championship.

Pinno, noted for her hustling play, helped pace Westinghouse High to a 23-5 season last year. On the way she earned First Team Pittsburgh All-City and First Team Pennsylvania All-State accolades.

Rounding out the class of freshman guards is Torres, a graduate of Westfield High in Virginia.

Yolanda Anthony, another West Virginia native and a classmate of Davis's at Woodrow Wilson High, averaged 15 points, seven rebounds, and five assists last year as she earned an invitation to the McDonald's All-American game. In dominating one battle with Wyoming East High, Anthony turned in 35 points, hauled down 14 rebounds, dished out nine assists, and was a perfect 10 for 10 from the free throw line.

Currently ranked 17th in the National Division II preseason poll, Garrett opens its campaign at Cecil this Sunday, Nov. 14, at 2 p.m. The Lakers' first home contest is set for Saturday, Nov. 20, when CCAC South pays a 6 p.m. visit.

SHS RECEIVES DONATIONS FROM SHAWNEE TRADING POST – Southern Garrett High School was given a bronze "Charging Ram" by Buck Martin of Shawnee Trading Post in Deer Park. The hand-sculptured ram is currently on display in the main entrance lobby of the school. In addition, Martin donated a sculptured cement ram that graces the entrance to the Ram football stadium. The 2,000 pound cement ram is one of only several in the world and was sculptured by Mary Smith. "The school is very fortunate to have businessmen like Mr. Martin who want to help our students have pride in all we do," said Principal Tom Woods. "The Rams will forever be a part of the image of Southern High School when visitors come to the school and athletic field." Pictured above with the football stadium cement ram are boys' soccer player Bobby Bonser, girls' soccer player Shar Hollingsworth, and football player Cory Bosley. Below with the bronze ram are Woods and Thomas Martin (grandson of Mr. Martin).

Tryouts Set For Svc. Club Youth Hoops League

The Oakland Service Club Basketball League has slated tryouts at Southern Middle School over the coming week for its 2004-05 season. The league is open to all fifth through eighth graders, and all current fifth and seventh graders, as well as any child who was not placed on a team last season, must participate in a tryout session.

The tryouts for boys will begin at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 15, and girls' tryouts will get under way at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 17. A make-up session for any boys or girls who missed those sessions is slated for 6 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18.

The league divisions are: Boys' Junior, grades 5 and 6; Boys' Senior, grades 7 and 8; Girls' Junior, grades 5 and 6; and Girls' Senior, grades 7 and 8.

Registration forms, which have been distributed at area schools, will also be available at the tryouts. The league has a $10 registration fee that is due when players are assigned to a team.

For further information, persons may call Dan Jeffreys at 301-334-3012 or Ken Witte at 301-334-6991.

Arsenal Soccer Annual Meeting, Try-Outs Saturday

The Arsenal Football Association will hold its annual meeting this Saturday, Nov. 13, as well as tryouts for soccer players ages 10 to 18. These activities will take place at the Oakland Armory.

The annual meeting, which is open to all interested persons, will begin at 9 a.m. Information about the organization may be obtained at this session.

The girls will try out for the indoor league at 10 a.m., followed by the boys at 11 a.m.

Each person trying out should bring his or her birth certificate, a recent photo, a deposit of $50, indoor soccer shoes, and shin guards.

For more information, persons may call Mary Callis at 301-334-3229.

Runnin' Rams Will Return To State Championships Saturday

For the first time in several years, both the girls' and boys' cross country teams have qualified for the Maryland State championships, which will be held this Saturday, Nov. 13, at Hereford High School.

The Runnin' Rams earned the team spots at states by capturing fourth places in the 1A West Region meet, hosted by Clear Spring High School last Thursday. The top six teams qualify for the state event.

The SHS girls finished with 105 points. Williamsport won the team title with 36 points, followed by Boonsboro with 90 and Tuscarora with 99. Finishing behind Southern were host Clear Spring with 108, Brunswick with 122, Smithsburg with 148, and Catoctin, Northwood, and Westmar, all with incomplete scores.

Leading the Southern girls, who are coached by Steve Cosner, was Sarah Cosner, who finished 10th with a time of 21:43. She was named to the All-Region team.

Melinda Smith placed 25th with a time of 23:28, followed by teammates Courtney DiSimone, Elizabeth Thayer, and Emily Bowman in 34th, 35,th, and 36th places, respectively, Leah Warnick in 40th place, and Rikkilee Rose placing 44th.

Clear Spring's Ashley Lockard was the fastest female runner in the event, winning with a time of 19:26. Placing second and third were Lauryn McFawn of Allegany (19:45) and Jaime Wright of Catoctin (19:51).

The Southern boys, who are coached by Jamie Beeman, finished with 131 points. Beall won with 36 points, Clear Spring placed second with 82, and Catoctin was third with 125. Following fourth-place Southern were Smithsburg with 142 points, Williamsport with 162, Poolesville with 167, Tuscarora with 195, Allegany with 199, Boonsboro with 203, Brunswick with 321, and Northwood and Westmar with incomplete scores.

Pacing the Southern boys were Caiden Shaffer and Derek Upperman, who were named to the All-Region team because of their eighth and 15th place finishes. Shaffer recorded a time of 17:35, while Upperman finished in 17:48. Other finishers for the Rams were: Andrew Goad in 28th place; Michael McConnell and Michael Murphy in 41st and 42nd, respectively; Tim Preston, 55th; and Andrew Kight, 67th.

Beall runners Dan DeWitt, Scott Bonnette, and James Carney swept the top three places, recording respective times of 16:36, 16:51, and 16:58.

The state Class 1A girls' race at Hereford will begin at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, and the 1A boys' race will get under way at 2:30.

Although not qualifying for the state meet as a team in recent years, the Runnin' Rams have to their credit seven state championships, five for the boys' teams and two for the girls' teams, all recorded during the 1990s under coaches Carl Booth and Louis Newcomb.

THANK YOU VERY MUCH

Dear Western Maryland Tournament of Bands helpers:

I would like to thank the following individuals for all of your help before, during and after our Tournament of Bands show on October 16, 2004. Without all of your doing so many different functions, this event could never happen. Quite a few of you helped out in more than one area so forgive me if I fail to mention all of the different ones. I hope I haven't left anyone out and if I have, I apologize. Sincerely, Sheila A. Edwards, TOB Coordinator, Southern Garrett Band Boosters.

STUCK, CALLIS WIN SCHOLARSHIPS TO ATTEND SOCCER CAMP – The Mountaintop Soccer Association and the Arsenal Football Association sponsor a soccer camp each summer open to all local players. This year the Internationals Soccer Club, the organization that operates the camp, awarded scholarships to two players, one boy and one girl, for them to attend the Internationals Soccer Camp (ISC) in Cleveland, Ohio, in the summer of 2005. Names of campers were drawn in a raffle, and the winners were Alex Stuck and Lizzy Callis, both pictured above with Louie Nanchoff, owner of the ISC. The camp, which costs $500 to attend, will feature international coaches and instructors. (Local soccer players should note that the try-outs for the indoor winter soccer season will be held this Saturday at the Oakland Armory. See story for details.)

Northern Girls Eliminated From Soccer Playoffs By Smithsburg

The 2004 soccer season is now history for the Northern High School girls' varsity, as the Huskies were upended by host Smithsburg, 3-0, last Friday in Maryland Class 1A West Region playoff action.

The Huskies finished the campaign with another winning record (9-5-1), while the Leopards upped their overall mark to 12-4 and earned a spot in the West Region final against Williamsport, which was played Tuesday. Smithsburg won that match to claim its fourth straight regional title.

Shannon Fowkes put the first goal into the net for the Leopards, scoring unassisted at the 26:32 mark of the first half.

Teammate Shelby Layman followed with an unassisted goal with 11:30 left in the half, giving Smithsburg a 2-0 advantage at intermission.

Adding an insurance goal for the Leopards with 9:55 remaining in the match was Katie Seifarth, also unassisted.

The Huskies were outgunned in shots on goal by a 23-5 margin, and also trailed in corner kicks, 3-0.

Northern keeper Kayla Kipp stopped 16 of the Leopards' shots, while Kasie Fratz recorded one save. Candace Stanford was credited with two stops for Smithsburg.

Northern Boys Nipped 1-0 By Boonsboro In 1A Semifinal

After 76 minutes of play in last Friday's 1A West Region semifinal clash between the Northern High School boys' soccer team and host Boonsboro, it was still 0-0 on the scoreboard. But with just under four minutes to play, the Huskies saw their hopes for a spot in the regional finals dashed.

After Northern senior keeper Chris Fickes turned away every previous shot of the Warriors, Rick Tonetti accepted a pass from Tyler McKendrick and put the ball into the net with approximately four minutes left in the match to give Boonsboro a 1-0 victory.

No other details of the match were received.

Coach Tom Ables and his Huskies finished the 2004 campaign with their best overall record ever at 12-4. They were the runner-up behind Beall in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League final standings.

Boonsboro and Beall met Tuesday evening in the region championship match, which was won by the undefeated Mountaineers, 2-0.

Kitzmiller Youth Get "Hooked" On Healthy Lifestyle

by Lois Dever

The annual Kitzmiller Fishing Rodeo was held on Friday, Oct. 15, and was sponsored by the Kitzmiller Empowerment Group and the 219 Outdoor Center.

Participants met at the Kitzmiller Park Pavilion and went out to various places along the Potomac River. They all gathered back at the pavilion to show off the fish they caught and to get their prize.

"Our goal is to show the young people that the Potomac River is here, and they can do fun and positive things at the river," reported Nancy Brady, a member of the Kitzmiller Empowerment Group. "We are looking for ways to show the Kitzmiller youth that they do have things to do within their own community."

The group's activities are funded through a Garrett County Health Department mini-grant program.

"The purpose of this event (the fishing rodeo) is to get the Kitzmiller youth hooked on a healthy lifestyle," stated Kathy Elliott, who is the liaison between the Health Department and the Kitzmiller Empowerment Group.

"We are here for the kids, I'm just giving back," commented Matthew Paugh. The bait and fishing supplies were provided by the center, thanks to owners Danny and Angie Bosley and their employees.

"Fishing is fun!" said Josh Nesselrodt, one of the young participants.

"I 'catched' a fish and had fun!" exclaimed Scott Tichnell, a 4-year-old participant.

Another community planning group funded through the Health Department mini-grant program is the Paw Prints of Crellin, Hutton, and Underwood Road areas. That group sponsored a fishing rodeo at Herrington Manor State Park on Saturday, Sept. 25. The Paw Prints members deemed this event a "successful intergenerational experience."

They had participants as young as 4 years old to grandparents in their 60s fishing side by side, with a total of 34 people attending. The attention span of these youth, who fished for three hours, was phenomenal. There were numerous other activities available, but they were put to little use because of the participants' great interest in fishing.

The Paw Prints provided prizes in each age category, according to the size of the fish that was caught.

DSS Program To Note Need For, Rewards Of Adoption, Foster Care

The Garrett County Department of Social Services has slated a luncheon to mark National Adoption Day for Saturday, Nov. 20, at Uno Restaurant. The observance comes on a day set aside for courts throughout the United States to finalize the adoptions of thousands of children in foster care and celebrate all families that adopt.

The event gets under way at 11 a.m. with a closed-door luncheon for local adoptive families and DSS personnel, then the public is invited to join the proceedings from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. to salute these families, and learn more about opportunities for adoption and foster care in Garrett County.

"Adoption is the legal and emotional acceptance of a child not born to you into your family," said Garrett County DSS adoption specialist Monica Barnett. "There are 126,000 children in foster care around the country waiting to be adopted by permanent, loving families. Many of these children have been waiting years to be adopted. Maryland has 1,322 children, with Garrett County currently only seeking adoptive homes for two children.

"The children in need of adoptive homes in Maryland are primarily African American school age siblings with physical, mental, or emotional disabilities. These children need the security and stability of a permanent family to develop to their fullest potential," Barnett said.

The following adoption services are available through the Garrett County Department of Social Services:

- •licensing of adoptive homes;
- •supervision of children in pre-adoptive placements;
- •recruiting adoptive families for children;
- •matching available children to adoptive families;
- •interstate placements;
- •funding for legal services to finalize adoptions;
- •post-adoptive services; and
- •search, contact, and reunion services.

To become a licensed foster and/or adoptive parent, both training and a homestudy are required. The training curriculum consists of 27 hours of training by foster care and adoption staff as well as experienced foster/adoptive parents. The homestudy consists of four home visits during which each family member is interviewed regarding their social history as well as current situation.

Other requirements are criminal background checks, fire inspection, sanitation inspection, proof of income and budgeting, current medical reports, CPR certification, and three references.

Once the agency director approves the home, the family becomes licensed and can begin providing care for children in DSS custody. The homes are re-evaluated on at least a yearly basis to determine eligibility for continued licensure.

The majority of children who become eligible for adoption in Garrett County are adopted by their foster parents. If the child's current foster family is not willing or able to adopt, other families are recruited. Licensed homes in other counties throughout the state, as well as throughout the country can be explored. The goal is to locate the most appropriate home for that specific child, based on his or her needs. A child must reside in the home a minimum of six months before the adoption can occur.

The local DSS also offers post-adoptive services that can include an adoption subsidy, medical assistance, crisis intervention, referrals to services, one-time-only fluids, ongoing training, and access to additional adoption resources.

Another component of post-adoption services is the Adoption Search, Contact, and Reunion Program. Both birth parents and adult adoptees can request information from their closed adoption record. Only non-identifying information regarding birth parents as well as medical history information can be shared unless the birth parent consents to disclosure of identifying information. Reunion services can be provided if both parties give their approval.

For further information on adoption and foster care in Garrett County, persons may contact Barnett or Tamra Canfield at 301-334-3040.

WORLD KINDNESS MONTH is being observed at the Garrett County Health Department. Employee Sandy Sutton, left, and AmeriCorps member Nicole Thayer are pictured showing off a heart covered with "kindness coins" in front of a World Kindness Month display at the Health Department. The Garrett County commissioners issued a proclamation this week recognizing November as World Kindness Month in Garrett County. More information about the proclamation is available on page C-2 in this issue of The Republican.

Poster Contest Is Under Way At Friendsville Elem.

A poster contest is currently under way at Friendsville Elementary School.

The Back-to-School Healthy Kids Make Healthy Futures Poster Contest is sponsored by Maryland Covering Kids and Families (CKF). Kendel Ehrlich, Maryland's First Lady, launched the statewide event for students in grades 3 through 5 at Walter S. Mills-Parole Elementary School in Annapolis recently.

Students are to create a poster of what "Healthy Kids Make Healthy Futures" means to them. To purchase art materials for the contest, the school received $500 from JoAnn Fletcher, community program coordinator for the CKF program at Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (WMAHEC).

The Maryland CKF program is part of a national health access initiative for low-income, uninsured children. It promotes awareness of and simplifies enrollment in MCHP (Maryland Children's Health Program), and coordinates services with community partners. MCHP assists families by providing free or low-cost health care insurance for doctor visits, medicine, dental visits, and mental health services.

"The comprehensive coverage offered through MCHP helps keep Maryland's kids healthy, making a healthy, brighter future for them," Fletcher said. "We are thrilled to provide this opportunity to Friendsville Elementary students and funds to the school for art supplies, as well as create a greater awareness of how Covering Kids & Families is enhancing children's lives."

To check eligibility for MCHP, persons may contact their local health department. The Garrett County numbers are 301-895-3111, 301-334-7770, and 301-334-7720.

CORNISH MANOR

The Cornish Manor Restaurant, located at 830 Memorial Drive, has a menu for everyone's taste and pocketbook, according to new owner and chef Jacques Hourtal of Atlanta, Ga., where he owned and operated restaurants for more than 25 years.

Rob and Sharon Markwood purchased the land and building, and have renovated and restored this 140-year-old house to a Victorian motif. According to the Markwoods, the new bar and lounge area is separate from the Victorian dining rooms and offers an area for conversing with friends, enjoying a drink, or watching a game.

Jacques trained in Southern France and Switzerland, and speaks English, Spanish, French, and Italian fluently. He owned and operated Soleil Restaurant, Anis Café and Bistro, and Inman's Pasta Deli in Atlanta, and served as sous-chef at La Grotta Restaurant, also in Atlanta.

Chefs training with Jacques are Fabrice Defour and Jeremy Baker. Marge Morgan, who has been at Cornish Manor for more than 10 years, is head waitress. Completing the current staff are Patricia Ahern, Cheryl Wilt, Tina Maule, Debora Robinette, Tina Weimer, Marilyn McGee, Heidi Ravesncroft, Anita Scheffel, and Sherry Ware.

Restaurant hours are Monday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. for lunch; Monday through Thursday, 5 to 9:30 p.m. for dinner; and Friday and Saturday, 5 to 10 p.m. for dinner.

Reservations are not required. Homemade specials are created every day and the food is prepared fresh said Jacques. He said he plans on having a super buffet for Sundays in the future.

Deer Causes Monday Morning Mishap Near DCL

A Swanton woman was slightly injured Monday morning when she swerved to avoid hitting a deer in the road, and went off the roadway where she struck another deer.

At 6:25 a.m., Jamie Nicole Rinker, 27, was traveling west on Glendale Road when she swerved to miss a deer west of Beckman's Peninsula. Her 1996 Pontiac veered off the roadway and struck another deer.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Rinker to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed by the investigating trooper.

Comm. Action Receives Grants For McHenry Housing Project

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett last week announced that the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has approved two grants, totaling $461,342, to Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. for construction of 30 multi-family housing units targeting low-income wage earners.

The project is located on a 10.8-acre parcel of land in the McHenry area. The tenants will be provided with a full residential service package, designed to improve their self-sufficiency and quality of life, said Bartlett. The plan links residents with existing community service programs, such as childcare, job training, college classes, financial literacy counseling, and transportation.

In addition to the ARC funds, the Pysell Ridge Housing Project will be provided with $4,071,476 by state, local and other sources, for a total project cost of $4,271,476. Likewise, the Mountain Village West Housing Project will receive $3,918,134 from state, local, and other sources, for a total project cost of $4,179,476.

"These grants are part of the Appalachian Regional Commission. These two grants are a successful investment in infrastructure to make Garrett County a better and safer place to live for all its residents," said Congressman Bartlett. "It is excellent news that federal funding has been provided to make these valuable projects possible."

lowing the war, as its age rendered it no longer of use. But the crew still meets, often in California where the bow of the great ship is on display. Stevenson has attended reunions of Indiana's crew for years. He missed one this summer because he was recuperating from a knee replacement, but he will go again, he said.

"Those were the formative years of our lives," Stevenson said. "And we served together through it all. Many of us have remained in touch ever since."

During his time in the service, Mr. Stevenson came across just three other friends from Garrett County.

"I met up with Guy William Hinebaugh, Bill Grant, and Harry Sanders. I knew a lot of guys in the service from home, but these are the only three I ever actually ran into," he said.

After the war, Stevenson went on to college, marriage, and work. He has led a full life, a successful life. But he never forgets the ones who did not come home.

"My friends and I who still meet — We got to live, to experience things, to have good lives. So many others didn't. So many were lost, and they were so young," he said.

Thankfully this son of Garrett County, and many others, did survive, after risking all in a great struggle for freedom. Today, Nov. 11, is designated to honor them, yet there should be room every day to remember the sacrifices they made, the fear they faced, and the horrors they witnessed.

Thank you, Mr. Robert Stevenson, and all who have served in the constant challenge of preserving our freedom.

Adorable Adoptables

PRECIOUS, above left, is an 8 month-old mix, spayed and ready to be loved. She was brought in to the Garrett County Animal Shelter because her elderly owner could no longer take care of her. Also available for adoption is a black Lab mix, above right, who is large but lovable and one of the nicest dogs at the shelter, according to a Humane Society member. A male German shepherd mix was also brought in. He may be housebroken, but needs to be vaccinated and neutered. Sheba, below right, is a female 1½ year-old golden/Lab mix. She is described as housebroken and quiet. "Sadly, she was brought in by her owners who chose to keep one of her puppies instead of her," said the Humane Society member. "She will need to be spayed to help prevent more unwanted animals from entering the shelter. Several of these dogs no doubt were brought in because their owners did not want to care for them anymore, especially now that winter is coming. The shelter is almost full with dogs and there are still several nice adult cats, that are spayed or neutered that need good homes and someone who will feed them and give them a warm, loving place to live." The Garrett County Emergency Management also reported that the following stray dogs were picked up and taken to the shelter this week: a male black Lab mix and a female black/brown German shepherd mix, Kempton area; and a male brown/black German shepherd mix, Spring Glade Road. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Band Wins

Southern color guard unit did the same for Best Auxiliary. The SHS percussion unit captured the Best Percussion trophy at the chapter championships for the third consecutive year.

"Mr. Clever and I are very proud of our student musicians, who have worked so hard throughout the entire season," Salisbury said.. "We have attained nearly all of the goals we set for ourselves this year. This is a tribute to the determination of our band and the parent volunteers who have been such a big part of our success."

Southern will go into this weekend's Atlantic Coast Championships ranked 15th, which is the highest ever for the band. Only the top 25 bands in a multiple-state region earn a spot in the ACC competition.

"Now our goal is to finish higher than that in the competition," Salisbury added. "We encourage folks from the community to come up and support us."

The band will leave for Scranton on Saturday and is scheduled to perform at approximately 9 p.m. Sunday.

Treatment For This Diabetes Complication

People with diabetes which is not well controlled over time often develop a complication called diabetic neuropathy. Nerve damage due to diabetic neuropathy can manifest itself several different ways. If, for example, a single nerve malfunctions, a single body limb could become weak. However if the nerve deficit affects the hands, feet, or a leg, an abnormal tingling or burning pain accompanied by weakness can develop. Diabetic neuropathy is the most common complication of diabetes, affecting 62% of Americans with this condition.

Treatment for diabetic neuropathy varies with the individual. In general, however, the better a person's blood sugar is controlled with oral drugs and/or insulin, the less neuropathy the person will usually experience. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) like ibuprofen are often used for mild neuropathic pain, and antidepressants such as amitriptyline or seizure medications including gabapentin have been used for severe cases.

constructed there next summer.

Another project in which the Yough Watershed Association is involved is the Crellin School project, which consists of using a fanner coal tipple area (located behind the school and owned by the county) as an outdoor educational facility and playground for children in the area. The site presently contains coal spoil which inhibits plant growth. Acid mine drainage from the area is also a problem.

The Garrett County Community Action Committee has obtained a grant from the Office of Surface Mining to treat the acid water and remove the coal spoil so that vegetation will grow again. Gary Yoder, project coordinator, reported that this project is moving forward rapidly. Detailed plans for the playground are being prepared by a playground consultant, and plans for the elimination of the coal-related problems are being prepared by Joe Mill of the Maryland Bureau of Mines. It is hoped that the labor for the construction of the playground will be provided by local volunteers, who will be asked for help with the construction next summer, the spokesperson noted.

"This is a diversified project which requires the cooperation of many agencies and individuals," the spokesperson said. To offer help with the project, persons should contact Dana McCauley, school principal, or Yoder, coordinator.

The Watershed Association is involved with three other acid mine discharge remediation projects, one stream bank stabilization project,. and one stream granting project.

The Yough Watershed Association was formed in the spring of 2000 after it came to the attention of several local persons that the federal Office of Surface Mining had a grant program that would assist local watershed groups in completing water quality improvement projects involving acid mine drainage.

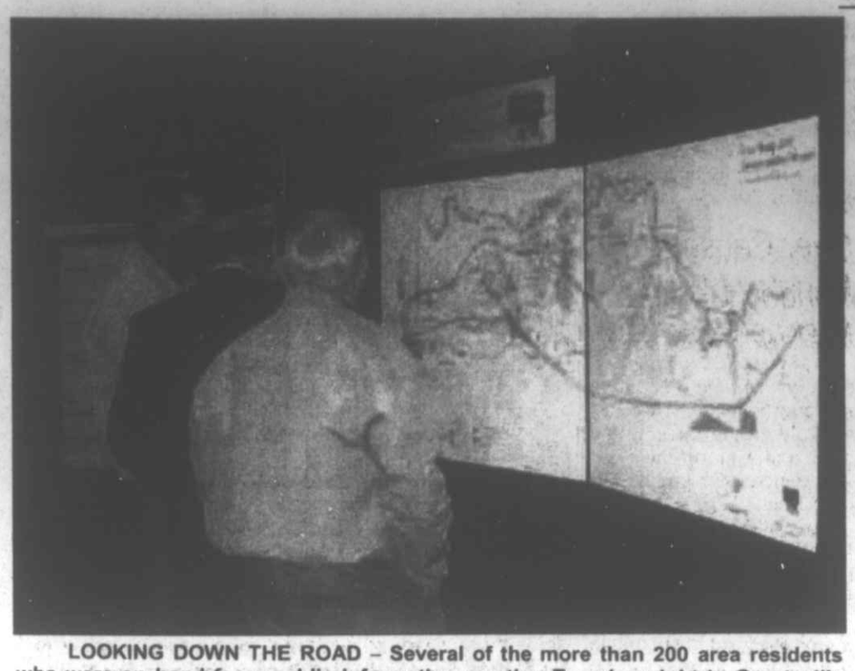
This grant program was not available to any government agency, the spokesperson said. Since none of these funds were coming to Garrett County, local individuals decided to form a watershed group that could obtain the money to help with the county's water pollution problems. Because the Youghiogheny River flows through most of Garret County, it was decided to use the name of the Yough for the watershed group, although the group "remains committed to assisting with any Potomac River projects in Garrett County" as well as any other water quality endeavors.

The first meeting or the watershed group was held May 11, 2000, with seven persons in attendance. The last meeting took place on Oct. 26 with 20 persons in attendance. The association has assisted in obtaining four major grants for stream improvements in Garrett County, the spokesperson reported. The grants amounted to $400,000. Two smaller grants have been obtained for water quality improvement. One application is under review and another site is being evaluated, the spokesperson said.

The mission statement of the organization is as follows: "The Yough River Watershed Association is a local organization of environmentally conscious people striving to promote, enhance, and restore the watershed for all aspects of life."

The association meets every other month, usually on the fourth Tuesday, at 1 p.m. at the outdoor education building at Garrett College. All persons interested in clean water for Garrett County are invited to attend.

For more detailed information, persons may call Kellee Gomola at 301-387-3326 or Edgar Harman at 301-334-4018.



LOOKING DOWN THE ROAD – Several of the more than 200 area residents who were on hand for a public information meeting Tuesday night in Grantsville are shown studying a map of proposed alternatives for a new four-lane highway from Meyersdale, Pa., to Interstate 68 just east of Grantsville. The project, still a number of years from construction, is a combined effort of the Pennsylvania and Maryland transportation departments, which are still working to find a way to avoid the most existing homes and businesses as possible. The maps are available for viewing on the Internet at www.us219.com. Photo by Angie Brant.

zens at the event, the current alternatives under consideration each have their pros and cons, but many local residents place the protection of existing homes and businesses at the top of their priority list. As it stands, each published alternative could result in the demolition of several such structures, but Sherman said his office is making its best attempt to use Tuesday's feedback to try to find a solution that may be more acceptable to all.

"We're looking at Alternative E, which comes into Maryland east of the existing Route 219, and about halfway between the state line and Interstate 68, shifting the road to the west by crossing over Rt. 219," Sherman said. "That is just a preliminary brainstorming thought, but it could really reduce the impact to homes and businesses. There will be impacts no matter what we do, but we want to work with the local residents – who have been very gracious and helpful – the best we can."

The sticking point so far, according to Sherman, is that 900 acres of land mostly located just east of existing Rt. 219 in Garrett County is a federally designated national historic site. The Little Meadows encampment is where General Edward Braddock, his assistant officer George Washington, and over 1,000 British soldiers camped during their fateful march toward Fort Necessity over 250 years ago. The addition of Little Meadows to the National Register of Historic Places approximately 30 years ago means planners would have to demonstrate to the federal government that their selected route would either avoid the site altogether, cause as little impact as possible, or cause an impact that can be mitigated in the form of awarding compensation of a similar property.

"Nothing's off the table yet," Sherman said. "If we can come up with a feasible way to fit this project in with the existing community, we'll do our best to make it happen.

"Once we refine our alignments, we'll go back to our community advisory committee of approximately 20 Maryland and Pennsylvania citizens to discuss our ideas. If they think there is the need for a public meeting, we'll schedule one; if not, we'll move into putting together a draft environmental impact statement."

The alternatives were displayed in maps in the meeting room, and have been published in this paper recently. They are also available for viewing on the Internet at www.us219.-com, or by request by calling Suseela Rajan, Rt. 219 project manager for the Maryland State Highway Administration, at 410-545-8514, or Sherman at 814-696-7170.

Planners pointed out at the meeting that the selection of the final alternative will likely not be made until the year 2006, with a construction start still over a year or more beyond that. A detailed environmental impact statement study will have to be completed prior to the breaking of any ground.

MSP Graduate

letts, Explorer Program coordinator at the McHenry barrack. "He was always driven to succeed, and always had a positive attitude and was willing to help out wherever needed. He had a military bearing even back when he joined the program at the age of 14, and was very polite. Everything was 'Yes sir,' or 'No sir.' He stayed active in the program right up until he entered the academy."

After graduating from Southern, Upole enrolled in Garrett Community College. He later transferred to Frederick Community College, where he earned an associate of applied science degree in police science. While studying at Garrett and Frederick, Upole served as an MSP cadet, working in commercial vehicle regulation enforcement at the Finzel and New Market truck weigh stations.

Upole was accepted into the MSP Academy on his first try, and spent 26 weeks learning the basics of criminal and traffic law enforcement. The intensive training of the facility's military boot camp-style atmosphere resulted in only 25 students making it to graduation out of an initial class of more than 40 candidates.

"The department you have become part of today is focused in its mission, but extremely varied in how we accomplish our mission," Col. Hutchins told the graduates during the commencement exercise, with Lt. Gov. Michael Steele in attendance.

"Our mission is to enforce the traffic laws of Maryland and manage traffic incidents to provide for the efficient flow of traffic; to enforce criminal laws, with a focus on intra- and interstate crimes; to provide homeland security; and to support local law enforcement. This is the life of the Maryland State Police; it is a cycle that does not end. The lights never go out in a state police barracks, this is the life you are now a part of," stated Hutchins.

"I've always wanted a job where I was dealing with people, and I've always wanted to help people," Upole said. "My new career with the Maryland State Police is a dream come true."

Upole is the son of Paula and Brad Upole of Oakland.

For information on the MSP's Explorer Program at the McHenry barrack, which meets every other Friday evening, persons may call Tfc. Willetts at 301-387-1101. An open enrollment for the program is tentatively slated for December.

Adopt Policy

possible ad valorem taxes being added on top of the state's new flush tax, the drop in tourism dollars, and the decrease in grant funding and highway user fees.

"Small businesses are the first casualties when fees rise," McCain said. He did not want the county to lose businesses and the prosperity it has gained in recent years.

The new policy also outlines capacity and impact fees for new and current sanitary district customers using the public water and sewer systems.

"The Deep Creek Sanitary District capacity fees (ERU) for sewer service will remain at $6,500 to cover the capital costs of the wastewater treatment plant expansion," said Public Utilities director Mark Tonkovich. "The new capacity fees will be reviewed annually and adjusted to cover additional project costs directly attributable to the Deep Creek Lake Waste Water Treatment Plant, collection and conveyance system expansion, and upgrade."

The McHenry Water District capacity will also remain at $2,800. Except for the DCL district, all water and sewer capacity fees will be set at $2,000 for water and $2,000 for sewer, with $1,000 of each of these capacity fees being escrowed and set aside for reserves.

The minimum capacity charge for Deep Creek Lake sewer system customers will be $6,500 for one residential dwelling. This capacity fee is intended to accommodate one ERU or 262.5 gallons of daily wastewater flow from a traditional household, explained Tonkovich.

The minimum capacity fee all other Garrett County sewer systems customers will be $2,000 for one residential dwelling.

All customers, including those at the lake, with more than 3½ bathrooms will be assessed an additional impact fee of $975 per ½ bath to cover the cost of the additional impact to the collection systems and treatment facilities.

"Additional connection charges will apply to Deep Creek Lake Sewer District based on the additional capital cost of the collection system," noted Tonkovich. "All other district connection fees will be included in the appropriate ERU or capacity fee, with additional costs being covered by an ad valorem tax if necessary."

He added that Public Utilities reserved the right to entertain requests for exception to lump sum capacity purchased based on financial hardship situations.

"The exception shall be based on a maximum of one ERU," he said. "An established team of Department of Public Utilities employees will evaluate the requests individually. Decisions will be rendered, based on a majority vote."

"It's not a perfect system, but it's the best we have," said Gregg at the conclusion of the policy announcement.

The policy became effective on Tuesday, Nov. 9.

THE INCREDIBLES

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:55 - Released 11/5/04

I remember a bit by Jerry Seinfeld about, "Why is it Superman always has to crash through the living room wall? Can't he use a door like normal people?" Well, Disney/Pixar's The Incredibles provides a possible answer to what would really happen if we had people like Superman, Spider-Man, and the Fantastic Four flying around among us nowadays, crashing through walls and destroying property in the noble pursuit of saving humanity: they'd be sued, imprisoned, and/or relieved of duty, and politely asked to let us all take care of ourselves. Until we really needed them. Right, personal injury attorneys?

The latest cartoon-animated masterpiece from Pixar, The Incredibles is a hilariously fun romp through the everyday lives of comic-book superheroes, and although it is only the second film written and directed by Brad Bird (whose debut was 1999's underrated The Iron Giant), it shows the man knows what it takes to create a fun, colorful, and intelligent story with likable characters and cutting-edge humor. Talk about incredible!

We first meet the super-strong Mr. Incredible (voice of Craig T. Nelson) and incredibly limber Elastigirl (Holly Hunter) a.k.a. Bob and Helen Parr, when they are in their heyday (around the late 1950s), saving the population of Metroville from petty crooks and supervillains, alongside friends like Frozone (Samuel L. Jackson), who can create instant blizzards whenever necessary. Soon after they are married, however, when one too many buildings are destroyed in the process of their noble pursuits, the Incredibles and their superheroic friends begin to lose favor in the public eye and are forced to go into hiding. Bob gets a job at an insurance company, Helen becomes an at-home mom, and their three incredible children, teenage Violet (Sarah Vowell), who can disappear and create force fields, preteen Dash (Spencer Fox), who can run like the wind, and baby Jack-Jack (Eli Fucile/Maeve Andrews), whose powers are as yet unknown, try to live as inconspicuously as possible among the normals.

But it isn't long before a new super-baddie, who calls himself Syndrome (Jason Lee) emerges with a plan to eliminate all the former heroes and claim the world as his own. As it turns out, Syndrome is actually Buddy Pine, who wanted to be Mr. Incredible's sidekick back in the old days, but was repeatedly rebuffed. Though not imbued with superpowers, Buddy has grown to become an evil genius inventor, complete with a self-designed super suit, an elaborate, high-tech island hideaway, and a nearly invincible robot designed to crush humanity under its titanium footpads. Soon the entire Incredible family must work together to challenge Syndrome's evil plans.

This movie would be a hoot even if it weren't filled with spectacular visuals and fast-paced action. Besides the main plot line, there are subtle little background jokes and asides filling every scene, not to mention memorable characters like diminutive costume designer Edna "E" Mode (writer/director Bird), whose hilariously eccentric persona is based on the famous (now deceased) Oscar-winning Hollywood costume genius Edith Head. The disparity between Edna's tiny frame and the amount of power she has over others is hysterical, and her huge, impeccably designed mansion is quite impressive as well.

The Incredibles is yet another incredible addition to the Pixar catalog, and yet another reason to believe that intelligent cinema is not dead. Even if it doesn't involve any actual human beings on the screen. ★★★★½

German Village At Fantasy Valley On ARC Tours

Among the tour stops in this year's American Red Cross Home for the Holidays House Tours will be the German Village at Fantasy Valley, located near McHenry. The local ARC chapter will host this 13th annual event on Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 until 9 p.m., and on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The resort property of Fantasy Valley, located at 239 Hoyes Run Road, has been a popular site for guests and residents alike for many years. Once a family farm, the location was developed into a vacation spot in the 1960s, with cabins and a restaurant. It was later transformed by Mary and Richard Cheney into a private retreat for children and young adults with cancer. Most recently, the DC Development partners purchased the property, and a local restaurateur has developed the German Village at Fantasy Valley.

The village offers dining, shopping, and family entertainment. The buildings have been painted in the Bavarian style, and the restaurant, the Chalet, offers Old World German food, wines, and beer.

For the holiday tours, the pine-tree-lined lane, off Hoyes Run Road and leading to the German Village, will be lighted with lanterns, and bows will be arranged along the fence. Guests will follow the path to a well-lit "Winter Wonderland," with the buildings lined in white lights, large inflatable holiday characters, and many decorated trees — all creating the outdoor Christkindlemarket atmosphere for the German Village, a spokesperson said.

German festival foods and music, mulled sweetened wine (called gluhwein), or hot apple cider will be offered to all guests. The Chalet Restaurant and Bar will also be festively decorated. Several German shops will be open to the visitors as well.

Tour tickets for all guests, including children, are $8 in advance and $10 at the "door" (on the days of the tours). The other three sites of the tour are the homes of Roger Sines and Suzie Mattson and Michael and Sandy Bello, and the McHenry United Methodist Church.

Guests will be asked to remove their shoes before touring the sites, organizers noted. They will also be asked to refrain from photographing or videotaping in the homes.

GERMAN VILLAGE AT FANTASY VALLEY PART OF ARC HOLIDAY TOURS

Tickets are available at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland, Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek, and the Deep Creek Pharmacy.

For more information, persons may contact Bea Crosco at 301-334-3153. Feature stories about the remaining two sites will be published in The Republican in the next two issues.

GGBA Slates Meeting Date

The Greater Grantsville Business Association will hold its monthly breakfast meeting next Wednesday, Nov. 17, at Penn Alps Restaurant at 8 a.m.

The featured speaker will be Terry Beachy of the Grantsville branch of Garrett College.

All those interested in the Grantsville business community are invited to attend.

Lowe's Helping Local Habitat For Humanity

Demonstrating its commitment to Habitat for Humanity, Lowe's home improvement store in LaVale is participating in "Homes for the Holidays," which provides local customers the opportunity to help with Habitat's work in Garrett County.

Between Nov. 7 and Dec. 12, Lowe's stores will have "Homes for the Holidays" displays at each checkout counter. Customers can make a donation in any amount to Habitat for Humanity, and the clerk will add the donation to the customer's receipt. Lowe's will collect the gifts and forward them to Habitat for Humanity International, which will distribute 50 percent of total donations from each store with the Habitat affiliate whose service area includes the store.

"Lowe's commitment to Habitat and community has been tremendous," said Doug Riley, spokesperson for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. "Over the years, Lowe's has provided volunteers, materials, and support of every kind for our work here in Garrett County. This project will help us not only build more houses and help more families here, but around the world where Habitat works."

Habitat for Humanity has built 48 homes in Garrett County since 1983. Partner families are selected based upon need, their willingness to partner, and their ability to repay a no-profit, no-interest mortgage. Partner families are also required to invest sweat equity into their homes – that means they have to work to help build their homes or others' homes, or perform other work with the affiliate to earn sweat equity hours.

Lowe's is the national underwriter of Habitat for Humanity International's Women Build program. The program encourages and empowers women to get involved in a supportive environment – in the construction of Habitat houses. Women crews have built more than 350 Habitat houses in the United States, and the number continues to grow, Riley noted.

The Fortune 500 company has also been involved in other Habitat projects. In 2004, Lowe's contributed more than $2 million to Habitat for Humanity through cash and in-kind donations as well as hundreds of hours of local employee volunteerism, according to Riley.

Lowe's was also the co-premier sponsor of Habitat's 2003 Jimmy Carter Work Project, which built 92 homes in one week, and will be a premier sponsor for the June 2005 Carter work project, which will build more than 200 homes across the state in a week.

Donations to Habitat may be tax deductible, and receipts will be a documentation of a charitable contribution.

For more information, persons may call Riley at 301-533-0600 or e-mail him at driley@garrettcac.org.

New Horizons Program Seeks Participants

The New Horizons Program of Garrett College, which helps eligible persons access job skills training, is seeking new participants. "Our goal is to help participants become more able to provide for their families, and become self-sufficient," a spokesperson said.

The following persons are eligible for the New Horizons program:

•Single parents, including single, pregnant women.

•Individuals from economically disadvantaged families, including foster children.

•Individuals preparing for non-traditional training and employment.

•Individuals with barriers to educational achievement, including individuals with disabilities and individuals with limited English proficiency.

New Horizons offers counseling and support services including career exploration, goal setting, and development of the participant's own action plan after personal career assessment and evaluation. The program also makes available tuition and book funding assistance for credit Career Technology Education (CTE) classes at GC; child care and/or transportation assistance while attending CTE training; and referrals to community agencies for additional services.

New Horizons also offers assistance in obtaining a GED (Graduation Equivalency Diploma) and college financial aid. In addition, the program helps participants explore and develop vocational interests, and expand job options; identify work needs and marketable skills; investigate and evaluate occupations and training programs; and review employment options.

For information about the New Horizons program, or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays, or visit the New Horizons Office at Garrett College in Room 206 of the Continuing Education Building.

Extension Slates Healthy Holiday Dining Seminar

A food and nutrition seminar titled "Getting a Taste for a Light but Lavish Holiday" is slated from 2 to 3 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 19, at the Grantsville Senior Center. The public awareness seminar is sponsored by the Maryland Cooperative Extension in coordination with Garrett College's Continuing Education and Training Division.

"Among the many pleasures of the holidays are foods and festivities of the season, although it can feel like one long eating marathon," said Terry Beachy, coordinator of the Grantsville Outreach Center. "This class responds to the growing need to learn more about maintaining a healthy diet during festive occasions. This class reviews the foundations of healthy nutrition practices to [help] enjoy the holidays without tipping the scales."

The seminar's topics will include modifying holiday recipes, food comparisons, and overindulgence. The program will be presented by Dr. Jennifer Thorn Bentlejewski, a registered dietitian and Educator with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension.

Although the seminar is offered free of charge, registration is required due to limited seating. For more information, or to register, persons may contact Beachy at 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Quilling Class Scheduled By Garrett College

A course in Quilling, the art of rolling thin strips of paper into different shapes and using the shapes to form designs, is slated over four consecutive Tuesdays, beginning Nov. 16, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at Garrett College.

"Quilling has been around since the Renaissance and is fun, easy, and relaxing," said class instructor Ginni Neff. Participants will learn how to create ornaments, cards, jewelry, and picture frames.

For additional information, persons may contact Garrett's Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

"Living History" To Be Presented At 4-H Center

HISTORY WILL COME ALIVE on Friday, Nov. 19, and Saturday, Nov. 20, at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, located 10 miles south of Grantsville along Rt. 495. A Living History Program at the center will recognize the 251st commemoration of Col. George Washington's first expedition on the Nemacolin Trail and his encampment in Garrett County. Featured will be a trading post with artifacts, re-enactors, authentic colonial cooking, demonstrations, and speakers in period dress. See story for details. Pictured are Austin Meschach Browning and local historian Bob Bantz, who will guide a group of students as they hike the trail. Photo courtesy of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Next weekend area residents and 170 students from Garrett County schools will have a chance to feel what life was like in the 1750s when then Colonel George Washington traveled through Garrett County.

"The French threatened, and George Washington came to Garrett County and went beyond to meet them head on!" said Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross.

The Living History Program will recognize the 251st commemoration of Colonel George Washington's first expedition on the Nemacolin Trail and his encampment in Garrett County as he marched to destiny in the French and Indian War. The Nemacolin later became Braddock's Trail and then the National Road.

Set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 19 and 20 at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, located 10 miles south of Grantsville along Route 495, the encampment will include a trading post of artifacts. Visitors can speak with historical characters in period dress (Indians and frontiersmen), view movies, taste authentic colonial cooking, and take a hike on the actual Braddock Trail.

On Friday, programs for school students, educators, and others interested will start at 9:30 a.m. with the opening of the Trading Post at the 4-H Recreation Center.

Students will have a tour of the encampment. Then historical columnist and lecturer Robert Adamovich, who portrays a maker of maps of the colonial frontier, will present himself in period correct attire to set the mood for the exploration of historical events in the time of the French and Indian War, particularly reviewing the events of 1753.

Another group of students will hike the Braddock Trail with local historian Bob Bantz. They can plot its course on maps provided by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

At 11:30 a.m. participants can sample a frontier lunch, heated over an open fire. Then at noon, the groups will reverse, with the second group going to hike the Braddock Trail. Briefing at the Trading Post will include an introduction by Adamovich.

Most school students will be leaving by 2 p.m., but the encampment will remain open until 4 p.m. Visitors will have a chance to examine artifacts and ask questions of historical figures.

The Trading Post opens again at 10 a.m. on Saturday. Orientation will be given by Ryan Cuba. Morning presentations will center on the time period of 1753 and food on the frontier.

The Trading Post will be staffed by a Maryland provincial soldier of the French and Indian War, a member of Dagworthy's Company of the Maryland Forces, a trader, a merchant, and a fur trader for the Ohio Company located at Wills Creek.

A frontier lunch begins at noon, and at 1 p.m. visitors can hear a briefing about the trail.

Then at 2 p.m., Adamovich will review events of 1754 and give a preview of 1755. Visitors can take part in a trail hike at 3:30 p.m.

They will also learn about life as an Indian on the frontier by Native American re-enactors "Ghost in the Head" and "Tenderfoot." Activities at the encampment include fire, tomahawk, and musket demonstrations.

More information is available at garrettchamber.com or by calling the chamber office at 301-387-4386.

Register Of Wills Piloting Evening Hours In Towns

The Garrett County Register of Wills office has unveiled a trial program designed to make its services more accessible by offering selected evening office hours in towns throughout the county. The register of wills administers the probate of estates and the activities of the Orphans' Court, and accepts wills for safekeeping.

The first evening program is slated from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the Grantsville town hall. "We hope to hold similar office hours in other areas of the county on a weekly or biweekly basis," said Rita Watson, chief deputy register of wills. Watson, who created the program along with her supervisor, Register of Wills Joe DiSimone, added that although the offerings are primarily designed for older persons who might have difficulty with transportation to and from Oakland, the evening sessions are open to all in need of assistance.

Watson will be available at the Grantsville session to answer questions and distribute literature concerning the functions and operations of estate administration, including sample wills. She will also be accepting filings and other information, and will respond by telephone the following day.

"Anyone wishing to discuss any matter related to an estate currently open in the Register of Wills office should call prior to Tuesday evening so that we can bring the estate file to the session," Watson said. The number is 301-334-1999.

Watson also noted that the staff is working on a plan to offer evening hours at the Register of Wills office, located in the Garrett County Courthouse in Oakland, for the convenience of those who cannot visit during regular business hours. "This will require the cooperation of county authorities," she pointed out.

"We would like to thank Grantsville mayor Gerald Beachy and the Grantsville Town Council for their cooperation in providing town facilities for the first program," said Wilson, who is volunteering her time for the evening offerings.

Planning Meeting Slated For 2005 Relay For Life

The first planning committee meeting for the 2005 American Cancer Society Relay For Life is slated from 6 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company hall in McHenry. The meeting is open to all interested persons.

For further information, persons may call Donna Broadwater at 301-334-6307.

CHECKER AUTO PARTS 500 REVIEW

The CHASE heats up

Win by Little E tightens battle for championship

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

He swore he'd never cuss again in jubilation.

So that made the most difficult part of Dale Earnhardt's day in the Checker Auto Parts 500 the post-race celebration.

He was oh-so polite and careful.

"I was really scared that I might slip up because I have a lot of bad words in my vocabulary," Earnhardt Jr. said after beating Ryan Newman to the wire in a two-lap shootout.

"So I'll always, from here on out, be nervous about that. It's just a mistake."

His crew chief, Tony Eury Sr., came up to him before he got out of the No. 8 Chevrolet at Phoenix International Raceway and reminded him "now, don't cuss."

The last time Junior won a Nextel Cup race, five weeks ago at Talladega, he answered a question with a four-letter word and got fined money and, more importantly, 25 points by the NASCAR censors.

He's been playing catch-up ever since in the Chase for the Championship. Sunday's win put Earnhardt Jr. back in third place, up from fifth, 47 points behind leader Kurt Busch.

"I was glad [Tony] reminded me because you get excited," Earnhardt Jr. said. "Yeah, I will be worried. It's hard even when you're trying not to."

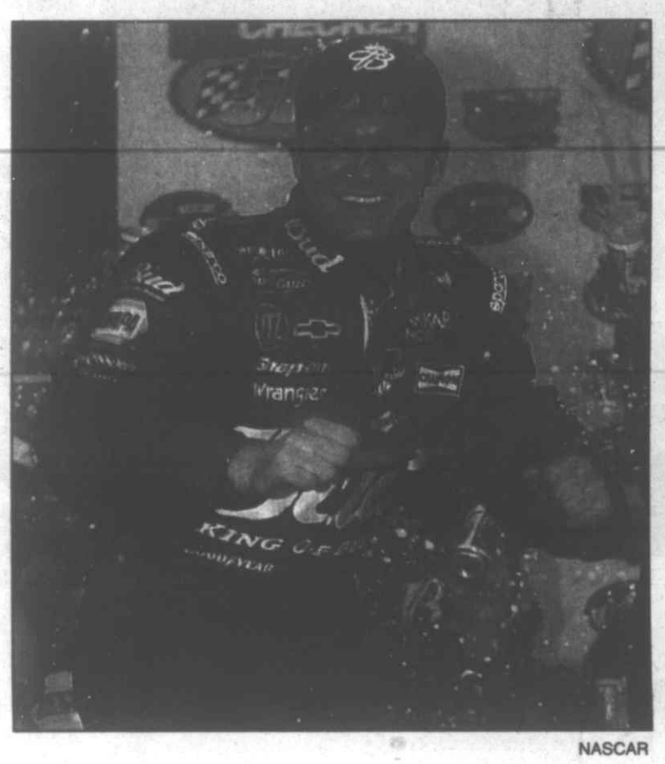
But he declared that he isn't even thinking about what the slip of the tongue may eventually cost him. Even with the 25 points NASCAR took away, Junior would still not be in the championship lead.

"Well, being in second still ain't first," he said. "So it doesn't really matter."

He's also quite aware of what potentially losing the title by less than 25 points would mean.

"It would be great exposure for my team and my sponsor if we do lose the championship — and we are trying our best to lose it by less than 25 points," Earnhardt Jr. teased. "That will give us all kinds of exposure throughout the winter, probably more than winning the championship.

"We all have our secret agendas."



NASCAR

Dale Earnhardt Jr. celebrates with his crew in Victory Lane Sunday after winning the Checker Auto Parts 500 at Phoenix International Raceway.

Any cussing Earnhardt Jr. might have verbalized Sunday would have occurred with 30 laps remaining. He was running third on old tires and the rest of his competitors pitted. Eury Jr. told him to stay out on the track, through some animated dialogue.

"Obviously, I wasn't convinced," Junior said.

"The thing about being in the pit box and being on top of that box is that you can see a lot more than the driver can see, and even how good the race car is. We argued and carried on, but that's the way we ought to do it because we had a lot of success."

The race finished under NASCAR's green-white flag rule for the second time this season after a lengthy cleanup of oil deposited on the track by Casey Mears' No. 41 Dodge. It blew a tire and hit the wall. Two red-flag periods, for rain and the late wreck, totalled more than 32 minutes and extended the race telecast on NBC.

RACE STATISTICS

Time of race: 3 hours, 19 minutes, 16 seconds
Margin of victory: 1.431 seconds
Winner's average speed: 94.848 mph
Caution flags: 11 for 63 laps
Lead changes: 10 among seven drivers

NOTEBOOK

Busch feeling good about title chances

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

Front-runner Kurt Busch is two races away from the Nextel Cup championship and he's feeling pretty confident.

Of course, overcoming the assorted problems his No. 97 Ford encountered Sunday — running out of gas, falling a lap down, getting bumped by Ryan Newman — and yet rallying for a 10th-place finish had him in a positive mind heading to Darlington.

His points lead, however, dropped from 59 to 41 over Jeff Gordon.

"We're in the best position to continue to move forward," Busch said.

"[The competition] has to reach out and gain positions and take advantage of other people sliding around on the track, and put their cars in awkward positions," Busch said.

"For us, next week is a perfect race track to go to to alleviate that type of problem, where you don't have to worry about the competition.

"It's a big picture day," he added. "The 8 [Dale Earnhardt Jr.] did win, the 24 [Gordon] did well, but we still have the lead. Now we've only got two races to go."

Forgetting about Atlanta

Sunday was a day of redemption for Dale Earnhardt Jr., a week after Junior blew a potential top-three finish by trying to squeeze past Carl Edwards in the closing laps at Atlanta, but wrecking and ending up 33rd.

"It's a relief to come back and win after a bad race week, but it's what you want," he said. "Last week will still bother me. I made a personal error that cost us a lot of points. It's not a habit I want to continue or anything."

Elliott lands sponsor

Bill Elliott's 2005 Nextel Cup schedule in the No. 91 Evernham Dodge is up to six races.

A Texas-based auto parts firm, Auto Value/Bumper to Bumper, will sponsor the car at Michigan in August and at Texas in November.

"Bill's friendly and humble personality resonates with our customers and fans of all ages," Auto Value Chief Executive Officer Richard Morgan said.

Elliott is in the first year of semi-retirement. He finished 22nd at Atlanta Motor Speedway on Oct. 31, his sixth race this year.

Relationship gets a little bumpy

Harvick confronts Kahne immediately after race

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

Some sparks flew between rookie Kasey Kahne and Kevin Harvick at the conclusion of Sunday's Checker Auto Parts 500.

Harvick climbed out of his No. 29 Chevrolet and leaned into Kahne's car, the No. 9 Dodge, for an up close and personal exchange after the two cars made contact throughout the day.

"He started running into us after the last caution so I thought I'd get out and ask him what he was doing," Harvick said. "It's one thing to race these things under green, but it's another thing to wreck them under caution. We're not the ones that have to fix them."

"It wasn't quite as big of a deal as it turned out to be," Kahne said, acknowledging the TV cameras poised to capture a fight.

"We were on sticker [new] tires and we were trying to pass up through there," Kahne said. "I was on the outside of him and he pushed me up a couple times down in turns three and four. And then the race was over. When we went down in Turn 1, I rubbed him a little bit, just gave him a peace [sign], just a normal after-the-race thing and he just started blasting me."

"[Harvick's] a little high-strung today," said Jeff Gordon, who also felt contact from Harvick's car early in the race.

Kahne said he and Harvick had a lot of contact in Saturday's Busch race.

"We were all kind of bumping out there," Kahne said. "He was laughing and we were all having fun with it. It was kind of the same thing today. He pushed me all over the track. I didn't ever get close to him, pushing him around. So I don't know why he was so mad."

Kevin Harvick (29) races hard against Jeff Gordon during Sunday's Checker Auto Parts 500.

McMurray holds on to win Busch race

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

Jamie McMurray held off Kyle Busch to win the Busch Series race at Phoenix International Raceway on Saturday.

They swapped the lead twice in the final 27 laps. But McMurray used a surprising outside pass on a restart 10 laps from the scheduled finish to grab the lead from Busch for the final time in the Bashas' Supermarket 200.

McMURRAY

Busch, who led 151 of the first 190 laps, got a last chance to get back past McMurray's Dodge after Shane Hmiel and Kevin Harvick collided, igniting a multicar crash with four laps to go in regulation.

Without time to restart the race before Lap 200, NASCAR finished with a green-white-checker, two-lap overtime that began on Lap 204. But McMurray, who led four times for 47 of the 205 laps on the one-mile oval, easily held off the rookie.

Busch, who finished second to Matt Kenseth in the previous race at Atlanta, was again determined to win the race in memory of the 10 people killed in the Oct. 24 crash of a Hendrick Motorsports plane.

When he came up short, the 19-year-old younger brother of Nextel Cup leader Kurt Busch was angry with himself and frustrated.

"It's been extremely difficult," the downcast Busch said. "Obviously, Mr. (Rick) Hendrick gives us the equipment to win every week. I don't see why I couldn't have won this one or the last one."

"Living History" To Be Presented At 4-H Center

Next weekend area residents and 170 students from Garrett County schools will have a chance to feel what life was like in the 1750s when then Colonel George Washington traveled through Garrett County.

"The French threatened, and George Washington came to Garrett County and went beyond to meet them head on!" said Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross.

The Living History Program will recognize the 251st commemoration of Colonel George Washington's first expedition on the Nemacolin Trail and his encampment in Garrett County as he marched to destiny in the French and Indian War. The Nemacolin later became Braddock's Trail and then the National Road.

Set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 19 and 20 at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, located 10 miles south of Grantsville along Route 495, the encampment will include a trading post of artifacts. Visitors can speak with historical characters in period dress (Indians and frontiersmen), view movies, taste authentic colonial cooking, and take a hike on the actual Braddock Trail.

On Friday, programs for school students, educators, and others interested will start at 9:30 a.m. with the opening of the Trading Post at the 4-H Recreation Center.

Students will have a tour of the encampment. Then historical columnist and lecturer Robert Adamovich, who portrays a maker of maps of the colonial frontier, will present himself in period correct attire to set the mood for the explanation of historical events in the time of the French and Indian War, particularly reviewing the events of 1753.

Another group of students will hike the Braddock Trail with local historian Bob Bantz. They can plot its course on maps provided by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

At 11:30 a.m. participants can sample a frontier lunch, heated over an open fire. Then at noon, the groups will reverse, with the second group going to hike the Braddock Trail. Briefing at the Trading Post will include an introduction by Adamovich.

Most school students will be leaving by 2 p.m., but the encampment will remain open until 4 p.m. Visitors will have a chance to examine artifacts and ask questions of historical figures.

The Trading Post opens again at 10 a.m. on Saturday. Orientation will be given by Ryan Cuba. Morning presentations will center on the time period of 1753 and food on the frontier.

The Trading Post will be staffed by a Maryland provincial soldier of the French and Indian War, a member of Dagworthy's Company of the Maryland Forces, a trader, a merchant, and a fur trader for the Ohio Company located at Wills Creek.

A frontier lunch begins at noon, and at 1 p.m. visitors can hear a briefing about the trail.

Then at 2 p.m., Adamovich will review events of 1754 and give a preview of 1755. Visitors can take part in a trail hike at 3:30 p.m.

They will also learn about life as an Indian on the frontier by Native American re-enactors "Ghost in the Head" and "Tenderfoot." Activities at the encampment include fire, tomahawk, and musket demonstrations.

More information is available at garrettchamber.com or by calling the chamber office at 301-387-4386.

HISTORY WILL COME ALIVE on Friday, Nov. 19, and Saturday, Nov. 20, at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, located 10 miles south of Grantsville along Rt. 495. A Living History Program at the center will recognize the 251st commemoration of Col. George Washington's first expedition on the Nemacolin Trail and his encampment in Garrett County. Featured will be a trading post with artifacts, re-enactors, authentic colonial cooking, demonstrations, and speakers in period dress. See story for details. Pictured are Austin Meschach Browning and local historian Bob Bantz, who will guide a group of students as they hike the trail. Photo courtesy of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Register Of Wills Piloting Evening Hours In Towns

The Garrett County Register of Wills office has unveiled a trial program designed to make its services more accessible by offering selected evening office hours in towns throughout the county. The register of wills administers the probate of estates and the activities of the Orphans' Court, and accepts wills for safekeeping.

The first evening program is slated from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the Grantsville town hall. "We hope to hold similar office hours in other areas of the county on a weekly or biweekly basis," said Rita Watson, chief deputy register of wills. Watson, who created the program along with her supervisor, Register of Wills Joe DiSimone, added that although the offerings are primarily designed for older persons who might have difficulty with transportation to and from Oakland, the evening sessions are open to all in need of assistance.

Watson will be available at the Grantsville session to answer questions and distribute literature concerning the functions and operations of estate administration, including sample wills. She will also be accepting filings and other information, and will respond by telephone the following day.

"Anyone wishing to discuss any matter related to an estate currently open in the Register of Wills office should call prior to Tuesday evening so that we can bring the estate file to the session," Watson said. The number is 301-334-1999.

Watson also noted that the staff is working on a plan to offer evening hours at the Register of Wills office, located in the Garrett County Courthouse in Oakland, for the convenience of those who cannot visit during regular business hours. "This will require the cooperation of county authorities," she pointed out.

"We would like to thank Grantsville mayor Gerald Beachy and the Grantsville Town Council for their cooperation in providing town facilities for the first program," said Wilson, who is volunteering her time for the evening offerings.

Planning Meeting Slated For 2005 Relay For Life

The first planning committee meeting for the 2005 American Cancer Society Relay For Life is slated from 6 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company hall in McHenry. The meeting is open to all interested persons.

For further information, persons may call Donna Broadwater at 301-334-6307.

"I was really scared that I might slip up because I have a lot of bad words in my vocabulary," Earnhardt Jr. said after beating Ryan Newman to the wire in a two-lap shootout.

"So I'll always, from here on out, be nervous about that. It's just a mistake."

His crew chief, Tony Eury Sr., came up to him before he got out of the No. 8 Chevrolet at Phoenix International Raceway and reminded him "now, don't cuss."

The last time Junior won a Nextel Cup race, five weeks ago at Talladega, he answered a question with a four-letter word and got fined money and, more importantly, 25 points by the NASCAR censors.

He's been playing catch-up ever since in the Chase for the Championship. Sunday's win put Earnhardt Jr. back in third place, up from fifth, 47 points behind leader Kurt Busch.

"I was glad [Tony] reminded me because you get excited," Earnhardt Jr. said. "Yeah, I will be worried. It's hard even when you're trying not to."

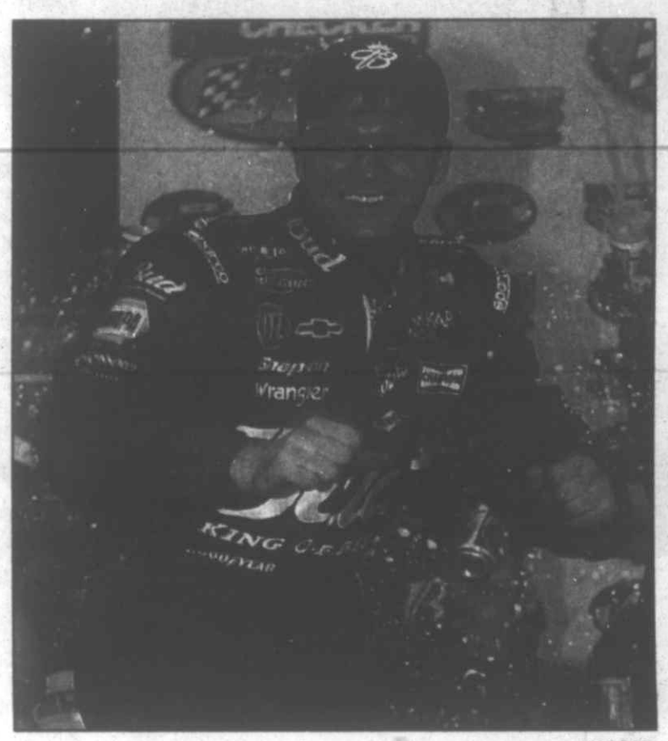
But he declared that he isn't even thinking about what the slip of the tongue may eventually cost him. Even with the 25 points NASCAR took away, Junior would still not be in the championship lead.

"Well, being in second still ain't first," he said. "So it doesn't really matter."

He's also quite aware of what potentially losing the title by less than 25 points would mean.

"It would be great exposure for my team and my sponsor if we do lose the championship — and we are trying our best to lose it by less than 25 points," Earnhardt Jr. teased. "That will give us all kinds of exposure throughout the winter, probably more than winning the championship.

"We all have our secret agendas."



NASCAR

Dale Earnhardt Jr. celebrates with his crew in Victory Lane Sunday after winning the Checker Auto Parts 500 at Phoenix International Raceway.

Any cussing Earnhardt Jr. might have verbalized Sunday would have occurred with 30 laps remaining. He was running third on old tires and the rest of his competitors pitted. Eury Jr. told him to stay out on the track, through some animated dialogue.

"Obviously, I wasn't convinced," Junior said.

"The thing about being in the pit box and being on top of that box is that you can see a lot more than the driver can see, and even how good the race car is. We argued and carried on, but that's the way we ought to do it because we had a lot of success."

The race finished under NASCAR's green-white flag rule for the second time this season after a lengthy cleanup of oil deposited on the track by Casey Mears' No. 41 Dodge. It blew a tire and hit the wall. Two red-flag periods, for rain and the late wreck, totalled more than 32 minutes and extended the race telecast on NBC.

NOTEBOOK

Busch feeling good about title chances

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

Front-runner Kurt Busch is two races away from the Nextel Cup championship and he's feeling pretty confident.

Of course, overcoming the assorted problems his No. 97 Ford encountered Sunday — running out of gas, falling a lap down, getting bumped by Ryan Newman — and yet rallying for a 10th-place finish had him in a positive mind heading to Darlington.

His points lead, however, dropped from 59 to 41 over Jeff Gordon.

"We're in the best position to continue to move forward," Busch said.

"[The competition] has to reach out and gain positions and take advantage of other people sliding around on the track, and put their cars in awkward positions," Busch said.

"For us, next week is a perfect race track to go to to alleviate that type of problem, where you don't have to worry about the competition.

"It's a big picture day," he added. "The 8 [Dale Earnhardt Jr.] did win, the 24 [Gordon] did well, but we still have the lead. Now we've only got two races to go."

Forgetting about Atlanta

Sunday was a day of redemption for Dale Earnhardt Jr., a week after Junior blew a potential top-three finish by trying to squeeze past Carl Edwards in the closing laps at Atlanta, but wrecking and ending up 33rd.

"It's a relief to come back and win after a bad race week, but it's what you want," he said. "Last week will still bother me. I made a personal error that cost us a lot of points. It's not a habit I want to continue or anything."

Elliott lands sponsor

Bill Elliott's 2005 Nextel Cup schedule in the No. 91 Evernham Dodge is up to six races.

A Texas-based auto parts firm, Auto Value/Bumper to Bumper, will sponsor the car at Michigan in August and at Texas in November.

"Bill's friendly and humble personality resonates with our customers and fans of all ages," Auto Value Chief Executive Officer Richard Morgan said.

Elliott is in the first year of semi-retirement. He finished 22nd at Atlanta Motor Speedway on Oct. 31, his sixth race this year.

McMurray holds on to win Busch race

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

Jamie McMurray held off Kyle Busch to win the Busch Series race at Phoenix International Raceway on Saturday.

They swapped the lead twice in the final 27 laps. But McMurray used a surprising outside pass on a restart 10 laps from the scheduled finish to grab the lead from Busch for the final time in the Bashas' Supermarket 200.

McMURRAY

Busch, who led 151 of the first 190 laps, got a last chance to get back past McMurray's Dodge after Shane Hmiel and Kevin Harvick collided, igniting a multicar crash with four laps to go in regulation.

Without time to restart the race before Lap 200, NASCAR finished with a green-white-checker, two-lap overtime that began on Lap 204. But McMurray, who led four times for 47 of the 205 laps on the one-mile oval, easily held off the rookie.

Busch, who finished second to Matt Kenseth in the previous race at Atlanta, was again determined to win the race in memory of the 10 people killed in the Oct. 24 crash of a Hendrick Motorsports plane.

When he came up short, the 19-year-old younger brother of Nextel Cup leader Kurt Busch was angry with himself and frustrated.

"It's been extremely difficult," the downcast Busch said. "Obviously, Mr. (Rick) Hendrick gives us the equipment to win every week. I don't see why I couldn't have won this one or the last one."

Relationship gets a little bumpy

Harvick confronts Kahne immediately after race

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Avondale, Ariz.

Some sparks flew between rookie Kasey Kahne and Kevin Harvick at the conclusion of Sunday's Checker Auto Parts 500.

Harvick climbed out of his No. 29 Chevrolet and leaned into Kahne's car, the No. 9 Dodge, for an up close and personal exchange after the two cars made contact throughout the day.

"He started running into us after the last caution so I thought I'd get out and ask him what he was doing," Harvick said. "It's one thing to race these things under green, but it's another thing to wreck them under caution. We're not the ones that have to fix them."

"It wasn't quite as big of a deal as it turned out to be," Kahne said, acknowledging the TV cameras poised to capture a fight.

"We were on sticker [new] tires and we were trying to pass up through there," Kahne said. "I was on the outside of him and he pushed me up a couple times down in turns three and four. And then the race was over. When we went down in Turn 1, I rubbed him a little bit, just gave him a peace [sign], just a normal after-the-race thing and he just started blasting me."

"[Harvick's] a little high-strung today," said Jeff Gordon, who also felt contact from Harvick's car early in the race.

Kahne said he and Harvick had a lot of contact in Saturday's Busch race.

"We were all kind of bumping out there," Kahne said. "He was laughing and we were all having fun with it. It was kind of the same thing today. He pushed me all over the track. I didn't ever get close to him, pushing him around. So I don't know why he was so mad."

Mtn. Lake Park Offers "Colorful" Youth Activities

by Lois Dever

The Mountain Lake Park Youth Activities Committee (MLP-YAC) recently held an intergenerational event. The group had participants, ranging from 4 to 76 years of age, side by side doing colorful stained glass painting. Mtn. Lake Park stained glass artist Louis DiCarlo added to the evening by giving a presentation on how to cut glass.

"I liked the stained glass painting," said Ellie Lauver, a youth participant.

"It made me feel like a little girl again!" exclaimed Chris Hinkle, an adult participant.

Although they had fun that evening, the committee members would have liked to see many more participants involved.

"I am very concerned about the lack of participation among the Mountain Lake Park youth and their families," said Gail Dever, the liaison between the Garrett County Health Department and the MLP-YAC.

"I want to encourage families that have children in Mountain Lake Park to come and get involved with these activities," said Mayor Leo Martin. "I appreciate all of the volunteers who help with the community, especially Gail Dever and Louis DiCarlo."

"It would be nice to have more parents and children get involved," said Phil Lauver, the group's treasurer.

"I am looking forward to having more kids and their families join the group," added Suzanne Johnson, secretary.

"The committee meets monthly to plan events that we think will be interesting and fun for the youth," said Dever.

"The programs are very educational," said Samantha Johnson, a 10-year-old participant.

Following the stained class painting, Dever gave a tobacco prevention presentation. She did an activity with straws to demonstrate how smokers and people with emphysema breathe. She talked about the Great American Smoke-Out, to be held on Nov. 18.

Those who fill out pledge cards and do not smoke on that day will receive free turkeys. Dever noted, though, that this was only for persons attending community planning group events.

She also talked to the participants about developmental assets that are within the community. She went around the room and had people pick an "asset balloon" that was in her hand. Each balloon had a question written on it, which the participant had to answer and share a personal example.

"I thought it was going to be boring, but I am really enjoying it," said Theresa Phillips, wife of the Apostolic Church's pastor.

The church has offered the MLP-YAC use of its Sanders Hall, located in Mtn. Lake Park on the corner of G Street and Route 135.

"The YAC Group would like to thank the Apostolic Church for offering its facilities for our events until we can find a more suitable building," said Dever.

The MLP-YAC's next planning meeting will be Nov. 16 at 11 a.m. at the Garrett County Health Department in Room 202.

For more information, persons may call Dever at 301-334-7730.

Volunteers Sought To Deliver Meals On Thanksgiving

The Area Agency on Aging is recruiting volunteers to prepare and deliver Thanksgiving dinners to homebound elderly persons in Garrett County.

Volunteers package a dinner from their own Thanksgiving table and deliver it to a frail senior who lives nearby and is alone and/or unable to prepare a nutritious meal on Thanksgiving Day.

The agency will identify the clients who could benefit from the delivery of a meal on Thanksgiving.

"The packaging and delivery of a meal or two takes so little of a person's time, and previous volunteers have commented on the pleasure they receive when they see the face of the elderly person light up when the meal is delivered," an agency spokesperson said.

Persons interested in volunteering may call the agency at 301-334-9431 or toll free 888-877-8403.

'CSI: NY' actor starred in 'Glory Days'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Eddie Cahill

Q: What was the name of the short-lived WB series that starred Eddie Cahill ("CSI: New York") and Poppy Montgomery ("Without a Trace")? The show tanked, but my wife and I really enjoyed it. – Pete Todd, Alliance, Ohio.

A: So did a lot of us. "Glory Days," which ran for two months in 2002, was an offbeat, provocative series starring Cahill as Mike Dolan, a young writer who wrote a best-selling mystery novel loosely based on his father's "accidental" death years earlier.

Plagued by writer's block, Mike returned to Glory Island, his hometown near Seattle, where he tried to re-establish personal ties with the locals, many of whom were upset (for various reasons) by his book. Montgomery played Ellie Sparks, the local coroner and forensics expert who helped Mike and his old friend Rudy Dunlop (Jay R. Ferguson, "Evening Shade"), now the sheriff, solve eerie crimes.

"Glory Days" had a lot of potential and deserved a chance to expand its audience. Here's hoping someone eventually releases on DVD all the episodes that were filmed.

Q: What can you tell me about the actor who plays Ty Davis on "Third Watch"? –M.U., Baltimore.

A: The son of Broadway performer Michel Bell ("Show Boat"), Coby Bell, 29, made his acting debut as Baby Bear in a kindergarten production of "Goldilocks and the Three Bears."

A native of Orange County, Calif., Bell's first TV role was a 1997 guest appearance on "ER," but guest roles on "Buffy the Vampire Slayer," "Players," "Smart Guy" and "The Parent 'Hood" quickly followed.

Bell made his TV series debut in the short-lived 1998-99 medical drama "L.A. Doctors" shortly before he joined "Third Watch." Since then, Bell also has appeared in a play, "Safe," directed and co-written by "Watch" castmate Anthony Ruivivar.

An honors graduate of San Jose State University, Bell now lives in New York with his wife and twin daughters.

Q: Will the sitcom "Yes, Dear" with Anthony Clark and Mike O'Malley be returning to CBS? –Kathy Lannigan, Plymouth, Mass.

A: Yes, but as a midseason replacement. In the face of slumping ratings, CBS opted not to give a full-season pickup to the sitcom, which will return to the schedule in early 2005.

HONORED AT SHS IN OCTOBER – Students of the Month for October were recently honored at Southern High School. Seated left to right are Jennifer Steyer, David Wall, and Amber Winans. Standing are October Ram Business Partner Ernie Gregg (county commissioner) of Gregg's Pharmacy, Emma Ringer, Shane Friend, and Principal Tom Woods. See story.

OAKLAND ROTARY DONATES TO SHS BEST BUDDIES – The Oakland Rotary recently donated $350 to Southern High School's Best Buddies program. The Best Buddies program couples students with special needs with other students in the school to assist them through mentoring. The Best Buddies group often is involved in activities ranging from bowling outings to special events like pumpkin carving for Halloween. The Best Buddies students meet during mini-period three times per week and assist special needs students with homework. Most recently the Southern Best Buddies program has been named the most outstanding chapter in western Maryland. In the front, from the left, are teaching assistant Debra Friend, buddy Deborah Petersheim, teacher Heather Raybold, peer buddy Shawn Kent, and buddy Mel Smith. In the back are teacher Steve Plum, peer buddy Jimmy Hinebaugh, teacher Brooks Elliot, teacher Susie Henline, teaching assistant Irene Thomas, and Principal Tom Woods.

SHS School Improvement Meeting Slated

The School Improvement Team at Southern Garrett High School will meet Monday, Nov. 15, at 3:30 p.m., in the Media Center. The public is invited at attend.

The minutes from the previous meetings can be viewed online by accessing the SHS web site.

"Black Friday" Event Slated At Senior Center

The Grantsville Senior Center, 125 Durst Court, will host "Black Friday Frenzy" on Nov. 26, from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. A covered-dish luncheon will be offered during the event.

Participants will be instructed on how to create personalized gifts, explore different methods of shopping without having to leave home, comparison gift shopping, purchasing holiday gifts on a budget, and the basics of gift wrapping and gift presentation.

Participants must register by Wednesday, Nov. 24. Anyone interested in attending may call Leona Lavin, senior center operations director, at 301-895-5818 or 888-877-8403 for more information or to register.

SHS Students Of The Month Honored

The Students of the Month for October at Southern High School were recently recognized. They are Jennifer Steyer, CTE (career and technology education); David Wall, social studies; Emma Ringer, science; Shane Friend, English; Amber Winans, math; and Brittany Miller, marketing.

Steyer, a junior, is the daughter of Michael and Sue Steyer. In school, she is involved in FFA and is a member of the softball team. Steyer also works as a statistician for the volleyball team. Outside school, she is a member of various organizations such as the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club, the Garrett County Holstein Association, and the Livestock Association. She plans to attend veterinary school after high school.

Wall, a sophomore, is the son of David and Cindy Wall. He has received the United States National Achievement Academy award and plans to attend a culinary school or an information/technology college after high school.

Ringer, a sophomore, is the daughter of Dora Shahan. She is a member of the softball team and STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors). Some of her achievements include receiving a Success In School award and winning first place in the Elk Hoop Shoot contest for basketball. Ringer plans to attend West Virginia University to become an actress.

Friend, a junior, is the son of Donnie and Tammy Friend. He has received the Outstanding Community Youth award, and is involved in an organization called Young Marines Mountaineer Platoon. Friend has received a physical fitness ribbon, and honor recruit, salesmanship, and basic ribbons. He is a private first class and platoon sergeant. Friend plans to enter the Marine Corps following high school.

Winans, a junior, is the daughter of Sandra Whitacre. Currently, she is a member of the literary magazine staff and dean's list. On weekends, Winans volunteers at the Haley Farm. She plans to become an art therapist and/or psychologist.

Miller, a senior, is the daughter of Brenda and Butch Miller. She has achieved honor roll status and is currently enrolled in the marketing career pathway at Southern High. She also serves as a school store sales associate and an employee of Craig Ingram, attorney at law, through the Marketing School-to-Careers program. Miller has worked the past two summers for Saffiticker's Ice Cream Stand. Her future plans include attending Allegany College of Maryland to study dental hygiene.

St. Peter's Church To Hold RCIA Welcome, Social

The RCIA (Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults) Program of St. Peter the Apostle Church of Oakland and St. Peter at the Lake is currently forming the 2004-2005 class.

This program is developed to provide information to persons wanting more specific information about the Catholic faith. It is also the way adults are initiated into the Christian way of life, specifically in the Roman Catholic tradition.

The RCIA Program will begin with a welcome and social event on Sunday, Nov. 28. Those interested in this program are to meet after 9:30 a.m. Mass in the basement of St. Peter's Church in Oakland. The group will then go to the rectory for a casual 1½ hours of information, coffee, juice, and donuts.

No commitments are expected at this event. For more information, persons may call the church at 301-334-2202.

Veterans for Veterans

On Veterans' Day, we honor our veterans for the sacrifices they have made in the name of our freedom. We also remember their loss of time with growing families, as well as physical pain and loss for many. These veterans have also bonded to support each other and their families in positive ways.

Such groups as Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Marine Corps League, the American Legion, and numerous others, offer invaluable support and opportunities for their members and their loved ones.

Our government has provided a network of medical care devoted to the acute and ongoing physical and emotional needs of those who have served our country. Veterans, many of whom still suffer the ill effects of their injuries, regularly offer volunteer support and inspiration throughout these facilities. Though, in 1 Corinthians: 12: 25-26, Paul is speaking about the body of believers, our body of veterans share this connection as well... "that the members may have the same care for one another. If one member suffers, all suffer together; if one member is honored, all rejoice together." As we worship during this time of reflection, may we pray for our veteran's continued camaraderie and support. Have a blessed Veterans' Day.

Be Gracious With Humor

Anxiety in the heart of man causes depression, but a good word makes it glad.

New K.J.V. Proverb 12:25

A lighthearted approach to life and its problems is perhaps one of the best defenses against both depression and anxiety. Certainly, there are things in life that any prudent or sensitive person would not joke about; but, humor used with grace, and in moderation, has a way of making friends and turning away wrath while it disperses the clouds of doom and gloom. However, we should be extremely careful to avoid making others the object of our jokes. Teasing and joking at someone else's expense may make them feel like they are being ridiculed; and far from making friends, this is certain to create resentment and other ill feelings. So, we should use humor to keep things light, but avoid making fun of others. Sometimes the best approach is one that makes light of our own failings and weaknesses in a way that shows others that it is all right to make mistakes. As the Proverb says, "A soft answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger (Proverbs 15:1)."

So, we should use humor softly, graciously, and in moderation.

Mushroom Evaluated for Health Benefits

A supplement gaining in popularity is a mushroom called shii-take. Some research suggests that regular use of shiitake reduces blood levels of free cholesterol, triglycerides, and phospholipids. In studies where people ate 9 grams of shiitake mushrooms daily for seven days, total cholesterol decreased by as much as 10%. Persons who ate a high-fat diet plus 9 grams daily of shiitake experienced a cholesterol level compared to that seen with a low fat diet. The shiitake may have cancelled out the effect of the additional fat intake. However, significant side effects have been seen at doses as low as 4 grams daily.

Older studies suggest that the mushroom may also have antiviral properties, specifically against HIV or hepatitis B. Shiitake mushrooms contain a cancer-fighting compound called leninan, however it is present only in very low concentrations. Studies have explored its use in prostate cancer, but results have been disappointing. In 61 people with various stages of prostate cancer taking a shiitake extract for several months, no one achieved a complete treatment response.

Reading a Hamster's Body Language

Q. In a recent column, you said that a hamster that is afraid will roll onto its back and squeak. Do hamsters have any other behaviors that can tell their owners when they are happy or afraid? — Tyler M., Canton, Ohio

A. Hamsters have many different ways of communicating, both with humans and with other hamsters. Among their own kind, they transmit information using physical signals, scent glands and sound — specifically, the squeaks you hear from time to time. (In fact, many of their squeaks are ultrasonic, so you can't hear them at all.)

Since we, being much larger mammals, have a harder time noticing tiny paw movements and squeaks outside our normal range of hearing, it is important to notice several broader, common signs of distress or relaxation. Once you know these signs, you can observe your pet more closely to learn his or her unique way of communicating.

A happy hamster can often be seen burrowing through its clean litter, playing or looking for hidden treats. It will stretch lazily, groom or watch you with ears erect, showing a calm curiosity.

Suspicion is present when a hamster's ears are laid back, especially if it is watching you carefully. If the hamster suddenly empties its cheek pouches, it is feeling insecure and preparing to flee. A pet that creeps along the floor of the cage and hugs the walls is feeling very uncertain and frightened.

If your pet's ears are forward with cheek pouches puffed up, it's a signal that the hamster is frightened. If, when you reach into the cage, it stands on its back feet and looks like it's boxing, or if the hamster flops onto its back and shows its teeth, back off. A painful bite may be forthcoming.

Strange BUT TRUE

• The moon is 2,160 miles in diameter. If the moon were placed on the continent of North America, it would stretch from Cleveland to San Francisco. How one might accomplish that feat, however, is still a matter of debate.

• It may seem counterintuitive, but it's true: Sound travels through steel 15 times faster than it travels through air.

• Ralph G. Martin, who made the following observation, must have been involved in politics: "Handshaking is friendly until your hands bleed. Confetti looks festive until you spit out mouthfuls hurled directly into your face. A crush of screaming women is flattering until they tear your clothes."

• It seems that at some point, legislators in Chicago found it necessary to pass a law to prohibit anyone from eating in a building that is on fire.

• Most people have heard of the American Revolutionary War's Battle of Bunker Hill, but it's not often pointed out that the battle didn't actually take place at Bunker Hill — it was fought at Breed's Hill in Charlestown, Mass.

• Those who determine such things have calculated that if you took all the gold in the world and melted it together, it would fit in a block measuring 54 cubic feet.

• The largest animal that has ever existed is the blue whale — it's so large, in fact, that it can be difficult to picture its size even if you know that it can grow to nearly 100 feet long and weigh 125 tons. Try visualizing it this way: A blue whale of this size would weigh about as much as 23 elephants or 1,800 men.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Nov. 17, 1839, Italian composer Giuseppe Verdi's first opera, "Oberto, conte di San Bonifacio," debuts in Milan. The premiere was held at La Scala, Italy's most prestigious theater. Verdi would go on to compose such classic operas as "Rigoletto," "Il Trovatore," "La Traviata," "Aida" and "Otello."

• On Nov. 16, 1907, Indian Territory and Oklahoma Territory collectively enter the United States as Oklahoma, the 46th state. Oklahoma's name derives from the Choctaw Indian words okla, meaning "people," and humma, meaning "red."

• On Nov. 20, 1947, 21-year-old Princess Elizabeth, heir to the British throne, marries her distant cousin Philip Mountbatten in a lavish wedding ceremony at Westminster Abbey in London.

• On Nov. 15, 1956, Elvis Presley's first movie, "Love Me Tender," opens at the Paramount Theater in New York. The movie earned back its $1 million cost in just three days.

• On Nov. 19, 1969, Brazilian soccer great Pele scores his 1,000th professional goal, in a game against Vasco da Gama in Rio de Janeiro's Maracana stadium. Pele's illustrious career included three World Cup championships.

• On Nov. 18, 1978, People's Temple leader Jim Jones leads hundreds of his followers in a mass murder-suicide at their agricultural commune in remote northwestern Guyana. The final death toll was 913, including 276 children. The mass suicide came one day after U.S. Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., and his entourage were murdered after traveling to Jonestown to investigate the cult.

• On Nov. 21, 1990, the scandal-ridden career of Michael Milken, Wall Street's "junk-bond king," comes to an end as U.S. District Judge Kimba Wood sentences him to a 10-year prison term for various securities law infractions.

Royal Doulton

Q. I have a Royal Doulton figurine that was issued sometime prior to 1954. I would like to sell it. Any suggestions? — Delphine, Howell, Mich.

A. First some background, so heads up, class.

Royal Doulton began in 1815. The earliest wares produced in a small studio near Lambeth, England, were salt-glazed pitchers and bottles. The original partners were John Doulton and John Watts. In 1882 a second plant opened in Burslem, and soon much of its output was devoted to handsome figurines.

Factors determining the value of Royal Doulton pieces are age, color, detail and rarity.

Stan Worrey of Colonial House Antiques is an expert and collector of Royal Doulton figurines. His address is 182 Front Street, Berea, OH 44017.

Q. I have a set of Rogers silverware that I purchased more than 50 years ago. Who can I contact to sell it? — M.E.M., Port Orange, Fla.

A. Rod Tinkler of the Silver Vault buys, sells and trades American, English and Continental silver. His address is P.O. Box 911, Woodstock, IL 60098.

For a second opinion, contact Beverly Bremer, 3164 Peachtree Road NE, Atlanta, GA 30305.

Earns Audiology Doctoral Degree

Oakland audiologist Jana Brown recently completed requirements for the doctor of audiology degree, and will be awarded her Ph.D. degree during March commencement ceremonies at the A.T. Still University and the Arizona School of Health Sciences, located in Mesa, Ariz. The university will confer 160 doctor of audiology degrees at the ceremony.

Professional audiologists, or doctors of audiology, are educated in the science and management of disorders of hearing and balance. Graduates are prepared to handle the extensive scope of audiologic care including the diagnosis and management of auditory and/or vestibular system deficits for all ages, tinnitus management, hearing conservation, and neuro-audiologic examination, as well as the management and business aspects of audiology.

Brown is a doctor of audiology practitioner at Allegany Hearing and Balance, which maintains offices in Oakland and Cumberland. The Preston County native graduated from Kingwood High School. She attended West Virginia University, where she earned a bachelor of science degree in speech pathology and audiology, and a master of science degree in audiology.

Brown resides in Oakland with her husband, Harold Harsh.

Oak Park Church Slates "Jews For Jesus" Program

Stephen Katz, songwriter and leader of the Washington, D.C., branch of Jews for Jesus, will speak at the Sunday, Nov. 14, 8:15 and 10:30 a.m. services of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. The services are open to the public, and question-and-answer sessions will follow Katz's presentations.

Jews for Jesus is an international organization that promotes Jesus as the Jewish messiah. Members consider themselves both fully Jewish and fully Christian.

A native of Highland Park, Ill., a largely Jewish suburb of Chicago, Katz was reared in a traditional Jewish home as a member of a conservative synagogue.

After writing a college research paper on why the Jews at the time of Jesus didn't think he was the messiah, Katz began to question Jewish teachings that denied Jesus' divinity. Katz eventually earned bachelor's and master's degrees in social work, and also lived in Israel for a year, where he became conversational in Hebrew.

Katz returned to the United States and joined Jews for Jesus. He currently serves as the organization's deputy commissioner, and as a member of its nine-member strategy planning committee. In 1997, he earned a master of arts degree in missiology from the Fuller Theological Seminary.

Katz has held leadership roles in two summer witnessing campaigns, and wrote literature that was distributed during those campaigns. He has also written for Issues, a bi-monthly publication the group mails to approximately 35,000 Jewish people who are interested in a messianic viewpoint.

For further information on the presentation at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2243.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

Compass Magnets

Q. What makes a compass needle point north?

A: The key to grasping how a compass works is to understand that every magnet has a magnetic field surrounding it. There are lines that the magnetic field follows. Every such line is a closed loop, although not a circle. In general, if two magnets get near each other, their magnetic fields will overlap, and the magnets will tend to line up. A little magnet will take up a position that aligns with the magnetic field of the big magnet.

The Earth contains a really huge magnet, even though you can't see it: The hot rotating core of molten iron creates a very large magnetic field, which makes magnetic-field lines that run in big loops through the core of Earth, out near the south pole and upward to the north pole and back into Earth. That magnetic field is very strong deep within Earth's core, but the surface is 4,000 miles away from the center of Earth. Therefore, the magnetic field is pretty weak at the surface of Earth. The numerical value, in scientific units, is only about 0.5 Gauss, or 0.00005 Tesla.

Still, a magnetic field of that strength can be detected with a moderately delicate instrument. A compass is exactly that: A small magnet (the compass needle) is mounted on a thin spindle so it is free to rotate. When placed in the magnetic field of Earth, that little magnet will rotate so as to align itself with the direction of Earth's magnetic field lines.

Any magnet comes with two "poles." They need to be called by different names in order to tell them apart. Because the compass is thousands of years old, the terminology of compasses found its way into scientific terminology, with the result that the poles of a magnet are named north and south. The phrase opposites attract also applies to magnetism: A magnet's north pole is attracted to a south pole of a different magnet, but a north pole repels another north pole.

Because of that attraction and repulsion, the needle of a compass aligns north and south. If one pole is painted white and the other black, we say the compass needle "points" northward.

The value of a compass is that when you're out somewhere and can't tell which direction to go in (perhaps because it's overcast and cloudy, or at night), knowing that the needle points northward at least tells you the directions, and that enables you to decide which way to head.

There are gimmicks that demonstrate how two magnetic fields will align. You can buy a pair of tiny metal dogs and watch as they either push each other away or clang together, depending on the alignment of their magnetic fields. A pair of small horseshoe magnets will show the same effect: One way they repel each other, the other way they come together and it's hard to get them apart. In all cases it's because similar poles repel while unlike poles attract.

Swanton Man Arrested For Drunk Driving

A Swanton man was arrested after he failed field sobriety tests early Saturday morning on Glendale Road near Pinnacle Drive, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Donald Balogh, 42, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), DUI per se, driving while impaired, and failure to drive right of center. He was released after signing his citations, police said.

In other police news, Patricia Ellis, 54, Oakland, was issued a citation for following a vehicle too closely. According to the report, there was a heavy volume of traffic in the northbound lane of Garrett Highway Friday afternoon when a truck operated by Edward Wolf, 47, Oakland, was rear-ended by the Ellis vehicle.

No injuries were reported.

REUNION HELD FOR CLASS OF 1959 – The 1959 class of Northern High School held its 45th year reunion this summer at the Grantsville Inn. Adrian Spiker was the emcee of the evening, and playing the music of the '50s was DJ Stewart Whitehair of Clarksburg, W.Va. Eleven members of the class are deceased, and a candlelight ceremony was held in their memory. In the front, from the left, are Reda (Rush) Hanlin, Ethel (Seibert) Perkins, Alice (Lytle) Lohr, Frances (Humberson) Enos, Shirley (Meyers) Drent, Patricia (Hinebaugh) Pfiffer, Nancy (Friend) Gribble, Glenna (Frazee) Ringer, Shirley (Lowdermilk) Rusnick, and Phyllis (Coddington) Mazer. In the second row are Dorothy (Savage) Riebau, Ruben Humberson, Martin Conn, Patricia (Bittner) Wellman, Richard Stanton, Patty (Cuppett) Glover, Gay (Umbel) Rodeheaver, Mary Alice (Durst) Clarke, Susan (Bowman) Collins, Joan (Savage) Dixon, Margaret (Hinebaugh) Frost, Helen (Wakefield) Benson, Janet (Vansickle) Fike, Elaine (Silber) Baugh, Dale Hetrick, Patty (McKenzie) Shroyer, Rodney Meyers, Adam Hare, Gary Hetrick, Sue (Hershberger) Crossland, Roy Schlossnagle, and Charles Straus Sr. (science and biology teacher). In the back are Donald Bartholomew, Ronald Baker, Harold Schmidt, Robert Knox, Thomas Kirby, Marvin Dale Sisler, Adrian Spiker, James Kisner, Richard "Dick" Miller, Robert Bitner, Guy Resh, and Dale Schroyer.

Inducted Into Honor Society

Accident resident and West Virginia University student Kristin Nicole Hoffman has been inducted into the Golden Key International Honour Society. Hoffman was individually honored during a recent WVU campus ceremony.

The Golden Key International Honour Society provides academic recognition to college juniors and seniors in all fields of study who are ranked in the top 15 percent of their class. Golden Key has 335 chapters in the United States and overseas, and membership is by invitation only.

Kristin's other honors include membership in the Alpha Lambda Delta Honor Society and the National Exemplary Scholars in Service organization, and a Certificate of Achievement award from the Eberly College of Arts and Sciences. She is also a member of the WVU Forensic Identification Club, is employed part-time at the university's chemistry lab, and volunteers at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

She is the daughter of Donna and Ron Hoffman of Accident.

READY FOR THE SNOW Kim Trickett and her team of dogs are ready to start their business as Yellow Snow Dog Sled Adventures as soon as snow permits. Outings will be offered with four-, six-, or eight-dog teams at various venues throughout Garrett County. See story.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

YELLOW SNOW DOG SLED ADVENTURES

After years of research, planning, and training, Yellow Snow Dog Sled Adventures finally makes its debut in Garrett County. Owner/operator Kim Trickett has dreamed of starting her own dog sled business since attending graduate school in Duluth, Minn. A student of the yearly Iditarod, Trickett has studied dog teams, dog breeds, trainers, sled drivers, and equipment builders so that one day she could bring her dream to Garrett County.

"It has taken over three years of searching to compile my group of sled dogs. I have brought together a compatible collection of experienced, people-loving Siberian huskies, Alaskans, one Canadian husky, and a Siberian malamute mix from five separate states," she said. "My dogs and I have attended trainings, seminars, and a boot camp within the past two years to prepare for this moment." Trickett even raced one team of dogs last year in New York state, bringing home first place.

Yellow Snow Dog Sled Adventures will debut its rides and tours as soon as snow permits, offering outings with four-, six-, or eight-dog teams at various venues throughout Garrett County. As one of its first season events, Yellow Snow Dog Sled Adventures will host a dog sled ride through a local Oakland Christmas tree farm, helping people find that perfect tree and transporting it back to the vehicle.

Older teens and adults will be able to experience "driving" their very own team of dogs. This seven- to 10-mile dog sled adventure is offered "by reservation" under the guidance of the staff and features a halfway break for a "warm-up" snack, photos, and "dog loving time."

For more information or to book an adventure tour, persons may visit www.yellowsnowadventures.com, call 301-616-4996, or call High Mountain Sports at 301-387-4199.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

•Appointed members to the Town Planning Commission are Margaret "Mimi" Demaree, Alice Spear, Scott Stough, Leslie Halapy, and Jane Fox, town council's member-at-large. The board recently completed the newly updated Comprehensive Plan, and is now finalizing the new Zoning Ordinances. There is an opening for a one-year term on the Town Planning Commission. Interested persons may contact Mayor Schlosnagle at 301-746-5919 (town hall) or 301-746-5864 (home). The board thanks all the members for volunteering their time.

•The Zoning Board of Appeals members are Julia Sines, Jess Whittemore, Lucretia Sines, and alternate member Timothy Nine. They have been dealing with several hearings on various issues.

•A reminder to local property owners: An approved building permit is required for any additions to one's property. For questions, persons may call town hall at 301-746-5919.

•A reminder to all citizens: The mayor and town council meetings are held on the first Monday and third Tuesday of each month, beginning at 7 p.m. Residents' opinions and input are considered important.

•Trim-a-Tree will be held on Dec. 3 at 6 p.m. at the park on First and Maple streets across from Friend Museum. A service will be held along with Christmas caroling and decorating of the tree. Prepaid forms for remembrance bows may be picked up at S&S Market and must be turned in before Dec. 1.

•A family Christmas celebration will be held Dec. 10 at 6 p.m. at the Friendsville School. Pictures with Santa will be taken, and there will be treats, entertainment, games, refreshments, and crafts.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•The municipal election was held at the town hall on Monday, Nov. 1. Mayor Larry Friend and council members Carolyn Corley and Ron Friend will begin new two-year terms on Jan. 1, 2005.

•The mayor and town council addressed numerous vandalism issues at the playground located at the Community Center. Some youth from the community as well as youth from out of the area attended the council meeting, requesting the park remain open until 9 p.m. In October, the council voted unanimously to change the signage at the pavilion to read that the park closes at dark. This decision remains in effect. Discussion was held regarding reinstating the neighborhood crime watch.

•Mtn. Lake Park is continuing to pick up leaves in its leaf truck. Persons are asked to rake leaves to the edge of the street. Bagged leaves may also be placed there. Leaf pick-up will continue through November as weather permits.

•The town's audit was completed and copies were distributed to required agencies, including the Department of Legislative Services.

The next regular council meeting will be Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 7 p.m.

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held on Thursday, Nov. 4, at the Accident Town Hall.

•Clay Riley from Thrasher Engineering was present to update the council on the sewer project. Several more papers had to be signed and approved for USDA. The pipe has been delivered for the project.

•Jo Sheffield from Devine & Sheffield CPAs was present to review the 2003-04 financial audit report. She reported the records were found to be in good shape.

•The new park benches have been installed around the walking trail in Town Park East.

•The council approved a recycling survey through the Maryland Rural Development Corporation to be sent to the town residents pertaining to present and future recycling habits.

•The final copy of the Community Legacy Strategic Plan was presented to the council. A committee will be set up to discuss Accident's future. If any resident is interested in volunteering to be a member of the committee, they may contact the town hall at 301-746-6346.

•The town's Christmas wreaths will be put up on Monday, Nov. 22, weather permitting. Persons interested in helping may contact the town office at 301-746-6346.

•Accident's Cultural and Historical Society's Cookie Walk will be held on Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Drane House from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. For more information, persons may contact ACHS director Becky Aiken at 301-746-8427.

A representative from Adelphia Cable will be present at the Dec. 2 town meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p.m.

PROCLAMATION INCLUDES COUNTY IN INTERNATIONAL CELEBRATION – The Garrett County commissioners this week proclaimed November 2004 as World Kindness Month in Garrett County. The Random Acts of Kindness Foundation began declaring kindness days, weeks, and months throughout the year as a time to encourage individuals to make a change globally by performing daily acts of kindness in their own communities. According to the foundation, World Kindness Month is a celebration dedicated to reminding everyone of the positive benefits and effect of kindness. When someone does a generous deed for another, a series of kind acts is set in motion, and kindness is shared across the community. "We find that World Kindness Month fits nicely with the Healthy Communities · Healthy Youth ™ : Garrett County initiative, which encourages adults to build developmental assets in youth and teens through positive relationships," explained Venessa Stacy of the Garrett County Health Department. "It is especially powerful when typical roles are reversed and a young person recognizes an adult for an act of kindness." This is the second year that the Health department has celebrated World Kindness Month by promoting kindness activities in after-school programs and within the organization itself. The department recently added performing random acts of kindness to the employee wellness program. Free printable posters, bumper stickers, calendars, quotes, and activity ideas are available on the Random Acts of Kindness web site at actsofkindness.org. "There are a number of great ideas and activities about kindness available out there, but ideas have no impact until someone acts on them," added Stacy. "The heart of the message is simple: kindness – pass it on." Pictured seated, left to right, are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday. Standing are Stacy and Sadie Liller, who is also with the Health Department. Photo courtesy of the Health Department.

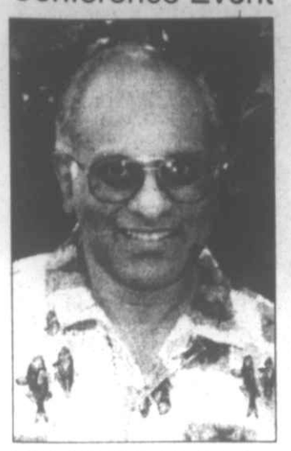
MLP Church To Host Missions Conference Event



DR. AJITH FERNANDO

The annual Missions Conference of Faith Evangelical Free Church is scheduled for Friday through Sunday, Nov. 19-21, with 7 p.m. services each evening.

The keynote speaker will be Dr. Ajith Fernando, director of Youth for Christ in Sri Lanka. Additional presentations by long-time missionaries Frank and Nancy Stottlemyer, Carole Swain, and Pete and Grace Thiessen are also on the agenda.

Fernando holds honorary doctorates from Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary (Mass.), Asbury Theological Seminary (Ky.), and Trinity Evangelical Divinity School (Ill.). Described as a leading voice in evangelicalism today, Fernando is a noted Bible teacher and is the author of 11 books, which have been translated into 11 languages.

In addition to being director of Youth for Christ, Fernando directs a drug rehabilitation ministry. He also serves as chairman of the ministry's council and academic affairs committee, and is visiting lecturer in New Testament at Colombo Theological Seminary in Sri Lanka. He is a regular visiting lecturer at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, and has lectured at several other theological seminaries in the Asia-Pacific region and North America.

Fernando's international ministry includes extensive involvement in the Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization. He is a recipient of the International Missionary Society's Golden Word Award which also been presented to Billy Graham, John R. W. Stott, Joni Eareckson-Tada, and Chuck Swindoll, among others.

The Stottlemyers served as missionaries in Senegal with New Tribes Mission starting in 1967. They currently reside in Hagerstown, where they serve New Tribes Mission in the regional member care office.

Swain has served in a remote jungle of Brazil since 1967 with the Unevangelized Fields Mission. Her primary responsibility has been translating the Bible into the language of the Yanomami people of Brazil.

The Thiessens are church planters with the Evangelical Free Church of America International Mission. Their service began in the Philippines in 1990. They are currently in transition and are preparing to serve with their sons, Ivan and Ira, in Honduras.

Nursery care will be provided during each service, and missions classes for elementary school-age children will also be available.

Faith Evangelical Free Church is located at 1009 Maryland Highway in Mountain Lake Park. For further information on the Missions Conference, persons may call the church office at 301-334-4172.

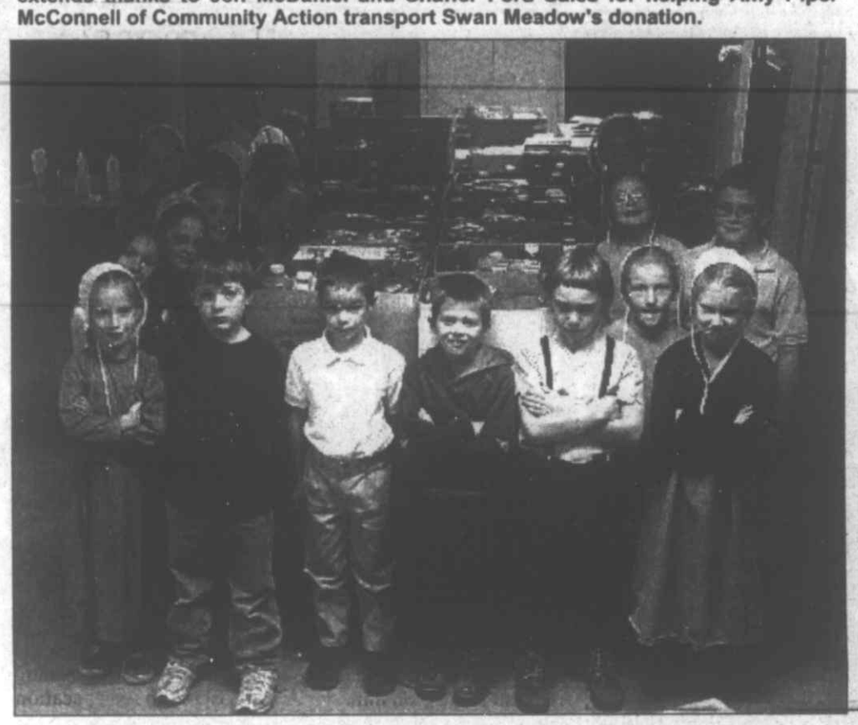
SWAN MEADOW STUDENTS HELP NEEDY FAMILIES – The students at Swan Meadow School have taken their caring and giving character trait for November very seriously as they participated in the Maryland State Department of Education "Kids Helping Kids" campaign. They donated 1,020 pounds of food for local needy families in Garrett County, which amounted to 18.88 pounds per student. The students added up their total ounces of food each day in math class, converted it to pounds, averaged it out per student for each class, and graphed each class's donations. The class with the highest average will be treated to an ice cream sundae party sponsored by Garrett County Community Action. The Swan Meadow students challenged other elementary schools in Garrett County to beat their donation. Yough Glades Elementary School donated 3,370 pounds of food, which was an average of 12.5 pounds per student. Below are some Swan Meadow students with their half a ton of food they donated for Garrett County families. The school extends thanks to Jeff McDaniel and Shaffer Ford Sales for helping Amy Piper-McConnell of Community Action transport Swan Meadow's donation.



GC Makes Mensa Scholarship Essay Forms Available

A scholarship essay contest has been announced by the Mensa Education and Research Foundation, according to Garrett College, which is making the application forms available to the public. Awards of $300 to $1,000 will be made on the basis of an essay of no more than 550 words that describes the applicant's career, vocational, or academic goals.

All citizens and legal residents of the United States who plan to be enrolled in a degree program at an accredited U.S. institution of post-secondary education for the fall semester 2005 are eligible to apply. It is not necessary to be a member of Mensa.

The awards are unrestricted as to age, race, gender, level of post-secondary education, grade point average, and financial need. Winners must provide proof of school registration and citizenship/residence status prior to payment of the award.

Applications are now available at the Financial Aid office of Garrett College or by request from Maryland Mensa, P.O. Box 8603, Elkridge, MD 21075. Entry forms will not be available after Friday, Dec. 31. Applications and essays must be postmarked by Saturday, Jan. 15, 2005.

Anyone interested in further information about this scholarship may call Chris Walters at 301-387-3057.

Burlington UM Family Services Honors Taylor

Burlington United Methodist Family Services recently honored Alleda Taylor of its Oakland office by presenting her with the Outstanding Award for Dependability.

Nominated by her coworkers and selected by the Management Team, Taylor is a case manager in the agency's Family Stabilization and Wraparound Service programs.

Her coworkers describe her as a "cheerful, compassionate person who researches every option to ensure that her clients receive the best quality service available and their needs are met."

Burlington's Oakland office operates family-based programs in Garrett County, which is made possible through a grant secured through the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc.

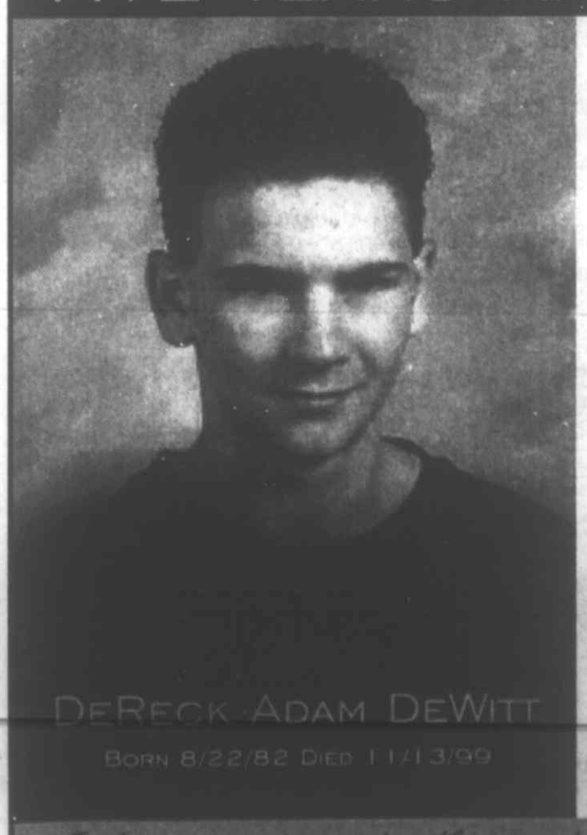
FIVE YEARS HAVE PASSED...



DERECK ADAM DEWITT
BORN 8/22/82 DIED 11/13/99

Seasons are one of God's blessings to us, just as DEReck ADAM DeWitt was to me and his family and friends. He brought life to each of our lives just like Spring does. He brought warmth to us on cold crisp winter mornings. He gave us a cooling smile on a hot summer day.

But now I only have memories of DeReck. Even though the seasons continue to come and go, DeReck was taken away from me five years ago on November 13, 1999, in a gun accident.

Please remember that guns and the responsibilities that go along with them should be taken very seriously. The sadness I feel in my heart I wish on no one!

Take time to remember how quickly life can pass us by, and how quickly things change, as do our seasons. Sometimes all we have are the memories to keep us going.

In loving memory and sadly missed by MOM, FAMILY, AND FRIENDS

AURORA/EGLON

BUCKWHEAT DINNER NOVEMBER 20

A buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be served at the Mt. Grove Community Building on Saturday, Nov. 20, from noon until 7:30 p.m. Dinners are $5 for adults, and $2.50 for children under 12. Those who wish to order extra sausage may contact John Calcamp at 735-3141 for placing an order by Nov. 16. Sausage is $2 per pound, and the Mountain Lions Club is serving the dinner.

PHILLIPS DEATH

Adeliah Teets Phillips of Canton, Ohio, a daughter of the late Edgar "John Bill" and Pauline Donham Teets, died Oct. 29 at her home. She was born May 17, 1933, in Aurora.

Survivors include her husband, George Phillips, two daughters, Patty Phillips, Akron, Ohio, and Terri Brooke and husband Douglas of Canton; one son, David Phillips and wife Ann, also of Canton, and five grandchildren.

Services were held Nov. 1 at Redman Funeral Home in Akron.

WINTERS BIRTH

Charles "Chuck" and Emilie Winters of Charleston, S.C., announce the birth of their second child on Nov. 2 at a hospital there. Named Lane Abigail, the little girl weighed 8 pounds, 5 ounces at birth. Her older brother at home is Clark.

Maternal grandparents are Blair and Richie Hills of Charleston. The paternal grandparents are Carl and Nancy Winters of Manassas, Va. Claude and Jean Winters of Eglon and Glenna and Ilene Fint of Old Fields are paternal great-grandparents.

MOUNTAINEERS AT ACHIEVEMENT DAY

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club was represented at the Sunday, Nov. 7, officers' training and achievement held in Kingwood by the following officers: Debbie Collins, president; Caitlin Roth, vice president; Caitlin Norwish, secretary; Kaitlyn Schalker, treasurer; Katelyn Harsh, reporter; Jesse Schalker, music; and Nathaniel Lawler, recreation. Leader Linda Lewis also attended. The club received a red ribbon for the past year's accomplishments.

MT. GROVE VFD DONATIONS

SHOOTING MATCH NOVEMBER 21

A shooting match at the Mountain Grove property on U.S. 219 is set for Sunday, Nov. 21, beginning at 1 p.m. Participants may use 12, 16, and 20 gauge guns, and the cost is $2 per shot. Sponsored by the Mt. Grove VFD, there will also be food available.

PERSONAL MENTION

Ron and Judy Kepple of Shepherdstown were weekend visitors with Mrs. Kepple's parents, Hancell and Mildred Teets, Aurora.

Visiting this weekend with Robert and Carolyn Harsh, Eglon, were his brother and wife, Leroy and Doris Harsh, Bridgewater, Va.

Betty Dumire of Mtn. Grove was admitted Sunday evening to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she died on Monday, Nov. 8.

Ernest Shaffer of Oakland reportedly remains very ill and has been hospitalized again.

A surprise 80th birthday luncheon honored Frances Snyder of Horse Shoe Run. It was held Oct. 28 at the Horse Shoe Run home of Juanita Stemple. Mrs. Snyder received cards and gifts, and expressed her appreciation to those who prepared and planned the occasion for her.

Shooting Match Set At Mt. Grove

The Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department will hold a shooting match on Sunday, Nov. 21, at 1 p.m. at the fire hall, located north of Thomas along Rt. 219.

The cost is $2 per shot for 12-, 16-, and 20-gauge.

Concessions will be available.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY NEWS

The annual book sale of the Terra Alta Public Library will continue through Friday, Nov. 12.

The library will participate in West Virginia's observance of National Read To Me Day on Thursday, Nov. 18, and from 3 to 5 p.m. volunteers will be in the library reading to children.

The library is selling colorful T-shirts that have "Terra Alta Public Library" printed on the sleeve. Sizes range from small in youth to X-large in adults.

More microfilms have been cataloged, and the library now has the entire archives of the Preston County Journal on microfilm. Several rolls of the Preston County News are also now available.

Family Event To Be Held At Moomau Library

A family event will be held Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Moomau Library in Petersburg. The public is invited to come and hear "Potluck," a storytelling and music program about friendship, neighborhood, and how food nurtures community spirit, performed by Karen Vuranch and Julie Adams.

Persons are encouraged to bring family recipes and stories to share, and bring a pot luck dessert if desired.

Community sponsors are Dr. and Mrs. James Kim, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sites, Fort Hill Motel, and Mr. and Mrs. G.R. Ours Jr., and the Grant County Arts Council will present this program. Additional funding is provided by the W.Va. Humanities Council, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

First UM Church Participating In Christmas Project

The Terra Alta First United Methodist Church is participating in a mission-based, worldwide outreach project called Operation Christmas Child. On the local level, the church will gather as many shoeboxes as possible and fill them with various toys and "treasures."

The contents of the boxes will be age appropriate and will be wrapped in holiday paper, ready for shipping overseas. The closing date for filling the boxes is Nov. 21.

"For many, it will be their first Christmas gift ever," said a church spokesperson.

Although other churches in the area have participated in previous years, this is the first time that the Terra Alta church has sponsored this particular activity, noted the spokesperson.

Anyone wishing to participate with the Terra Alta First United Methodist Church may call Kim Minor, the church's mission committee chairperson, at 304-789-6585.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

ASHER GLADE CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

There was a covered-dish dinner for Shirley and James Frantz after church on Sunday. It was well attended, and well-wishes were extended to them as they settle in their new home in Florida.

There will be a congregational board meeting Friday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m. at the church.

The ladies of the church will do fruit baskets on Friday, Nov. 19, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Members of the church will be in charge of nursing home visits on November 21, starting at Henry Clay at 2:30 p.m. and South Fayette later in the day.

New board members for the coming year are: Timothy Artice, Dale Evans Jr., Hugh Friend, Esther Benedict, and Norma Frazee. The board will meet immediately following morning worship on Sunday, Nov. 14, to get reorganized for the year 2005.

BLOOMING ROSE METHODIST CHURCH

The Blooming Rose United Methodist Church will be holding its annual turkey fellowship dinner on Saturday, Nov. 13, beginning at 5 p.m. The dinner will consist of turkey and "all the trimmings." All are welcome to attend. Take-outs will also be available.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Prayer Warriors meet every Wednesday night at 7 p.m. in the church basement.

On the first Saturday of each month there will be a get-together to practice music at the church at 7 p.m.

Morning worship services are held every Sunday at 10 a.m.

There will be a covered-dish dinner following the morning worship on Sunday, Nov. 21.

SAND SPRING CHURCH OF GOD

Primetime for Children and Youth is held every Monday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Operation Hope Puppet Ministry will be participating each week. For more information, persons may contact Nevin Umbel at 301-746-4084.

LAUREL RUN CHURCH OF GOD

The Laurel Run Church of God will hold revival services beginning Sunday, Nov. 14, through Wednesday, Nov 17. The Nov. 14th service will be held at 10:45 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. All other revival evenings will begin at 7 p.m. Pastor Michael Roach will be the guest speaker. Special music will be held each evening.

RUSH BAPTIST CHURCH

Members of the Rush Baptist Church are participating in Operation Christmas Child by collecting items and putting them in shoe boxes to be sent to children in other countries for Christmas. The boxes are due by this Sunday, Nov. 14.

Pastor Ray Perkins has accepted the position of full-time pastor at Rush Baptist Church.

There will be a Thanksgiving dinner after church on Sunday, Nov. 21. Jean Selby will be present that day.

LIBRARY NEWS

The following books were recently donated: H is for Horse, donated by Juanita and Richard Barney in memory of Inez Slagle; Prairie River – A Journey of Faith, purchased from the Elder Hill Church donation; and the Friendsville Library Quilters donated National Geographic Prehistoric Animals and B is for Blue Crab.

The Library board of trustees will meet at the Friendsville Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library on Thursday, Nov. 18, at 4 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

The "Kids First" Committee will sponsor "Books-n-Pajamas" on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 7 p.m. for children 2-5 years old. Children are asked to come in their pajamas.

HELP TRIM A TREE

The Friendsville Community Watch Group announces that it will be holding a Trim a Tree program during the 2004 Christmas season. This fundraiser is to raise money to improve the Friendsville volleyball court in the Town Park. Through donations, they will adorn the lighted Christmas tree on Main Street with bows to honor and support loved ones who are suffering or who are deceased.

Bows are $5 each and the colors will be: red for remembrance, white for encouragment, gold for honor, and USA in support of our country and military. The tree decorating and lighting ceremony will take place on Friday, Dec. 3, at 6 p.m. on Main Street. The Honor Ceremony will begin at 6 p.m. with all names announced as a bow is placed on the tree. Forms to purchase a bow may be picked up at S&S Market.

All money and forms are asked to be back to S&S Market by Dec. 1. Forms and money can also be mailed to Brenda Frazee at 8614 Friendsville Road, Friendsville, MD 21531. For more information, persons may contact Christy Thomas at 301-746-5842, Brenda Frazee at 301-334-7730, or Cathy Williams at 301-746-5300.

PTO NEWS

The recent PTO membership drive for Friendsville Elementary School was deemed a "great success." Prizes were awarded to the classrooms with the most new PTO members. First place went to Mrs. Schofield's 5th graders. Second place went to Mrs. Livengood's 2nd graders, and there was a tie for third place between Mrs. Swearman's Pre-K and Ms. Deal/Lantz's 4th graders. Each winning classroom will pick a prize from the prize wall.

The PTO is holding a raffle to benefit the playground fund. The first prize will be a large fall basket made and donated by Carolyn Humberson. The second prize will be two tickets for the Garrett Cinema theater, and the third prize will be 4 tickets to Smiley's Fun Zone. The prizes will be raffled off on Nov. 22. For more information or to purchase a raffle ticket, persons may contact any Friendsville Elementary school student or contact the school.

SCHOOL NEWS

Students are also collecting "Boxtops for Education" and Campbell soup labels. These collected items can be dropped off at the school. There will be no school for students on Friday, Nov. 12, for professional day/staff development.

BANQUET HELD

The Northern Garrett Rescue Squad celebrated its 32nd anniversary with a banquet for members and guests on Saturday at the Friendsville fire hall. A welcome was extended to everyone present by Terry Spear, chairman, and the invocation/blessing was given by Rev. Doug Kabell. Master of ceremonies was Bernie Zlomek, Allegany County project manager of DNR. He was introduced by Rod Bowser.

First on the agenda was a memorial service in tribute to deceased members. As each name was read, a light was lit on the Star of Life that was made by Sam Friend. The deceased members are as follows: Donald Newman, Kenneth Edwards, Chris Browning, Debbie Beal, Robert Lapp (in the line of duty), Brenda Hawkins, Rev. Fred Illic, Robert Enlow, Loretta Rush, Allen Cutler, Darlene House, Gerald Smith, and George Blanco. "Safely Home" was recited by Rev. Nairn.

A plaque was given to each station to recognize the winners of the EMS Person of the Year. The names on the plaque include Steven Hamilton, winner in 1995; James Wilburn, winner in 1999; Walt Fearer, winner in 2003; and Barry Beal, winner in 2004.

Pat Bowser and Donna K. Beachy named the following EMS persons to be inducted into the Hall of Fame: Chris Browning, Carolyn Deniker, Paul Harmon, Cheryl Rexrode, Terry Spear, Allen Cutler, David Bicker, Hilda Wilburn, Darlene House, and Alvin Shoemaker Jr.

Service awards were given to John Beachy, Larry Nesline, Mark Gallagher, and Alice Smith for five years of service. Maxine Hetz, Burton Lytle, Donna K. Beachy, and Darla Teter received awards for 10 years of service. Awards also went to Edgar Yoder for 20 years of service, and Deane Savage for 25 years of service.

The Spirit Award was presented to Edgar Yoder for his "spirit of service." New-member recognition was given to Josh Hook, Matt Kraus, William Bevers, Lucretia Sines, Lisa Schlosnagle, and Mike Simmons.

New EMT recognition was given to Sharon Butler, who passed the EMT class in Sept. of this year.

Dean Savage gave recognition to Gary Teats and Ken Sines for their service of maintenance for stations 2 and 3. Dean received recognition for station 1. Recognition was also given to Scott Stemple of J&J Ford for its contribution to NGRS and for his help when he is needed no matter what time of day.

Lifetime membership went to Pauline Faucett and Carolyn Deniker.

Others who received recognition for services rendered were: Nancy Savage, secretary; John and Linda Strider, advice and insurance; Cathy Kabell, treasurer; and Georgie Friend, supplies.

All members of NGRS were recognized and received name tags.

The installation of officers was held. They include: Chairman Terry Spear, Vice Chairman Dean Savage, Secretary Nancy Savage, Treasurer Kathy Kabell, Chief Barry Beal, Assistant Chief 1 Doris Beal, Assistant Chief 2 Rod Bowser, Assistant Chief 3 Ken Sines, ALS Coordinator John Frank, and board members Brenda Frazee, Pat Bowser, and Walt Fearer.

Special guests for the evening were: Senator John Hafer and his wife, Delegate George Edwards, Commissioner David Beard, Commissioner Fred Holliday and his wife, Dr. Lee Ross, Dave Ramsey Region 1 administrator, vice president of the Allegany/Garrett County Fire and Rescue Association Tim Dayton and his wife, Chaplain Pet Walberg and his wife, and Maryland Fire and Rescue Incorporated rep. Ron Bowser.

Mutual aid companies were also recognized for their services in helping with NGRS calls: Accident Fire Dept., Frostburg Fire Dept., Southern Garrett Rescue, Bittinger Fire Dept., Eastern Garrett Fire Dept., Frostburg Ambulance, Salisbury Fire Co., Deep Creek Fire Dept, Friendsville Fire Dept., and Granstville Fire Dept.

Bernie Zlomek entertained the crowd with an original song titled "The Ambulance Blues." It was Real Estate Facts by...

YOU SET THE CLOCK!

Selling your home soon? Ask your agent to explain, in detail, how long it may take. The agent possesses a great deal of information about recent sales, homes for sale now, and homes that "expired" without selling.

Look at the marketing time of homes that have recently sold in your area. Look at their prices, features and the financing offered by the owners. How does your home compare?

To apply this information to your home, keep in mind that this will be an "average" time for "average" homes at an "average" price. If your home is offered in above average condition at a below average price, it could take less time to sell.

Now look at homes currently being offered for sale how long they have been on the market, how they are priced and their condition. Compare these factors against your home.

Finally, research those homes that did not sell - the "expireds." Compare the same factors against your offering. Buyers compare all homes currently being offered, and then decide which defines the best value. The more value offered by your home, the faster it will sell.

Once you've estimated the likely sale time, give your agent a reasonable listing period to find a buyer. Remember, it is really you who determines the selling time by the price and condition of your home.

If you'd like to sell a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE.

MEMBERS OF THE NORTHERN GARRETT FFA CHAPTER were one of 36 teams participating in the 2004 National FFA Agronomy Career Development Event (CDE). The competition was held Oct. 27 and 28 during the 77th National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky. The members competed in all facets of the agronomic industry, from crop and weed identification to integrated pest management. Their soil analysis and managerial decision-making skills were also tested. The National FFA Agronomy CDE is sponsored by Bayer Crop Science as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. "It is one of 23 different national events that use the fun of competition to connect classroom learning and careers," said a National FFA spokesperson. Pictured, left to right, are Northern High School agricultural teacher and FFA advisor Larry Deal; team members Bridgette Welch, Becky Berkebile, Randi Rodeheaver, and Lacie Berkebile; and a Bayer Crop Science representative.

HONORED FOR SERVICE – The Garrett County Fair Board held its annual stockholders meeting at the Pleasant Valley Community Center recently, and president Roger Glotfelty Jr. recognized two volunteers for their outstanding service and dedication to the fair over the years. Delmar R. Yoder was presented a plaque for 16 years of service to the fair. He has worked with the indoor and outdoor exhibits and "always lent a hand with anything that needed to be done," said Glotfelty. Raymond J. Yoder was recognized for 18 years of service to the fair. He worked a lot with the water at the fairgrounds and was also superintendent of the horse barn for years. They are both now honorary directors. Pictured above, from the left, are Delmar Yoder, Glotfelty, and Raymond Yoder.

Field Activity Slowing Down

There were 5.0 days suitable for field work for the week ending November 7. Maryland farmers enjoyed air temperatures in the 70s last week. Many areas in the state received over an inch and a half of rain on Thursday last week. With corn for grain and sorghum harvest complete, farmers turned their attention to their soybean harvest. Soybeans were 56 percent harvested, 17 percent above last week and on target with last year and the five-year average.

A small amount of harvesting progress was made for other and alfalfa hay. Other hay 4th cutting and alfalfa hay 4th cutting increased 1 percent and alfalfa hay 5th cutting increased from 2 percent from last week. Hay supplies were rated 8 percent surplus, 75 percent adequate, 11 percent short and 6 percent very short. Pasture was rated 25 percent excellent, 43 percent good, 25 percent fair, 5 percent poor and 2 percent very poor.

Barley was 97 percent planted and in good to excellent condition. Winter wheat was 83 percent planted, 5 percent above last year and 8 percent above the five-year average.

BENEFICIAL INTEREST REQUIREMENTS FOR LOANS AND LOAN DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds producers of beneficial interest requirements for Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP) and Marketing Assistance Loan (MAL) eligibility.

A producer is considered to have beneficial interest in a commodity when he or she maintains (1) control of the commodity, (2) risk of loss, and (3) title to the commodity.

For a producer to retain eligibility to obtain a loan or LDP, beneficial interest must be retained by the producer from the time of harvest continuously through the date the LDP was requested or for Marketing Assistance Loans, the date the loan was repaid or the date Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) takes title to the commodity.

If a producer sells the commodity, it is immediately ineligible for a loan or LDP. If the commodity has been pledged as collateral for a loan or an LDP has been issued to a producer, immediate repayment of the loan principal and charges, plus interest, or the LDP amount plus interest, as applicable is required.

The Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (the 2002 Farm Bill) excludes producers with hybrid seed contracts from having to comply with beneficial interest requirements. All other loan and LDP provisions do apply to these producers, however.

Producers having questions regarding beneficial interest requirements for Marketing Assistance Loans and Loan Deficiency Payments may visit the Preston County FSA Office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or call 304-329-1923.

COUNTY COMMITTEE ELECTION SLATED

Elections for FSA's County Committee began Monday in Local Administrative Area (LAA) 2 (Kingwood, Valley, and Portland Districts). FSA County Committee members make important decisions on how federal farm programs fit the needs of Preston County producers. It is vital that all eligible farmers vote in this year's election to ensure that the committee represents the interests of all producers in the community.

Ballots must be returned to the FSA office or postmarked by Monday, Dec. 6. All ballots will be counted publicly at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 8, at the Kingwood USDA Service Center. The last day to appeal an election is Tuesday, Dec. 28.

Newly elected Committee members and alternates take office on Jan. 1, 2005.

Voting ballots have been mailed to eligible producers. Producers who have not received ballots can obtain ballots from the Preston County FSA office in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza. Ballots can also be requested by phone at 304-329-1923, or by fax 304-329-3056. Eligible voters must be of legal voting age and have an interest in a farm or ranch as an owner, operator, tenant, or sharecropper, or they must participate or cooperate in FSA programs.

Preston County is divided into Local Administrative Areas. Each LAA is represented by one member on the County Committee. A person may vote in only one LAA in Preston County.

FSA county committees make decisions on commodity price support loans and payments; establishment of allotments and yields; conservation programs; incentive, indemnity, and disaster payments for some commodities; and other farm disaster assistance. The FSA County Committee system, established in the 1930s, gives Preston County farmers a much-needed say in how farm programs are administered at the grass-roots level.

Each year, about one-third of the more than 8,000 County Committee seats are up for election. Committee members oversee operations in more than 2,300 local FSA offices across the nation.

Persons with questions regarding the Farm Service Agency's County Committee system may visit the Preston County FSA office, or consult the U.S. FSA web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Garrett College Earns BPW Nod As "Employer Of Year"

Garrett College was recently recognized as 2004's Employer of the Year by the Business and Professional Women (BPW) of Garrett County. The award was presented in conjunction with the 75th annual observance of National Business Women's Week.

"The objective of National Business Women's Week is to promote equity for women in the workplace at the local, state and national levels," explained local BPW co-president Donna McClintock Fost. "This year's theme is 'Better Business Women for a Better Business World.'"

Dr. Nancy Priselac, dean of student development at Garrett College, accepted the award on behalf of college president Dr. Steve Herman. Priselac expressed an interest in creating pathways for women in the county to attend Garrett College, pointing to the New Horizons program as an example of what can be accomplished. New Horizons assists nontraditional women interested in funding their education. A recent federal budget cut had put the New Horizons offering in jeopardy, but a Perkins III grant and funding supplied by the college helped save the program.

The college works with the local branch of American Association of University Women and BPW on the Second Chances for Women program held in the spring.

A public two-year institution of higher learning, Garrett College is accredited by the Commission on Higher Education, Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools. The college is also approved by the Maryland Higher Education Commission, and is a member of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges.

Garrett currently employs 94 regular full-time and part-time employees, 42 who are women. There are 14 female adjunct credit and non-credit faculty members, while the staff of 12 full-time faculty members includes six women.

Of the seven members of the college's administrative council, four are women representing three of the five dean-level positions and one director-level position. Two of the female deans, both appointed July 1, hold doctoral degrees.

Women hold eight of the 15 director-level positions at the college. There are 54 staff support positions, 24 of which are held by women.

Garrett College strongly encourages educational opportunities for its own employees. With the appropriate approvals, an employee is permitted to arrange a flexible work schedule to accommodate taking course work.

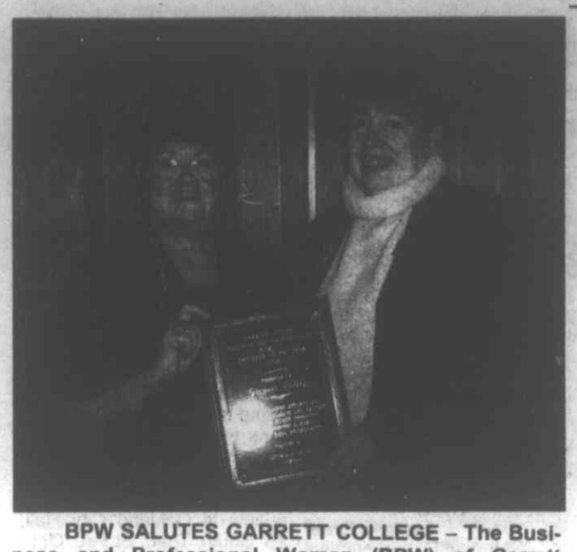
The college provides two programs employees can access to continue their education: a tuition assistance program and a tuition reimbursement program. Of the 16 employees who participated in the tuition assistance program, 11 have been women. To date, six women have earned their master's degrees and two have earned bachelor's degrees.

Besides regular benefits, the college provides social activities for employees and their families, including an ice cream social, providing transportation for employees wanting to participate in the Bay Bridge Walk, pizza socials, Lunch and Learn lunches, 'Tis the Season party, cholesterol and diabetes screening, House of Hope luncheon, Employee Recognition luncheon, cancer awareness, and spring gardening tips.

Garrett College employees are involved in a number of community events, such as the American Cancer Society Relay For Life event and the March of Dimes walk. Employees also support local high schools and attend college sporting events.

One of this year's BPW scholarship recipients, Regina Lewis, is attending Garrett College.

."We had an impartial committee that looked at the nominees for this award," said BPW member Norma Bolding. "The committee members really liked all the social activities available to women at the college, and the education advancement opportunities."



BPW SALUTES GARRETT COLLEGE – The Business and Professional Women (BPW) of Garrett County has named Garrett College its 2004 Employer of the Year. Women hold a number of positions throughout the college's workforce, and play leadership roles both on- and off-campus. Pictured at left is BPW co-president JoAnne Harsh as she presents the award to Dr. Nancy Priselac, dean of student affairs at the college. The runners-up for the award were Garrett Rehab and the Wisp.

The evening was organized by Pat Bowser, Alice Smith, Donna Beachy, and Doris Beal. The meal was catered by S&S Catering. A DJ entertained for the remainder of the evening.

NHS SPORTS

The NHS varsity football team will compete at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland on Friday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m. They will face Allegany High School in a playoff game.

CARDS REQUESTED

Brenda Bryner, a former Friendsville resident, recently underwent surgery at a Pittsburgh hospital. Her mother, Renelda Thomas, asks that friends lift Brenda up in prayer, and get-well cards can be sent to her at P.O. Box 624, Hopwood, PA 15445.

Receives Degree

Tina Martin-Selders, Grantsville, recently graduated magna cum laude (with high honors) from Allegany College of Maryland's respiratory therapy program.

While in college, she was a member of Phi Theta Kappa and Alpha Sigma Lambda honor societies. She was also listed in Who's Who Among American College Students.

Martin-Selders has passed the National Board for Respiratory Care's certification exam and is formally recognized as a certified respiratory therapist.

She has accepted a position with City Pharmacy & Respiratory Services, Morgantown, W.Va., as a home care therapist for Garrett County and the surrounding area.

Martin-Selders resides in Grantsville with her husband Rick and their daughter Baylee.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the eighth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland will soon be taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington and Bobby Andersen are the head coordinators, assisted by several other Civic Club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful.

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Please make your donations before December 3, 2004. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

SWANTON

There will be a buckwheat cake, pancake, and sausage dinner this Saturday, Nov. 13, at the Swanton Community Center, beginning at 4 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Otterbein U.M. church has started holding boy, girl, and youth fellowship on Thursdays at 4 p.m. All children are invited to participate. Leaders are Lois Custer, Barbie Sweitzer, and June McClusky.

Those attending the W.O.W dinner at the Bittinger fire hall Friday evening from Swanton were Arveta Lee, Glenna, Rodney, Barbie, Beth, Sara, and Billy Sweitzer, Melvin, Dotty, and Andrew Beckman, and George, Freda, and Barbara Rexroad.

Weekend guests of Mary June Harvey were Ellisa and Mike Woodbrey and girls Emily and Micheala, Shepherdstown W.Va. On Saturday evening they all were dinner guests of Brian. and Sandy Schofield at their home in Bittinger.

Mary June Harvey attended the annual holiday dinner at Piedmont Trinity U.M. Church hosted Saturday by the district superintendents for pastors and spouses of the Potomac Highlands District.

Melvin, Dotty and Andrew Beckman traveled to Farmington, Pa., Sunday afternoon, where they did some shopping at Woodland World and Country Charm. On the return trip home they had dinner at Lone Star Restaurant.

The Swanton Community Association will have its regular monthly meeting on November 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the center. The group also will be raffling off a beef. Anyone wanting to rent or use the the center must contact John Livengood at 301-387-6826 for available dates.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS – ENGINEERING SERVICES FRIENDSVILLE SEWER SYSTEM

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will accept sealed proposals from qualified firms for engineering services to design and prepare contract plans and specifications for the renovation of the Friendsville Sanitary Sewer System in Friendsville, Maryland. The system has approximately 14,810 LF of 8" collection pipe, 1,160 LF of 8" outfall sewer from the treatment plant, one pump station, approximately 520 LF of pressure sewer and 69 total manholes (64 collection and 5 outfall). There are approximately 238 customers connected to the system. The treatment plant is permitted for 125,000 (GPD) and has a 300,000 gallon equalization tank for excessive flows.

A Pre-Proposal Conference will be held at 1:00 p.m. on Wednesday, December 1, 2004, in the Commissioners' Public Meeting Room located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 209, in Oakland, Maryland.

Proposal documents may be obtained in person from the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, Courthouse Room 105, 313 East Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550. Inquiries may be made by calling 301-334-5003.

Sealed proposals must be submitted to the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, Courthouse Room 105, 313 East Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on or before Thursday, December 16, 2004, at 2:00 p.m. (local time). An original and five copies of the proposal should be submitted enclosed in a sealed envelope and should be clearly marked "Request for Proposals–Engineering Services–Friendsville Sewer System" on the outside of the envelope. CONTRACT: SR-07-05 ST. JOHNS ROCK

STANDING TIMBER FOR SALE

The Maryland State Forest and Park Service is offering for sale the following timber on 60 acres of Compartment #38 of Savage River State Forest. This sale is estimated to yield 400,870 Bd. Ft. of measured and marked live hardwood sawtimber according to the International ¼" Saw Kerf Rule (FC=78), and 241 cords of hardwood pulpwood, more or less.

This timber is located two miles south of the 1-68 Finzel interchange on the west side of the St. John's Access Road into Comp. #38 of Savage River State Forest.

1. Timber will be shown at 9:00 AM on MONDAY, November 15, 2004. Interested persons should arrange to meet on Beall School Road at the I-68 Finzel interchange, at the above date and time.

2. Contract/Bid forms will be available at the showing or from Savage River State Forest Headquarters, 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville, MD 21536, 301-895-5759.

3. A Security Bond in the amount of 10% of the bid submitted must be posted as bids are submitted to the MD State Forest and Park Service.

4. The operator must be a registered Forest Products Operator in Maryland for the current year and hold a Certificate of Erosion and Sediment Control training to be awarded a State Forest Timber Contract.

5. A Performance Bond in the amount of 10% of the bid amount must be posted upon notification of bid acceptance. The Security Bond may be applied to cover the Performance Bond.

6. All timber volumes noted in this offering are estimates. Parties bidding on this timber should determine such volumes to their own satisfaction. NO adjustments on the basis of volume will be made under any circumstances.

7. The successful bidder may make payment as follows: (1) make full payment upon notification of bid acceptance, or (2) select to make a 50% payment upon notification of bid acceptance, with the remaining 50% payable and due within 90 calendar days of the bid acceptance. If the buyer selects this option, the delayed payment must be covered by a payment surety bond in a form acceptable to the state of MD.

8. Bids will be received up until 1:00 PM on MONDAY, DECEMBER 6, 2004.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

Under a power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust from William D. Cook, Jr., dated May 5, 2004, and recorded May 7, 2004, in Liber No. 1040, folio 503, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the terms and conditions of said deed of trust, I hereby give notice that I will, on in the Rotunda of the Courthouse, in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, offer for sale, and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following property, to wit:

Friday, November 19, 2004
At the hour of 11:00 a.m.

All of the following described lot or parcel of real estate, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 14, Garrett County, Maryland, which is more particularly described as follows:

Lot Number 26, Minnetoska Lake, as shown on the Plat of Minnetoska Lake, recorded in Plat Book 3, folio 142, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Subject to the Declaration of Covenants and Restrictions for Minnetoska Lake as recorded in Liber No. 598, folio 200, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Being the same as conveyed by William D. Cook and Shannon M. McHale to William D. Cook, Jr., by deed dated April 22, 2004, and recorded May 7, 2004, in Liber No. 1040. folio 496, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of Thirteen Thousand Dollars ($13,000.00) will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, cashier's check, certified check, or in other form as the Trustee may determine acceptable, in her sole discretion. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten (10) business days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to date of settlement, in the event the property is purchased by someone other than the note holder. Taxes and all other municipal liens and charges, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Trustee is unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Trustee. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

No one said my roof was a small job. I shudder to think how many manhours have already been expended. My brother-in-law, Kevin Bass, and Cousin Courtney put the last final touch (I hope) on it today. From the start to the finish it took more than one week. But the most critical part, where it constantly leaked, was repaired right away before we got another spell of rainy weather last week. I can't wait to hear no more hammering above me.

The upcoming winter does not provoke my fears about my roof, but plenty of fear exists about being snowed in, and over the price of heating oil. The endless, dark, lonely nights already have started. But at least we were spared the autumn ice storm which made it seem like winter was almost endless.

I learned at church on Sunday that Linda Buckel also shared the birthday weekend with Bill Southerly, Kevin Bass, and myself. No party for us this year, but I look forward to a birthday dinner prepared for me by Claire, Caitlin, and Meredith, which is enough for me. But Claire's two little sisters and I will hate to see her go back to West Virginia University this evening. But like most good things, a visit from Claire must end sometime.

My birthday at this time of the year always reminds me of some great times because it was time for the most fun horse show of all, the National in Madison Square Garden in downtown Manhattan. Other than driving through the Holland Tunnel in a huge horse van, it was a wonderful tradition dating from when horses were more common in New York City than automobiles. I was a subject of a half-page photograph essay many times while doing my duty with my charge, Cardinal, who was at his world-class best that week in 1976.

Another year some of my co-workers celebrated my birthday by eating Chinese food in Chinatown. The combination of world-class horse competition with all the attractions of the Big Apple was the best. But it was a big relief when it was over because it ended a very long and intense showing season.

The last few weeks involved 12 hours of work every day of the week when the standard was perfection – especially the classic, which was the Ladies Side-Saddle Hunter Class and the most beautiful of my charge over the year, Isle of Erin, who did us proud by winning the two dozen red roses.

Fox hunting is not a sport for the faint of heart, especially not for matronly ladies on sidesaddle, but my employer, Joan Scher, did it along with our former First Lady Jackie Kennedy in the field of Far Hill Hunt Club in New Jersey.

I experimented on a sidesaddle on Little Joe, and we even were able to jump a little bit. A full day of hunting involved dozens of solid obstacles and many miles of galloping.

My hat goes off to Joan Scher. I bet she is still at it even after becoming a grandmother a few years ago. It is hard to picture that, and even harder to picture her son Greg as a father. He was a sweet kid and often helped keep me awake during long nights with silly chattering on drives between shows. Greg's equally comical and charming mount was the Graduate, or we called him Champ, who showed his affection by a quick nip. I know it is too much to hope he is still living at White Oak Farm. He started his long and successful showing career most likely about 1967 when the movie he was named for was on at the theatres. That would make him about 40 years old now, which is way too old for a show horse in spite of all the pampering he got.

It is a hard life for a horse. They rarely get a chance to graze or spend a lazy day in a green pasture. Living in a stall is not the way to live for a horse. Even with our harsh winter, my Joey had a much better life, free to come and go as he pleased, braving the winter cold without blanket, just his own thick coat to keep him warm. His rugged natural life was the best any horse could want, enabling him to still jump well into his third decade long past the average life span of show horses. If I could have one wish it would be that he was still with me. I would rather have him than millions of dollars. Yes, it is true he sometimes joins me my dreams, but it is sad to wake up from those dreams. Our very last ride together was at the same place our first ride happened in our field where he spent most of his life, which was just this time of year in 1990. He would only have a few weeks to live.

But I am sure on this All-Saints Sunday he sees some old friends in Heaven, like my grandfather, Orval Glotfelty, who braided his tail for the first time, and Pappy Dale, who had a very fast and scary ride across our long field bareback. Also my father, who used most of his days off to haul us to our shows. Even the tiny boy who crawled around his legs, which he tolerated, who was my little brother Scott, whom I lighted a candle for today at our church. Dozens of members of the congregation of Emmanuel lit a candle in honor of someone who inspired them to be "children of God."

Marvin Beitzel, our congregation's oldest member, rang three tolls of our bell in its new bell tower which was dedicated at the service. Marvin and Bill Buckel were instrumental in the design and building of the tower. The final touch on our new church was a reminder of where it began, with hand-hewn beams like a very early frontier construction attached to a very modern building. But the bell itself was the same as when my grandparents and parents married or when I was baptized, confirmed, and married there in the old church. Nothing can last forever, or not much in this world – even our seemingly endless winter.

In spite of Don Sealing's health problems he was able to attend last Monday's November meeting of the Bittinger 4-H Club to watch the demonstrations of most of the members.

One advantage of having my birthday is that a lot of people know about it because of its relationship to their own, especially Aunt Dorothy Quaintance, who has her big day one week after mine.

I made a mistake last week about Beulah Moon's birthday. The correct day is November 14.

It is a busy time for Aaron and Patty Stanton, as their new home is almost finished and their adorable little baby daughter, McKenna, will be baptized next Sunday morning. Patty's father moved from Wisconsin to Bittinger. His name is Leroy (?). Some recent guests of the Stanton-Beachy household were Sharon Glotfelty and Amy Brenneman of Grantsville.

Unlike now, in the "good ol' days" when I was young, we didn't make a big deal about kids' birthdays. We didn't have big productions with pool parties or movies for their school friends. Mostly we just had a cake for our own family members and, of course, a few presents. But I do remember a few guests for one of my birthdays, the Brenneman girls, who were the three sweet daughters of Russell and Mary Brenneman who lived next door to my Pop and Nanny's house.

Surprise! Guess who appeared at my door this Monday morning – none but the youngest of the girls, Ruth Detrick, Eighty Four, Pa., with her two children, Lindsey and Jason, who landed with goodies from Mary's kitchen of cookies, all kinds of baked goodies and even a jar of pear butter, and a dozen fresh eggs from the old hen house on the farm. Ruth and the kids also visited Kathryn Bowser. Jason was very impressed by her two very large yellow cats.

Kathryn Bowser also enjoyed a weekend filled with family members visiting her – Hazel and Wayne Gaumer of Hagerstown, Henry and Bonnie Bowser of Harrisonburg, Kristen Gaumer of Baltimore, and Cheryl, Andy, and son Charles Mix of Lusby. Sounds like a busy weekend for Kathryn.

I hope my children want to stay close to me as most of our Bittinger mothers are enjoying. Let's face the fact that this is not a terribly exciting place to live, at least most of the time, but when our weather turns ugly we have some excitement. Most of the time things are pretty quiet here except with our younger set. Most of their excitement is not around their home. For example, the Bass family traveled to Boonsboro to watch Matthew play on the Northern Huskies' soccer team in the Western Regional Playoff in the IA class of boys' high school teams. It turned out to be a very defensive game and seemed like no one would score, when finally in the last 40 seconds Boonsboro scored and the game ended at 1-0. Then it was off to the Northern Band Competition at Musselman High School on Saturday night. Carol Bass traveled with the Glotfeltys to the competition.

I got a birthday card from Margaret Hershberger Wagner, who told me she could remember very easily my birthday because it is the same month and day as the birthday of her late father, Lawrence Brenneman, who would have been 100 years old this November 6.

I tried to remember the name of Lawrence's wife. It should have been so easy, as almost all of the wives of the Brenneman men of that generation were named Mary. Mary Lawrence, Mary Russell, and Mary Lloyd were the Brenneman women. Mary Lloyd happened to be my grandfather's sister. She was the mother of Bob Brenneman and was a Buckle. Bob gets his strong dose of Indian blood from his mother. In the olden days most of the young people married others in the same community since their world was much smaller. It was only in my parents' generation that the young people even knew anyone outside Garrett County. Although my mother grew up in Cumberland, her father's family was based in Bittinger. Even my aunts on my father's side ended up with someone they met when they went away to college.

FREEDOM'S CALL

They are called to be in uniform
To serve both day & night.
Protecting our great country
To fight the valiant fight.

To rescue us from danger
At home - across the sea
Brave & special people
Who keep our nation free.

And together on a mission
Our heroes, they are there
Every color - every creed
With freedom's light to share.

And day by day - step by step
All for one & one for all
Our heroes stand together strong
To answer freedom's call.

We salute those in our family who have served our country in the armed forces.

SUCH HAPPY SCENES at Garrett County Memorial Hospital could soon become a thing of the past, as skyrocketing medical malpractice insurance premiums are now beginning to threaten services that have been offered at GCMH since it opened its doors in 1950. Especially under the gun right now is the obstetrics department of the hospital because the insurance company that provides malpractice coverage has decided that family practitioners who deliver babies (more than 30 per year) must, as of January 1, pay the same premiums that are paid by obstetrician-gynecologists. For Dr. Karl Schwalm, pictured above, who has been bringing little ones into the world here for 24 years, and for the other three GCMH physicians who provide obstetric services, this would mean having to pay an annual premium two to four times greater than what it is now. These are rates that are unaffordable, both for the physicians and the hospital, according to Donald Battista, GCMH chief executive officer. Also pictured with Shannon Browning and her daughter Alexia are GCMH nurses Joyce Anderson, left, and Charlene Bennett. Readers of this newspaper are being asked to read the story about the crisis that appears on this page, take note of the weekly editorial on page A-4, and then turn to pages A-8 and A-9 to find out how they can get involved in helping to head off this pending disaster for the community. Continuation Of OB Services At GCMH Being Threatened

by Don Sincell

The extreme and rapid escalation of medical malpractice insurance premiums for physicians that is plaguing many parts of the nation has struck Garrett County in dramatic fashion, and is now threatening to end obstetrical services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Physicians and staff of Garrett Memorial have been delivering babies since its doors opened in 1950, but that could all come to an end by December 31 of next year, and perhaps sooner, if the Maryland legislature does not enact some significant tort reform, either in a special session which may be held before the end of this year, or during the regular General Assembly that will begin in January.

"The overall increase of premiums is creating a big financial burden for all of our physicians, but there is a specific problem involving our doctors who provide obstetrical services that is unique to Garrett Memorial in the state of Maryland," stated Donald Battista, chief executive officer of GCMH.

"We are the only hospital in the state at which all of our deliveries are performed by our family practitioners," he explained. "The problem now is that the two remaining companies which provide malpractice insurance have decided that family physicians who deliver more than 30 babies per year must now pay the same rates as those of obstetrician-gynecologists. Rates for that specialty are now among the highest in the nation."

Dr. Karl Schwalm and Dr. Patricia Gotsch, two of the GCMH medical staff family physicians who each perform far more than 30 deliveries per year, have received preliminary notification that their liability premiums will increase 86% as of January 1, 2005.

Dr. Gotsch has decided to leave Garrett County, and while the insurance crisis is not the only reason that she and her family are moving, she said that it "certainly moved up her timetable significantly."

Dr. Schwalm, who has been delivering babies for the past 24 years, said that the closure of the maternity ward at Garrett Memorial "would set back local obstetric care 60 years to when

Furnace Malfunction Leads To $500,000 Loss By Fire

A malfunctioning furnace has been ruled the cause of a fire early yesterday that caused an estimated $500,000 damage to a lodging and rooming house currently under construction at Deep Creek Lake.

Volunteers from the Deep Creek, Bittinger, Deer Park, and Accident fire departments were alerted at 6:37 a.m. Wednesday and responded to Stillwater Lane in the Stillwater Subdivision off Glendale Road.

According to a report from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, the first firefighters on the scene reported a working fire in the basement of the three-story wood-frame structure owned by Rick and Jill Dansey. The blaze was brought under control by some two dozen firefighters in about 15 minutes, but smoke, heat, and water damage was extensive.

The fire was discovered by a construction worker soon after he arrived for work.

Responding from the fire marshal's office were deputy fire marshals Jamie Rodeheaver, Ryan Chapman, and Bruce Shafer, along with K-9 (dog) Canyon. They determined that the furnace located in the basement was the cause of the fire.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade unit and the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Ground Broken For Ground-Breaking Adventure Sports Center International

A crowd of government officials and adventure sports enthusiasts gathered Friday to mark the groundbreaking for the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI), which is being constructed at the top of Marsh Mountain at the Wisp. The centerpiece of the $22 million public-private venture is the nation's first recirculating whitewater course, which will be one of just a handful of manmade courses in the world. The course is expected to be ready for testing late next summer, and the grand opening for public use is projected to take place with a large public festival in July 2006.

"The ASCI project is an essential element to the continued growth of Garrett County," stated Del. George Edwards, chairman of the ASCI board of directors. Edwards, who has been involved with the project since it was first proposed 12 years ago, said the completed center will draw adventure sports enthusiasts from across the nation while providing new jobs and athletic opportunities for local residents.

"The center will not only create new opportunities for recreation, but also provide our students of all ages with access to state-of-the-art athletic facilities, and diversifys offerings for visitors to the county," Edwards said. ACSI proponents have projected that the project will eventually result in the crea-

GC Planning, Zoning Office Has New Name

The Garrett County Department of Planning and Zoning has a new name. Following a unanimous decision by the county commissioners this week, the office will now be known as the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

"The reorganization will address how all permits, land use, and enforcement responsibilities within the county government are managed," noted county administrator Monty Pagenhardt. "This includes the licensing of transient vacation rentals, junkyards, blighted property, accommodation tax issuance, special events, and other land-use administration."

"We're trying to make it as easy as possible for someone getting a permit," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg. The goal is to make the department a "one-stop shop" in the permitting process.

Given that the number of permits and building inspections have dramatically increased in recent years, the reorganization is also expected to make county staff members' jobs a little easier.

Local Group Seeks Support In Stalling "Windmill" Project

People interested in preserving Garrett County's scenic vistas need to join forces and seek a moratorium on wind turbine construction – that was the overall message of a meeting held last Thursday evening at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Backbone Mountain, the event drew more than 100 residents, with many loudly expressing their opposition to the "windmills."

"If a few corporate developers get their way, Backbone Mountain's natural beauty will soon be transformed by industrial windplants – row after row of 40-story lighted turbines visible for miles in all directions," said group member Jon Boone of Oakland.

The Maryland Public Service Commission (MPSC) has already approved Clipper Windpower's construction of 67 turbines along 13 miles of Backbone Mountain and is reviewing plans for another 24, slated for construction atop Roth Rock by Synergics Energy Services.

"And these are just the beginning," Boone said.

Members of his organization said they were not against "green energy" per se, but a two- or three-year moratorium was needed to allow more time to fully examine the consequences of the turbines.

"I don't want anyone waking up one day after the wind turbines are up and wonder, 'How did this happen?'" Boone said.

"Our small group has already slowed things down," said Russell Bounds. For about two years, the members have attended public hearings, met with officials, and written letters in an effort to delay construction. A lawsuit is also pending, he noted.

Among the handouts at the nearly 2½-hour meeting was a copy of a letter to the Maryland Public Service Commission – dated Sept. 16, 2004, and signed by the Garrett County commissioners – supporting Synergics' development of wind energy projects in Mary-

OLYMPIANS SPEAK AT AREA SCHOOLS – Matt Taylor and Scott Parsons, members of the 2004 Olympic Whitewater Team, visited four Garrett County schools last week. They spoke about their Olympic experience in Athens, Greece, and how their lives have been profoundly changed through their dedication to paddling. The athletes were in Garrett County to celebrate the groundbreaking of the Adventure Sports Center International. They visited Northern Middle, Accident Elementary, Southern Middle, and Broad Ford Elementary. Paddling is one of the many adventure sports that will be available to members of the public as ASCI development continues to teach children about the benefits of participating in adventure sports, said a spokesperson for ASCI. The Olympians are pictured above with Corinne Weaver, a student at Broad Ford Elementary School.

One Arrested, Two Sought In Armed Robberies

An Accident man allegedly attempting to sell marijuana was robbed in a vehicle at gunpoint by three individuals and then again at his residence by two of the individuals carrying guns and wearing ski masks earlier this month, according to Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Allegedly participating in these robberies were Darvus M. Grey, 22, Lusby, Shante Roberts, 23, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Allejandro Jose Stanford, 20, Laurel.

According to authorities, the first robbery occurred Nov. 2 when Grey, Roberts, and Stanford picked up the victim, who was allegedly selling marijuana, then drove to a nearby intersection where the two passengers pointed guns at him, took his marijuana, and made him depart on foot.

The second robbery reportedly occurred on the evening of Nov. 9 when the same victim was walking toward his residence in Accident and he was confronted by two males wearing ski masks and carrying guns. The suspects ordered the victim inside the residence and reportedly demanded money and drugs. The victim produced a quantity of money and the suspects departed without incident, police said.

Stanford was arrested near Close Road in McHenry after GBI learned the suspects lived in the area. Search warrants on two sep-

Cabinet Manufacturer Expected To Build Plant At KR Industrial Park

It appears that the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park will be the site of American Woodmark's newest plant and will employ an estimated 250 people. The facility is expected to be a dimension mill where green lumber is rough cut, kiln dried, and shipped on to an American Woodmark component plant – one of which is located in Moorefield, W.Va. – for further finishing work.

Because of confidentiality agreements, however, local and state officials are unable to comment on project specifics until American Woodmark's public relations consultants sign-off on a press release. That information may be released as early as tomorrow (Nov. 19) or Monday, according to Garrett County officials.

According to the corporation's web site, American Woodmark is one of the three largest manufacturers of kitchens cabinets in the United States and is a leading manufacturer of kitchen cabinets and vanities for the remodeling and new home construction markets.

Headquartered in Winchester, Va., the company has more than 3,000 employees and operates 14 manufacturing facilities in Arizona, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia, and various service centers across the country.

The company's 15th facility, an assembly plant, is being constructed along Rt. 220 at the Barton Business Park near Cumberland and is expected to be in operation early next year. The company's plant at Keyser's Ridge would be its 16th.

American Woodmark was formed in 1980 and became a public company through a common stock offering in July 1986. Its shares are traded on the NASDAQ National Market under the symbol AMWD.

The company offers more than 150 lines of cabinets in various designs, materials, and finishes. Its products are sold on a national basis through a network of independent distributors and directly to home centers – such as Lowe's and the Home Depot – major builders, and home manufacturers.

According to Hoover's Online: The Business Information Authority, American Woodmark had $667.5 million in sales and a net income of $31.7 million for Fiscal Year 2004.

More information about the company is available online at americanwoodmark.com.

Man Charged With Second Juvenile Rape

A Mtn. Lake Park man arrested by police last month for allegedly raping a 13-year-old girl faces a second set of charges stemming from a reported rape of a 12-year-old-girl, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Nicholas Richard Kerr, 18, is accused of forcing the 12-year-old female to have sex in a wooded area near Broadford Park earlier this year. Although the incident occurred while Kerr was 17, Maryland law automatically waives juveniles age 16 and above to adult status in certain cases.

This incident was discovered while police were investigating another incident during which Kerr was alleged to have forced a 13-year-old female to have sex. In each case Kerr has been charged with first- and second-degree rape and second-degree assault.

Kerr remains held in the Garrett County Detention Center without bond.

by Jo Donaldson
Garrett County
Chamber of Commerce

More than 100 people attended the 2004 Our Story Conference last Friday. The conference offered a strategic look at Mountain Maryland with featured leaders speaking on education, politics, and the economics of business.

"Maryland is America in Miniature, and Garrett County is its western gateway," said Dennis Castleman, chief marketing officer for Maryland. He is also executive director of the Maryland Office of Tourism and assistant secretary for tourism, film and the arts. "Tourism marketing is concentrating on the whole state, from its beaches to its mountains, its cities and its history," he said.

Referring to a recent ad campaign that has become controversial, Castleman said Governor Robert Ehrlich was a good spokesman for the state "and he's free." Tourism is the state's fourth largest industry.

Garrett Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross opened the one-day Strategic Thinking Conference, followed by Delegate George Edwards, who spoke about "exciting changes" happening in the county.

Jim Rzepkowski, Maryland assistant secretary for business development of the rural region, urged business leaders to hold legislators accountable. "When asked 'What can you do?' follow the Governor's lead about business leaders 'getting dangerous,'" he said.

"Look at the records of your legislators and withhold campaign contributions to those who do not support business. Communicate with others about issues and continue to testify at legislative hearings."

William W. Destler, provost for the University of Maryland and senior vice president for academic affairs, discussed university programs and expansion and how the university can help Mountain Maryland prosper.

Andrew Sherman, a capital partner in the Washington, D.C., office of McDermott, Will & Emery LLP, gave morning and afternoon workshops focusing on business growth and networking for small businesses.

The "Economics of Utility Deregulation" was discussed by Patricia A. Smith, Esq., the People's Counsel of Maryland, and Candace Donoho, legislative director for the Maryland Municipal League.

The "trifecta" of events included the ribbon cutting at Garrett Container Systems and ceremonial groundbreaking for the Adventure Sports Center International.

Remembering the troops and doing whatever possible to help was a key theme at Garrett Container Systems as the ribbon was cut on the new Deployment Readiness building. The special metal containers made by the company were displayed as well as samples of the equipment shipped in them to soldiers overseas.

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett said the company was a good example of pursuing the American dream and realizing it by working with the federal Hub Zone program. Small businesses employ more than half of the employees in the country and more than half of new inventions and creativity come from small businesses.

Lt. Shane Kennedy of the Defense Contract Management Agency cut the ribbon and thanked the company for being dependable and always on time. Garrett Container Systems provides the tools for the men and women in the armed forces.

At the Adventure Sports Center International groundbreaking ceremony, the congressman stressed that more people are traveling at home instead of overseas, and more of them are taking vacations that will keep them healthy.

Olympic team members Matt Taylor and Scott Parsons helped operate the earth-digging machine for the recirculating whitewater course on top of Marsh Mountain. Because of weather conditions, others watched on a live feed from the Lodge at Wisp, and buses took people to see the site.

"It was a great day for Garrett County," said Ross. All three events were well attended, and all three showcased Garrett County and how it is moving forward to meet community, industry and educational needs.

Also taking part in the Our Story Conference were Garrett College president Dr. Steve Herman, director of Garrett County Economic Development Jim Hinebaugh, and Garrett County Technology Development officer Frank Shap.

Sponsors were Beitzel Corporation, Cintas, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, MeadWestvaco, Mettiki Coal, TDEC, Total Biz Fulfillment/Hobby House Press, Verizon, and Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort.

Others speaking at Garrett Container Systems were Edwards, Senator John Hafer, Commissioner Ernie Gregg, and Garrett Container owner Don Morin. At ASCI were Edwards, Gregg, and ASCI board member Peter V. Stanton. State officials took part in all three events.

Award Winners Honored At Our Story Conference

Olen Beitzel, Kevin Potter, Kim Durst, Rob Michael, and Kurt Heckman were recognized at the Our Story Conference last week for their contributions to the county and community.

Beitzel of Beitzel Corporation was recognized as the Entrepreneur of the Year for companies with over 20 employees. He said he believed from the beginning that if Beitzel Corporation built its reputation on the traditional American concept of hard work, technical competence, and integrity, it would be successful. The company's 150 individuals now provide a wide range of specialized services, as well as complete turn-key projects. Currently they are excavating the Adventure Sports Whitewater Course.

The Entrepreneur of the Year award for companies with under 20 employees went to Kevin Potter of Point View Inn & Motel. Since taking over the helm of Point View Inn, Potter has been active in both business and community events to promote his business and keep his employees busy.

The 2004 winner of the Employee of the Year, known as the "Results Not Excuses" award, was Kim Durst, administrative assistant in the Garrett County Department of Economic Development. Originally hired to perform general secretarial duties, Durst "jumped in" and requested additional duties, said Jim Hinebaugh, director of Garrett County Economic Development.

She now attends the bimonthly Development Corporation meetings and performs a variety of duties, including preparing an anniversary booklet and updating the county's community inventory. Co-workers say she always finds a way to keep busy and to lessen the workload of other employees.

Heckman, president of Sycamore Associates, was recognized as a "Mover and Shaker." His business, which provides IT and network software support to federal and commercial clients, was one of the first businesses to locate in the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC). He has hired more than 10 Garrett County residents and seven Garrett College interns. He markets his company and Garrett County through active promotion of the SBA Hub Zone program to federal procurement officials, as well as elected officials.

Locating in Garrett County was a good business move, he said. "I hope I haven't scratched the surface yet."

Mentor of the Year was Rob Michael of State Farm Insurance. Having served the community for more than 30 years in the insurance and financial business, Michael is a "true leader" in customer service and marketing, said Garrett Chamber president Charlie Ross. "He is always willing to give aid and advice and has served on many volunteer boards and agencies. He has received many national honors for his effective operation, but more impressive is the length of time he works with his staff and the community."

The new award program was started at the November 2003 Our Story Conference to recognize community leaders. This year's conference awards were presented by Ross, Delegate George Edwards, Tim Magrath from Senator Paul Sarbanes' office, Juliana Albowitz from Senator Barbara Mikulski's office, and Hinebaugh.

During my lengthy recovery from major surgery, I want to extend my appreciation to all of my friends and neighbors who have been helping me through this process. They include Dr. Walch, Dr. Savopoulos, Ernie, Debbie, Little Ernie, Larry (Beau), Don, the employees at the pharmacy in Terra Alta, and many others. Thank you for your kindness.

SHS, NHS Bands Fare Well At Championships

Garrett County was represented well at last weekend's Atlantic Coast Championships, a several-state competition of high school marching bands, held in Scranton, Pa. Both the Southern and the Northern high school marching bands took part in the event.

Having won first place in the Chapter XIII Championships (Group I) the weekend before, Southern went into the competition in the top 25, seeded 15th. Northern competed in the second tier, consisting of the next 25 bands determined by season scores.

In the championships held Sunday, Northern came in second in the second 25, and won trophies for Best Music, Best Brass, and Best Marching.

Southern came in 18th in the top 25, and was awarded a special bronze medal.

Further information about the championships was unavailable at press time. (Note: The score provided to the newspaper for Northern's performance at the Chapter XIII competition was incorrect. It was reported as an 82.9, but was actually an 85.25.)

Allegany Man Charged With DUI After Crash

An Allegany County man faces charges including driving under the influence filed Saturday by Maryland State Police troopers after he reportedly fled the scene of a vehicle accident along New Germany Road.

Chad Lucas Custer, 25, Barton, was driving north when he allegedly ran off the roadway shortly before 6 a.m. and struck a tree. He then drove for another three miles before he pulled off north of Frank Brenneman Road.

Custer and his passenger, Shelly Lynn Eversole, 27, of Cumberland, were both transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Custer was also charged with negligent driving and violating a license restriction. Details on his release from police custody were not made available.

Oakland Man Faces Drunk Driving Charges

An Oakland man faces many drunk driving charges following an investigation of a reported motor vehicle accident on Fingerboard Road shortly after midnight on Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jesse Nolan Skipper, 19, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while impaired, violating a license restriction, and failure to reduce speed on a narrow and winding roadway.

He was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Oakland firefighters also assisted on the scene.

In other police news, deputies are investigating a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 135 near Altamont Road at approximately 1 a.m. on Sunday. Initial investigation revealed that the driver of a 2004 GMC truck left the scene.

GARRETT CONTAINER UNVEILS EXPANSION – A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held at Garrett Container Systems last week for the dedication of the Deployment Readiness building, which is a 13,000 square foot expansion for military contracts. Speakers at the ceremony were Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, assistant deputy secretary for the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development Jim Rzepkowski, Senator John Hafer, Delegate George Edwards, USN Lt. Shane Kenney, and Don Morin, president of Garrett Container. Pictured above, from the left, are Delegate Robert McKee, Liz Morin, Don Morin, Clark Morin, Commissioner Dave Beard, Hafer, Kenney, Rzepkowski, Bartlett, Edwards, Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday, and Jim Hinebaugh of Garrett County Economic Development.

Christmas On Main Street Set For Dec. 3 And 4

The annual Christmas on Main Street celebration will be held on Friday, Dec. 3, and Saturday, Dec. 4, in downtown Oakland.

Festivities will begin on Friday at 5 p.m., with food, sleigh rides, vendors, carolers, and the coronation of the Snowflake Queen and Court. The parade will begin at 6:15 p.m. with the arrival of Santa.

Immediately following the parade, Santa will be available for pictures in the gazebo beside the Historical Society Museum. The Garrett Reading Council will read Christmas stories at the train station from 7 to 8 p.m., with candy canes and bookmarks on hand for the children.

Saturday events will begin at 8 a.m. at the train station, with free hot chocolate and donuts with Santa until 9 a.m.

Persons interested in selling food or crafts may contact Pam Trickett at 301-334-4272.

For questions and other information, persons may call Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026.

Grantsville Men Sentenced For Burglary Charge

Tim Lee Bittinger and Michael Keith Fazenbaker, both of Grantsville, were each sentenced this week by Judge Jim Sherbin to five years in the Division of Corrections for first-degree burglary. The judge suspended all but six months of the sentences, which they will serve in the Garrett County Jail.

Upon their release, Bittinger, 20, and Fazenbaker, 23, will be on probation, with conditions including the payment of restitution.

The men were two of five persons – four adults and one juvenile – who were charged for burglarizing an Oakland-area residence last December. According to the Garrett County state's attorney, a quantity of cash as well as a muzzleloader and other miscellaneous items were taken during the burglary.

The two other adults had previously pleaded guilty and served jail sentences, and the juvenile was adjudicated delinquent and was committed to the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services.

Trio Faces Drug Charges After MSP Traffic Stop

A New Yorker and two West Virginia residents were jailed on drug charges Monday afternoon after a traffic stop on Interstate 68 in eastern Garrett County, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

Steven Jacob Young, 46, of Bronx, N.Y., and Andrew Nathaniel Little, 24, and Qualyn Lee, 26, both of Fairmont, were each charged with distribution and possession of cocaine and marijuana.

At 1:20 p.m., Trooper J.P. Grinnan stopped a 2005 Dodge driven by Young, with Little as a passenger, as it was traveling east, two miles east of Lower New Germany Road, at 92 miles per hour in a 65 mph zone. As he approached the vehicle, Grinnan noted the odor of suspected burnt marijuana. After a police canine drug detection dog alerted to the possible presence of drugs, a search was initiated that led to the recovery of suspected marijuana and $10,436 in cash.

About five minutes later, a car driven by Lee stopped to supposedly check on her friend, according to police. Another drug dog alert led police to search the 1991 Buick, finding 2½ ounces of suspected cocaine and 2½ ounces of suspected marijuana, and to recover $91.

Investigation revealed that all three occupants of the vehicles were connected with each other, police reported.

Young and Little are being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $50,000 bond each, while Lee is being held on a $25,000 bond.

Three Adults, Two Children Hurt In Crash

Five SUV occupants, including an infant and a toddler, were slightly injured late yesterday morning when their Chevrolet Blazer went out of control and rolled over several times on Bittinger Road near the Western Maryland 4-H Center. No other vehicles were involved in the 11:40 a.m. mishap, according to Maryland State Police troopers who filed charges against the driver.

Tiffany N. Shaffer, 19, of Oldtown was driving south when the 1995 Chevrolet Blazer traveled off the right shoulder. Shaffer tried to get the vehicle back onto the roadway, but overcorrected and lost control. The SUV rolled over several times across the roadway before coming to rest in a ditch against several trees.

Shaffer and her four passengers – Kristi M. Skiles, 20, and Michael W. Ward, 23, both of Grantsville; and a 1-month-old infant and a 21-month-old toddler – were each transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department also worked at the scene.

Shaffer was charged with failure to drive in a single lane.

February 5, 1913 - November 23, 2002

It has been two years since our Lord called you home. There isn't a day goes by that we don't think of you and miss seeing your lovely face. You lived a life that shared, straight from a heart that cared. We watched you walk in faith. You were a shining beacon and an inspiration to us all. You never lived for glory or fame. Your one desire was to honor His name. One day we will walk and talk with you along with many other loved ones. We will praise the Father with you and never again have to say good-bye. Your love still radiates from the hearts of all who knew you.

Lovingly remembered and missed by your family.

Citizen Action Needed — Now!

It's rare that we utilize this column to request, beg, implore, plead with our readers to take some kind of action, but today's is an exception.

Most are aware of the medical malpractice crisis that exists in many states, but that crisis has now stampeded full force into Garrett County, and unless the elected officials of the state of Maryland take some quick, significant action, Garrett County Memorial Hospital may well have to give up obstetrical services and close its maternity ward.

While all physicians and hospitals in Maryland are victims of skyrocketing premiums, Garrett Memorial and a handful of GCMH medical staff members are being affected in one way unlike any other hospital. The delivery of all babies at Garrett Memorial is done — has always been done — by family practitioners. We have no obstetrician-gynecologists, and frankly, the prospects of recruiting one are dim. However, our family docs have an outstanding record in terms of quality of pre-natal, maternity, and infant care.

The problem is that the company which provides malpractice coverage for these physicians has decided to charge them the same premiums that are being charged to the ob-gyn physicians, and the premiums for this specialty are among the highest in the nation. Those new rates will take effect January 1, and they will be three or four times what our four physicians who deliver babies are paying now. Ob-gyn malpractice premiums can be as high as $150,000 annually. This is simply an unaffordable situation, both for these four doctors and for our hospital. Loss of obstetrical services at Garrett Memorial will have an absolutely devastating effect on our county and surrounding areas of West Virginia. It would even, almost guaranteed, cost us the lives of some of our newborns.

There is likely little anyone can do to try to persuade the insurance company to make an exception for our doctors. But what we can do is push hard to get our legislature to act by passing some major tort reform, which should include capping the amount of money that persons can be awarded in malpractice cases for "pain and suffering." The states of California and Indiana have done this, and the malpractice rates for all physicians, not just ob-gyns, have not jumped nearly as high as they have in states that have no cap. Maryland must do this if we are to maintain our obstetrical services now, and if we are to maintain our hospital in the future.

Without significant tort reform, not only will obstetrics be in jeopardy, but so will most of the other services provided by our hospital and medical staff, because rates for such specialties as orthopedics, psychiatry, and emergency room care are also jumping dramatically.

We could, and may, write several more columns about this impending disaster for our community. But for now, we are begging our readers to turn to page 9 in this section (right now so you don't forget), sign the letter that appears there, clip it out, and mail it to the hospital, which will see to it that all three branches of Maryland government receive a copy. Make copies for every member of the family to sign. Our on-line readers may download a copy of the letter from our web site, sign it, and mail it. Telephone calls and e-mails to elected officials are also strongly encouraged. A copy of this issue of The Republican is also being mailed to each of Maryland's 146 delegates and 46 senators, as well as to Governor Ehrlich, each of whom has been made aware of its impending arrival via an e-mail.

We cannot over-emphasize how desperate this situation has become and how important it is that the people of Garrett County and surrounding areas that are served by Garrett County Memorial Hospital join in this effort.

FOUNTAINEBLEAU

The world had been crowding my soul, and there are few lonelier places for a soul than in a crowd. I have learned in life to distinguish loneliness from solitude. I have also learned exercises for transforming one into the other.

Friends had told me about Fontainebleau. It is a charming town 45 minutes by train southeast of Paris with an exquisite royal chateau, marvelous gardens and many square miles of forest.

I picked a day, bought the appropriate Michelin Guide, and off I went.

The day was typical of autumn in its perfection. It began crystal clear and crisp. The sun tempted me to mistake its light for warmth. The day was warm enough for November, but no more.

"Chateau" is a tricky word in French. Well, all right, all their words are tricky. The literal translation is "castle." In fact very few French chateaux are castles, though many of them are located on sites where some small donjon (a single defensive tower) once stood. A "chateau" can be a not-all-that-special a house, called a "chateau" because there are grapes growing in the front yard. It can also be a vast expanse of buildings and dependencies having been built by one of the kings or grandees of France.

The chateau of Fontainebleau is of the latter sort, having been associated with kings and emperors of France from the early 1500s. It is something of an architectural time machine which permits the twenty-first century visitor to imagine the lives of French rulers from François I to the last French monarch, Emperor Napoleon III.

All of the rooms on display are of historical interest, but some of them are also stunning. My two favorite rooms were both created under the Renaissance eye of François I who brought Leonardo da Vinci and the Mona Lisa to France. The first is a long, wood-paneled gallery. As royal decoration goes, it is a simple room, made magnificent by its length and the seven large windows which flood it with sunlight.

The second is a ballroom. The entry to the ballroom is through a dark, narrow, low-ceilinged corridor. One emerges into the ballroom as from a cave. The effect is breathtaking.

There are windows on both sides, accented by deep alcoves, with a high ceiling, beautifully worked and again the wood paneling on the walls. At the far end is a gigantic fireplace which only seems just the right size in this splendid hall.

When I arrived there was renaissance music playing. It was only a recording, but one could imagine the king at the far end, standing by the fire place where trunks of trees would be burning. As one moved toward the king, it would be the music of an ensemble playing, but less than perfectly audible for the murmuring din of the courtiers.

It was a room in which I should like to give a party.

The Paradise that Adam and Eve lost was a garden. Given that Our Lord in his resurrected body was mistaken for a gardener, I have a reasonable hope that the Paradise to come is also a garden. If those observations are valid, then every garden participates in Paradise. So I find my bearings in any garden as I do in few other places.

The smallest of the gardens at Fontainebleau belongs to Diana of the hunt. She stands in its midst with her stag and her hounds sculpted into a bronze fountain. There are two large gardens of about equal size, one an English garden and the other a formal French garden. Besides the gardens there is a park of size equal to all the rest of the chateau and grounds. It is nearly a mile long.

What the French call an English garden has the effect of wildness, as if it were the work of nature and not of man. The second requirement is that there be lots of typical English species. There is plenty of yew at Fontainebleau, for example.

At the center of the English garden is a small lake with a tiny island in the middle, upon which is built a hexagonal pavilion, all stone and glass. The day was still and the air luminescent. The water looked as if to be walked upon, but none dared. It mirrored all the world around it and the pavilion it mirrored perfectly.

That is the most enduring scene which the day gave me: the solitary pavilion and its image, behind and beyond it the gold-hued chateau in the late afternoon sunlight, all framed by nature in the amber hues of autumn.

After leaving the chateau and grounds, I did a little window shopping in the town, and then chased my bus to its next stop, climbed aboard, and returned to the train station. Twenty minutes later I was on my way, back to Paris.

Night had fallen. My legs were tired, but my soul was refreshed. A day in Fontainebleau was behind me and in me, and I was ready to go on.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This letter is to address the current medical liability premium crisis in Maryland, and more specifically, in Garrett County.

I have been a family physician in Oakland for the last 24 years, and I include obstetrics in my practice. Three weeks ago my partner Dr. Gotsch and I received preliminary notification of a liability premium increase of 86%, come January 1, 2005. A week later, two months and three days before this was to take effect, we were notified that our carrier (The Doctors' Company) would no longer write us a policy which covered family practice doing OB.

Dr. Gotsch, who was already thinking of moving because of not enough free time for her family, decided to definitely move and to actually move her timetable up to leave sooner than originally planned.

A new family physician that the hospital had recruited arrived here in September, unaware that this crisis was brewing. He says he would never have considered coming here if he'd known how critical the situation was.

Two years ago I had set a timetable to stop delivering babies at the end of 2004, but had agreed to continue until the end of 2005, until at least one more physician could be found. Now, with this liability crisis, and looking at the possible discontinuation of obstetrics at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Dr. Savopoulos, Dr. Buczynski, and I have come to an agreement with the hospital to continue obstetrics at least one more year. During that time we hope to see meaningful liability insurance reform such that we can recruit new physicians to this area and continue to provide deliveries at this hospital.

What are the financial considerations? Med Mutual is the only medical liability company in Maryland that will insure new doctors delivering babies, but only at the rate for obstetricians, who because of their gynecologic surgery, work at a higher pay scale. Yet across the state, obstetricians as well are retiring early, moving, or discontinuing the obstetrics part of their practice. Cumberland is a prime example of that, where half of the OB/GYNs are stopping obstetrics, and two of those remaining will not accept medical assistance. If Garrett Memorial closes its OB doors, where will our 270 pregnant women go for care, 70% of whom have medical assistance? Cumberland will have five doctors doing the work of ten. A large portion of our patients, including Maryland residents, will probably end up going to West Virginia, already a very distressed state liability-wise.

It's fairly obvious that Garrett County Memorial Hospital must in the long term consider closing its obstetric doors, simply recommending to patients that they drive down the road. In my opinion, that would set back obstetric care 60 years to when there was no hospital here.

We have a significant Amish population that does not own cars—they get to our offices and the hospital by tractor, by neighbors, or by paying someone. Many of our Medicaid patients have trouble keeping appointments due to lack of transport, and some come in for delivery by ambulance. The picture I see is that the Amish may resort to minimally trained midwives without back-up, and that the prenatal care for the majority will slide precipitously. (Currently, with cooperation from the doctors and the health department, we have one of the best prenatal care rates in the state.)

And let's not forget the weather. For four months we get significant snow here, as you may remember from national weather coverage a couple years ago when we had the largest snowfall of the year. A one-hour trip to Cumberland or Morgantown becomes two or more hours on dangerously slick roads.

For those patients south of us toward Timberline Ski Resort, the trip is longer, the weather worse, and the roads less well-maintained.

The problem is that this is just the tip of the iceberg. We're rural, the periphery, the minority, the oddballs (family practice doing obstetrics), and because we're small, we don't have much of a safety cushion. Our hospital (and others in Maryland) had to take a risk and self-insure, because insurance just isn't affordable. Liability insurance for our ER physicians just wasn't to be found at a reasonable cost.

But you can't run a hospital like this without an ER, so GCMH is backing its ER doctors. Nursing home coverage has suddenly become a high-risk undertaking! One of our physicians is having to scale back nursing home care in West Virginia. Even our family physicians not doing obstetrics or other high-risk procedures had a liability premium increase of 100%. Obviously there's a crisis in Maryland, just as there is in 22 other states, and will be in most of the other states soon. We need help here in Garrett County in the short term, but there needs to be a long-term fix, here and throughout the state, as well as the nation. The system needs a complete overhaul. We need your help and support to fix the system.

Thank you for reading.

To the Editor:

The Godless communist philosophy says it is necessary to sacrifice a few for the good of the many.

Commissioner Beard says, "Having everyone paying a small amount seems fair enough to me."

Commissioner Gregg says, "While this obviously is not going to please everybody, it is for the good of the whole."

County administrator Pagenhardt says, "We're helping the county as a whole."

Only Commissioner Holliday and Mtn. Lake Park Mayor Leo Martin took a democratic stance and opposed these communistic/socialist views. Congratulations to both!

Our water system was paid for by the citizens of Loch Lynn and Mtn. Lake Park, and until the advent of bureaucracy when liberal/socialists created jobs for their incompetent friends, we had the best water in the state. Now it is not fit for drinking! In fact, bottled water companies put drinking water into city halls and other public buildings (an additional cost to the citizens).

If this is "for the good of the whole," why isn't the general public entitled to bottled water in their homes at taxpayer expense?

Democracy must return to Garrett County. Vote these socialists out.

To the Editor:

This year when the students of the Renaissance Early Learning Center give thanks, they will include the generous offices and businesses of their hometown. Again this year we were invited by our neighbors downtown to "show off" all of our little ghosts and goblins during our Halloween parade. Thank you to Towne Restaurant, Mark IV Office Supplies, the Clipper Ship, Gonder Insurance, Gregg's Pharmacy, and M&T Bank for showing us their kindness by inviting us during their work day and providing us with special treats.

The parents of our preschoolers were impressed by your generosity, and our students thoroughly enjoyed singing their Halloween songs for you.

Thank you so very much, and we hope that you are aware of the impact that you have made on these little ones. Have a very happy holiday season.

Happy Thanksgiving!
The Students, Families, and Staff of the Renaissance Early Learning Center

To the Editor:

In regard to last week's proposal by the county commissioners to adopt a new policy to cover capital water and sewer systems, I, like probably many other county residents, strongly disagree with this policy.

This may or may not only cater to those who actually need the new system, but it also takes hard-earned money from those who are already on fixed incomes and for the ones who are unfortunate not to have decent-paying jobs.

You see, making everyone pay a little may sound good and dandy, but in all reality, what it does is put even a bigger squeeze on those citizens who live on a limited budget. Sure, it's not bad for someone who pays 26k a year at the lake for taxes, let alone enough money to afford such a place. This is only a drop in the bucket for them. Therefore, making the average worker and resident pay for something that's to their disadvantage, that's not going to benefit them, is outrageous.

I guess maybe when all the private residential water and septic systems fail, and have to have a new well drilled, septics pumped, and lines dug up, then maybe the commissioners can take some of the money from the set-aside escrow account to cover the cost and expenses to do so, for us.

Sincerely,
Jerry Tasker

To the Editor:

Last week in this column, I encouraged readers to consider a donation of time or money to the Rotary Christmas Project or to another service organization of personal choice. I would like to remind readers that donations to the Rotary Christmas Project provide gifts for children and food for families and senior citizens who cannot afford the items themselves. This year, the number of applications has increased by 125 households, many of them headed by senior citizens. Monetary donations of any amount can be mailed to the Oakland Rotary Club, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550, or they may be given to any Rotarian.

If you enjoy shopping, consider purchasing a gift item from one of the Rotary Trees placed throughout the community. If you have time to give, especially on December 10 and 11 during the assembly and delivery of food boxes, please contact any Rotarian or Rotarian Daryl Walters at 301-334-7601.

I would also like to mention the county's sole agency providing shelter to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, the Dove Center. Throughout the year, the Dove Center maintains an agency wish list of items needed to maintain the shelter. Often the needs are simple, such as toiletries and cleaning supplies. In the holiday season, the agency's needs increase as they serve children and families during what should normally be a time of celebration. If you would like more information about the holiday wish lists and needs of the Dove Center, please contact them at 301-334-9000.

Whether it is to the Rotary Christmas Project, the Dove Center, Warm the Children, or another service organization of your choice, please consider a gift of time or money. Your generosity can truly make this a season of giving! It will also help make this a happier, healthier–even safer–holiday season for someone in our community.

Sincerely,
Erica Mowbray
Oakland

To the Editor:

The citizens of Garrett County need to be aware of what is certainly a "sea change" in the way your tax dollars can be used and react to it now!

The two county commissioners who have voted to take more of your money and throw it at any development project that is "approved" for sewer and water need to be made aware that they have just made a tremendous error as to what the overtaxed folks here will stand for.

While Mr. Holliday and I have not always seen "eye to eye," I have to commend him for his stance on this issue.

Under this new policy, long after the towns and others have paid for their own sewer and water systems, they would be using your tax dollars for other projects that could never have been considered without the extra funds from us.

In my opinion, these "projects" are not by any means equal to public education and to me, to try to describe it as that insults most people's intelligence! This is more likely to try for a "free ride" and a "blank check" for more development at the lake! They couldn't squeeze enough money out of the "lake people" for future expansion at

State Considering Sale Of Parcels Including GC Park, Forest Acreage

The state of Maryland has reviewed all land held by all state agencies, and has compiled a list of 2,900 acres of land that could be sold if the state deems necessary, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources announced this week. The list, which includes nine parcels of various sizes in Garrett County, has been on file at the Maryland Department of Planning for nearly a year, and any sales would have to undergo a thorough review including a public comment period.

The list was made public after a public records request by the Baltimore Sun, which was investigating an ongoing controversy involving a 836-acre forest tract in Southern Maryland that the state purchased recently. The Erhlich administration is accused of buying the property with the intent of selling it at cost to a building contractor who allegedly planned to subdivide the property for a housing development.

The Garrett County parcels on the list, totaling 256 acres, are located in Deep Creek Lake State Park; Garrett, Potomac, and Savage River state forests; and the Youghiogheny River Natural Environment Area. (A detailed list of the local parcels, and instructions on how to view maps of the properties on the Internet, appears at the end of this article.)

The list also includes an area property that has been in the sale process for several years, the 584 acres the state owns as a buffer strip surrounding Deep Creek Lake. A "buy down" is currently under way to sell the buffer strip acreage to interested adjacent property owners.

Shortly after taking office, Governor Robert Erhlich asked for a list of lands that could be sold to reduce the cost of government while increasing the state's treasury coffer. One of the several criteria for the review was to identify lands where the cost of management exceeded the benefit of public use.

"Conservation/recreation land management does have significant administrative, staffing, operation, maintenance, and infrastructure costs," explained DNR communications director Stephan Abel. "The assessment did identify those areas where operational and fiscal efficiencies could be realized.

"In April 2003, all state agencies conducted a comprehensive assessment of Deep Creek so they have to try to sell the rest of us on using our "general fund" money as well.

I'd be more likely to compare it to the communist system that ultimately provides an under-the-table way to take your money forever to subsidize this handout for the politically connected. Unless these commissioners reverse their decision on this new policy now before any money is committed or spent, they will find that they have condemned themselves to the voters to such an extent that they should never expect to be elected to public office again!

Furthermore, to the developers and others who support these measures for your own gains, you are awakening the average citizens here who still have a vote as to how this county is run, and I predict they will demand that this board of commissioners bring this new policy to an abrupt halt or we will put in office those who will provide real tax relief for the "little guy" who desperately needs it and put a complete stop to public funds being poured into Deep Creek Lake projects anytime, anywhere, in the future!

To The Editor:

In reply to last week's letter from Phil Malone, I offer the following. The public meeting held 11/11 was an opportunity to hear additional facts regarding placement of industrial wind generators in Garrett County. Contrary to Mr. Malone's assumption, representatives from Industrial Wind proponents were present and nobody was ejected (or lynched).

For the record, the production, printing, and mass mailing of letters and informational brochures were in no way sponsored by Spenger-Lang. Use of the Pleasant Valley Community Center was not paid for by Sprenger-Lang. The front-page article in the 11-4-04 Republican, "Anti-Windfarm Group Slates Public Meeting," was not written by any member of Friends of Backbone Mountain or the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. The ¼-page ad titled "Learn more about Industrial Windplants in Garrett County" was paid for by Sprenger-Lang and accurately stated the reason for the meeting. Lots of good information was shared by experts with zero financial incentive to them. One of those facts about wind power is that it will not decrease the use of any fossil fuels for power generation, contrary to Mr. Malone's statement.

The biggest issue is that enforceable and appropriate siting regulations for these really huge machines do not exist. The Friends of Backbone Mountain advocates a moratorium on all wind projects until regulations have been honestly and objectively developed for industrial wind facilities. The main concerns are wildlife safety, heritage protection, surrounding property value impact (it drops!), and big quality of life nuisance issues such as noise and light pollution.

The truth is that there are huge profits to be made by out-of-county developers through taxpayer subsidies! A few local property owners have been lured into signing agreements that will pay a very small amount of money relative to what the developers receive. Wind-project controversy is placing neighbor against neighbor and will increase the taxes for everyone except the developers who receive the production tax credits.

Green, renewable, inexpensive electricity is not wind power. The best place to site huge wind-powered electricity generators is well off shore where the wind is plentiful and where people don't live.

We want a win-win solution to this issue. An ongoing leadership deficit at all levels continues to make this an emotionally charged, disputed, confusing issue. If wind projects move forward, it will be too late for any of this discussion and many people will wonder how the 40-story machines along Maryland's highest mountain range were ever approved.

Sincerely,
Eric Tribbey

EDMUND P. WAWZINSKI

On Oct. 19, 2004, Edmund Paul Wawzinski moved on from life on this planet to a more peaceful place. Ed passed away two days shy of his 68th birthday. He spent his last few months in Tucson, Ariz., with his daughter Kitty Pokorny and her husband Martin.

He is also survived by his daughter Elizabeth Hammar of Boise, Idaho, son Norman Wawzinski of Boulder, Colo., and sister Stella Rice of Wheeling, W.Va.

After battling cancer for several years, and finally participating in experimental trials, Ed succumbed to his cancer. We thank the kind and dedicated hospice workers who cared for him in his final months.

Ed fought off cancer for several years while at his home in Garrett County. During this time, he lived true to form, independent by every measure. Although it was not in his nature to solicit help, he received much support from neighbors, friends, and the community.

We thank all of those who brought meals and offered kindness to our father in his time of need. He was indeed grateful to you all, and missed the friends and community he left behind in Garrett County.

Those who knew our dad remember his love of learning, reading, and philosophy. He had a never-ending joy of engaging people in conversation, and showed interest and compassion for everyone he met. He was indeed a thinker and an inventor who will be missed by many and whose legacy will live on through his inventions.

In Loving Memory
Georgia Mize

May 20, 1920 -
November 16, 2002

Sadly missed by your Garrett County family,
Hallie, Sylvia, Gary,
Amanda, Jason, Ary,
Jennifer, Joey

The Broken Chain

We little knew that morning that God was going to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
You did not go alone;
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide;
and though we cannot see you,
you are always at our side.

Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same;
but as God calls us one by one,
the Chain will link again.

On Your Birthday, I'll Remember

December 2, 1929 - June 27, 1977

I'll remember you when the flowers bloom
Early in the spring.
I'll remember you on sunny days
In the fun that summer day
In the fun that summer brings.

I remember you in fall
As we walked through leaves of gold.
In the wintertime I'll remember you
As all my memories of you unfold.

But each day I'll remember
Every day right from the start.
You will always be forever near
Because you live within my heart.

I still miss you, Joanna

Our Precious Uncle Jud

We'll love you always and forever.

We'll miss your visits from our house to yours.

We'll miss your smile and hugs and kisses;

The smell of your cologne that you left on our clothes after a visit.

We'll miss the peanut butter candy you made for us.

But most of all, Uncle, the very precious furniture that you made us fills our home and hearts with your love and memories forever.

We were all so very blest to have you in our lives.

You were the best Great- and Great-Great-Uncle any neices could ever want.

Always in our hearts,
Tammy, Jenessa, Jenna Sue & Cortney

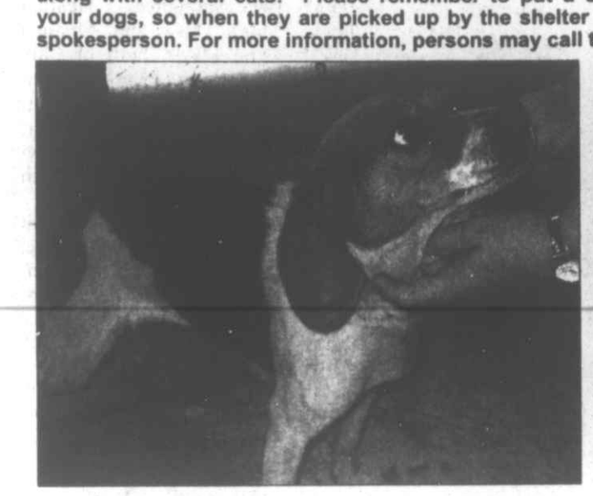
Adorable Adoptables

LIZZY IS A LONG HAIRED CALICO (pictured above left) who is spayed, declawed, and looking for a new home where she can be kept inside. Also available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter are two female beagles. Not much is known about them except that they seem healthy and friendly. Pictured below is a young female tabby who was brought in as a stray. "She is very loving," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Three of last week's featured dogs were reclaimed, and one was adopted. One mixed breed is still available, along with several cats. "Please remember to put a collar and identification on your dogs, so when they are picked up by the shelter we can call you," said the spokesperson. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.



GRANTSVILLE NEWS

GRANTSVILLE SCHOOL

The PTO will sponsor a Movie Night on Friday, Nov. 19, at 6 p.m. The movie for the evening will be The Santa Clause. Refreshments will follow. All students and their families are invited to attend.

GRANTSVILLE SENIOR CENTER

The center will be open Friday, Nov. 26, to celebrate "Black Friday," the biggest shopping day of the Christmas season. Seniors will be informed as to how to purchase holiday gifts on a budget, create their own personalized gifts for much less, explore different methods of shopping without leaving home, and learn the basics of gift wrapping and presentation. The day will include a pot-luck luncheon, and anyone wishing to bring a covered dish may contact Leona Lavin at 301-895-5818.

The center has started taking orders for pumpkin pies and the cost is $4. The pies will be ready for pickup on Tuesday, Nov. 23, and Wednesday, Nov. 24, for the Thanksgiving holiday. Orders may be placed by calling the senior center at 301-895-5818.

GOODWILL VILLAGE

The village will once again sponsor an "Adopt a Door Contest" for the nursing home and assisted living residents. Friends and family members are invited to adopt a resident's room door and decorate it for the Christmas holiday. Persons interested in participating should inform Linda Beitzel or Julia Tice by Nov. 22.

The decorations cannot hinder entrance or exit from the rooms, and decorators must provide their own supplies. The residents will vote on their favorite door on Dec. 6, and recognition prizes will be awarded.

CASSELMAN VALLEY AYSO

Participants selling the citrus fruit are reminded that all orders are to be returned by Friday, Nov. 19. Anyone with questions or concerns may call 301-895-3300, evenings.

A son was born to Lisa Renée (Robinette) and Clinton Ray Harvey, Oakland, on Oct. 15 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

TO ALL RESIDENTS OF GARRETT COUNTY AND THE SURROUNDING AREA:

I am writing on behalf of the physicians of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. It is our honor and privilege to serve the people of this great community and provide the best medical care possible. There have been recent events which may put an end to some of the medical services upon which the community depends.

Medical malpractice insurance premiums have skyrocketed over the past year. Our state has quickly changed from a haven for physicians fleeing Pennsylvania and West Virginia (because of malpractice insurance costs) to one which has its own serious malpractice insurance crisis. The insurance rates have increased on average 40% this year, but some physicians have seen well over a 100% increase. This dramatic increase has been imposed upon physicians regardless of malpractice claim history. Unfortunately, the payment/reimbursement by insurance companies to physicians has not increased with the rise in the medical malpractice insurance. Until now we have endured this problem, but now it has become a desperate situation.

The hardest hit specialty in our community is obstetrics. The insurance companies are pricing obstetrical services coverage completely beyond affordability, to the point that the total amount of payment to the physician for the services for one year will equal the cost of the malpractice premium for that year. One of our well-respected family practice/obstetrics physicians is already planning to leave the county, and the malpractice insurance crisis is cited as a major factor in this decision.

Our hospital has agreed to help the obstetricians with malpractice premiums for the next year, which will be a temporary solution only. Continued problems will also make it difficult to recruit new obstetricians to the area. This year none of the graduating medical students from University of Maryland chose obstetrics as a specialty, and the primary cause of this is the malpractice insurance costs. If a long-term solution is not found, there is a very real possibility of losing obstetrical care in our community altogether.

Please help us remain in Garrett County to continue to provide the same level of medical services by sending your support for legislative action. Tort reform changes in the legal system should ultimately decrease, or at least halt, the rising insurance costs, as it did in California. As we hope and trust we have helped you, our patients, over the years, we now ask for your help in this mutual critical hour. We desperately need for you to heed this call to action. All you need to do is write a letter to your legislators, or cut out the letter in this edition of The Republican, sign it, and send it.

Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

Charles A. Walch, M.D., F.A.C.S.

Doctors Speak Out

GARRETT COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Karl Schwalm, M.D.

For the last 24 years I have been a family physician who includes delivering babies in my practice. I have enjoyed what I do immensely, but not only that. I have pride in what I do, and in my fellow physicians and the staff at the hospital. Before me, Drs. Leighton and Pope (and others before them) built up an OB practice at our hospital that is progressive, caring, and competent. Hopefully, our patients agree that Dr. Savopoulos, Dr. Gotsch, and I have carried on and improved this tradition. Because of the liability insurance crisis, there is a very real chance that in the next year or two the hospital and doctors will not be able to afford skyrocketing insurance premiums. We desperately need our patients' and the public's assistance in getting our governor and legislature to bring about meaningful and long-term reforms. See details below about how you can help.

Rick Perry, M.D.

As each year goes by, the malpractice insurance crisis looms larger and larger as a potentially devastating problem that our community will have to deal with. Most of our citizens are unaware of how this issue will someday, inevitably, impact their lives and the health care that is provided to them and their family members.

Our Emergency Department at GCMH is staffed by competent, qualified physicians who are an asset to the hospital and the community in general. It is quite a common occurrence that individuals who live closer to other hospitals in our region will come to our hospital and its Emergency Department because they believe that our care is of very good quality.

When our hospital administrators and the emergency physicians decided that it would be in their best interests to bring the physician component of the ED back into the hospital organization, we assumed that we would have no problem with obtaining malpractice insurance as part of this effort. We were collectively shocked when we found out that the only malpractice insurer available in the state of Maryland would not even give us a quote for insurance costs. The insurer had apparently decided that high liability risk areas of medicine–such as anesthesia, OB/GYN, emergency departments, and others–would force the company to impose substantial insurance premium rate hikes or, in fact, might prevent it from providing any insurance coverage at all. We were forced, in the end, to go to Lloyds of London to obtain insurance, at astronomically high rates, in order to keep our Emergency Department open.

We, as a community, must do everything we can to fix this system that rewards only the lawyers for perceived problems in health care delivery. The consumer does not benefit from the current system because much of one's health care dollars are wasted, as we are at times forced to practice defensive medicine.

Sotiere Savopoulos, M.D.

I have been a physician practicing at Garrett Memorial Hospital for over 11 years. I have enjoyed immensely being able to provide family medicine, including obstetrical services, to the people in Garrett and the surrounding counties. It is unfortunate now that the malpractice crisis and the quickly escalating cost of malpractice insurance to cover obstetrics is threatening our ability to continue obstetrician services here.

As the cost for malpractice insurance to cover obstetrics continues to increase, it will clearly be impossible to continue to purchase that type of insurance. We have made provisions to be able to continue obstetrical services at our hospital at least for the year 2005, but we are unsure of what the future holds beyond that. I believe that it would be a severe setback to the overall health care delivered at Garrett Memorial if we are not able to provide obstetrical services. I believe that there would be increased complications for obstetrical patients who are forced to travel outside of Garrett County for care. Already Cumberland is losing a significant number of obstetrical providers because of the malpractice crisis, which will further limit our patients being able to find obstetrical services.

Another real problem is the difficulty of recruitment of new physicians to the area. We clearly need new physicians because of physician retirements and relocations. Recruitment is severely hampered by the high malpractice cost. I have been impacted by that directly as well, since possible recruits have been keenly aware of our crisis and are reluctant to come to an area that would require such a high cost for malpractice insurance premiums.

Other people believe as I believe that providing obstetrical services at GCMH is important to our entire community's well-being, and I hope you will join us in addressing this crisis situation here in our county. I believe that we can provide these services at our hospital into the future if we act now, but if we continue to allow our future to be dictated by others who do not care, I believe our health care will be set back many years.

Dona M. Alvarez, M.D.

I believe that we here in Garrett County are blessed with a great group of doctors and a complementary facility for our medical care. We physicians are here for our patients, and now our patients and our community must help to protect our future and your access to medical care.

The malpractice crisis has finally landed at our rural doorstep. It is likely that future access to certain specialties in medical care will no longer exist in Garrett County.

From broken bones to lacerations and arthritis surgery... Over the past 16 years, we have developed a 365-day per year service in our offices and in your Emergency Department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. We are solo practitioners–self-employed doctors who pay salaries, medical insurance, rent, retirement, and malpractice ourselves. The litigious atmosphere of our society and this year's large increase in insurance has serious consequences for the solo orthopaedic practitioners here in Maryland. Individuals with certain types of injuries may well be transferred to larger facilities better able to absorb the impact of increased risks of complications and litigious consequences.

We must all support malpractice reform. It does not delete one's right to legal recourse in the case of malpractice. Please write or call your governor and legislators now.

Thomas G. Johnson, M.D.

The decreasing availability and dramatic increase in the expense of liability insurance (malpractice insurance) is resulting in the loss of physicians practicing in our community. Primary care practitioners have been in short supply prior to this crisis, and their availability is going to noticeably diminish unless some dramatic steps are taken.

Patricia B. Gotsch, M.D.

I appreciate the opportunity to share with you some of the struggles that local physicians have been facing. As many people are already aware, I had been considering a change to academic medicine even before the insurance situation worsened. This has to do with being required to be on call and close to the hospital 90% of the time. The current malpractice insurance crisis has affected me in several ways. First, the situation with insurance rates makes it harder to get new doctors to come to Garrett County and help ease the burden on those already here; therefore, the insurance crisis contributed to my decision to make the move. Secondly, it also caused me to leave sooner, since the longer I stay, the more expensive it will be.

While I will certainly miss the many wonderful patients I have come to know over the years, the burden on my family has become overwhelming. I could not expect to continue working at my current pace and also to absorb exorbitant rate hikes and uncertainty as to what the future even holds in terms of job security. I commend my colleagues who are continuing to struggle with this problem, and I urge you to give them your full support. I know of many cases over the years where mothers and babies would have had much more serious problems or even died had there not been OB services available locally. Please do not let this happen in the future. Support your medical community so that they can continue to help you and your children live full and healthy lives.

David J. Paolini, M.D.

As a new general surgeon to the area, I am surprised to see the malpractice problems precipitate so quickly. This is a far-reaching problem which affects not only our liability insurance premiums but also how your medical care is delivered. Our physicians are in jeopardy of losing their coverage to practice obstetrics in Garrett County. This is only the tip of the iceberg, as many obstetricians in Cumberland have already left Maryland. It won't stop here. Other specialties will have to pay these prohibitively high tariffs in the very near future unless we act now. By letting the state and national congressional bodies know our concerns, several aspects of medical malpractice can be remedied. Without these efforts, some of the services provided by Garrett County Memorial Hospital may be squeezed out of existence.

Ken R. Buczynski, M.D.

Had this crisis surfaced just a few months earlier, I would not be practicing in Oakland, Md. Now that I am here, my heart breaks to even consider leaving this community and my patients who rely on me and GCMH to provide obstetrical services. Ever since I attended my first Friday night football game and looked at all the people who count on me and the medical community to care for them and their children, I realized I could not just leave and expect someone else to care for them. There are few who do what I do. Recruiting someone else to come here is becoming unlikely, as no physician in his/her right mind would consider practicing in an area where he pays more for medical liability insurance than he receives in reimbursement for those services which drive premiums skyward.

In short, if no fix is found for these unreasonable medical liability insurance premiums, I will not be able to survive fiscally, and will need to either stop providing OB services or altogether move to a state where I can afford to care for patients. Neither is a very palatable solution. My deepest desire is to live in Oakland and care for the people of Garrett County and the surrounding communities as my predecessors have done for the last 54 years. Failure of legislators, insurers, attorneys, and physicians to resolve this crisis will demonstrate that the leadership of the state of Maryland is disinterested in providing care for their citizens and communities.

PLEASE sign, clip, and mail this letter–or send an original letter–to: Garrett County Memorial Hospital, c/o Public Relations Dept., 251 N. Fourth Street, Oakland, MD 21550. Copies will be made and delivered by the hospital to all three branches of Maryland state government.

Dear Legislative Representative:

As a citizen and constituent of Garrett County, I am shocked to learn that the obstetrical service in our community is at risk!

And the most shocking of all is that we may lose this service locally because of the increasing cost of the physicians' malpractice insurance. This is an issue that our representatives must address and resolve, and they must do so immediately!

Garrett County has four primary care physicians who provide obstetrical care. One of those physicians plans to leave the community soon. As a rural community with one hospital and three remaining physicians to provide obstetrical care, we cannot afford to lose any more of our doctors because of the lack of affordable insurance. We simply cannot lose this service entirely.

As American citizens we expect our legislative leaders to represent our interests and protect our quality of life. The lack of available physicians is definitely going to have both an immediate and long-term impact on our local healthcare system and ultimately our quality of life. The lack of obstetrical providers locally will mean little or no prenatal care, therefore turning every routine pregnancy into a high-risk pregnancy.

If our area residents are forced to seek obstetrical services in a neighboring community, you are talking about up to as much as an hour's drive–a drive that may be impossible in the winter months because of our average snowfall of 125 inches. If mother and child are lucky enough to survive the drive to another community, will the services be available there? Not likely, if the malpractice insurance crisis continues. How far WILL our residents need to travel to see an obstetrical physician? What are you going to do to help keep Garrett County mothers and infants alive and well? What are you going to do to resolve the Maryland medical malpractice insurance crisis?

You must find a solution that guarantees the availability of OB services in Garrett County. To do any less is both unthinkable and unacceptable.

Sincerely yours,

Friendsville Library To Hold Jewelry-Making Workshops

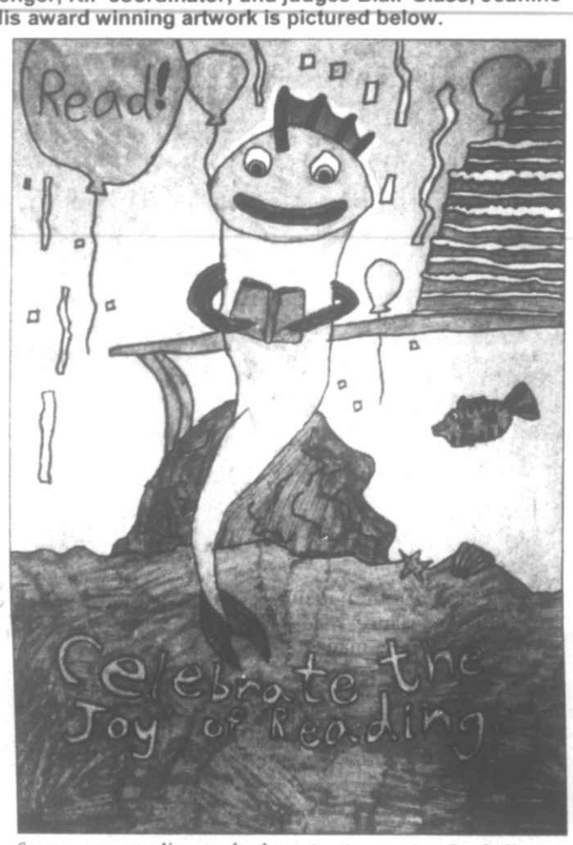
The Ruth Enlow Library plans to offer several jewelry-making workshops for teens at the Friendsville Library. The first one will be held on Saturday, Nov. 27, from 11 a.m. until noon. Megan Viar and Rose Jackson will demonstrate beading and wire jewelry-making techniques.

Viar, who is an award-winning young artist living in Oakland, will show participants how to make wire earrings. Rose Jackson of Oakland will demonstrate how to make necklaces with beads and how to recycle older jewelry parts into new treasures. Participants are encouraged, but not required, to bring along unwanted jewelry that can be recycled for parts. Everyone attending the workshop will leave with one handmade item to give for the holidays.

Local jewelry artist Carol Jean Speranzella will introduce the concept of making jewelry with inexpensive items on Thursday evening, Dec. 9, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. By the end of the session, participants should have one pair of earrings and have made beads that can be strung into a necklace. The artist will offer inexpensive stringing ideas.

Speranzella, who works from her studio in Garrett County, began creating jewelry from polymer clay and developed a design suitable for business attire. "The properties of the polymer," she said, "led to a blending of colors that created a unique bead. I string these beads on silk and hand-knot them so that they drape on clothing as nicely as pearls. In my effort to explore possibilities, I expanded my work into other mediums, such as copper, silver, aluminum, Plexiglas, fused glass, and other found materials. These materials have allowed me to create modern, elegant, abstract, and playful pieces."

Speranzella said she likes to try new processes and techniques to make her work dynamic and constantly evolving. "Many pieces are one of a kind," she said. "While working from my mountain home, I can peer out the window at the varieties of wildlife that visit my yard. The view from my studio and the wildlife inspire my designs."



Speranzella's work, known as "Jewelry by Carol Jean," is displayed locally at the Penn Alps Craft Shop in Grantsville, the Gallery and the Train Station in Oakland, and the Loft Shop in Bittinger. Other locations include the Art Company in Davis, W.Va., Seneca Gallery in Morgantown, W.Va., and the Wheeling Gallery in Wheeling, W.Va.

The library is considering a third jewelry workshop to be offered later in December, which will be announced at a future date. For more information about any of the workshops, persons may contact Michele Liston, branch manager at the Friendsville library, at 301-746-5663.

tion of approximately 900 new jobs, over 400 of those permanent positions, and $6 million in annual tax revenues for the county and state.

The ASCI is being constructed in two phases. Phase I features the recirculating whitewater course; a waterside 600-seat amphitheater built into the crook of a 180-degree turn of the course; a general operations building; parking areas; pathways; and several "park-like" areas. Phase II involves the construction of the main ACSI headquarters building, including an Adventure Sports Museum and Hall of Fame; over 500 acres of hiking, biking, and cross-country ski trails; rock-climbing and bouldering sites; and an alpine tower, ropes course, and orienteering venue.

The center also incorporates an indoor recreation facility that will be operated by Garrett College. The facility, which will serve college students and the general public as an athletic and community recreation center, will include an indoor competition pool, a leisure and therapy pool, an indoor track, fitness center, and meeting rooms.

Located adjacent to the whitewater course and the center's buildings will be the Deep Creek Mountain Resort Village, a venture of locally based DC Development. The "village" will feature private residences, restaurants, coffee houses, and retail stores, shops, and boutiques. The Wisp is also planning an expansion to tie into the ASCI, by adding new lodging, a children's center, a skier service facility, and additional skiing terrain to tie into existing slopes.

"When all the pieces fit together, you won't find anything like the ASCI anywhere in the country," Edwards remarked. "However, our overriding thrust has been to share the benefits with the citizens of Garrett County. Our young people have to leave the county to swim, to play ice hockey, and to ice skate safely indoors; these and a number of other activities will be available here at an inexpensive cost.

"The center will also help youngsters and college students with their educations, while at the same time provide opportunities for private entrepreneurs and jobs for the local workforce. I see it as a definite stimulant for private enterprise here in the county," said Edwards.

Rep. Roscoe Bartlett told the groundbreaking audience that he saw two trends that make the center's construction all the more timely. "More Americans are vacationing 'at home,' meaning that since Sept. 11, 2001, not as many of us are flying overseas to vacation," Bartlett stated, noting that the center is expected to draw over 170,000 visitors each year.

"Those folks – and there are many millions of them in the mid-Atlantic region – are looking for something new and exciting to do here in the states. Also, more and more people are looking for healthful, active vacations. The center will make such opportunities available to everyone by combining the four-season athletic facilities with convenient lodging and amenities," said Bartlett.

The ASCI project has received a $150,000 rural development grant from the U.S Department of Agriculture to purchase equipment for the whitewater course. It also has been awarded $2 million in federal funding, $3 million from the state, $1.5 million from Garrett County and more than $2 million from private investors.

"Tourism currently contributes $7 million to the Garrett County economy each year," said Dennis Castleman, state director of marketing and assistant secretary of the Department of Business and Economic Development. "The ASCI will give that number a huge boost. The possibilities are endless."

Sale of Parcels

their real property inventory. As part of that assessment, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources reviewed over 430,000 acres of state owned lands and identified 2,900 acres (less than 1 percent) that presented management challenges. The assessment was completed after a 10-month review by an interdisciplinary team of biologists, scientists, planners and public land managers, who had the overarching goal of balancing conservation of the state's natural resources with fiscal responsibility," said Abel.

The property review resulted in identifying a list of 54 DNR parcels that was sent to Maryland Department of Planning in February 2004 and represents a list of potential excess property candidates. "'Excessed' is a classification for property that enables it to move further along in the process," explained DNR spokeswoman Heather Lynch, who works in Abel's office. "None of these properties currently have that classification with the single exception of the Deep Creek Lake buy down that has been ongoing for the last three years. All the other identified parcels have not been excessed, no action has been taken and no decision has been made to dispose of them.

"Given that these property are currently only potential candidates to be potentially deemed as excess properties, it would be premature to formally solicit public input at this time," the DNR spokeswoman continued. "If any of the properties move forward, there will be multiple opportunities for public scrutiny and comment, including with the Department of General Services and the Board of Public Works. Those governing bodies have individual mechanisms for public comment.

"The list has been at the Department of Planning since February of this year – nine months ago – and no action has been taken to move these properties forward," Lynch stressed.

The list includes the following Garrett County parcels, each of which is followed by the criteria the DNR team used in identifying the property as a potential candidate for sale.

•Deep Creek Lake State Park (15.8 of the park's 6,809 acres). Isolated or detached from main land unit by distance, roads, rivers, etc., making management difficult; does not allow for public access to Deep Creek Lake.

•Deep Creek Lake Natural Resource Management Area (584 of 6,809 acres). Deep Creek Lake "buy down" lands comprising the lake's buffer strip; offered to adjacent property owners as terms of the acquisition of Deep Creek Lake.

•Garrett State Forest (53.7 of 6,833 acres). Isolated or detached from main land unit by distance, roads, rivers, etc. making management difficult; relative high cost of management considering level of public benefit; minimal natural resource value.

•Potomac State Forest (9.8 of 10,424 acres). Existing lease-presumption that property might best be surplused to leasee for that continued use.

•Savage River State Forest (93 of 54,011 acres). Minimal natural resource value; has restrictions - Excessing subject to federal gift restrictions requiring Congressional approval.

•Savage River State Forest (4.6 of 54,011 acres) Minimal natural resource value; has restrictions - Excessing subject to federal gift restrictions requiring Congressional approval.

•Savage River State Forest (22.0 of 54,011 acres). Minimal natural resource value; has restrictions - Excessing subject to federal gift restrictions requiring Congressional approval.

•Youghiogheny River Natural Environment Area (75.2 of 3,806 acres). Minimal natural resource value; property is located outside of the Youghiogheny Wild River corridor.

•Youghiogheny River Natural Environment Area (35.9 of 3,806 acres). Minimal natural resource value; isolated or detached from main land unit by distance, roads, rivers, etc. making management difficult; poor access or landlocked with no potential for improvement; property is located outside of the Youghiogheny Wild River corridor.

Swanton Man Charged After Vehicle Mishap

A Swanton man was charged following a two-vehicle accident Tuesday morning on Sand Flat Road just north of Maryland Highway, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Joshua David McKnight, 19, was operating a 2002 Dodge truck and utility trailer southbound on Sand Flat Road and reportedly failed to keep right of the center of the road. His trailer struck a 1998 Dodge passenger car operated by April May Paugh, 27, Swanton, causing her vehicle to travel out of control and over an embankment, police said.

Paugh elected to go the hospital on her own. McKnight was charged with failure to keep right of center.

and Land Development will be established: 1. Planning, Zoning, and Licensing and 2. Permits and Inspection.

While John Nelson will remain as director of the newly named department, other current county personnel will be assigned/transferred to the new divisions.

The department's two planners, GIS specialist, and administrative assistant will be assigned to the new Planning, Zoning, and Licensing Division. Nelson's office and the PZL division will remain at the department's current location in the courthouse.

New appointments to that division will include a licensing and enforcement supervisor, a licensing and enforcement officer, and a part-time assistant county attorney.

Permits and inspector coordinator Jim Torrington has been named chief of the Division of Permits and Inspection. His division will be located at the Garrett County Public Service Center near Mtn. Lake Park.

Torrington's staff will include a building codes officer, two building inspectors, a stormwater management engineer, two engineer technicians, and an administrative assistant.

Huskies Hang Tough, But Downed By Alco In Playoff

The Northern High School varsity football season came to an end not with a whimper, but a bang – the bang of full-bore collisions on the field – as the Huskies were edged in a hard-hitting, 18-13 slugfest with the Allegany Campers Friday night in Cumberland. Northern returned home with a fine 8-3 campaign under its belt, and Allegany advances to face Smithsburg for the 1A West Region championship tomorrow night.

"It was a disappointing end to a great season," NHS coach Phil Carr commented. "Our guys did what they had to do to win. They hit hard, and we didn't have a single fumble, which is what killed us in our first meeting with them. We also basically shut down Donavin Vinson, their great split end, who only had three catches all night; however, great players will find a way to hurt you no matter what, and Vinson got behind our secondary for a touchdown catch right before the half ended, and he pulled off a great punt return for a TD in the third quarter when we botched our punt coverage. You give a guy like that a small chance and you're running a big risk.

"In spite of the loss, we're very proud of our guys," the Huskies' skipper continued. "They proved they deserved to be in the playoffs, and I think that any one of the top three teams in the region – Allegany, Smithsburg and us – can beat anyone."

Playing on a cold and drizzly night in a mammoth Greenway Stadium that held more Husky fans than Alco followers, Northern got on the board first. Halfway through the first quarter the Huskies put together an impressive 71-yard, eight-play scoring march which looked like it might stall out on a third-and-14 from the Campers' 30, when junior fullback Tyler Warn shot through the middle of the line on a draw play that ended in a touchdown.

Allegany answered with a scoring drive of its own, an eight-minute march that covered 61 yards in 13 plays. Camper fullback Randy O'Brien capped that possession with a six-yard scoring run over left tackle. "We made them work for it," Carr said of the touchdown drive, which knotted the score at 6-all with 10:48 remaining in the second quarter.

NHS responded with another scoring march on the ensuing possession. Senior Michael Wolf turned in good kickoff return that ended just shy of midfield, and a facemask penalty on the Campers tacked another 15 yards on the play. Starting at the Alco 38, the Huskies mounted a drive that ended when senior quarterback Robert Stark found the end zone from one yard out. Sophomore Corey Carr's successful point-after kick put Northern up 13-6 with 8:02 showing on the clock.

Both defenses stiffened, and it looked like the Huskies would be able to take their seven-point advantage into the halftime locker room. However, after Allegany took possession one last time in the stanza at its own 45 with 3:46 remaining, the Campers kept the ball on the ground and worked their way to the NHS 25. On first down, Alco quarterback Austin Scell rolled left and found Vinson in the back of the end zone with 47 seconds to go, making the score 13-12.

"That was a big, big touchdown at the end of the half," observed Carr. "We had been working a zone double-team on Vinson, a great scheme of Frank Ewing's that had pretty much shut Vinson down. We played Eric Johnson right up front on him in a short zone, and Nick Payne worked farther back on deep coverage. On that one play the quarterback's rollout caused us to hesitate for a split second, and that's all Vinson needed."

The second half opened with the respective defenses continuing their strong play, and it came down to a special teams miscue that sank the Huskies' hopes. Punting from his own 31 at the 3:42 mark of the third quarter, NHS's Payne launched a perfectly placed punt – to the side of the field away from Vinson – that sailed down the Alco sideline to land at the Campers' 41, seemingly safely out of Vinson's reach.

The ball seemed to have other things on its mind, however, as it took a high backward bounce that caused the Northern coverage team to ease up slightly and wait for the ball to return to earth to be downed. Taking big advantage of a small opportunity, Vinson streaked across the field, snagged the ball out of the air at full speed, and sprinted off untouched down the sideline for a 57-yard touchdown.

"That was a super play on Vinson's part," Carr remarked. "A player like that will find a way to score if you give him a chance, and that play also seemed to fire their players up; they seemed a step quicker after that."

NHS was held to a three-and-out on its ensuing possession, and was forced to punt the ball away again. The Huskies' defense came up with a big play when linebacker Warn stripped the ball from an Alco runner at the Campers' 30 with 11:50 left in the contest.

Allegany's defense held tough over the next three plays, however. On the first effort Wolf gained two yards on a pitch to the outside; the second play ended with Warn running into a brick wall at the line, resulting in no gain; and on the third play a fake pitchout failed to fool an Alco defensive end, who tossed Stark for a two-yard loss.

"We had noticed on the previous play that the defensive end on the left side had crashed real hard to the interior of the line, so we took a chance that he'd do the same thing and we'd be able to get around the corner," explained Carr. "Their coaches held him in place on third down, however, and he was in the perfect spot to stop the play. It was an example of the chess match you can get into in trying to get into the heads of the other team, and what makes football so interesting to coach."

The stop left the Huskies facing a fourth-and-10, and they fired their main weapon at the Campers. Stark hit an open Wolf with a short pass in the right flat, and the NHS back was knocked slightly off balance just as he was shifting into gear. He struggled for nine yards, but a hard hit just shy of the first-down marker brought him down, and Allegany took possession of the football with 9:49 to play.

Alco's offense went on a ball control drive that chewed 6½ minutes off the clock as the Campers marched 70 yards on 11 plays. The Huskies' defense held tough inside the red zone, however, and forced Allegany to turn the ball over on downs at the seven-yard line.

After a delay of game penalty pushed the Huskies back to their own two, NHS started their last-ditch effort with just 3:24 to go in the contest. Utilizing a short passing game, the Huskies managed to cross midfield, but used up nearly two minutes in doing so. On a fourth-and-eight from its own 49, Northern attempted a 26-yard pass that was intercepted by Vinson with 28 seconds remaining, and the curtain came down on the Huskies' campaign as Alco began looking forward to the region championship contest.

"It's nice to get the first one out of the way against a Northern team that competed right to the end and really played a great game," Allegany coach Tom Preaskorn said in praising the Huskies' effort. "I didn't think we played well in the first half, but Northern had

RAMS EDGED IN REGION FINAL – The Southern High School varsity volleyball team put up a valiant fight Friday in a 1A West Region championship match with visiting Williamsport, but lost a heartbreaker by a 3-1 margin. Only seven points total separated the two squads over the course of the Rams' three losses. Senior SHS setter Bethany Steyer (#10) is shown above making a picture-perfect set for one of her teammates in the front court, either senior Sarah Bittinger (#14) or sophomore Sarah Stephens (#25). Below left, junior hitter Chelsea Wassell (#24) is pictured bumping the ball with senior Kayla Nazelrod (#22) following the action, and senior outside hitter Megan Swartzentruber (#15) is shown below right sending the ball over the net while Nazelrod is visible in the background among the Rams preparing for a possible counterattack. Photos by John McEwen.

Ram Netters' Playoff Run Derailed By Defending Champion Wildcats

The Maryland 1A West Region added to its reputation as a hotbed for high school volleyball Friday as Southern and Williamsport battled tooth-and-nail through a region championship contest that was much closer than Williamsport's 3-1 match victory would suggest. After the Rams took the first contest 25-16, the two-time defending state champion Wildcats took the next three by 25-22, 26-24, and 25-21 tallies – a razor's-edge margin of seven points total.

Playing on her home court for the final time, SHS senior Sarah Bittinger netted 11 service points and handed out six assists, while sophomore Sarah Stephens recorded seven kills. Junior Chelsea Wassell tallied six kills and a Ram-high three blocks, and senior Kayla Nazelrod contributed four kills and two blocks.

The loss brings the most successful season in Southern's history to a close with a record of 15-2. This year's top region seed, the Rams had rolled into the championship by sweeping Northern 3-0 and then defeating Smithsburg 3-1.

The Rams should hold their heads high after the loss to Williamsport, as the Wildcats (16-2) are the two-time defending state champions and have won 10 state titles since the state tournament's inception in 1971. Seeded second in this year's region tourney, Williamsport opened with a 3-0 sweep over Allegany before narrowly avoiding a semifinal upset in a 3-2 win over Boonsboro.

Southern loses six seniors to graduation, but the squad boasts three returning starters – junior Randi Bennett, Wassell, and Stephens – as it looks to next year.

Fall-Sport Athletes Honored At Southern High School

SHS FALL ATHLETES RECOGNIZED – The best of Southern High School's autumn athletes were honored by the Southern Garrett Athletic Association recently during the school's annual Sports Awards Assembly. Pictured above are the Ram varsity volleyball honorees, who helped pace their squad through a superb 15-2 season and a playoff run that ended just short of the state tournament. From the left are Chelsea Wassell, co-Most Outstanding Player; Julia Bosley, co-Most Valuable Player; Kayla Nazelrod, co-Most Outstanding Player; Randi Bennett, Most Improved Player; Bethany Steyer, Coach's Award; and Sarah Stephens, co-MVP. For the third straight season, the SHS junior varsity squad lost only one contest all year. JV netter honors were bestowed to, below, Adrienne Yoder, co-Most Outstanding Player; Danielle Daniels, Highest Serving Percentage; Amberly Lewis, Most Improved Player; and Natalie Rohrbaugh, co-Most Outstanding Player. Not available for the photo was Alex Barnard, Best Freshman Player.

SHS FOOTBALL PUTS IN DETERMINED YEAR – The varsity football team lost several games by close margins during a rocky season, and came within just four points of knocking off state power Allegany. Noted among the anchors of this year's Rams are J.D. Plank, Jimmy Simms Award; Gage Welch, Best Defensive Player; Brandon Marko, Most Improved Player; and Cory Bosley, Best Offensive Player. The junior varsity football honorees, who helped lead the JV gridder to superb 7-1-1 record, are Justin Ratliff and Adam VanBogelen, co-Most Valuable Player awards; Eric Pike, Best Offensive Player; Brandon Roberson, Best Defensive Player; and Nathan Thomas, Most Improved Player.

a lot to do with that. They played with a lot of intensity. They did a good job with our offense in the first half, but at the half I thought we were able to make some adjustments. And the key to the game was the outstanding defense we played in the second half. Our players really stepped up."

Northern's ground game, which had started out by racking up 123 rushing yards on 18 carries in the first half, was held to just 62 yards in the second half. Wolf had a total of 94 yards on 11 carries, Warn rushed for 48 yards on eight carries, and Stark had 38 yards on 11 attempts. Stark had a good passing performance, completing six of eight passes for 31 yards with one interception.

NHS's defense was led by senior nose guard Trevor Butler, who turned in 21 tackles. Middle linebacker Corey Carr had 15 tackles, and cornerback Eric Johnson had 11 tackles.

Allegany had 246 yards of total offense, 201 of which came on the ground. The Campers completed just three of five passes, all three to Vinson for 45 yards and one touchdown.

"All year we got a great effort from our team, but this was their best effort of the year," coach Carr said. "The first quarter, we really got after it, but it wasn't good enough. Allegany really stepped up and they made sure we didn't have the ball enough, especially in the second half. You've got to give them the credit, but we're very pleased with the effort our guys put out after being beaten by this same Camper team earlier in the season.

"We're really proud of our kids, who held together after a rough start to our season for me personally with my mom's death," Carr continued. "The seniors stepped up with real leadership, and the whole team never lost its focus. All our coaches agree that this is a very special bunch of guys."

First Turkey Trot Slated At Wisp Resort

The first Turkey Trot 5K run and 2K walk will be held at the Wisp Resort on Saturday, Nov. 27, with registration at 7:30 a.m. to promote the Deep Creek Winter Ski Team.

"All sponsor dollars and event entries will be used to further the continued growth and development of the type of snow sports programs that teach kids to become not only great competitors but great people as well," said Kellyann Green, vice president of the Deep Creek Winter Ski Team.

The race will begin at the base of the tubing park. The 5K race will begin at 9 a.m., and the 2K walk will start at 9:05 a.m. Awards will be presented at 9:30 a.m.

Founders of the Deep Creek Winter Sports Team are Joyce Frazee, Gene Frazee, Mitch Gibellino, Garrett Container Systems, High Mountain Sports, Railey Realty, Tri-State Propane, Maggie Hardy Magerko, Interstate Hardwoods, Mountaineer Log and Siding, and Dr. David Tuel.

Lakers Whip Jamestown, But Downed By Mercyhurst, 64-60

In their second tournament of the young season, the Garrett College men's basketball team once again finished 1-1, as they defeated Jamestown (N.Y.), 81-63, in the Wisp Resort and Hotel Classic Friday on their own court, but then fell to Mercyhurst on Saturday, 64-60.

The split left the Lakers with an overall record of 3-2, and they will head into yet another two-game tourney at home this weekend.

In the victory over Jamestown on Friday, Doyle Brown and Adam Morgan led the Lakers' offensive attack, finishing with 24 and 23 points, respectively.

The Lakers took an early lead before Jamestown battled back to knot the score at 21-21, and then go ahead 24-23 on a three-point bucket by Christian Olsen.

The Lakers responded with a 10-0 run, led by effective three-point shooting by Morgan and Brown. They were on top by 16, 47-31, by halftime and were never seriously threatened in the second half.

Between the two of them, Morgan and Brown connected for nine three-point shots, Morgan with five and Brown with four.

JAMESTOWN (63)

Randy Brandow 3 2-2 8, Jacques Francois 1 0-2 2, Dwayne James 1 0-2 2, Jose Navarez 2 2-2 7, Steven Craig 4 2-2 14, Christian Olson 4 4-4 15, Raysean Johnson 4 0-0 9. Totals 19 10-14 63.

GARRETT (81)

Tristan Largent 2 0-0 5, Marco Van Pelt 1 0-0 2, Doyle Brown 10 0-0 24, Tauvon Pettiford 2 0-0 4, Antoine Williams 1 0-0 2, Tyrice Watkins 3 0-0 6, Jeff Washington 4 1-1 9, Lavonte Jeter 4 1-2 10, Adam Morgan 7 4-4 23. Totals 33 6-7 81.

Halftime – Garrett 47, Jamestown 31.

Three-point goals: Garrett 11 (Largent, Brown 4, Jeter, Morgan 5); Jamestown 9 (Johnson, Olsen 3, Craig 4, Navarez 1). Totals rebounds: Garrett 27 (Watkins 5, Jeter 5); Jamestown 19 (Olsen 4). Total Fouls: Garrett 15, Jamestown 13.

Also reaching double figures in scoring was Lavonti Jeter with 10 points. He also grabbed five rebounds, as did teammate Tyrice Watkins.

Leading Jamestown's scoring effort were Olsen and Steven Craig, who netted 15 and 14 points, respectively.

In Friday's other contest, Mercyhurst rolled over Potomac State College, 84-61.

There were no details of the GC-Mercyhurst contest received.

McDONALD'S TOURNEY

The Lakers, who are the two-time defending champions of their own annual McDonald's Tournament, will try to rebound with a victory this Friday evening over Montgomery Takoma Park. The tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m.

"Takoma Park is much improved this year," GC coach Dennis Gibson said. "According to head coach Russ Alexander, they will be fielding one of the best teams they have every produced."

In Friday's 5:30 game, Region XX defending champion Dundalk CC will square off with undefeated (3-0) Rockingham (N.C.). Rockingham edged the Lakers, 60-59, a couple weeks ago in Rockingham's Thersport Classic, so Gibson and the Lakers are hoping to get by Takoma Park in order to have a rematch with Rockingham on Saturday.

"We have the talent to compete at a high level," Gibson said. "We just need to get more consistent. On the floor we need better leadership from within in situational play. We could easily be a 5-0 team, but we are 3-2 because of those factors.

"But this tough schedule should pay off for us in the long run, and that is what the regular season is all about — learning how to beat good teams as you prepare for your tournament run."

Saturday's consolation game will begin at 1 p.m., and the title contest is slated to tip off at 3 p.m.

The Lakers will also host Baltimore City CC next Tuesday in a 7 p.m. start.

GC Adventure Sports Group Attends Conf.

Four adventure sports students at Garrett College attended the 32nd annual conference of the Association of Experiential Education (AEE), which took place recently in Norfolk, Va. Several members of the college's Adventure Sports faculty were also on hand for the event.

The students worked as members of the service crew who helped with setting up for workshops and housekeeping duties during the four day event.

"The conference was a huge motivator," remarked Josh Garcia, a second year student from the Baltimore area. "We got to meet many people and learned a great deal. The presenters were all top notch people in their fields."

Alfie Kohn, a noted author and social theorist, headed the list of conference presenters. The keynote speaker spoke about motivation and criticized the use of rewards as positive reinforcement, claiming that this practice tends to make people less interested in whatever they are doing and less likely to engage deeply, to discover and learn. "We need to stop asking, 'How motivated are my students?'" Kohn said, "and start asking, 'How are my students motivated?'"

The students were able to choose from a variety of over 100 workshops on such topics as emotional intelligence, using culture in outdoor education, constructive conflict management, raccoon circles, exploration of the universe of within and without, wilderness medicine issues, outdoor environmental philosophy, the bamboo flute, and journaling.

Following each day's workshops, students had the opportunity to participate in recreational activities or attend entertainment programs. Among these were folk dancing, an open mike musical program, a community drum circle, casino room and disco bar, a shore leave variety night, and a closing concert.

In addition to helping with the workshops and attending as many as possible, the Garrett students set up an exhibit outlining the college's own Adventure Sports program. Garcia, who eventually plans a career in therapeutic recreation, said he felt the conference gave the students a valuable insight to the adventure sports industry and experience in networking.

Other students who attended were Matt Garcia, Jason Clark, and Cindy Hay. Faculty members attending were adventure sports professor and Adventuresports Institute director Mike Logsdon, associate professor Dr. Michael Swiderski, and assistant professors Terry Petersen and Steve Shewach.

THESE ADVENTURE SPORTS STUDENTS VENTURED FORTH for the annual Association of Experiential Educators (AEE) conference in Norfolk, Va., recently. They and several of their Garrett College Adventure Sports program faculty members attended the national conference, where they took part in numerous workshops and other learning opportunities, and hosted an exhibit outlining the college's own Adventure Sports program. Pictured from the left are Cindy Hay, Josh Garcia, Jason Clark, and Matt Garcia.

Mt. Top Hoops Results Noted

The Mt. Top Basketball League opened play over the weekend, and Mt. Top Paving and Bosley Construction got off on the right foot with debut victories.

Nathaniel Panther hit for 41 points in leading Mt. Top Paving to a 61 - 58 win over Copeland's. Teammate Matt Stephens chipped 12 points, and Justin Stephens had 10. Jason Shank scored 28 points in Copeland's losing effort, and Bryson Paugh contributed 16 points.

Bosley Construction downed new league entry Coney by a 77-47 margin. The winners were paced by Jason Brenneman's 27 points, while Jonathon Price scored 19 points and Shawn Koontz had 16. Coney's big center Brad Houghton (6-8) scored 18 points for the losers.

The league's schedule for this Sunday's play in the Southern Middle School gym is as follows: 1 p.m., Coney vs. Copeland's (scorekeeper Bosley Construction); 2 p.m., Bosley Construction vs. Mt. Top Paving (scorekeeper Con-Doerr); and 3 p.m. Coney vs. Team 6 (scorekeeper Coney).

Laker Women Open With Big JUCO Win Over Cecil

The Garrett College women's basketball team got off to a quick start in Maryland JUCO play when the Lakers downed host Cecil 63-49 Sunday afternoon. The contest marked the debut for the 2004-05 GC squad and its new head coach, Thea Garland.

"We struggled a little at first, but we're young," Garland said of her freshman-laden unit. "You can definitely see this team has the potential to be good."

Laker freshman guard Karly Hall led GC in scoring with 12 points, and fellow underclassman backcourt player Victoria Lawson hit for 11, including a team-high trio of three-pointers. Sophomore Autumn Beavers and freshman Jami Anderson netted 10 points apiece, and freshman Eugenna Carson hauled down nine rebounds.

April Bagely and Sherry Bryant led Cecil with 10 points each, and Shameka Evans added seven.

Garrett was up 28-18 at the half.

The Lakers return to action Saturday when they kick off a seven-game home stand with a 6 p.m. meeting with CCAC-South. CCAC-Allegheny will be in McHenry Tuesday for a 5 p.m. contest.

GC's Wellham Named Women's Athletic Administrator Of Year

Ann Wellham, director of athletics and professor of health and physical education at Garrett College, was named Administrator of the Year at the recent National Association of Collegiate Women Athletics Administrators (NACWAA) Fall Forum in New York.

The NACWAA is a membership organization whose purpose is to provide educational programs, professional and personal development opportunities, and support services that enhance college athletics and promote the growth, leadership, and success of women as athletic administrators, professional staff, coaches, and student athletes.

Wellham's award was presented by Norma Dycus, director of athletics at Sinclair Community College and women's director of Region XII in the National Junior College Athletics Association.

In her remarks, Dycus cited Wellham's numerous accomplishments, including serving as assistant director of Region XX for eight years, director for three years, chairperson of the region's field hockey committee and Division II volleyball committee, and as a member of the Division II basketball committee, and the Division III softball and golf committees.

Wellham also served a three-year term as vice president of the Basketball Coaches Association, during which she was selected as assistant coach for the NJCAA/WBCA all-star women's basketball team that competed in Europe.

She is currently vice president of the Division II Volleyball Coaches Association.

"Ann has served our organization well," Dycus said. "She is a leader, not just a dedicated worker. She is a person of vision, who has looked beyond the confines of her team, her school or her region to see the importance of sport on the national level. This ability was the reason for her selection to serve on the NJCAA Strategic Planning Committee."

Dycus also spoke of Wellham's versatility as a teacher and a coach, and her willingness to take the initiative to host a national golf tournament in Garrett County when the originally scheduled site became unavailable.

"At the core of what makes Ann special is her caring attitude for students," Dycus said in her conclusion. "She honestly cares about the people who touch her life. In turn, she has had a profound effect on those of us who touch hers. We are the richer for her gifts."

Wellham has been coaching and teaching at Garrett College since 1981, and has served as athletic director since 1984. She holds a bachelor of science degree from Towson State University, a master of arts degree from Northern Michigan University, and a master's of business administration from Frostburg State University.

Runnin' Rams Place Sixth, Seventh In Maryland Meet

For the first time in a number of years, both the Southern High School girls' and boys' teams qualified for and participated in the Maryland State 1A Cross Country Championships, hosted by Hereford High School on Saturday.

The SHS girls' team, coached by Steve Cosner, placed sixth among all of Maryland's 1A division schools, while the Southern boys, coached by Jamie Beeman, placed seventh as a team.

Loch Raven easily won the girls' team title with a score of 25, followed by Williamsport with 46 points, Digital Harbour with 88 points, Oakland Mills with 125, Tuscarora with 142, and Southern with 176.

Boonsboro was seventh with 177, followed by North Caroline (178), Cambridge South Dorchester (216), and Queen Anne (242). A number of other schools did not finish with complete scores.

Sarah Cosner led the Southern girls, as she has most of the 2004 season, recording a time of 24:06 on one of the state's most rigorous courses. That placed her 28th individually among 80 finishers.

Southern's Melinda Smith finished 37th in (25:04), followed by teammates Courtney DiSimone, 44th; Elizabeth Thayer, 55th; Emily Bowman, 59th; Leah Warnick, 65th; and Rikkilee Rose, 68th.

The fastest female runner was Ashley Lockard of Clear Spring, who recorded a time of 20:36. Allegany's Lauryn MacFawn was third in 20:46, and Theresa Ruland of Williamsport placed third with a time of 20:50.

The Southern boys' team finished with 187 points for seventh place. Beall dominated the race, as Mountaineers placed first, second, and third, and the team finished with 25 points.

Oakland Mills finished second with 66 points, followed by Clear Spring with 75, Loch Raven with 131, Catoctin with 139, and Smithsburg with 167.

Placing just one point behind the Runnin' Rams was Williamsport with 188, followed by Cambridge South Dorchester with 259, Carver A&T with 289, and Queen Anne with 306. Many other schools finished with incomplete scores.

Derek Upperman had the best individual time among

A SUCCESSFUL HUNT — This 115-pound male bear was downed by Sid Turner, Grantsville, during the hunt on October 25. Turner's mother, Ruth Turner, received the hunting permit, and chose Sid and a friend, Scott Ritchie, as the permittees to hunt with her. "The bear hunt was a special time for us, and it was a real treat to see my 74-year-old mom hunt and hang out with the guys at camp," Sid Turner said. "The DNR officials were courteous, respectful, and seemed to have a real interest in our hunt. I know some people think the hunt was a trophy hunt and not needed. I can say the bear population has grown and needs to be controlled, and hunting is an excellent choice." Pictured above, from left, are Scott Ritchie, Ruth Turner, and Sid Turner.

FIRST HUNT SUCCESSFUL — Twelve-year-olu Ryan Beiler's first deer hunt ended early Saturday, Youth Hunt Day, when he shot this doe on Negro Mountain in Savage River State Forest. A 7th grader at Northern Middle School, Ryan is the son of Dan and Charla Beiler, Accident.

BOSLEY HONORED AT WVU – In recognition of academic achievement and his exemplary representation of West Virginia University, senior Jamie Bosley was nominated for Mr. Mountaineer. He and his parents, Jim and Mary Lynn, are all pictured above as they stride across the football field in the Milan Puskar Stadium on Saturday during half-time of the WVU-Boston College game. Christopher Williams of Spencer, W.Va., was named the winner of the honor, along with Aurora resident Rebecca Fint, who earned the Ms. Mountaineer designation (see story on West Virginia page). Bosley, who said he was very honored to have been nominated, is a children's theater major at WVU. He is the director of the WVU Community Theater Prep Program and has been involved in more than 10 major productions at the university. This spring he will travel to Beijing, China, to spend several weeks as an assistant director with the theater of Peking University. A member of the WVU Division of Theater and Dance student advisory board, Bosley also belongs to the Gamma Beta Phi Society, the Helvetia sophomore honorary, and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. He is a graduate of Southern High School.

Deer Firearms Season Set To Begin Nov. 27

More than 74,000 hunters will take to woods and fields across Maryland on Saturday, Nov. 27, as the annual two-week firearms season for white-tailed deer and sika deer gets under way.

Garrett and Allegany counties compose Deer Management Region A, one of two regions now in effect. The entire remaining portion of the state, from Washington County eastward, is designated as Region B. The two regions have independent bag limits.

Region A's firearm bag limit is two deer with no more than one being antlered. Only antlered deer may be taken between Nov. 27 and Dec. 9. Antlered or antlerless deer may be taken on Dec. 10 and 11.

The first Sunday of firearm season (Nov. 28) is open for deer hunting on private lands in Region A. The second Sunday (Dec. 5) is closed to all deer hunting.

Complete bag limits, season dates and other deer hunting information can be found at the DNR web site www.dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide. The Hunting and Trapping In Maryland 2004-2005 guide, issued with each hunting license, contains detailed information about all of Maryland's hunting seasons.

the Rams, finishing in 19:04, which was good for 24th place. Caiden Shaffer finished 26 seconds later (19:30) to place 34th.

Other Rams and their finishes were: Michael McConnell, 46th; Andrew Goad, 54th; Michael Murphy, 66th; Tim Preston, 69th; and Andrew Kight, 73rd.

A total of 97 finished the boys' 1A race.

Dan DeWitt of Beall, who dominated every area race this season, was the state champion, recording a time of 17:16. His teammates Scott Bonnette and James Carney finished second and third, respectively, in 17:43 and 17:51.

Stanford is being held on $60,000 bond at the Garrett County Detention Center, but Grey, who was identified as the driver during the first robbery, and Roberts remain at large. Additional charges are pending in this on-going investigation.

OB Services

there was no hospital here."

"Providing obstetrical services at GCMH is important to our entire community's well being," added Dr. Savopoulos, who recently moved his practice from West Virginia (Terra Alta) because of a similar crisis in that state, but is now facing huge premium increases in Maryland as well.

Dr. Ken Buczynski, who just recently moved to the area and joined the GCMH medical staff, is being told by his insurance company that his medical liability premiums slated to take effect January 1 are five times higher than what he had been quoted just three months ago.

"Ironically, I chose to come to Maryland rather than Pennsylvania or West Virginia partly because the malpractice insurance premiums were affordable," he said. "Had I known what my premiums would be as a result of the crisis in Maryland, I would have had serious misgivings about starting a practice here."

But Buczynski said that, for now, he fully intends to stay in the area, adding that he is "committed to caring for the people of Garrett County and the surrounding communities."

Battista said that, even though the new, higher rates will go into effect this January, the hospital is committed to maintaining its obstetrical services through all of 2005 by helping the physicians.

"We don't want our local expectant mothers to panic right now and leave the area for their pre-natal care, because we are working very hard to try to provide services through next year," he said.

"However, unless something happens to bring the premiums down significantly, such as tort reform by Maryland's elected officials, there will simply be no way either the hospital or the physicians will be able to afford these astronomical rates, and losing our OB department would have a devastating effect on our community."

He added that trying to recruit an obstetrician-gynecologist is something that the hospital has attempted to do, along with other specialty physicians, but it is extremely difficult.

"There is so much competition, especially for specialists like OB-GYNs, and there really aren't enough of them to go around," he said. "This malpractice crisis is causing many of them to retire early or just leave the field altogether."

There are also far fewer medical students electing to go into obstetrics and the other specialties for which the malpractice premiums are now so high, such as neurosurgery and psychiatry. It was reported that in 2003 there was not a single member of the University of Maryland medical school graduating class who elected to specialize in OB-GYN.

Battista said that, while obstetrical services are available at Western Maryland Health System in Cumberland, the number of obstetricians there has decreased by nearly 50%, also because of the skyrocketing insurance premiums.

"Of the remaining five or six OB-GYNs in Cumberland, only three of them are providing services to Medicaid patients, of which a significant number of our patients are," he said.

Another consequence of GCMH's dropping obstetrical services, which would be truly life-threatening, is that for five months out of the year severe winter weather conditions can make travel out of Garrett County hazardous and, at times, impossible.

"A local woman who happened to go into labor during a blizzard would have to be brought to Garrett Memorial's emergency room and, if necessary, our ER docs would deliver the baby, which would not be an ideal situation. It's not that they are untrained to do so, but their specialty is emergency medicine, not obstetrics," he said.

Garrett County Board of Commissioners chairman Ernie Gregg, who is also a member of the GCMH board of governors, said that there is not much that local elected officials can do about the crisis, other than to join in putting pressure on the legislature to bring about some meaningful tort reform.

"Anything short of tort reform will be a limited, temporary fix," Gregg said. "Until the Maryland legislature takes such action, we can expect little relief."

Gregg described it as a "highly politicized" issue at the state level.

"The local delegation is well aware of the problem," he added. "We have been lobbying for tort reform and are very supportive of all efforts to force the issue."

The subject of tort reform has indeed become a game of political football between Republican Governor Robert Ehrlich and the Democratic leadership of the legislature — Senate President Mike Miller and Speaker of the House of Delegates Michael Busch. Pressure is growing on all three to call for a special legislative session to address the issue.

Gov. Ehrlich released a tort reform proposal late last month that included capping the size of monetary awards won in malpractice cases and limiting lawyers' contingency fees in such lawsuits. He is also in favor of calling for a special session of the legislature.

However, Miller, who is a trial lawyer, opposes the governor's proposal and has so far refused to join the call for a special session. Either Miller or Busch must agree to join the governor in calling for a special session before it can happen.

Just last week it was reported that Senator James Brochin (D-Baltimore County) was removed from the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee by Miller, with Brochin, an insurance broker, claiming it was because of his reversal in his stand against capping pain-and-suffering awards. Brochin had voted against the cap last year, but informed Miller last month that he had changed his mind and was now in favor of a cap.

Miller has replaced Brochin on the powerful committee with Sen. Norman R. Stone Jr. (D-Baltimore County), who is, like Miller, an attorney.

The Judicial Proceedings Committee has the jurisdiction to make tort reform recommendations, which carry significant weight because of Maryland's strong committee system, according to Mike Volk of Legislative Services.

"Make no mistake about it. A health care crisis is upon us. The medical litigation system is broken," stated Dr. Karl P. Riggle, a general surgeon based in Hagerstown who is the founder of a grassroots coalition of Maryland health care professionals called Save Our Doctors.

"Two-thirds of all malpractice lawsuits filed are found to be without merit," he said. "Only 7 percent of cases actually make it to trial, and doctors end up winning 80% of those cases. But it costs an average of GARRETT MEMORIAL OB SERVICES BEGIN LONG BEFORE THE BIRTH of area babies, and do not end for some time after they make their celebrated appearances. As the important event approaches, mothers are seen monthly, then weekly. When that day comes, mothers (and fathers) receive top-notch care in state-of-the-art maternity suites by well-experienced physicians and certified nurses. "We have 14 staff members in OB," said Joyce Anderson, RNC, above right. "Eight are registered nurses (RNs), and five are certified RNs, which means they have several more years of training." The offering of these progressive services may very well end if the state legislature does nothing to curtail skyrocketing medical malpractice insurance costs. "If we can't continue to operate the OB department, our community will definitely suffer," Anderson said. An OB staff member for 16 years, she noted some of the many available maternity services. "Where will the mothers go for pre-natal care if we are not delivering babies anymore? And after the baby is born, what about PKU tests [a mandatory test all infants are given a week after birth] and hearing screenings? We do all of that here." The department also welcomes phone calls from anxious new parents who often have questions about their new additions. The staff offers support and expert advice. Anderson voiced her concern about the area's Amish community, should the OB department fold. "Where will they go? How will they get there? One thing is for sure," she said. "Our infant mortality rate will go up, no question about it." Also pictured is Dr. Karl Schwalm, a 24-year veteran of Garrett Memorial and the Garrett Medical Group who has delivered more than 2,000 infants at GCMH, and baby Alexia Browning. $25,000 to defend one of these lawsuits."

Garrett County residents, and all of those persons served by Garrett County Memorial Hospital, are strongly encouraged by the GCMH administration, board of governors, medical staff, nursing staff, and all other employees to voice their concerns about this issue to local, state, and federal elected officials. While original letters are encouraged, a prepared letter appears on Page A-9 of this newspaper for persons to sign, clip out, and mail to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Three copies of each letter received — one for each branch of state government — will be made and delivered to Annapolis.

"Virtually every single person in the coverage area of any given hospital will eventually need the services of that hospital," Battista said. "It is crucial for all of our citizens to speak out about this. Several thousand letters, as well as telephone calls, to our elected officials can have a big impact."

A copy of this week's issue of The Republican is being mailed to each of Maryland's 146 state delegates and 46 Maryland state senators, as well as the governor.

MORE THAN JUST A JOB – Staff members of the Obstetrics Department of Garrett County Memorial Hospital play a vital role in literally life and death situations nearly every day. The birth of a new human being is indeed a special event, and in order for it to be a happy and healthy one, a mother could hardly find a better place than GCMH, where the nurses and doctors offer the best in care. Charlene Bennett, RNC and nurse manager for the OB dept., said she is greeted by families all the time in the community who proudly show her their growing children whom she helped to deliver. "It is a special place, no question about it," said Bennett, who worries with all her staff members about the future of obstetrics in Garrett County. "And we don't just serve our own county," Bennett said. "People come to us from Grant, Tucker, Preston, and Mineral counties, just to name a few. Where will they go if we are shut down?" The public can help preserve the OB dept. by urging their elected state representatives to enact medical malpractice tort reform. See additional information in this section. Photo by John McEwen.

Study Details Economic Impact Of Worsening Medical Liability Climate

A new analysis of Maryland's medical liability environment concludes that Maryland is in "the midst of a rapidly deepening crisis," which is having a substantial, negative impact on jobs and the Maryland economy. "The effects of this crisis are no longer limited to health care. It is now impacting the state as a whole," Mid Atlantic economist Anirban Basu said Tuesday. Basu, principal of the Sage Policy Group, conducted the study for the Maryland Hospital Association, with the support of the Maryland Business Council.

The study estimates that if the crisis is not resolved, reduced spending by hospitals and physicians, as a result of the medical liability insurance situation, will cost Maryland 1,850 jobs by the end of this year, and a loss of over 3,000 jobs in 2005. "That will account for a loss of nearly 9 percent of Maryland's overall job-creation capacity by 2005," Basu said.

The analysis also estimates other losses associated with the crisis that will negatively impact the Maryland economy:

1. Without reform–as hospitals defer/reduce spending and physicians cut office staff, restrict services, retire early, or leave Maryland–lost business sales will reach $171 million this year, and increase by 72 percent to $295 million next year.

2. Lost household income to the economy will total $60.5 million this year and $105 million by next year.

3. The economic impact of defensive medicine by physicians in order to guard against potential lawsuits shows lost employment of 14,400 jobs; diverted spending of $795 million; lost household income of $462 million; and lost business sales of $1.3 billion.

"These misallocated resources could have made a huge difference if they had been appropriately redirected and invested to improve patient outcomes, patient access, patient safety, and improved hospital facilities," Basu said.

The analysis likens Maryland's medical liability insurance environment to the "perfect storm" for insurers–resulting in cost shock both for insurers and health care providers. The Basu study attributes the crisis to a rapid escalation in the size of the claims payouts, higher jury verdicts, and a dramatic drop in the number of insurers in Maryland. All this has led to a 94 percent increase in medical liability costs–to a total of $455 million–between 2002 and 2005, according to the new analysis.

Because of the difficulty in quantifying these numbers, the study does not calculate the impact of additional costs of the medical liability crisis, including: the diversion of consumer, business and government resources; the harm associated with diminished emergency room coverage; reduced access by patients to medical specialists; and higher health insurance costs for Maryland businesses.

"This analysis offers new and troubling insights about this crisis," said MHA President Calvin Pierson. "We already know the toll it's taking on providers and their ability to serve patients. Now it's clear it's spilling over to the economy. The governor and our legislative leaders have got to find the political will to fix this crisis now! The health of our citizens and the economy depend on it."

"This report demonstrates a looming crisis for the state's economy," said Ed Hale, chairman of the Maryland Business Council. "On behalf of the 130 member companies in the Maryland Business Council, we urge immediate action to resolve this crisis now."

A copy of the full report can be found online at www.mdhospitals.org.

THE POLAR EXPRESS

Rated G - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 11/10/04

Robert Zemeckis's new digitally animated Christmas movie The Polar Express is yet another showcase for the latest breakthrough in cinematic computer wizardry, further pushing the envelope of capabilities that CGI animation has to offer to the big screen. It also continues to confirm my assertion that someday we won't need actors at all. Heck, they only used one (namely, Zemeckis's old Forrest Gump/Cast Away buddy Tom Hanks) for nearly every principal character in the film. But in this cartoon it's not just the voice the actor is supplying—by using motion-capture technology similar to what was used for Gollum in the Lord Of The Rings series, the animators were able to pattern the film's visual characters after the actors themselves, including close-ups, so even the most subtle facial movements could be digitally captured and rendered on the screen. I saw a production reel for this movie, and Hanks's face was so covered with those little computer sensor thingies, he looked like a teenager who'd misplaced his Oxy 10.

This technique, while no doubt amazing, has a side effect that may be considered a good or bad thing depending on the viewer: since Tom Hanks is supplying either the voice, the face, or the body used for this technology (or in some cases all three), practically every speaking character resembles him, either vaguely or overtly. While the story is fantastic and the visuals often awe-inspiring, after a while it begins to look like a one-man show. Couldn't Warner Brothers scrape up a few other actors who were willing to submit to this technique?

The story, adapted by Zemeckis and William Broyles from the popular 32–page book by Chris Van Allsburg, begins with a voiceover from Hanks, who is speaking from the adult perspective of an unnamed young boy (face of Hanks) recollecting one Christmas when he was suffering from a Santa-belief crisis. As he is tucked into bed by his mother (Leslie Zemeckis, a.k.a. Mrs. Director) and father (Hanks) on Christmas eve, Hanks's voice admits that although he had always wished to hear the telltale sleigh bells outside, it never happened and he had grown increasingly skeptical about the existence of the famed fat gift provider. After drifting off to sleep, he is awakened by the sound of an approaching train outside his house, where there are no tracks. It stops, and out steps a smartly dressed conductor (Hanks, with a Ned Flanders moustache) who asks him if he's coming along. "This is the Polar Express!" he booms, so the boy reluctantly embarks on a weird and wonderful journey to the center of all things Santa. Incidentally, when he begins speaking as himself, his voice is that of Spy Kids star Daryl Sabara.

On the way he meets some other pole-bound children (Nona Gaye, Eddie Deezen, Peter Scolari/Jimmy Bennett) and a train-roof-dwelling hobo (Hanks), who join him in his surrealistic and sometimes truly scary voyage through all sorts of scrapes and near-misses, until they finally arrive at the Earth's northernmost point. There they encounter a beautiful city populated by thousands of elves, with a giant Christmas tree in its town square, where they finally meet the big jolly man himself (played by—Guess Who?).

I suppose it is appropriate that this story is named after the train and not the climactic event, since most of it concerns the journey and not the destination. Of the film's 90-minute running length, the first hour is spent on the train, wandering through all sorts of beautifully rendered snowy scenery and all sorts of strange, disjointed plot digressions. While the scenic visuals are incredible, the movement is fluid and the shading and texturing are impeccable, the character animation, presumably intended to be realistic and yet have a storybook feel, is at times somewhat creepy, with cartoon characters whose faces are a little "too real" for animation. And there are times when the story has obviously been padded to extend the running time, with songs, production numbers, and some really weird textual meanderings. Nevertheless, it is indeed an amazing spectacle and a wondrous story, and I'm sure it is all the more effective in its original 3-D IMAX incarnation. As for the performances, well, Hanks and all the other Hankses are terrific, as are those who do not reside at the Hanks household, but one does wonder if future filmmakers who use this technology will be so skimpy on the casting. ★★★★ land.

"We believe that the environmental and visual impacts of wind turbines are minimal," the commissioners wrote. "The value of wind energy projects is enhanced by the economic development benefits to surrounding communities."

Additionally, the commissioners said they supported the issuing of Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity on an "expedited basis" to windpower development in Maryland and encouraged "the MPSC to grant the requested waiver of the two-year notice requirement in order to advance the development of renewable energy projects."

If a certificate is issued to Synergics, a public hearing would probably be held sometime in April or May, according to Boone. The MPSC would then approve or disapprove the construction.

Dan Boone, Jon's brother, discussed how turbines may affect migratory birds, raptors, and other wildlife. Pictures of wind turbine construction sites in Tucker County, W.Va., and Somerset County, Pa., were also shown.

Biologist Liz McDowell of Grantsville said turbines were the "newest threat on the horizon" to bats. Of the 46 species of bats in the United States, 50 percent are already listed or proposed as endangered species, she said. Turbines could further endanger them, she indicated.

"Before we race ahead into green energy wind power," she said, "we need to pause and consider the consequences. Once a species is lost, it's lost forever."

According to McDowell, a weekly survey conducted in 1999 by the wind industry estimated that 2,092 bats representing seven species were killed at 44 giant turbines at West Virginia's Mountaineer Project during the study period.

She noted, however, that Dr. Merlin Tuttle, a respected bat scientist, believes the total number of bat fatalities could easily approach 4,000, since the survey was not conducted during the first half of the peak mortality period and unknown numbers of bats were removed by scavengers.

Bounds, a real estate agent with 11 years experience, discussed the possible effects of the turbines on adjoining properties and view sheds.

"They (turbines) deface our scenery and decrease our property values," he said. "Our scenery is about to change forever – the mountaintops will never be the same."

Also at the meeting were Meyersdale, Pa., area residents Todd Hutzel and Karen Ervin. The siblings live and work near a wind turbine.

Ervin said she can hear the "whoosh, whoosh" sound of the turbine blades throughout her house, even when the television is on and when she is in the bathtub. Lights from the turbine also shine in her son's bedroom window.

Hutzel, who operates his parents' farm, said the sound was louder at the farm in winter time when the trees were leafless, therefore, there was less protection from the noise.

"Members of my family need sleep aids, which can be addictive," he said. "But if you don't take them, you don't sleep. That's the bottom line."

The last half of the Friends of Backbone Mountain meeting was set aside for questions. A member of the audience, Wayne Rogers, president of Synergics, stood and introduced himself.

"I, too, would be concerned after hearing some of the comments presented," he said.

Rogers started to address some of the issues raised, but was interrupted and did not get a chance to finish. An audience member asked him where he lived and how many wind turbines were located there. Rogers' answers of "Annapolis" and "none" drew laughter and loud jeers from several audience members.

Before Rogers sat back down, he was able to say that his company would hold a public hearing in which residents would have an opportunity to speak.

"If you want a public meeting, you fund it, and we'll work with you," Dan Boone told Rogers.

Numerous audience members provided contact information so that the Backbone Mountain group could get in touch with them with additional information and meeting dates.

"Tonight's just the beginning," said Dan Boone.

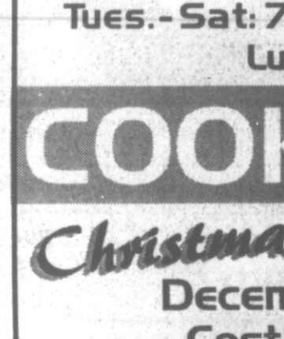
Finkel-Guillotte Nuptials Slated



Judy and Jan Finkel of the Deep Creek Lake area have announced the engagement of their daughter Jenny to Caleb Valsin Guillotte, son of Constance and Joseph V. Guillotte, of New Orleans.

The bride-elect is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, and earned a bachelor of arts degree from Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., in 2001. She is employed as a standardized patient/teaching assistant for Tulane University Medical School, New Orleans, and as a docent and contract employee for the Ogden Museum of Southern Art, also in New Orleans.

The prospective groom has worked in the music industry for over 25 years as a singer/songwriter and producer. He also coordinates design departments for the film industry in New Orleans.

The couple will be married in April in Verona, Italy.

Note: The above announcement is being reprinted because of an error.

Taskers To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

A 50th wedding anniversary celebration for John and Cleta Tasker, McHenry, will be held Saturday, Nov. 27, from 4 until 7 p.m. at Calvary Tabernacle.

The couple will renew their vows at vows, and a reception will follow the ceremony in the church's fellowship hall.

Friends and family are invited to join the celebration. The church is located at 27893 Garrett Highway, Accident.

Travel Expected To Rebound This Thanksgiving

Increases in both air and auto travel will push Thanksgiving travel volumes above pre-9/11 levels for the first time, according to AAA Mid-Atlantic.

Nationwide, AAA estimates that more people will be traveling this Thanksgiving than have since 2000 considered by many to be the high water mark for the travel industry. AAA's annual Thanksgiving travel poll reveals that 37.2 million Americans will travel 50 miles or more from home this holiday, a 3.1 percent increase over 2003. In Maryland, approximately 725,000 people will take trips of 50 miles or longer for the holiday.

"Travelers' increased confidence in both the economy and airline security will make this an extremely busy travel holiday," said John White, public and government relations manager for AAA Mid-Atlantic. "Gas prices, airfares and hotel rates have all increased since last Thanksgiving, but this has been a good year for travel overall. People want to travel again and there are many good travel-deals being offered."

Nationally, AAA expects 30.6 million people (or 82 percent of all holiday travelers) to drive 50 miles or more, a 2.9 percent increase from last year. In Maryland, that equates to about 615,000 residents making road trips out of town.

According to an informal survey of AAA branches in Maryland, popular destinations include New York City, Williamsburg, Va., and Walt Disney World. AAA's annual nationwide telephone poll found that the majority of travelers 63 percent nationally plan to stay with friends or family, while 23 percent said they would stay at a hotel or motel this Thanksgiving. Popular destinations vary with a nearly even split between people who plan to visit rural areas or small towns and travelers who plan to go to a big city (40 and 36 percent respectively).

Approximately 4.6 million Americans (or 12 percent of all holiday travelers) will fly, a 4-percent increase over last year. In Maryland, approximately 90,000 residents will fly to their holiday destination and an additional 20,000 will travel by train, bus or other means. Nationwide, AAA projects five percent of all travelers or 2 million people will travel by train, bus or other means.

Travel costs, for the most part, are higher than they were last year, but much lower than in 2000, according to AAA figures. At $1.96 a gallon yesterday for self-serve regular unleaded nationally and in Maryland, gas prices were 46 cents higher than one year ago. In November 2000, Marylanders were paying $1.53 per gallon for self-serve regular unleaded gas.

"Overall travel costs are up over last year, but many trips are less expensive than in 2000," White said. "Increased competition from discount airlines has caused airfares to plummet on many routes and hotel rates have only recently begun to rise after tumbling during the recession."

AAA attributes a 2.6-percent increase in airfare to an increase in demand and a decrease in both capacity and airline routes. Airfares are still 8.5 percent lower than in 2000, according to AAA's figures.

Lodging costs are 5.7 percent higher than last year due to higher occupancy rates but 5.5 percent lower than in 2000. Rental car rates are down 2.7 percent from last year and down 3.7 percent since 2000.

Read. Then recycle.

National Survey Notes Community College Support

That community colleges are highly valued institutions and integral parts of American society was confirmed by a recent survey of more than 1,000 adults. The survey was commissioned by the Bridges to Opportunity initiative, a program of the Ford Foundation, and results published in a recent edition of the Community College Times.

The majority of people surveyed, most of whom had some relationship to a community college, gave the two-year colleges high marks for providing top quality education and the opportunity for career training and advancement.

The report indicated that these respondents would support "using tax dollars to expand the system of community colleges so more students can attend, even if it means raising state taxes." Seventy-nine percent said that they would oppose cutting back spending on community colleges in order to balance the state budget. Only 27 percent of those surveyed preferred a solution that would raise tuition.

Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett College, said he found the results of the survey to be a positive reinforcement of public opinion. "We are gratified that people place a high priority on community college support," Herman said.

Although the respondents praised the community colleges for providing good education at affordable costs, they seemed to be unaware of the problems these institutions must deal with, according to Nancy Belden, who directed the survey. "This is the big irony," said Belden. "The public is very supportive but they don't understand the challenges we face in funding."

Oakland Update

by Asa McCain

Recycling Continues In March of this year, Oakland initiated a recycling program. On the first and third Fridays of each month, our contractor will pick up any type of metal cans and newspaper (not magazines). These items must be in separate clear bags. We have the clear blue recycling bags available at City Hall for $1 for 10 bags. I would like to encourage all residents to take advantage of this program.

Bulk Pick-Up The Oakland Street Department will continue to do bulk pick-up Fridays through Dec. 3, weather permitting. Feel free to call the street department at 301-334-3253 and let them know you have items out. Some items may need to be paid for in advance. Bulk pick-up will resume in the spring.

Leaf Collection The street department will wrap up the annual fall leaf collection on Friday, Nov. 19. If you still have leaves that need to be collected, please call the street department at 301-334-3253, and they will try to collect them, weather permitting.

Christmas on Main Street Our annual Christmas on Main Street celebration will be held on Friday, Dec. 3, and Saturday, Dec. 4. Festivities will begin on Friday at 5 p.m., with food, sleigh rides, vendors, carolers, and the coronation of the Snowflake Queen and Court. The parade will begin at 6:15 p.m. with the arrival of Santa. Immediately following the parade, Santa will be available for pictures in the gazebo beside the Historical Society Museum. The Garrett Reading Council will read Christmas stories at the train station from 7 to 8 p.m., with candy canes and bookmarks on hand for the children. Saturday events will begin at 8 a.m. at the train station, with free hot chocolate and donuts with Santa until 9 a.m. Persons interested in selling food or crafts may contact Pam Trickett at 301-334-4272. For question and other information, persons may call Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026.

The Shoppe at Heritage Square (The Train Station) The Oakland Train Station is the location of The Shoppe, a unique combination of locally made products for sale to the general public. Stop by and browse or do some Christmas shopping, any day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Extended hours may be announced for the holiday season.

Decorate a Parking Meter Fundraiser Thanks to all of those who participated in the Decorate a Parking Meter fundraiser. The proceeds from this year's collections were donated to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. A total of $1,300 was donated. A special thanks to Bea Crosco for organizing this event.

South Third Street Bridge Finally, progress continues, ever so slowly, on the bridge over the railroad on South Third Street. Negotiations are currently under way with the adjoining property owners regarding necessary rights of way.

Flockhart Selected For Internship In Nation's Capital

Garrett County resident Christie Flockhart has been selected as one of 400 college and university students nationwide to participate in American University's Semester in Washington, D.C.

This program began in 1947 and is a blend of seminars that feature policy makers, professionals, and experts with practical, professional work experience gained through an internship with the White House, Cabinet Affairs Office, U.S. Attorney's Office, U.S. Supreme Court, American Bar Association, or a private law firm.

A 2002 graduate of Northern High School, Flockhart is currently a junior at Glenville State College, Glenville, W.Va. At Glenville, she is a member of the women's volleyball team, an honoree of the Director's List for Student Athletes with a GPA of at least 3.0, and belongs to Phi Mu So-rority. She is a criminal jus-tice major with dual minors in psychology and political science.

She is the daughter of Bill and Sandi Flockhart, McHenry.

High Blood Pressure Treatment Options

High blood pressure, also known medically as hypertension, now affects more than 65 million Americans. The number of people with hypertension is estimated to have grown by 30% in the past decade alone. However, in the US, it is estimated that only 2 out of every 3 hypertensives have been properly diagnosed. Of those who have confirmed hypertension, only 75% routinely receive appropriate drug treatment. Since hypertension is a major risk factor for heart disease and the primary risk factor for stroke and heart failure, most health experts agree that it needs to be aggressively treated. In persons 60 years old and above, the relationship between hypertension and cardiovascular disease increases.

Several risk factors including obesity, stress, smoking, and a sedentary life style are associated with hypertension. Drugs approved to lower elevated blood pressure are called antihypertensives. A diuretic like hydrochlorothiazide or furosemide is often the first drug prescribed. For people with a history of heart attacks, atenolol or carvedilol are often used.

RAM Notes

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

The Leadership Academy offers these suggestions to live by: Nov. 15 - 19, "Show respect," and Nov. 22 - 26, "Stick up for other people."

ATTENDANCE UPDATE

Parents who send a signed note to school with their child in the morning for an out-of school pass during the school day do not have to come to the Attendance Office to sign their child out of school. Students can sign out of school and meet their parents in the parking lot. Students should carry their agenda books at all times. Students will be given a lunch detention in the cafeteria each time they come to the Attendance Office and do not have their agenda book. New agenda books are available in the main office for $10.

RAM LICENSE PLATE FRAMES AND SCHOOL REPLICAS FOR SALE

Show your support for the Rams by purchasing a license plate frame for sale now in the school store. Frames are $5 each. The class of 2004 sold Cat's Meow wooden replicas of Southern High School. They are still available for sale in the school store for $20. These make great gifts for present and past SHS students. Christmas is around the corner.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE MAP WINNER ANNOUNCED

Brandon McWilliams, Eric Blamble, Gage Welch, and Cody Ferguson correctly predicted every states' result except for Iowa in the Electoral College Map Contest. A tie breaker was necessary to determine the winner. Gage Welch came closest to predicting the 3% margin of victory in the popular vote for president. Gage will receive $150 toward the cost of participating in Mr. Bender's Washington, D.C., overnight field trip in May. Special thanks go to the Republican Party and Democratic Party's National Committees and First United Bank of Oakland for sponsoring this contest.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION WELCOMES PAST GRADUATES TO SCHOOL WEB SITE

Alumni classes who are having reunions/events can have their information posted on Southern's alumni page www.ga.k12.md.us/schools/sh. Users can click on the alumni link and see what events are planned. If you are a class organizer and are interested in posting information and updates, please contact Maria Zumpano at mzumpano@sh.ga.k12.md.us or call the school.

YALE GRADUATE SPEAKS TO ART CLASSES

Matt Larose, art department chair at Davis and Elkins College, gave a visual presentation and lecture to the Art I, II and III students on Friday, Nov. 5. He presented information about the evolution of his work as a professional artist. The talk emphasized the fundamental structure of his work and how place has affected his subject matter. Larose is a graduate of Tyler School of Art and Yale University School of Painting. Students were also given information about Davis and Elkins College.

RAM JACKETS KEEP YOU WARM

Now that cold weather is here, bundle yourself up in a Ram jacket available in the school store. These red nylon hooded jackets are lined with warm fleece, even in the hooded area. Deep pockets, front zipper and drawstring cord are also featured. Each jacket has a Southern Garrett High School logo embroidered on the left chest area. Sale price is $35. Stop by the school store to pick up one today.

Farmers Worry About Possible Loss of Beekeepers in State

by Rachael Jackson
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — As winter approaches, Maryland's four large-scale beekeepers are making sure their hives have plenty of honey, corn syrup, or sugar water to get them through the cold months. But Maryland State Apiary Inspector Jerry Fischer worries less about the bees and more about the beekeepers who are going to see the hives through winters to come.

Farmers rely on those beekeepers to deliver the honeybees that are needed to pollinate crops during the growing season. But most of the large-scale beekeepers in Maryland are in their mid-60s — the youngest is 56 years old.

"They're getting to the point where, 'I've been there, done that,'" said Fischer, noting that all are nearing retirement age, if not past it. If those operations fold, Fischer said farmers would have to rely on hobbyist beekeepers or bees trucked in from other states. But hobbyists — there are about 1,300 in Maryland — do not usually bring their bees to farmers, who just have to hope that the hobbyists' bees find their crops.

If not pollinated by the honeybee, certain crops can end up deformed: Improper pollination causes cucumbers to grow in a 'C' shape and can make strawberries and pumpkins lopsided.

Dennis Reid, a Rhodesdale farmer, said that if his beekeeper retires, it will have "great economic impact."

"We raise 300 acres of watermelons, and that's our biggest money crop," Reid said. "You have to have bees to pollinate watermelons." Although his beekeeper has not mentioned retirement, Reid said he is aware of the man's age and has started looking into other options, such as hiring migratory beekeepers that travel from Florida to Maine so their bees can pollinate crops along the way.

"That's a long way to bring bees," Reid said. "I don't even want to think about it."

Already some farmers use bees brought in from other states, but that can spread disease, said Dean Burroughs, state bee inspector on the Eastern Shore.

Certain types of mites can be devastating for bees, and caused most of the wild honeybee population in Maryland to die off in the 1990s. That population is coming back, but nowhere near the level farmers require. "We try to inspect bees," Burroughs said. But if there is a sudden influx of out-of-state hives, "it'll be tough to keep up with that."

Smithsburg beekeeper Ora Hays, 56, said his son had expressed an interest in taking over the operation. But beekeepers say it is usually hard to attract people to a business is physically demanding and offers few frills.

Beekeepers use hives and smokers that have not changed much since Mark Twain's days, said Oliver Collins, who manages about 1,500 hives in Vienna. Beekeepers regularly lift 100-pound hives and often work strange hours because bees only return to the hives after dark.

"Almost every beekeeper I know has a bad back," said Warren Seaver, 65, a Dover, Del., resident who keeps some of his bees in Maryland. "It's a young man's game, yet older people are in it."

Now, Fischer, Burroughs and others are trying to get more young people excited about the honeybee. Beginning beekeeping classes are offered through local beekeeping associations, and Fischer tries to get people "abuzz" with honey shows at fairs and festivals. Collins said it is important to start young just because of how physically demanding beekeeping can be.

"If you waited until you were 60 years old to start this, it might kill you," he said. But at 65, Collins knows he is going to have to leave the industry soon.

"I'd like to stay in it another five years, but I'm not sure," he said. "That's health-dependent."

Corn, Soybean Harvest Could Be Second-Largest in State History

by Rachael Jackson
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Corn and soybean yields are expected to be the second-highest ever in Maryland this year, mirroring a possible record-setting year nationwide, agriculture officials reported Friday.

"Ideal growing conditions and adequate and timely moisture are probably the two primary reasons," said Bob Kratochvil, state extension specialist for grain and oil crops. "Mother Nature was very kind to us this year."

Maryland farmers are expected to average 152 bushels of corn per acre, just three bushels shy of the state's 2000 record, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Nationwide, the yield is expected to average 160.2 bushels per acre. The soybean yield in Maryland is expected to be 42 bushels per acre, just one bushel short of the 2000 record, and just shy of what would be a national record average of 42.6 bushels per acre.

Maryland farmers had harvested 91 percent of their corn and 56 percent of soybeans as of Nov. 7. Soybean harvests stalled because of wet weather and because farmers were so busy with corn, Kratochvil said.

After saying it had been "just a fantastic year," Poolesville farmer Jamie Jam-ison said he hopes none of the crops go to waste.

"We need to feed a lot of animals, we need to make a lot of ethanol and export a bunch," he said.

Soybean Harvest Winding Down

Maryland farmers received from 1 to 2.5 inches of rain last week resulting in 4.6 days suitable for field work for the week ending Nov. 14. Soybean harvest continues with 71 percent complete, slightly above last year and the five-year average. Other hay fourth cutting and alfalfa hay fifth cutting harvest were wrapping up with 89 percent complete for other hay and 59 percent for alfalfa hay. Pasture was rated 26 percent excellent, 44 percent good, 24 percent fair, and 6 percent poor. Hay supplies were rated 7 percent surplus, 78 percent adequate, 10 percent short, and 5 percent very short.

The abundant corn crop has overloaded storage facilities and forced Perdue Farms Inc. to store corn in 20- to 30-foot-tall piles in parking lots at its Eastern Shore facilities. The ventilated piles are more than 100 feet long and covered in black tarps that make them look like circus tents, a Perdue spokesman said.

With so much supply, Gene Mullinix said he is only accepting crops on an appointment basis at his grain storage facilities in Lisbon and Frederick.

"We're plugged up now," he said, adding that he has never seen anything like this in 40 years in the business. His bins are filled to capacity with 1.25 million bushels of corn and soy beans.

But as farmers have watched their yields go up, they have also watched prices fall. Farmers who contracted their corn back in May got $3 a bushel for it.

Recently it has been selling at less than $2 a bushel, said Lynne Hoot, executive director of the Maryland Grain Producers Association. "They could have made an extra $1 a bushel, which is pretty significant," Hoot said. But she said farmers are still satisfied with the large yields.

"Farmers are much happier when they have something to sell," Hoot said.

Julia Klapproth, an agricultural statistician at the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service, said the near-record harvest follows a century-long pattern of increasing yields, as improvements in breeding, pesticides, and irrigation management let farmers get more crops per acre.

Kratochvil said Maryland probably would have broken the 2000 record yields if not for a few pockets on the Eastern Shore that experienced brief droughts.

Corn and soybeans are the state's largest crops. The Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service reports that farmers expect to harvest totals of 63.8 million bushels of corn and 20.6 million bushels of soybeans.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER!

Before beginning your search for a new home, be sure you've done your "homework!" The key to a successful purchase is to arm yourself with knowledge and try to anticipate potential issues.

Start with a clear idea of what features you want in your home, and what location you prefer. Then learn as much as possible about that neighborhood and homes that have recently sold there, as well as those currently for sale. A real estate agent can provide information on prices, marketing times, etc. This is one way you'll know if the house you're considering offers good value.

Before making an offer, rest assured that your financing is already approved. Secure "pre-approval" for a loan, giving you peace of mind, and giving sellers the strong impression that you are an able and committed buyer.

Be prepared to make decisions by ensuring everyone involved in the purchase is present when viewing homes. This doesn't necessarily mean involving the kids and Uncle Lenny, but you don't want to waste precious time setting up a second showing appointment for crucial decision makers like your spouse or parents. Don't lose the home of your dreams to hesitation.

Know what you want and where. Know that you're approved for the purchase and that the decision makers are ready. Know that you're prepared to enjoy a successful home buying experience!

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Rebecca Fint Is Named WVU's Ms. Mountaineer

Rebecca M. Fint of Aurora, pictured above, was chosen the 2004 Ms. Mountaineer at West Virginia University. Named Mr. Mountaineer was Christopher Williams of Spencer, also pictured.

The announcement was made during halftime festivities of Saturday's WVU-Boston College football game.

A senior physical education/teacher education major, Fint was sponsored by the Collegiate 4-H Club. She has held many leadership positions in 4-H, including 2002-03 secretary and 2001-02 social chair, and she currently serves as a committee chair on the National Collegiate 4-H Conference Planning Committee.

In addition to 4-H, she is involved with the Physical Education Majors Club and was selected as a WVU Extension Service representative to Romania this past summer. She has also served on the WVU President's Committee for Nutrition and Wellness.

Among her honors are the Anna Shuman Physical Education Scholarship, which she received three consecutive years, and the 2000-01 WVU Leadership Scholarship. She also made the School of Physical Education dean's list in 2002 and 2004. In 2001, she was honored as a Mountain State Forest Festival Princess.

"Being a Mountaineer is not simply becoming a student," she wrote in her application essay. "It is the person you are. Mountaineers become active in our school, continue to show our support, and never forget the days we had at WVU. We hold our state and university in our hearts and show our spirit by loving our school and all for which it stands."

She is the daughter of Joseph and Stacy Fint.

Among the candidates for Mr. Mountaineer was Jamie Bosley of Oakland. See sports pages for a photo and more information.

SHERWOOD, CORBIN MARRY

Melinda Sherwood and Brian Corbin were wed Saturday, Nov. 13, at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, with the Rev. J. Rogers Fike officiating.

Brian is the son or Richard and Sue Corbin of Eglon and is employed by Beitzel Welding.

Melinda's parents are Mike and Mary Sherwood of Elk Garden (Hartmansville). The couple is residing at Hartmansville.

PERSONAL MENTION

Becca Fint was named Miss Mountaineer at last Saturday's West Virginia University game with Boston College. She is the daughter of Joe and Stacy Fint of Aurora and is a student at WVU.

Bill Hauser of Aurora underwent triple bypass surgery on Nov. 9 at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown. His family from this area has been with him, as well as a sister and brother-in-law, Bonnie and Charles Douglas, of Ashland, Ky., who returned home Thursday.

Claude and Jean Winters of Eglon accompanied Ellis and Marie Teets of Horse Shoe Run on a Sunday visit with Lorraine Fike at the Bridgewater Home, Bridgewater, Va., where she is a resident.

Here for the Corbin-Sherwood wedding, and visiting with Arvin and Rita Harsh at Eglon were Nell Dickenson and her friends, Pete and Suzanne Sizemore, of Richmond, Va.

Junior High Sunday was celebrated at the Maple Spring Church with the youth in charge of the morning worship and music. This was followed by the church's annual Thanksgiving dinner.

Albert "Corky" Wiles of Aurora is a patient in the Lewis A. Johnston VA Hospital, Clarksburg, where he is receiving treatment for an apparent inoperable blockage of the carotid artery.

Carol Duling of Lynchburg, Va., was a weekend visitor with Janice Tackett, Aurora, and here for the funeral of her father, Ernest W. Shaffer. Mr. Shaffer, a former resident of Aurora, had been residing in Mtn. Lake Park.

MT. LIONS PRESENT OUTSTANDING SERVICE AWARD–Aurora-based Alternatives 2 Wood was recognized with the Mt. Lions Club Outstanding Service Award at a recent club meeting. The Preston County business, which ships vinyl building products throughout the United States and Canada, has grown from its start in the garage of Harold and Sandie Kisner to employ 21 workers from Preston and Garrett counties as it meets an annual payroll of over $500,000. Alternatives 2 Wood was cited by Mt. Lions Club president David Moran for its "dedication to hiring local employees and making jobs and economic benefits available locally." Pictured from the left are Lions District 291 governor Diane Kimble, Alternatives 2 Wood owners Harold and Sandie Kisner, their general manager Mark Lewis, and Moran.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I learned poignant details of the Husky boys' soccer game in the playoffs in Boonesboro. Matthew's Uncle Barry Glotfelty passed off a chance to watch the pre-season Maryland Terps basketball game to watch Matthew play. When they lost he told Matthew, "Next time." But Matthew told him there will be no next time because it is Matt's last game, as he is a high school senior.

It is an exciting time for senior to look forward to a new life, but also they have to say goodbye to lots of precious time of their lives. It is a bittersweet time for them and for their families, too. Last weekend saw another bittersweet senior moment for my family's younger generation, as our Blakely Glotfelty made her last performance as Northern High Marching Band drum major at the Atlantic Coast Championship competition at Scranton, Pa. I seldom saw a more beautiful sight as she conducted at Northern's home band show a couple months ago.

Time does fly when you are watching our beloved kids growing up, and distances get longer when they go away. We can only hope they feel like my youngest brother Scott, who told another vet school student when she came up to Bittinger for a weekend when they passed Owen Stanton farm, "We're almost home."

Home is where the heart is! The day we got the terrible news about Scott's death in Africa I felt his presence here as I rode "Joey" across the field, which was the only thing I could think of to do for comfort. He was "home" even if only in spirit, as he still is at Christmas and Thanksgiving.

I wish he could be here in every way. But that is one fact about human life you can't escape. The most precious thing we have here on earth is the people whom we love. Barry made the right choice to choose a high school soccer game over the top-class college hoop scene. I know how much it means to young performers to have their extended family bother to travel to watch their big moments. It was very comforting for me to have family there even when the results were not as good as you would have wished, and just great to have them there when I finished on top. Aunt Dot and Uncle Jack Quaintance and Aunt Helen Englar were always there for the big events in Maryland. Also, I had some faithful friends, Marvin and Leona Beitzel, who were there for me in Virginia.

It just seems simply unbelievable that my second darling baby girl will turn 16 years old this Friday, Nov. 19. Waiting for her birth got me through the hardest time in my life, the month after Scott's death in April 1988. She was due around my birthday, but she waited another two weeks so I could share a room in the maternity ward with my best pal from high school, Penny Friend Batham, who delivered two weeks early with her son. But we did share that special moment.

Now I have not a darling baby girl, but a tall, slim daughter who is ready to take the wheel! She passed her test for her learning permit. I hope she is not in too big a hurry to get her license. It is not a good time in winter in Garrett County for a brand new driver to be driving around on our roads.

While making a final leg of my Monday morning circle of errands, I had to detour onto Foy Road, as Mosser Road was closed at that point. I was curious as to why it was closed, but not enough to go back to see what was the cause or see if Rock Lodge spring was running. I am afraid to look, as I don't think I could stand another anxiety-provoking event just now.

We enjoyed the celebration of the baptism on Sunday morning at Emmanuel Lutheran Church of a beautiful brunette Bittinger baby McKenna Stanton, daughter of Aaron and Patti Stanton and little sister of Alayna, who continued her glow from when she was ready to burst with pride and joy on the birth of her little sister – just like my Claire was when Caitlin and Meredith came along. No jealousy around, as they knew very well that there is plenty of love to go around. I think their role as godparents might inspire Mike and Lea Pochet to add another great-grandchild to Ferne's tally. Of course, they just celebrated their second wedding anniversary last week. They still have that newlywed glow, and Lea especially is joyful when she is home for a visit in Bittinger. Since they are now living in Ohio they are much closer to home.

It is somewhat intimidating to look at the prayer concern lists from Emmanuel, St. John's, and Zion in the church bulletin. So many people whom I know very well are ill, and our prayers go out to them. Life goes on, just as it has for so long a time. New babies arriving, children turning into teenagers and their leaving home for college or out into the Big World. They are eager to return home for a visit. People get sick, some get better, others don't! Most people around here keep on rolling along with a smile, even sometimes a forced one on their faces. Tears flow, sometimes they stop, sometimes not.

My Caitlin, cousins Blakely, Darryl, and Elliot Glotfelty, and Scott Glotfelty had a great time in Scranton over the weekend. Although the Husky marching band was on the last tour of Chapter I bands, they placed second in that category with special awards for music, woodwinds, and brass. It is hard to get much detail from your own teenager. I dragged a "yes" out of Caitlin when I asked whether they had fun. But she was glad to get home, so that was the most important thing to me. Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and Kevin Bass accompanied the band on the bus for the competition.

Robert Frost's poetry describes the ache of living much better than I ever could hope to do. If you are not familiar with his poems, "After Apple-picking," "Stopping by Snowy Woods," etc., you should become so. His words are always on my mind since I was a little kid playing over and over the record album belonging to my Aunt Dot of Frost reading his poetry over and over. He was the most favorite subject in my classes when I taught literature at the college. Then when I was in that dreadful coma my mother brought a book of his poetry and read it to me. Now I really am living his experience when life is almost past and only trying to make sense of it.

It is certainly unseasonably mild for late November. I opened my door and windows to air out my house without a concern about wasting heating oil. But I am pretty sure that will change very soon, probably in time for Thanksgiving, or sooner.

The first third of my life was too good to last. Not many bad things happened to me, but once I passed my 17th birthday,. every good period was interrupted with some major crisis. The next 30 years were mostly struggles, with an occasional good time. But the last few years of that period are mostly bad times with the pain of taking every step.

The worst thing about getting older is that you find yourself needing support that is in very short supply. But you can't fully grow up without lots of suffering. I guess that is why I am here. I am sure I was not thankful enough for the many blessings God showered on me when I was young. I know now how lucky I was. I need to learn to appreciate even the tiny pleasures I happen to experience, now no matter how small or how wide the space between them. People often mention, "How can you write that column every week?" or "How can you find things to write about?" I wonder how it would be to not have hundreds of ideas bubbling in your mind, like yeast bubbles in a batch of buckwheat batter.

Lottie Brenneman seems to be improving since her surgery and is busy going to doctor appointments. It keeps her daughters busy on the road taking her to and fro.

Not much other news from around here.

Read. Then Recycle.

LEGIONNAIRE OF THE YEAR — Melvin Schwing, Accident, recently received the 2004 Legionnaire of the Year award at the annual Veterans Day dinner served by Grantsville American Legion Post 214. Schwing, a World War II veteran and retired Garrett County music/band teacher, has been an active member with the post since 1957. During those years he served six terms as the post commander and is currently the bugler for the Honor Guard. Pictured above with Schwing (left) is Matthew Stieringer Sr., Post 214 judge advocate, past commander, and chairman of the Legionnaire of the Year Committee.

National Family Caregivers Month
November are the caring 04
Over 50 Million Americans provide care to chronically ill, aged, or disabled loved ones. They deserve our appreciation and support.

The NFCSP provides assistance to caregivers in five categories of service.

- Information
The provision of information to caregivers about available services. The delivery of information may include: direct contact, presentations, publications, news media, etc.
- Assistance
Providing direct assistance to caregivers in gaining access to services, including case management.
- Education ~ Training ~ Support
This category may include individual counseling, organization of support groups, and training to provide caregivers with tools necessary to make decisions and solve problems related to their caregiver roles.
- Respite Care
Provides temporary relief from care-giving responsibilities through the delivery of services such as personal care or chore service, assisted living or nursing home, Adult Day Care and Senior Center Plus.
- Supplemental Service
These services are designed to complement those provided by the caregiver and can include medical supplies, transportation, and items needed by families on a limited basis.

National Family Caregiver Support Program (NFCSP)
Two types of caregivers qualify for services:
- Family caregivers of individuals age 60 and older.
- Grandparents and other relatives age 60 and older who have assumed the care of a child 18 years of age or younger.

Adoption "Myths" Laid Bare By Facts, Stats, And Children

by Monica Barnett
Garrett County Department Of Social Services

National Adoption Day is this Saturday, Nov. 20, a day marked by families nationwide as courts across the country finalize the adoptions of thousands of children in foster care. A Saturday Adoption Awards banquet at Uno Resturaunt will honor the Chapmans of Bray School Road as 2004 Garrett County Adoptive Family of the Year, and recognize other local families. The public portion of the event will take place from 12:30 to 1:20 p.m.

The occasion serves as an opportunity to debunk some of the "myths" that surround foster care and adoption addressed in this list supplied by www.nationaladoptionday-.org.

MYTH: All foster care children have some kind of physical, mental or emotional handicap; that's why they are classified as "special needs...."

FACT: The term "special needs" is somewhat misleading, because it can mean that the child is older, a minority, or requires placement with his/her siblings. While some children are dealing with physical or emotional concerns, just like other children they need the nurturing and support that a permanent family can provide. Many foster children are in the "system" because their birth parents weren't protective and nurturing caretakers – not because the children did anything wrong.

MYTH: There is too much red tape and bureaucracy involved in adopting a child from foster care.

FACT: Congress has streamlined the foster care adoption process through enactment of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997. This law ensures that children in foster care who cannot be reunited with their birth parents are freed for adoption and placed with permanent families as quickly as possible.

MYTH: There are not enough loving families available who want to adopt a foster child.

FACT: Many prospective adoptive parents may initially want to adopt an infant, often because they are unaware that there are older children who also need families. When they learn about an older child available for adoption, they often "fall in love" and realize the enormous impact they can have on that child's life. Older children can share their feelings about joining a new family, helping to make the adoption and transition process successful. Four in 10 American adults have considered adoption, according to a National Adoption Attitudes Survey funded by the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption. That translates into 81.5 million Americans. If only one out of 500 Americans adopted out of the foster care system, these children would have homes.

MYTH: Adoptive parents must be a 2004 version of Ozzie and Harriet.

FACT: Prospective adoptive parents do not have to be rich, married, own a home, or be of a certain race or age to become an adoptive parent. (One-third of adoptions from foster care are by single parents.) Patience, a good sense of humor, a love of children, and the commitment to be a good parent are the most important characteristics.

MYTH: Adopting a child from foster care is expensive.

FACT: Many prospective parents do not know that adopting children from foster care is virtually free, while private or international adoptions can cost anywhere from $4,000 to $30,000 or more. A growing number of companies and government agencies offer adoption assistance as part of their employee benefit packages, including time off for maternity/paternity leave, financial incentives, and other benefits. In addition, Congress has made federal tax credits available for foster care adoptions to help offset required fees, court costs, legal, and travel expenses. In June 2001, the President signed a revised adoption tax credit, which took effect in January 2003, to increase the amount of the credit to $10,000 for all adoptive families. Benefits such as these are enabling more families to adopt foster children into their homes. More information is available in the IRS Publication 968 "Tax Benefits for Adoption," which can be obtained by calling 1-800-829-3676 or visiting www.irs.ustreas.gov.

MYTH: Families don't receive support after the adoption is finalized.

FACT: Financial assistance does not end with the child's placement or adoption. The vast majority of children adopted from foster care are eligible for federal or state subsidies that help offset both short- and long-term costs associated with post-adoption adjustments. Such benefits (which vary by state) commonly include monthly cash subsidies, medical assistance and social services. More information about federal and state subsidy programs is available from the National Adoption Assistance Training, Resource, and Information Network helpline at 1-800-470-6665

MYTH: Children in foster care have too much "baggage."

FACT: This is perhaps the biggest myth of all. Foster children – just like any children – have enormous potential to thrive given love, patience, and a stable environment. Just ask U.S. Senator Ben "Nighthorse" Campbell, NFL All-Pro quarterback Dante Culpepper, Washington, D.C., mayor Anthony Williams, or Miss USA 2000 Lynette Cole. They were all once foster children who were adopted by caring adults.

MYTH: It's too difficult to find information on how to adopt.

FACT: There are resources available to help potential parents take the first step toward adopting out of foster care. For more information, log on to www.nationaladoptionday.com, www.davethomasfoundation.org, www.-adoptUSkids.org, or simply call 1-800-TO-ADOPT.

For information on local foster care and adoption services, persons may call Garrett County DSS foster care specialist Donna Cumerlato at 301-533-3050 or adoption specialist Monica Barnett at 301-533-3045.

In Loving Memory of my Husband who died November 18, 1985

Before Night

Before night has swept the sky,
I dream of days now gone by;
Drop a tear on winds of time;
See a vision that is only mine.
Before the stars are hung to shine,
Feel the warmth of love sublime;
Hear a voice from yesteryear,
And . . . strain to hold it near.

TRASH PICKUP DATES

Residents of Accident are asked to make note that trash will be collected on Thursday, Dec. 23, and Thursday, Dec. 30, at the usual times instead of the usual Fridays because of the holidays.

TOWN NEWS

The town's wreaths will be put up Monday, Nov. 22, weather permitting. All persons interested in helping may contact the town hall at 301-746-6346.

The next town meeting will be held Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. A representative from Adelphia Cable will be present.

The Accident Cultural and Historical Society's Cookie Walk will be held Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Drane House from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Christmas festivities will be held on Saturday, Dec. 11, at the Accident Elementary School. The Accident Concert Band and the Community in Harmony Chorus, including the United Methodist Choir from McHenry, will be performing. Cookies will be served by Thrivent for Lutherans. A free-will offering will be collected and given to needy veterans in Garrett County.

NORTH STAR 4-H CLUB

The North Star 4-H Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 9, with seven members and one guest present. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite birthday gift. Helaina LaMastus led the American pledge, and Kevin Haenftling led the 4-H pledge.

The group discussed the Christmas party to be held Sunday, Dec. 5. They also drew names for Secret Santa gifts to be exchanged at the party. This will be their monthly meeting also. There will not be a meeting on the second Tuesday in December.

The group also collected canned goods to be given to a family whose home burned down.

Election of officers was held. Rachel Schmidt is president, Jennifer LaMastus is vice president, Angela LaMastus is secretary, Kara Savage is treasurer, Kevin Haenftling is reporter, and Helaina LaMastus is photographer.

Beitzel Named To Who's Who

Kimberly R. Beitzel, a junior at Northern Garrett High School, was recently notified that she will be listed with Who's Who Among American High School Students for the third consecutive year.

Only 5 percent of the nation's high school students are honored each year, and only 1 percent for consecutive years.

Kimberly is an honor roll student, and is currently taking the business/finance courses offered at Northern. She is planning to pursue her education in the business field after high school graduation in 2006.

Kimberly is the daughter of Richard and Karole Beitzel, Grantsville.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the eighth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington and Bobby Andersen are the head coordinators, assisted by several other Civic Club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful.

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Please make your donations before December 3, 2004. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

HELP TRIM A TREE

The Friendsville Community Watch Group has announced that members will be holding a Trim a Tree program during the 2004 Christmas season. This fundraiser is to raise money to improve the Friendsville volleyball court in the Town Park. Through donations, they will adorn the lighted Christmas tree on Main Street with bows to honor and support loved ones who are suffering or who are deceased. Bows are $5 each, and the colors will be: red for remembrance, white for encouragement, gold for honor, and USA in support of the country and military.

The tree decorating and lighting ceremony will take place Friday, Dec. 3, at 6 p.m. on Main Street. The honor ceremony will begin at 6 p.m., with all names announced as a bow is placed on the tree. Forms to purchase a bow may be picked up at S&S Market. All money and forms are to be back to S&S Market by Dec. 1. Forms and money can also be mailed to Brenda Frazee at 8614 Friendsville Road, Friendsville, MD 21531. The library is offering jewelry-making classes for teens on Saturday, Nov. 27, at 11 a.m., and Thursday, Dec. 9, at 6:30 p.m. The classes are free and materials will be provided. The November class will be on beading and wire jewelry making. Anyone who has unwanted jewelry that can be recycled for parts is asked to please drop them off at the library or put them in the book drop. All help will be greatly appreciated.

Volunteers are currently starting embroidery squares for the third fundraising quilt. Anyone who would like to complete a square should call Michele at the library at 301-746-5663. Squares need to be completed by January 31, 2005.

FAMILY CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

A Family Christmas Celebration will be held on Friday, Dec. 10, at 6 p.m. in the Friendsville Elementary School cafeteria. All ages are welcome to join in this evening of fellowship, entertainment, and games. Santa will make his appearance and give out the town treat. Pictures will also be available with Santa. Refreshments and crafts will be for sale. This event is being sponsored by the Friendsville Community Watch, Elementary School PTO, and the Mayor and Town Council.

PERSONALS

Several persons from around the Friendsville area recently went to the Sight and Sound Theater to see Miracle of Christmas.

Recent visitors to the area included Wilbert and Mary Hoff of Macomb, Ill. They spent time with friends and relatives in the area and spent an afternoon with Bob Cupp and Janice Hileman.

Holiday House Tours, Craft Show Slated In Addison

The Old Petersburg Addison Historical Society will hold Christmas house tours and other holiday activities on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4 and 5.

In addition to tours of some Addison houses, a live nativity scene will be portrayed along with an art and craft show. A greenery sale will be held at the Addison Methodist Church. For more information, persons may call 814-395-3469 or 814-395-5813.

House tours will be given on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and from noon until 5 p.m. on Sunday. Music will also be performed at some locations.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $2 for children, and are available at the Methodist Church by calling 814-395-5584.

Lunch will also be available at the Methodist Church, which is located at 7678 National Pike.

Regents Expand Measures To Help Students Obtain More Financial Aid

by Laurel Lundstrom
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE - Maryland higher education officials approved measures Tuesday to make more financial aid available for the students who need it most.

The changes, designed to compensate for large tuition increases over the past few years, were approved by the Maryland Board of Regents Education Policy Committee. They still must be accepted by the full board.

Maryland's institutions would be instructed to hold poorer students "harmless" by decreasing their loan debt and giving need-based aid priority over merit-based aid, according to a report presented by members of the Regents Financial Aid Task Force.

"A student who cannot pay shouldn't be penalized and not be able to attend college," said Marvin Mandel, regent and former governor.

The task force drafted the report in response to the 30 percent rise in tuition over the past four years, said Chancellor William E. Kirwan at a Regents meeting last month.

In fiscal year 2003, institutions gave $14.8 million to needy students and $42.8 million to others regardless of their wealth, according to the report.

"We have to move to put much more of our money into need-based aid in the future," said Regent Patricia Florestano.

The task force suggests balancing those figures by shifting funds to need-based programs or combining need and merit aid for students who qualify for both.

Changes can be paid for by reallocating money from tuition increases, asking for more private donations, and seeking additional state aid, the report said.

But some regents don't think it will be easy to get additional money.

"This is a great idea but we always end up in the same bind," said Clifford Kendall, Board of Regents chairman. "There aren't enough dollars to go around."

Throughout the past decade, while enrollment increased and health and energy costs skyrocketed, federal and state aid decreased.

There are 7,000 students on a waiting list for the state's Educational Assistance Grants, according to the report. Federal Pell grant funds also decreased, forcing students to be more reliant on loans.

Last year, federal education loans accounted for 75 percent of all federal student aid, totaling $41 billion in student debt, according to the College Board.

Other draft recommendations intended to decrease debt burdens include, increasing aid to students who transfer from community colleges to four-year institutions and increasing Internet information to help students understand and apply for financial aid.

Rotary Clubs To Collect Items For Needy Families

The Rotary Clubs of Garrett County (Oakland and Grantsville) recently announced the kick-off of their annual effort to collect items to be distributed to the needy for Christmas. Last year this effort distributed in excess of 40,000 pounds of food, as well as gifts of clothing and toys to over 400 families countywide.

Gifts and toys are provided for children age 12 and under. The Oakland club (primary sponsor) noted that the 400 families were divided fairly equally throughout the county, with one third in the southern part of the county, one third in the central part, and one third in the northern section. Deliveries were made to over 100 families in the Grantsville and Friendsville areas in 2003.

The primary method of obtaining gifts and food for these families is through donations. A series of displays or trees are placed in businesses, churches, and other places throughout the community, with tags indicating what is needed. For example, a tag may read "Small Toy Fire Truck — age 8." Individuals wishing to help may simply remove a tag, purchase the item, attach the tag to the gift, and then place it under the tree from which the tag was removed.

Tags are also provided on all trees in Grantsville to remind people that dollars are also needed to purchase food. The local Rotary will pick up the items and arrange for delivery.

Joe Bender of the Grantsville club noted that gift tag trees for the Grantsville area are located at Beachy's Pharmacy, Penn Alps Restaurant, First United Bank & Trust, M&T Bank, Ruth Enlow Library, and Grantsville Comfort Inn. A food tag tree is located at Grantsville Foodland.

Bender said that persons who cannot pick up a tag may call him at 814-662-4366, and a tag will be provided. He also noted that monetary donations are "greatly appreciated" and accepted. Checks should be made payable to the Grantsville Rotary Christmas Project and mailed to Grantsville Rotary, P.O. Box 358, Grantsville, MD 21536, or dropped off at any tree location.

"The collection period runs only through December 6, or approximately two weeks, so those interested should act now," Bender said.

Collections throughout the county will then be assembled and sorted into family units. The mass delivery of all gift bags and food baskets will be made to homes on December 11.

DONATION TREES have been placed in businesses throughout the county by the Rotary clubs of Garrett County. Persons may remove a tag, purchase the item, and place the gift under the tree. Gifts will be distributed to needy families on December 11. Pictured above with the tree at Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville is Earleena Tressler of the Grantsville Rotary.

Scheffel Named Hospice Clinical Services Director

Registered nurse Cheryl Scheffel has been named director of clinical services by the Hospice of Garrett County.

Scheffel is a graduate of the Union Memorial School of Nursing in Baltimore who has 25 years of experience in the nursing profession. She has been employed by Hospice of Garrett County as a registered nurse for the past four years.

"Cheryl has excellent nursing skills," said Hospice executive director Brenda Butscher. "She is rather unique in the respect that she shows love and compassion toward our patients and their families while being completely professional," Butscher stated.

"I'm honored to have been chosen as the new clinical director," Scheffel said. "Over the past four years I have had the privilege working with an exceptional group of people here at Hospice. People who work together for a common purpose, of delivering comfort-oriented care during the final days of a terminal illness."

Scheffel and her husband Matthew reside in Oakland, and the couple are parents and step-parents of nine children.

For more information on Hospice, or referrals, persons may call 301-334-5151. Residents of the Grantsville area may call toll-free at 1-800-521-5252.

SWANTON NEWS

There will be a Charge Trustees and Parsonage Committee meeting at Otterbein U.M. Church this evening, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m.

There will be a special Thanksgiving offering taken at worship service at Otterbein U.M. Church this Sunday, Nov. 21, for conference to give to world hunger.

Otterbein U.M. Church will hold its Thanksgiving worship service on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 7 p.m. The United Methodist Women will be leading the service, and Kids for Christ Puppeteers will be sharing the message through puppetry. Everyone is welcome.

Weekend guests of Mary June Harvey were her cousin Ann and Ron Harvey from Smithfield, Va.

ZION LUTHERAN WOMEN CONVENE

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on November 9.

The ingathering of the thank offerings was observed with a responsive reading, presentation of the thank offerings, the offering prayer, and the singing of the hymn "Now Thank We All Our God." All offerings are sent to Women of the ELCA–Churchwide without deductions.

The study – Forgiveness – was led by Leota Baker. The principal objectives of the lesson were to see the degree of God's forgiveness as portrayed through the parable of the unforgiving servant; and to reflect on the experience of forgiving and being forgiven.

Devotions opened with reading the scripture text from the Gospel of Matthew and the hymn "Where Charity and Love Prevail."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

It was decided to send an offering to Warm the Children fund to assist in providing clothing for children in Garrett County at Christmastime.

A large assortment of children's and adult clothing, jackets, caps, gloves, socks, four sets of hand-knit cap, and scarf sets, and two baby afghans and matching blankets were received for the packages for the Christmas giveaway to the residents on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation. These items have been sent to Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Box Elder, Montana, for distribution.

The evergreens have been gathered to make the Advent wreath for the church.

The newsletter from the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation was shared with the group.

Financial Aid Workshop To Be Offered At SHS

A financial aid workshop has been scheduled at Southern Garrett High School on Dec. 14 at 7 p.m. in the media center.

Angie Hovatter, financial aid director at Frostburg State University, will explain how to complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form, as well as answer questions about financial aid.

This workshop is planned to assist seniors and their parents to become familiar with the financial aid process. Students planning to attend a technical or business school, a community college, or a 4-year college are encouraged to attend.

IN THE ORPHANS' COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND SMALL ESTATE
NO. JHW-189
IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF PAUL V. COLMER, DECEASED

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION TO REOPEN ESTATE

Joyce L. Ritchie, a granddaughter of the decedent, Paul V. Colmer, filed a Petition with this Court stating that the decedent died owning an undivided one-fourth interest in a certain 181 acre parcel of real estate located in Election District 11 of Garrett County, Maryland, that was not administered when his small estate was originally administered following his death.

The Petitioner seeks to be appointed Personal Representative to administer this asset but points out that other interested persons have equal or greater priority under Maryland law for appointment.

Therefore, prior to appointing a Personal Representative, this Court believes it proper to hold a hearing at which any interested person wishing to serve or opposing the Petitioner's appointment, could express his or her views.

Therefore, the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Orders this 9th day of November 2004 that a hearing is scheduled for the 30th day of November 2004 at 10:45 o'clock before this Court, which is located at 313 East Alder Street, Room 103, Oakland, Maryland 21550, at which time any interested person may appear in person or through counsel to state his or her position relating to the requests in the Petition.

Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on December 7, 2004, at 10:00 a.m.

ALL THAT fee-simple LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $7,000 in the form of cash, certified check, or in any other form suitable to the Substitute Trustees in their sole discretion, shall be required at the time of sale, except no deposit shall be required of the secured party, its successors or assigns. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property may be resold at the purchaser's risk and expense. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale, as well as to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall the return of his deposit without interest. Purchaser assumes liability for payment of all taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, from the date of sale. The purchaser is responsible for any amount in excess of $500 of outstanding water bills, if any, incurred prior to date of sale. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. In the event the sale is not ratified for any reason, the purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit. Additional terms, if any, to be announced at sale. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.

Cook, Jr., dated May 5, 2004, and recorded May 7, 2004, in Liber No. 1040, folio 503, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the terms and conditions of said deed of trust, I hereby give notice that I will, on in the Rotunda of the Courthouse, in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, offer for sale, and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following property, to wit:

At the hour of 11:00 a.m.

All of the following described lot or parcel of real estate, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 14, Garrett County, Maryland, which is more particularly described as follows:

Lot Number 26, Minnetoska Lake, as shown on the Plat of Minnetoska Lake, recorded in Plat Book 3, folio 142, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Subject to the Declaration of Covenants and Restrictions for Minnetoska Lake as recorded in Liber No. 598, folio 200, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Being the same as conveyed by William D. Cook and Shannon M. McHale to William D. Cook, Jr., by deed dated April 22, 2004, and recorded May 7, 2004, in Liber No. 1040, folio 496, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of Thirteen Thousand Dollars ($13,000.00) will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, cashier's check, certified check, or in other form as the Trustee may determine acceptable, in her sole discretion. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten (10) business days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to date of settlement, in the event the property is purchased by someone other than the note holder. Taxes and all other municipal liens and charges, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Trustee is unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Trustee. CO-TRUSTEES' SALE

PUBLIC AUCTION

The undersigned Co-Trustees hereby give notice they will offer for sale the following on Friday, Dec. 3, at 10:30 a.m.

Sale on the premises
46406 Underwood Road
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All that parcel of land described in deed from Frederick W. Teter and Anita M. Teter to Andrew Miller and Martha Miller dated July 19, 1989, and recorded in Liber 534 page 611, one of the land records of Garrett County, Maryland, and containing 5.82 acres, more or less.

The property is improved with a 2-story framed farmhouse with 5 bedrooms, modern kitchen, dining room, living room, den, office, 2 baths, full basement, new fuel oil forced air furnace, plus a barn/shop. This property has been well-maintained and is in nice condition.

TERMS OF SALE: A cashier's or certified check of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) shall be paid at the time and place of sale, balance in cash at settlement, which shall be on or before thirty (30 days), unless said period is extended by the Trustees, their successors or assigns, for good cause shown, time being of the essence. The property will be sold subject to all restrictions, liens, covenants and encumbrances of record. In the event that the purchaser fails to go to settlement as required, the property shall be re-sold at purchaser's risk and expense. Taxes, and all other municipal liens and charges, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, and/or examination shall be borne by purchaser. If the Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Trustees. The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition without either express or implied warranty or representation, including, but not limited to, the description, fitness for a particular purpose, use, physical condition, access, habitability, zoning, subdivision, environmental condition, merchantability, compliance with building codes or other laws, ordinances or regulations, or other similar matters. The Trustees shall not be liable individually or otherwise for any matters relating to this sale and/or property. The purchaser(s) agrees to waive the right of inspection for lead paint as provided under current Federal and State law.

Retailers Expect Moderate Sales Growth This Holiday Season

by Subodh Mishra
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland merchants should see a 4.5 to 5 percent increase in holiday sales this year, a welcome improvement after dismal receipts for much of the third quarter, according to a state retailers group.

The Maryland Retailers Association drew on economic indicators and a survey of its membership to predict the moderate sales growth, which is slightly less than the 6 percent rise in holiday sales last year from the previous year.

"With the presidential elections behind us and gas prices stabilizing, we expect people will be able to again focus on shopping" for the holidays, said Tom Saquella, president of the retailers group. Saquella said retailers saw a marked decline in sales over the last three months as a result of what he termed "bitter and divisive" elections and record-high gas prices. But as consumers adjust to the cost of gas and turn their attention away from politics, sales should pick up and hold into the holiday shopping season.

That was true for Gus Pelzer, a Silver Spring resident who was loading computer equipment into his car outside a Gaithersburg Best Buy on Friday.

"I'll be buying more this year," Pelzer said. "I'm looking at everyone this holiday season, not just family."

Local retailers anticipate strong sales of consumer electronics, including handheld gadgets, as well as software such as computer games, according to the association.

Saquella also forecast healthy demand for high-end merchandise, including leather home furnishings and jewelry. That sentiment seemed to be shared by merchants.

"We're very optimistic," said Judia Herrington, store manager at Littman Jewelers in Annapolis. "It was easier to sell this summer, and you're not hearing so many people say they've been laid off this year."

Herrington, who has been in jewelry sales for over 25 years, said the day after Thanksgiving remains the best barometer of holiday demand. But she is still predicting sales will be as strong as last year, or stronger.

"We're starting to take a lot of special orders, and they're ordering earlier this year," she said. "Items, too, tend to be more expensive."

Maryland's projected retail growth is expected to edge national sales trends, according to data from the Washington-based National Retail Federation. It expects consumers to spend roughly $220 billion nationwide this holiday season, or $700 per person, an increase of about 4.5 percent over last year.

But not all merchants are expected to do well. Saquella's group singled out toy stores as one sector that may not fare well this holiday, which he attributes to the lack of a "must-have" toy this season. That point was not disputed by store owners.

"We were originally forecasting to exceed last year's numbers, but it's been tough going so far," said Chris Desch, owner of aMuse, a Baltimore-based toy retailer. "If we do well, it'll be a surprise."

Saquella said Maryland retailers enjoyed one of their best holiday seasons last year, after three consecutive disappointing seasons. That 6 percent increase fueled one the "best shopping periods in years" during much of the first half this year, he said.

Retailers are also hoping growth this holiday will last well beyond the first half of 2005.

"We like to see any momentum be sustained throughout the year," Saquella said.

Date Correction For Bloodmobile Visit Announced

The American Red Cross originally announced that there would be a visit by the bloodmobile on Wednesday, Nov. 24, at the St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall. However, the date and location have been changed.

The correct date for the next Oakland visit is Monday, Nov. 29, and it will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, where donors will be welcomed from noon to 6 p.m.

Wilkinson Named Superintendent By MeadWestvaco

Donald R. Wilkinson Jr. has been promoted to the position of superintendent, Nos. 8 and 9 paper machines, at MeadWestvaco's Luke Mill, according to an announcement by Scott W. Graham, production manager.

Wilkinson began his career with the company in 1985. He has held various supervisory positions in the upper paper mill area, and was promoted to his most recent position of area supervisor of No. 8 paper machine in 2002.

A native of Westernport, Wilkinson holds a B.S. in chemical engineering from the University of Maryland. He also holds a master of science in management degree from Frostburg State University.

Wilkinson, his wife Marsha, and their two children reside in the Oakland area.

Experts To Speak About Threats To Forests Tonight

The Garrett Natural History Association has slated a program titled "Forest Pests of Concern" for 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Nov. 18, at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center. The program will focus on four new exotic and invasive pests and diseases hemlock wooly adelgid, emerald ash borer, Asian long-horned beetle, and sudden oak death that pose threats to local forests.

"The forest of Garrett County draws us to its beauty, solitude and splendor," a spokesperson said. "We appreciate this and the wood and wildlife, clean water, and air that it gives too. Imagine Swallow Falls without hemlocks, Savage River without ash, and Laurel Run without rhododendron and oaks.

"There are many new exotic and invasive pests and diseases that are attacking and could attack our forests. There is currently no natural resiliency because these invaders have not been part of the local forest systems."

Maryland Department of Natural Resources forester Becky Wilson will show participants how to identify these insects and diseases, and a representative of the Department of Agriculture's Forest Pest Management office will provide an update on the latest status and responses in the state, and discuss control measures.

For further information, persons may call the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

"Snake Oil Salesmen Are Alive And Well On Internet," Warns REL Director

by Mitzi Perdue, National Commission on Libraries & Information Science

Let's suppose that Sally X is coming out of her doctor's office. She's just learned that she has a medical condition – we don't know what it is, but it's serious enough to leave her feeling worried and upset. Maybe it's diabetes or heart disease or breast cancer, or it could be any of hundreds of other medical issues.

Her doctor had been kind and attentive, and further, he had spent a good 15 minutes explaining the situation to her. The trouble is, Sally was so taken aback by his diagnosis that, once she's out of his office, she realizes that she didn't absorb everything he was saying.

She's feeling a desperate need to learn everything she can about the disease, and she's even wishing she had brought a tape recorder with her for the visit. She wants to know more about the likely progress of her disease, and she'd like to learn what she can do to improve her chances.

What should her next step be? Should she quickly go on the Internet, do a Google search on the name of her disease, and then read everything she can on the subject?

Cathy Ashby, director of the Ruth Enlow Library, joins a host of other librarians in hoping that this is exactly what Sally won't do. The Internet may have some great medical information, but it also abounds in bogus information from unscrupulous people.

As Ashby puts it, "Snake oil salesmen are alive and well on the Internet."

It's a fact that the Internet is full of "medical advice" that sounds plausible, costs a lot, doesn't do any good, and may cause harm. So what's the alternative?

If Ashby had her way, Sally's first stop after her doctor's office would be her local public library. What the library has to offer that the Internet doesn't is a group of trained professionals whose mission is to provide "authoritative, current, and dependable information."

Part of what it takes to be a librarian is intensive training on how to provide good information. Librarians do not give medical advice – that's the doctor's realm – but they can point you to sources of information that have a track record for being reliable and helpful.

Typically a librarian has taken courses on how to separate information you can count on from information that's out there simply because someone figured out how to make a buck off it. Sally's librarian could direct her to reliable resources, whether on the Internet, or in current books or periodicals. The librarian may also be able to steer her to local support groups. By helping her avoid misinformation, a librarian could save Sally not only time and money, but possibly a worsening of her illness as well.

Ashby's dream is that the medical community and librarians would form alliances. Potentially, they could work together to take advantage of the reliable information that the library can provide their patients and clients.

GCMH SERVES AS INTERNSHIP SITE FOR PHLEBOTOMISTS – Tiffany Morris from Terra Alta, W.Va., is the most recent intern in Garrett County Memorial Hospital's phlebotomist internship program. As part of the 10-week phlebotomy program at the National Career School in Uniontown, Pa., students must complete 120 hours of clinical training. Once Morris completes her training at GCMH, she will be eligible to take the exam to become a certified phlebotomist. "Everyone at GCMH has been very helpful to me," she said. "It has been a great learning experience, and I've had a lot of fun during my time here." Morris is shown with Joyce Nutter, director of laboratory services.

LL Church Hosting Free Dinner On Thanksgiving Day

The Loch Lynn Church of God will host "Project Touched By Love," a complimentary Thanksgiving dinner with turkey and all the "trimmings" on Thursday, Nov. 25 from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

"The church extends a warm welcome to those who may be spending Thanksgiving alone or, due to circumstances, may not have the funds to purchase a full-fledged meal," said a church spokesperson.

The dinner will be served at the church, located at 121 E. First Avenue in Loch Lynn.

For more information, persons may call the office at 301-334-3221 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Garrett County native Sgt. Robert Eugene Broadwater is nearing the end of a yearlong Iraq deployment with the U.S. Army's 1st Division. Since February, Broadwater has served as a squad leader with the headquarters of the 30th Brigade Combat Team, located at a remote communications site in the Diyala Province on the Iran boarder.

Broadwater graduated from Southern High School in 1997. After completing basic and advanced infantry training, and airborne school, he was stationed with the 3rd Psychological Operations Battalion at Ft. Bragg, N.C. His active duty tours have included deployments to Thailand and South Korea.

Broadwater has completed the Army's SERE (Survival, Evasion, Resistance, and Escape) C level course. The highest level SERE course, the C level is designed for personnel whose wartime assignment entails a high risk of capture, and whose position, rank, or seniority would make them targets for stronger-than-average exploitation efforts by a captor.

Upon completing his active duty enlistment, Broadwater joined the 30th Enhanced Separate Brigade of the North Carolina National Guard in June 2001. He received his associate of arts degree from Central Carolina Community College in May 2003.

In the fall of 2003 Broadwater was preparing to enter a four-year university when the 30th Brigade was called to active duty.

Broadwater, who resides in North Carolina with his wife Melissa, is the son of Ray and Jan Broadwater of Terra Alta, W.Va., and Catherine Wilt of Swanton. He is expected to return to the United States in January.

CRELLIN WATER SYSTEM
NOTICE OF VIOLATION
Surface Water Treatment Technique

The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities is providing the following notice regarding the Crellin Water System. The springs for the water system have been evaluated for protection against surface water influence as required by the Surface Water Treatment Rule (SWTR), as adopted in the Code of Maryland; COMAR 26.04.01, Quality of Drinking Water in Maryland. The spring was determined to be under the direct influence of surface water by the Maryland Department of the Environment. As a result, this source requires additional treatment, such as filtration, or replacement with a protected water source. Federal and state regulations require that the Crellin System install filtration.

What is the Department of Public Utilities doing?

The Crellin Water System disinfects the drinking water that is produced from the spring. The drinking water is tested monthly for coliform bacteria, and results have met state and federal standards.

The Department of Public Utilities is in the process of testing the design for a new water treatment facility. After the pilot test is completed, design for the project will proceed.

What should I do?

People with severely compromised immune systems, infants, and some elderly may be at increased risk. These individuals should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA's Safe Drinking Water Act Hotline (800-426-4791). If you have specific health concerns, consult your physician.

What does this mean?

This is not an emergency. This notification is provided to advise Crellin Water customers of the treatment requirements for their water system. Any questions or concerns should be directed to Allen Festerman at 301-387-9141. Please share this information with others who may find it useful.

MOUNTAIN DEW SOUTHERN 500 REVIEW

JOHNSON closes the gap

Six drivers still have title hopes with one race left

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Darlington, S.C.

With one race to go, Jimmie Johnson is on the verge of one of the greatest comebacks in NASCAR points-race history.

Johnson won the final Southern 500 at Darlington Raceway on Sunday — his fourth win in the past five races in the Chase for the Nextel Cup. He's second in the standings, 18 points behind leader Kurt Busch, heading into Sunday's season finale at Homestead-Miami Speedway.

Since all but eliminating himself from the title hunt with a wreck at Kansas Speedway in the fourth of the 10 Chase races, Johnson has bounced back in a big way. He's won four of the past five races and closed the points gap between him and Busch, who finished sixth Sunday. Johnson, who won for the eighth time this season, was ninth and 247 points back only five races ago.

Johnson's points recovery has rivaled that of the late Alan Kulwicki, who was 278 points out of first with six races to go in 1992, but beat Bill Elliott by 10 points to cap the greatest comeback in NASCAR history.

Johnson's performance, combined with Mark Martin's strong runner-up run and Jeff Gordon's third-place finish at Darlington, have given NASCAR its closest points race since Kulwicki's run.

Six drivers are still in the running for the championship heading into Homestead, with five having a legitimate shot at the title. The last time that happened was 1992.

On Sunday, Johnson had to come from behind and wrestle the lead from Jamie McMurray with nine laps to go.

But for Johnson, Sunday night was a time to savor a win in the final Southern 500. Next year the sport's oldest and for many its most revered race will be held in the spring under a different name.

"Winning at this race track is one of the biggest accomplishments I've had in my career," Johnson said, adding that if not for his recent win at Atlanta, which came a week after 10 of his teammates and associates died in a plane crash, his Southern 500 triumph would be the highlight of his career.

"As far as laying in bed at night and thinking about what I was able to do with a race car, I will always look back on Darlington and think that at least for two times I was able to tame this place," he said.

Martin, who made a spirited run at Johnson in the closing laps, charged from sixth to within a few car-lengths of Johnson in the final 17 laps.

Martin also said he was thinking more of his Darlington performance than the title hunt.

"That's what I've lived my life 30 years to do," he said. "It's about the races to me. It always has been. I'm so proud and honored to be a part of this team and to have the opportunity to run at Darlington like I did 15 years ago."

Nonetheless, his second-place finish allowed him to maintain the fifth spot in the standings and put him 82 points behind Busch going to Homestead.

DARLINGTON NOTEBOOK

Sun a big factor throughout race

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Darlington, S.C.

Jeff Gordon, who finished third in Sunday's Mountain Dew Southern 500, was among several drivers criticizing NASCAR's decision to start the race just before 2 p.m., which forced drivers to stare into a setting sun for most of the race.

"It's dangerous," Gordon said. "The angle of the sun is so bad I had to put tape in my car to put over the visor. They need to either start the race much sooner or much later. I couldn't see the wall or the race track."

Points leader Kurt Busch blamed the glare for his Lap 115 collision with Brendan Gaughan that dropped him to the back of the lead pack for most of the race. "I ran into a guy while the sun was staring me in the eyes," he said.

Race winner Jimmie Johnson agreed that the sun was a factor.

"It was a huge problem, and it was for a good two-thirds of the race," he said. "I was thinking a couple of times that they needed to throw the caution and let the sun go down."

The track's only race next season, the Carolina Dodge Dealers 500, will be run May 7 at night.

Gordon: 'Nothing to lose'

Gordon had the fastest car for much of the race but lost the lead when an air hose hung under the No. 24 on a late pit stop. Still, he drove his way from seventh to third over the final 27 laps and finds himself third in the standings, 21 points behind Busch.

He said that puts him in a must-win situation at Homestead.

"We have to get a win," Gordon said. "We have nothing to lose but to go out there and give it all we've got and hope we come out on top."

Strong run for Edwards

Carl Edwards, recently pressed into service as driver of Jack Roush's No. 99 Ford upon the sudden departure of long-time driver Jeff Burton, turned in another impressive performance Sunday.

Racing at Darlington in a Cup car for the first time and in the series for only the 13th time, he ran with the leaders for most of the race and finished seventh. It was his fifth top-10 run of the season.

Truex Jr. claims Busch championship

McMurray gives Wallace first win as Busch owner

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Darlington, S.C.

It was an afternoon of firsts at Darlington Raceway Saturday as Jamie McMurray held off a spirited charge by Ashton Lewis Jr. to win the Bi-Lo 200 and give Rusty Wallace his first victory as a car owner in the Busch Series. Meanwhile, Martin Truex Jr. finished fourth to clinch his first Busch Series championship as a driver and give Dale Earnhardt Jr. his first Busch title as a team owner.

Truex's triumph came at Kyle Busch's expense. Busch entered the race second in points and wanting to win the title for his late car owner, Ricky Hendrick, but he wrecked twice, finished 33rd and is mathematically eliminated from the title hunt.

Lewis' runner-up finish tied his best effort in the series, but he was hoping to give his father a win as a car owner. The Lewis family will shut down its race team after next week, and Lewis will take over as driver of the No. 25 Busch car.

"That's bittersweet right there," Lewis said. "Two races to go and come that close to winning — it's tough."

McMurray started 34th, but clearly had the superior car. He took the lead for the first time on Lap 75 then led all but one of the final 72 laps to get his third Busch win of the season and the seventh of his career.

Truex won his championship in a car that was painted like the blue-and-yellow Wrangler cars that the late Dale Earnhardt Sr. drove for much of his career.

Earnhardt Jr. said he never expected to be taking a title so soon. His original plan was to run Truex in 22 races this season, but the young driver's early success led him to take on the whole schedule.

"Martin's learning curve was faster than we wanted to build the team," he said, adding that as the race wound down, he wondered what his late father might have thought of his son's performance as a car owner.

"I think it's something he'd be pretty proud of," Earnhardt said.

McMurray clinches 11th place, $1 million prize

Cox News Service

Jamie McMurray (42) finished fourth Sunday.

Jamie McMurray's fourth-place finish Sunday in the Mountain Dew Southern 500 at Darlington Raceway clinched 11th place in the Nextel Cup point standings.

As a result, McMurray will walk across the stage at next month's NASCAR banquet in New York City to pick up a check for $1 million. The fourth-place finish was McMurray's ninth top-five finish and 22nd top-10 finish of the season. He has posted 11 top-10 finishes in the past 13 races.

"We had a fourth-place car tonight and we finished fourth," McMurray said after the race. "We clinched 11th place today in points, and that's cool for everyone on this Texaco/Havoline team. Hopefully we'll be competing for first place this time next season."

McMurray said he felt a bit of sadness competing in the last Southern 500. Sunday's race was the last to carry the name that has been a hallmark since Darlington Raceway, the South's first superspeedway, opened in 1950.

"It's a race you've read about for years. It's certainly going to be missed," he said. "I love this racetrack."

Beginning next year, Darlington will lose one of its two races. The remaining event, the Carolina Dodge Dealers 500, will be run May 7.

Graying Baby Boomers Boosting Median Age In State, Country

by Linda Nishida
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland's median age grew by more than eight months from 2000 to 2003, according to new Census Bureau statistics, mirroring a national trend that is largely a result of the graying of the "baby boomer" generation.

But while the state's median age hit 36.7 years in 2003, some parts of the state are different shades of gray, according to a Capital News Service analysis of the numbers.

The youngest counties are clustered in Southern Maryland, where "fast-growing, new suburban jurisdictions" are drawing families and younger workers, said Mark Goldstein, economist for the Maryland Department of Planning.

The oldest counties in the state are just across the Chesapeake Bay, where counties like Talbot tend to attract "not . . . young families, but older people," Goldstein said.

Talbot County had the highest median age in Maryland, at 43.8 years in 2003. Different ages bring different challenges. While Southern Maryland grapples with the effects of a growing economy and the need for more schools, there is mounting concern about a senior-heavy population on the shore, state and local planners said.

"Growth counties like Charles County have to build new schools, in addition to renovating older ones and adding onto older ones," said Chuck Wineland, assistant superintendent of supporting services for the county's schools. The county plans to build nine new schools in the next nine years. "We are looking at tremendous, tremendous increases," he said.

Prince George's County remained the youngest county in the state, rising from a median age of 33.3 years in 2000 to 34.3 years in 2003. St. Mary's and Charles counties followed closely at 34.8 and 34.9 years, respectively. St. Mary's County officials attribute the county's relative youth to its vibrant, growing economy, pointing to the Patuxent River Naval Air Station near Lexington Park and the contracting jobs it brings to the region. Those jobs, in turn, continue to bring in younger professionals and their children, said Karen Everett, manager of the county's business development office.

"We're not moving in retirees. We're moving in scientists and engineers who end up doing important work here," Everett said. Those are the same age groups that are leaving the Eastern Shore, said planners in those counties, creating a shortage of younger workers who may be needed in the near future to provide services to a growing retiree population.

Kent County community planner Carla Martin said that "the county is concerned" with the aging of the population, which has been aggravated by the lack of jobs for younger people in the county.

"Obviously, Kent County is an agricultural county, and there just aren't a lot of young people going into farming," Martin said. "We don't have a lot of large industries that are constantly recruiting for new jobs."

Shore counties also suffer from a shortage of affordable housing, particularly in waterfront areas, said P.A.M. Schaller, director of Kent County's economic development office. Those elements combine to drive young professionals away, she said.

"We're going to need jobs and wages for young people to . . . keep them here and attract them here. We are going to have to have affordable housing to keep them here and attract them here," Schaller said. "We all think that housing prices have increased, but waterfront property has gone one notch above."

While median ages varied across the state, virtually all Maryland jurisdictions saw their populations age between 2000 and 2003. Garrett County's median age has risen slightly in two years, from 38.3 to 38.9 years.

The only exceptions were Somerset County, whose median age fell from 36.5 to 35.5 years, and Worcester County, where the median age inched down from 43 years to 42.9 years. Somerset officials were not able to explain the full year's drop in the county's median age.

Nationally, the median age grew from 35.3 in 2000 to 35.9 in 2003, according to the Census Bureau.

PHENIX TECHNOLOGIES HELPS FLORIDA AFTER HURRICANE – Phenix Technologies, located in Accident, recently helped the state of Florida in the aftermath of the overwhelming hurricane damage. The hurricanes had knocked out 2.5 million customers as well as most of the test equipment at Florida Power & Light, according to Hassan Younes, an FPL representative. He called Phenix, trying to located the specialized testers that can test a bucket truck's insulation up to 130,000 volts. Phenix had two already built, but needed final checking and calibration. Younes needed them by 8 a.m. the next morning, but unfortunately, no aircraft could guarantee delivery in Miami by then, so Phenix portable product group members Andy Teter and Brandon Malloy volunteered to drive the test equipment in a company vehicle directly to Miami. They arrived in Miami at 7:20 a.m., unloaded the equipment, set up, and checked and conducted tests on the bucket trucks by 8 a.m. Florida Power and Light ordered a third unit for later delivery. "The delivery of the equipment allowed us to test and certify bucket trucks so the linemen crews had safe equipment to work from," said Younes. "A special thanks goes out to everyone at Phenix Technologies for helping Florida Power & Light in this time of crisis." Pictured above are Malloy (on the left) and Teter standing next to the bucket test equipment.

Oakland Police To Distribute Gun Safety Kits

The Oakland Police Department will provide free firearm safety kits to local residents through a partnership with Project Childsafe, the nationwide firearms safety education program. The safety kits, which include a gun lock, will be distributed Monday through Friday at the Oakland municipal building between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Project Childsafe, a program developed by the National Shooting Sports Foundation (NSSF), will distribute millions of firearm safety kits throughout the country over the next year. A U.S. Department of Justice grant funds the program, with additional funding provided by the firearms industry.

"We encourage residents to pick up a Project Childsafe safety kit so that they can securely store their firearm," said Chief John Sines. "Each kit contains a safety curriculum and a cable-style gun lock. The locks fit on most types of handguns, rifles, and shotguns. The goal is to prevent a child or any other unauthorized person from accessing a firearm in your home."

By partnering with Project Childsafe, Oakland is participating in a growing national effort to promote firearms safety education to all gun owners. Project Childsafe will distribute gun lock safety kits to all 50 states and the five U.S. territories.

"We are pleased to have the Oakland Police Department as a Project Childsafe partner," said Dee Dee Dockins, spokesperson for the program. "Program Childsafe is an important step forward to helping ensure that all firearm owners fully understand their responsibilities with respect to the safe handling and storage of firearms."

Senior Center Slates Dinner, Open House

The Grantsville Senior Center, 125 Durst Court, will hold a pork and sauerkraut dinner and open house on Sunday, Nov. 28, from noon until 4 p.m.

The dinner will also include mashed potatoes and gravy, baked beans, applesauce, a roll, dessert, and a beverage. The price for adults is $7 and $3 for children under 12.

In addition, the senior center will be open to the public to tour the facility and observe the many different types of activities offered.

"Our senior center's activities program is currently expanding to include a variety of recreational and educational opportunities for our area's senior citizens," said Leona Lavin, senior center operations director. "We welcome the community to visit our senior center during our open house and experience the pleasant atmosphere provided to our participants."

Door prizes sponsored by National Video in Frostburg, the Medicine Shoppe, Camera Gallery in Cumberland, and the FlowerLoft, G and P Auto Service, and Betty Jo's Beauty Lounge in Grantsville will be awarded every hour. A bake sale will also be held.

For more information or directions to the senior center, persons may call Lavin or Vi Finzel at 301-895-5818.

Western Maryland Chimney Service — Andy Newhall, Owner

Last year in this country, there were an estimated 44,000 chimney fires, destroying $180 million in property and killing more than 1,000 people. If your chimney has not been cleaned within the past two years, you may be inviting a chimney fire. Neglected chimneys tend to build up soot and creosote deposits which, if ignited, can burn up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The people to see in this area for professional chimney cleaning services are those at Western Maryland Chimney Service. They are located in Oakland and can be reached by calling (301) 334-2739. These professionals can expertly clean and repair your chimney to keep problems from arising and can also install a chimney cap to help protect your home from the elements. A properly installed chimney cap can keep out squirrels, birds and other pests, and keep sparks from escaping.

Remember, dirty chimneys are dangerous. Don't play with fire! Call the experts at Western Maryland Chimney Service, and let them thoroughly inspect and clean your chimney. They are fully insured and have the expertise to do the job quickly and efficiently. You'll feel safer and your fires will burn better when you contact Western Maryland Chimney Service. The entire crew at Western Maryland Chimney Service wishes all of the people of the area happy Thanksgiving.

C N Metals — Locally Owned & Operated By Calvin Nissley, Jr.

Many people today think that metal roofing is old news or that it is applicable only to commercial or industrial properties. The fact that it is waterproof, durable, weight-bearing and able to withstand extremes of weather actually make it an attractive alternative for businesses, plants, schools, hospitals and other buildings. These same qualities are equally of value for residential use.

C N Metals is the specialist in this area in copper, tin and sheet metal roofs. Located in Oakland at 752 Joni Miller Road, phone (301) 334-9170, they offer standing seam or seamless metal roofs. The alloys used in modern metal roofing are non-corrosive, guaranteeing a longer life and a better appearance without rust. These roofs are useful for residential, commercial and industrial projects. They also have the added charm that many of us know from childhood—the soothing, rhythmic pattering of the rain.

A good roof enhances the value of your property and increases its saleability for potential buyers should you decide to sell. Call C N Metals and let them explain the advantages of a low-maintenance, energy-efficient, weather-tight metal roof. Free estimates and references are available. Your friends at C N Metals wish you a happy Thanksgiving.

Rodeheaver & Associates — "A Trusted Name Since 1976"

Successful business owners and large corporations in our financially motivated society continue to look for ways to conserve their hard-earned dollars wherever they can. Often, the accounting firm they employ is their largest asset. A professional accounting firm must be many things to its clientele—a management and financial advisor, a business consultant, an investment counselor and a tax and pension planner—in addition to providing the traditional accounting, auditing and tax services.

With many years of experience in the accounting field, the professionals at Rodeheaver & Associates, located in Oakland at 6000 Thayer Center, phone (301) 334-3127, have proven their ability to do a thorough job and are highly respected throughout the area. MINERALS

Q. What is the difference between minerals found in rocks and minerals found in our food?

The actual mineral itself (calcium, magnesium, selenium, zinc, iron,...whatever) is one particular atom, having a certain number of electrons, etc. In that sense, the mineral doesn't change, whether it's in a rock or in food.

However, the really important question is: What is this mineral attached to? That determines its interesting properties, like whether it can do any good for you.

In a rock, a mineral is usually combined with some other atom like oxygen, and a crystal structure is formed out of a whole lot of such combinations. For example, aluminum plus oxygen makes the chemical compound aluminum oxide, Al_2O_3. A crystal made out of pure aluminum oxide is a gemstone (a sapphire); but ordinary aluminum oxide is called an ore, and is mined and put in huge trucks and taken to a smelter to be converted into aluminum metal. More complex chemicals also form: Calcium, carbon and oxygen form $CaCO_3$, which is limestone. Magnesium may combine with oxygen and hydrogen to form magnesium hydroxide $Mg(OH)_2$, and that's known as "milk of magnesia" – people take tablets of it to avoid constipation. Separately, magnesium can combine with sulfur and oxygen to form $MgSO_4$, which makes "Epsom salt," something people soak their foot in after getting a bruise. The list of rocks goes on and on.

In food, on the other hand, the minerals are connected to some very complicated molecules. Magnesium is found in leafy vegetables like spinach; potassium in certain fruits like bananas, and so on. In each case, the combination of atoms stays bound together for quite a while: The food goes into your stomach, and in the digestion process the mineral-bearing molecule stays together. That molecular unit goes into your bloodstream, and only when it gets to a cell (somewhere that needs the mineral) is it broken up.

The transfer process is carried out by enzymes. An enzyme is a very complex biological chemical whose purpose is to split up other molecules without changing itself; we call that a biological catalyst. There are about 3000 enzymes inside a typical cell, and each one serves a very specific purpose of splitting up some other compound. In that way, the mineral that the cell needs is left behind after the enzyme gets done with its job.

Some minerals go predominantly into certain types of cells. Calcium is taken in by bone cells, and that's the element that makes bones strong. Iron stays preferentially on hemoglobin, in the blood stream. Metals like chromium and vanadium are needed in special places; even arsenic is needed in very small quantities – but a large dose is poisonous.

You can't get minerals into your cells unless they're bound to chemicals that can cross the wall of your intestine, travel through the bloodstream, and interact with a specific enzyme after they reach the cell. The reason that milk of magnesia is not a food is because it doesn't cross the intestinal wall – it just helps to flush out whatever is in the intestine. At the very same time in the very same intestine, magnesium bound to a chemical from a leafy vegetable can cross and travel through the bloodstream.

Once in a while there is a mineral in "rock" form that is also suitable as food. Ordinary table salt (sodium chloride, NaCl) is an example of this. You sprinkle tiny little rocks of NaCl on your food, and in your stomach and intestines those rocks dissolve and then the sodium and chlorine can each go into your blood stream, to be delivered to cells elsewhere in the body. However, there are not many such examples.

Zinc is a mineral that your body needs in small amounts, and it may help prevent getting a cold. But the most likely way you encounter zinc is as zinc oxide (ZnO): Extremely tiny rocks (powder, really) of ZnO are in suntan lotion, which gets rubbed on your skin. No food value there.

When you don't have enough of some mineral, you start to show symptoms of sickness. A deficiency of iron is associated with anemia. Calcium deficiency leads to weaker bones, called osteoporosis. But a deposit of excess calcium in one place causes bursitis. Good health involves having all the enzymatic processes working properly.

I realize this is pretty long, and probably more than you wanted to know about minerals. But it is fascinating to think that almost every element in the periodic table has some function somewhere within the human body.

App. Crossroads Recognizes Staff

SHANNAN FRIEND

The Appalachian Crossroads Community Living Support Services Program recently recognized several staff members. Shannan Friend was the winner of the August 2004 drawing for going "Above and Beyond" the call of duty. She received a plaque and a $25 gift certificate.

Other staff members recently recognized for their "outstanding" service were Matia Vanderbilt, Mark Gwiazdowsky, Theresa Wilson, Kelley Rinker, Jerry DeWitt, Nancy Duckworth, Hattie Hull, Brenda Lambert, Leigh Ann Boatman. Jessica Hartsell, Johnny Wilson Jr., Sandy Paugh, Connie Lantz, Becki Lipscomb, and Lona Filsinger.

Also recognized were Candy Sliger, Barb Niner, Alice Phillips, Jenny Filsinger, Linda DeWitt, Becki House, Valerie Teagarden, Wanda Hull, Helen Lantz, Joan Sines, Lisa Bittinger, Tawnya Fike, Kelee Wilson, Robin Robinette, Stephanie Broadwater, Yvonne Brett, Sue Glaze, Janice Mersing, Donna Ridenour, Kevin Fike, and Becki Fike.

Library Schedules Teen, Children's Book Discussions

The Ruth Enlow Library has slated two book club discussions for students. The Teen Book Club, for students age 14-18, will meet at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4, to discuss Straydog by Kathe Koja, and the Young Readers Club, for ages 9-11 years, will meet on Thursday, Dec. 9, at 4 p.m. to discuss Esperanza Rising by Pam Muñoz Ryan.

Persons may stop by the Oakland library or call 301-334-3996 to reserve a copy of either of these selections.

"What do you do," reads Straydog's publisher's description, "when you're too smart for the freaks, but too much of a freak for the smart kids? This is the question Rachel asks herself daily as she walks down the halls of her high school observing the strange rituals of the 'TV Girls,' 'People from Planet Mensa,' and the 'Net Jockeys.'

"Rachel couldn't care less that she doesn't fit in. As far as she's concerned, the only things she needs to survive are her volunteer work at the local animal shelter and her writing. Until she meets the feral collie she christens 'Grrl.' To others at the shelter, Grrl seems completely untamable. But Rachel sees her own fury and frustration mirrored in the dog's deep brown eyes, and she is determined to domesticate Grrl.

"Inspired by the outlaw dog, Rachel's writing takes off, and she is even coaxed into sharing it with 'Griffin Lost Boy,' another creative loner like herself."

According to Esperanza's book description, "when Esperanza and Mama are forced to flee to the bountiful region of Aguascalientes, Mexico, to a Mexican farm labor camp in California, they must adjust to a life without the fancy dresses and servants they were accustomed to on Rancho de las Rosas. Now they must confront the challenges of hard work, acceptance by their own people, and economic difficulties brought on by the Great Depression.

"When Mama falls ill and a strike for better working conditions threatens to uproot their new life, Esperanza must relinquish her hold on the past and learn to embrace a future ripe with the riches of family and community."

For further information on these and other book clubs, persons may call librarian Megan Shewach at 301-334-3996, ext. 105. The library also offers book clubs for teens and adults. Persons may visit the library's web site at www.relib.net or call the library for more information. All book clubs are funded in part by the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library.

First Things First

"Now, where are my keys? I'll never find them in this mess. There's the glove I lost last week...and the twins' homework they needed yesterday; everything but my keys! We need some organization around here. Maybe I will get to it next week."

Next week...next month...next year. Most of us can recognize ourselves in this scenario. What is the answer to this common problem? Perhaps we could reassess our priorities. First things first.

What about our spiritual planning? Perhaps we even acknowledge our need for weekly worship, but we feel weary or just "too busy". Yet, might better spiritual planning positively affect our entire week?

God has a plan. In Matthew 6:33, He makes this promise... "But seek first His kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well." This week, won't you plan to worship your Heavenly Father? Visit God in His House. He will take care of the rest.

Help Your Enemies

If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them.

R.S.V. Luke 6:32

All of the world's great religions are in fundamental agreement that we should help our enemies and genuinely try to love them. The Talmud enjoins its adherents to bring their enemy's ox back to them if they find it going astray. And, Proverbs tells us that we should go further than merely helping our enemies; we should moderate our feelings towards them: "Do not rejoice when your enemy falls, and let not your heart be glad when he stumbles (Proverbs 24:17)." Jesus goes even further, telling us that we should actually love our enemy. In the Sermon on the Mount He says, "You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you (Matthew 5: 43-44)." Consider how Christian these words of the Buddha appear (some five centuries before Christ): "Hatred does not cease through hatred at any time. Hatred ceases through love. This is the eternal law." In the Hindu poem the Bhagavad Gita are similar sentiments: "That one I love who is incapable of ill will, and returns love for hatred." And finally, consider this statement of Mohammed: "All Creatures are members of the one family of God." Can Christians, Jews, Muslims, or Buddhists wish for the destruction of their enemies? Can you love God and wish for the destruction of His creatures?

Homeopathic Drugs Promoted as Safe & Effective

Homeopathic medicines are a distinctive group of medicines that differ from herbal supplements, even though they often con-tain one or more herbal ingredients. These medicines usually come in the form of small, sweet-tasting pellets, liquids, or tablets. The packaging for over-the-counter homeo-pathic drugs contains claims that relate to self-limiting, self-diagnosable health con-ditions and makes reference to easing the symptoms of such conditions.

Manufacturers of homeopathic medi-cines promote these products as generally being safer than traditional over-the-counter drugs. Although the precise way these medicines act on a disease state is usually not understood, homeopathy is based on a 200-year-old system of medicine that says that natural substances should be used to stimulate the body to heal itself. The main principle is the Law of Similars which states that substances that cause symptoms in a healthy person can be used to relieve those same symptoms in a person whose bodily balance is off. The substance should be given in very small doses.

Old Dog vs. Young Pup

Q. Our chocolate lab, "Chef," is 3 years old and a wonderful dog. Now, we have the opportunity to adopt another dog, a puppy about 6 months old. Can an older and younger dog get along with each other? — Katie L., Manchester, N.H.

A. Welcoming a second dog into the household is entirely possible. However, even the best-tempered pooches can get downright surly when they suddenly are no longer the main focus of your attention and a new dog is sharing their space.

Chef may growl at the new puppy whenever it approaches, or he may give you a long-suffering look as if he can't believe you foisted this little nipper on him. He may have nothing whatsoever to do with the puppy, and even leave the same room.

To make this stressful transition a little easier and to keep both dogs safe, always supervise any interaction between older and younger dog. Structure playtime, training time and walks so that both dogs participate and both have your attention. Keep Chef's sleeping area and toys in the same place as always, and designate another area (preferably in a different room) for the new puppy's bedding and toys. Always let both dogs know that you are in charge, which will limit dominant behavior between them.

With plenty of attention and a structured play and training schedule, Chef should accept the new puppy in a month or two.

Q. My dad purchased a tapestry when he was in Europe during the 1940s. Who can I contact to appraise it for me? — Angel, West Greenwich, R.I.

A. You might contact the American Textile History Museum for its expert opinion. The address is 491 Dutton St., Lowell, MA 01854. The San Jose Museum of Quilts and Textiles might also be helpful, 110 Paseo de San Antonio, San Jose, CA 95112.

Q. I have a wooden cigar box. Is it worth much? — Patricia, Newark, Ohio

A. Wooden cigar boxes are still being produced today and are quite common. For a second opinion, you might want to contact Betty and Jim Ogburn of the Piedmont Tobacco Memorabilia and Collector's Club, 185 Moser Road, King, NC 27021.

Q. I have an Indian squash blossom necklace made of silver and turquoise. It was originally purchased in Colorado. — Joy, Decatur, Ill.

A. There are two dealers who can advise you, both in Tucson, Ariz. Michael Higgins specializes in Indian art and has a shop at 4429 North Campbell Ave., Tucson, AZ 85718. Rick Rosenthal is the owner of Morning Star Traders, 2020 East Speedway, Tucson, AZ 85719.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Bill Vaughn was the man who made this sage observation: "Suburbia is where the developer bulldozes out the trees, then names the streets after them."

• Today, the word "gospel" is almost exclusively associated with religion and synonymous with "the word of God." Even when used in slang — as in "the gospel truth" — it connotes an authority so high as to be irrefutable. Originally, though, the word "gospel" simply referred to any good story.

• Avid players of the game Scrabble will not be surprised by this tidbit: The most frequently used letter in the English alphabet is "E"; the least frequently used letter is "Q."

• It may seem strange that roller skates were invented by a Belgian violinist, but it's true.

• In addition to eventually involving virtually all the major powers in the world, World War I also ended up pitting several European rulers against one another: King George V of Great Britain, Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany and Tsar Nicholas II of Russia. Why do these three names stand out among all the combatants? They were cousins: Queen Victoria was grandmother to all three.

• When and if you get pulled over by the police for running a stop sign, keep this in mind: The most common excuse is, "I just didn't see the sign, officer." Delivered with an angelic countenance, no doubt.

• If you're average, every minute you take between 12 and 18 breaths, inhaling a total of seven quarts of air. That means that in one day the average human processes 10,080 quarts of air.

• Those who record such things report that buffalo can run at speeds of up to 35 miles per hour.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Nov. 22, 1718, Edward Teach, also known as Blackbeard, is killed off North Carolina's Outer Banks during a bloody battle with a British navy force. Teach was the most infamous pirate of his day, winning the popular name of Blackbeard for his long, dark beard, which he was said to light on fire during battles to intimidate his enemies.

• On Nov. 27, 1924, New York City's Macy's department store holds its first Thanksgiving Day parade down a 2-mile stretch of Broadway. The parade featured large performing platforms that, because they were attached to specially outfitted automobiles concealed beneath them, seemed to "float" down the street.

• On Nov. 28, 1942, during World War II, the U.S. government asks Americans to make a truly noble sacrifice — forgoing coffee. Coffee was rationed to help aid the war effort.

• On Nov. 25, 1952, "The Mousetrap," a murder-mystery written by novelist and playwright Agatha Christie, opens at the Ambassadors Theatre in London. The whodunit would go on to become the longest continuously running play in history.

• On Nov. 24, 1963, in the basement of the Dallas police station, Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President John F. Kennedy two days earlier, is shot to death by Jack Ruby, a Dallas nightclub owner.

• On Nov. 23, 1972, secret peace talks resume in Paris between Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese representative, but almost immediately reach an impasse. The deadlock would lead President Nixon to order what became known as the "Christmas bombing" to force the North Vietnamese back to the negotiating table.

• On Nov. 26, 1985, movie-star-turned-conservative-hero Ronald Reagan added the title of record-setting author to his resume, as Random House gave the president an unprecedented $3 million for rights to publish his autobiography.

JUNIOR HISTORIANS TO TAKE STAGE – The Junior Historians of Springs will present a program for all ages on Monday, Nov. 22, at 7 p.m. at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa., located along Rt. 669. This free event will include music, stories, and more. "Help support the local historians and learn something at the same time," said a spokesperson for the Springs Historical Society, the program's sponsor. Leader Jessie Curtis of Grantsville has been working with the Junior Historians. The group formed last year. "You may have seen many of them serving refreshments at the food booth at the Springs Farmers' Market," Curtis said about the members. "They have also demonstrated butter making and rail splitting at the Springs Folk Festival and participated in basket-weaving classes." Pictured is an unidentified member of the group demonstrating butter churning. For more information, persons may call 814-445-6945 or 814-662-4366.

New Lutheran Church Group Launched At DCL

A new worshiping community has been established in Garrett County called the Lutheran Fellowship of Deep Creek Lake. The congregation gathers each Sunday at 5 p.m. for worship, music, Bible study, and fellowship in the Sitzmark Room of Will O' the Wisp, located along Route 219 just north of Glendale Road. All are welcome to attend.

A group of individuals began worshiping together in July with the intention of establishing a new Lutheran congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA). Helen Harms, a mission director for the ELCA, assisted the individuals in completing the necessary steps for the formation of a new mission congregation. The application process culminated in October when the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the ELCA voted unanimously to establish the new organization as a "synodically authorized worshiping community." The synod council also voted to be supportive of the Lutheran Fellowship as the first mission congregation in the synod since the merger of the ELCA in 1987.

The mission status as a developing congregation will be determined by the national organization of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America in January 2005.

Although currently called a fellowship, the members are working to establish a permanent church name. The goal of the new congregation, according to a spokesperson, is to minister to all, with special emphasis on providing worship opportunities for newcomers and tourists, as well as reaching out to the 50% of Garrett County citizens who have no church home.

Services are conducted with seating in the round, using a mix of contemporary and traditional liturgy and hymns, with an emphasis on music. There are several volunteer roles in leading and organizing the service, and dress is casual. The 45-minute worship service is followed by 45 minutes for refreshments and Bible/sermon study for adults and Sunday school for children.

The group has established a praise ensemble, confirmation program, mid-week Bible study, and a midweek prayer group. Members intend to begin a men's group and an evangelism program, and are beginning small-group ministries involving food-pantry support, traditional folk music, and Christian Crossing Thrift Shop support.

During the current developmental period, supply pastors from the surrounding area are leading the services. Some individuals planning to lead worship over the next several weeks include Rev. Allen Schwarz of St. John's Lutheran Church, Davis, W.Va.; Rev. Matthew Riegel, Lutheran campus minister of West Virginia University; Rev. Larry Cantu, Grace Lutheran Church, Petersburg, W.Va.; and Bishop Ralph Dunkin of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod. Several others are also scheduled. For a complete list of visiting pastors, or for any other information, persons may contact the fellowship at 301-387-0400. Messages are returned daily, the spokesperson said.

Meeting Held By JWC Club

The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently met at Bear Elegance Salon for its "Glamour Shots" meeting on Thursday, Nov. 4. Kim Newmann was inducted at the meeting, and donations were allocated to the Rotary Christmas Project, Habitat for Humanity, House of Hope, and girls' basketball service league.

The next meeting is the Christmas dinner and cookie exchange scheduled at Red Run Lodge for Dec. 2. The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. Attendees should bring a bring a wrapped but unlabeled gift of approximately $20 in value for the gift exchange.

Junior Woman's Civic Club of Garrett County is a social and civic organization that meets the first Thursday of every month at 6:30 p.m. The object of this organization is the development of its members in intellectual endeavor and community service. The club is open to any woman 18 years of age or older.

Persons interested in joining the club may contact membership chairperson Marta Schroyer at 301-387-5898 or jwcc@iceweb.net for meeting time and information.

IT'S PUMPKIN PIE TIME! Nothing completes a great Thanksgiving Day feast like warm pumpkin pie, and many such treats will be made this holiday for sure. The pumpkin harvest in Garrett County is complete, as well as all other harvests of fresh produce, as evidenced in this photograph. The corn stalks are dry and reedy, rustling in the winds of autumn. The mountaintop is settling down for winter weather, surely to be here before long. It was a healthy harvest this year for Garrett County farmers, and for that all residents can be thankful. The youngsters in this photo of the corn maze in the Cove are from Friendsville Elementary School. See details of their visit on page C-6. Happy Thanksgiving to all!

EMS Council Reports To GC Commissioners

A 30 percent increase in emergency medical services calls in Garrett County and a reduced number of available personnel to respond were the major emphasis of the Region I Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council's recent annual report.

Dr. Richard Perry, past president of the Region I EMS Advisory Council and current EMS medical director for the county, presented the report to the Garrett County commissioners last week.

Based on data collected by Garrett County's 911 center, the region's Prehospital Care Office, and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), the report reviewed the county's EMS resources, recent activities, and challenges facing the county.

"In the past 15 years, the number of EMS calls has increased from approximately 2,000 to 3,000," Perry said. "During this same period, the number of EMS personnel has remained static, and in some cases even decreased."

The report praised the work of Northern and Southern Garrett County rescue squads, but noted that the increased demand for EMS service was placing extreme pressure on the squad's volunteers. Representatives of the squads stated that they have instituted EMS chase cars, repositioned the Accident station to Deep Creek Lake, and instituted volunteer incentive programs; however, the increasing call volume is a constant issue.

Other issues discussed in the report focused on the need for additional advanced life support personnel and a long-term plan for the future development of the county's EMS system.

Perry asked the commissioners to endorse a SWOT (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats) analysis of the system to be led by Dr. Richard Alcorta, MIEMSS state EMS medical director, and that a workable consensus-based plan be developed and implemented countywide.

"The county has been blessed with a dedicated group of EMS personnel who have provided excellent care 24/7 for the past 30 years," Perry said. "Our challenge now is to assist these volunteers with a response structure that can ACCIDENT GARAGE MAKES DONATION – Accident Garage recently helped raise $1,340 for Accident Elementary School with its minivan "Drive for the Kids" program. The fundraising event was held in May in conjunction with the school's Excellence Fair. The Dodge Division of DaimlerChrysler donated $50 to the school for expenses involved in hosting the fair and an additional $5 for each demonstration drive completed with an evaluation form. Dodge Caravan and Grand Caravan minivans were provided for parents and friends to test drive and examine. Accident Garage supplied the minivans, and volunteers from the dealership were on hand to assist in the fundraising activity. The Dodge Division raised $670 from the test drives, and the Accident Garage matched the funds with an additional $670. "Drive for the Kids" is a mutually beneficial program," said Jackie Fratz, salesperson at the Accident Garage. "We're interested in helping the schools, and everyone has a good time. Parents are genuinely interested in testing the versatility of the minivans, and we're able to provide additional dollars to schools in our area." Pictured, left to right, at the recent check presentation are Accident Garage owner Allen Fratz, Accident Elementary School principal Sheila Miller, and Accident salesperson Jackie Frantz.

Local Lawmakers Slate Legislative Forum For Public

Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards will conduct their annual pre-legislative public meeting on Monday, Nov. 29, at 6 p.m. in the Continuing Education building at Garrett College, Room 224.

The public is encouraged to attend the meeting to voice their concerns and provide input for the legislative session.

The lawmakers will also discuss issues the Garrett County commissioners have for the upcoming General Assembly session.

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County, cosponsors of the event, will have refreshments available before and after the forum.

$500,000 Awarded To Community Action For Helping Local Families

Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) is one of seven organizations in Maryland to receive an unrestricted award of $500,000, paid over five or more years, from the Annie E. Casey Foundation as part of Families Count – Maryland.

"The award is a huge honor for us. The recognition of the Casey Foundation will usher GCCAC into an era of renewed focus on improving outcomes for families and children," said Duane Yoder, president of GCCAC.

"Rural communities, like Garrett County, are isolated and do not have the advantage of learning from other successful organizations and major foundations," Yoder added. "I anticipate that the relationships and knowledge derived from participation with the network of Families Count – Maryland honorees will have a lasting impact on our work and organization."

Part of Garrett County for nearly 40 years, GCCAC brings community leaders together and fuels economic development to create new opportunities for families. Through GCCAC's programs, which serve 6,000 families a year, families can also build savings, buy their first homes, find help in parenting, and learn job skills, noted a spokesperson for Families Count.

Community Action also maintains 300 affordable rental units and provides emergency heat assistance, housing, counseling, and support services to families at risk of homelessness.

Additionally, parents moving from welfare to work can participate in Wheels to Work, a program developed with the Garrett County Department of Social Services to offer case management and loans for purchasing vehicles to drive to work.

Families Count – Maryland "embraces a simple principle": Children do well when their families do well, and families do better when they live in supportive communities.

"We will change the future of our most at-risk children only when we change the present for their parents," said Douglas W. Nelson, president of the Casey Foundation.

Single Vehicle Crashes Lead To Injuries, Charges

The McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police reported this week that two local drivers were injured in separate single-vehicle accidents that occurred Monday, Nov. 15. Both mishaps resulted in charges for each driver, police said, including a driving on suspended license charge for a Bittinger woman.

At approximately 2:30 p.m. Donna Knauff, 43, Bittinger, lost control of a vehicle for unknown reasons on southbound Garrett Highway north of Oakland. The 1991 Chevrolet Blazer veered off the highway to the right and onto Mt. Nebo Road, where it struck a stop sign.

Knauff was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated for minor injuries. The Oakland and Deer Park Community volunteer fire departments assisted at the scene.

In addition to the driving on a suspended license charge, Knauff was cited for failure to maintain control over her vehicle.

Numerous Christmas Events Slated In Northern Area Of The County

Numerous Christmas activities and events are slated in northern Garrett County over the next several weeks.

GRANTSVILLE

Grantsville will kick-off its holiday season on Saturday, Dec. 4, at 8 p.m. with a tree lighting ceremony at the town park.

A special holiday program will be held at the Grantsville Elementary School the same day. Pictures with Santa can be taken from 6 to 7:30 p.m. then he will go to the town park for the lighting of the new Christmas tree, said Kim Folk, President of the PTO.

After the tree lighting, everyone can join in caroling while walking from the tree to the school. The Parent Teacher Organization is hosting the additional activities as a fundraiser and as a family event for the community. Craft and commercial vendors will be set up at the school until 9 p.m. There also will be music and refreshments.

Elementary school children will decorate the new Christmas tree that will be located in the town park on Miller Street, between the basketball court and entrance to the park. Children in Head Start will provide decorations for a smaller tree at the park.

Businesses and residences were asked to have storefronts and homes decorated for the holidays. Mayor Gerald Beachy said everyone should turn on the lights between 7 and 9 p.m. for the town decorating contest.

Prizes will be given in both residential and commercial categories for the decorating contest. The first place winner in each category will receive $50. Second place will receive $30 and third place will receive $20.

Grantsville also will be flying its new street decorations and new banners for the poles.

The Christmas festivities will be held in conjunction with the 20th annual Christmas in the Village at Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

Hundreds of candle luminaries will line the paths through the Village and light the Historic Casselman Bridge on Friday, Dec. 3, and Saturday, Dec. 4. Artists-in-residence will open

6th Annual Joy Of Christ Celebration Set

The sixth annual Joy of Christ Celebration will be held Dec. 6 through 10 at the Oakland Armory, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Area churches will offer free coffee, hot chocolate, hot cider, and other drinks, hot dogs, BBQ sandwiches, and other food to those attending.

The performances are as follows:

Monday, Dec. 6: Linda Anderson, vocalist, 7 p.m.; and Windy Ridge Hoedown, 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday, Dec. 7: Sharon Honsaker, Southern Gospel from Masontown, Pa., 6:30 p.m.; Maria Rose and Danny Elswick, 7 p.m.; Saralea Miller, vocalist, 8 p.m.; and Chuck Miller, Elvis sound-alike, 8:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Dec. 8: Crellin Assembly of God, 6:30 p.m.; Loch Lynn Church of God, 6:45 p.m.; Southern High School chorus, 7 p.m.; Garrett College Pipes & Drums, 7:30 p.m.; and the Zimmermanns, 8 p.m.

Thursday, Dec. 9: Just 4 Fun, quartet, 6:30 p.m.; Dr. Greg Latta, hammered dulcimer, 7 p.m.; and Mountain Anthems, 8 p.m.

Friday, Dec. 10: Scotch Mist, Celtic harp and recorder, 7 p.m.; and Lynn Beckman and the Next Generation, 8 p.m.

All performances are free and open to the public.

Schedule Finalized For Oakland's Annual Christmas On Main Street

Among the many guests expected to be in Oakland on Friday, Dec. 3, will be Santa Claus himself, who is to arrive by fire truck during the annual Christmas on Main Street celebration.

Friday's festivities will begin at 5 p.m. in the heart of the town. At the train station, the Snowflake Queen will be crowned at 5:45 and the parade will being at that landmark at 6 p.m.

Parents may have their children's pictures with Santa taken free as a gift from the Greater Oakland Business Association and the Main Street program, according to committee member Blair Glass.

A number of activities will be offered, including free sleigh rides, various musical entertainment at the train Station, and shopping in downtown stores and with sidewalk vendors. The sleigh rides will begin after the parade and run until 8 p.m.

"We will have treats for the kids," said Main Street manager Cherie Ross. "And they also may hear Christmas stories at the train station from 7 to 8 p.m. presented by the Garrett Reading Council."

A reception and open house will be held at the Gallery from 6 to 8 p.m. featuring local photographer Bonnie Ulrich.

Activities will continue on Saturday, Dec. 4, beginning with cocoa and doughnuts with Santa at the train station from 8 to 9 a.m. and more free sleigh rides from 9:30 until 11 a.m.

More activities are being planned for that weekend,

CLASS RECEIVES A THANK-YOU VISIT – Sgt. Jack (J.D.) Leuba, USMC, recently paid a "thank you" visit to Mrs. Stuck's third grade class at Broad Ford Elementary School. The children had kept in touch with Sgt. Leuba during his first tour in Iraq, when they were second grade students in Mrs. Blythe's class, and subsequently during his second operation in Fallujah, Iraq. Sgt. Leuba extended his appreciation and gratitude to this group of children, as well as all the other thoughtful students, church groups, friends, and acquaintances who made their support known. He explained to the students that service people are uplifted and encouraged by letters, packages, and prayers. Mrs. Stuck said she was very impressed with her student's intelligent questions and attention.

ARTIST READS AT RUTH ENLOW – Local illustrator/artist Laura Stutzman visited the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland last week during the Children's Hour and captured the youngsters' attention as she described her illustrations in the book B is for Blue Crab: A Maryland Alphabet. She told the children how she was asked to create the illustrations, and how she readily accepted the work. "I got to travel all around Maryland to see the things I needed to paint for the book," she told them. Many local individuals were used as models for the people in the illustrations, and Stutzman pointed these out to the children. She also showed them the one Garrett County site included: M is for Muddy Creek Falls. The book was written by Shirley Menendez and published by Sleeping Bear Press. Stutzman lives in Mtn. Lake Park with her husband Mark. The two, both artists, operate a home studio called Eloqui. Laura is currently involved in another book project, which is a retelling of the Oscar Wilde story, "The Happy Prince." Photo provided by Bonetta Winters.

Ehrlich Promises No Sale Of "Beautiful" State Parks, Forests

by Judson Berger
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The state's inventory of potential excess public lands will be reviewed in public and will not lead to the wanton sale of parks and forests, Gov. Robert Ehrlich said in a public statement released Tuesday.

The statement was his first detailed explanation of his administration's ongoing efforts to identify marketable property since a controversial real estate deal failed, bringing attention to the state's plan of selling public lands to private hands.

"My political opponents claim this is a plan to turn park lands into condominiums," the governor said in his statement. "Nothing could be further from the truth. Our beautiful parks and public forests never were and never will be for sale."

The property review, as well as the sale of state-owned vehicles (which included the $250,000 sale of the state yacht and the $470,000 sale of a state plane), was part of an effort to "restore fiscal discipline in Annapolis after years of 'tax and spend' government," he said in the statement.

Last week, the Department of Natural Resources released its proposed list of excess parcels. The DNR reported that the list, which includes pieces of state parks and forests, contained less than 1 percent of the 430,000 acres reviewed in a 10-month study.

"We will initiate the public process to determine what property holds value for the people of Maryland, and what property siphons taxpayer dollars away from core government services," said Ehrlich.

Delegate Peter Franchot, D-Montgomery, said the shift in focus to this inventory is a distraction from the failed sale of 836 acres of St. Mary's County forest to developer Willard Hackerman.

"It's hard to describe how disconnected from reality this piece is," he said. He had decried the Hackerman sale as a secret, backroom deal, while other critics feared the developer was receiving the land at below market value and might not honor his pledge to keep the land preserved.

"Having Bob Ehrlich lecture us about good government," said Franchot, "is like having Ron Artest lecture us about anger management." (Professional basketball player Artest of the Indiana Pacers was suspended for the rest of the season after participating in a raucous brawl with fans and players Friday night.)

Last week, Franchot and Sen. Brian Frosh, D-Montgomery, began drafting a constitutional amendment and bill to have state legislators vote on the sale of environmentally-sensitive properties.

"The primary purpose is to put a check and balance into process, because right now there is no check and balance," said Franchot. The governor, however, sees no need for the amendment, said Henry Fawell, an Ehrlich spokesman.

"There's no need to make this process public, because it's already public," said Fawell, adding that such sales must pass two Democrats on the Board of Public Works before they are final.

Frosh also said Ehrlich's letter omitted any reference to the Hackerman deal.

"It's a bit of revisionist history," he said. ". . . If you read this statement, you would think that never happened."

While he said the state needs to sell some land, "to sell the state's environmental heritage to balance the budget is indescribably foolish."

Ehrlich's statement called some of his opponents on this issue "political opportunists" who would not weaken his promise of fiscal responsibility to Maryland citizens.

New Arrival

A daughter, Emma Nicole, was born to Toby and Tabitha (Dimick) Upton, Oakland, on Nov. 21 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

MLP Resident Arrested On Assault Charge

A Mtn. Lake Park man was arrested after police responded to a reported domestic assault in progress at 108 Decatur Street in Mtn. Lake Park at approximately 8:40 p.m. on Tuesday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Todd William Riley was charged with second-degree assault after police interviewed the victim and observed her injuries, police said.

In other police news, charges are pending against the juvenile driver involved in a motor vehicle accident early Sunday morning on Old Crellin Road.

According to police, the driver lost control of the vehicle, struck a tree, ran through a large ditch, and came to rest in the yard of a nearby residence. The driver then fled the scene and allegedly instructed his three juvenile passengers to tell police a fake name of the driver, police said. The driver was later identified.

Car-Dump Truck Collision Injures Oakland Man

An Oakland man was injured in a Monday afternoon collision near Deep Creek Lake when he pulled away from a stop sign and into the path of an oncoming dump truck, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

Timothy Allen Kisner, 22, stopped at a stop sign at 1:24 p.m., then he pulled his 1990 Mercury Tracer from Sandy Shore Road onto Shingle Camp Road into the path of a 1985 Mack truck. The dump truck was operated by Randall Dean Dumire, 44, Friendsville.

Kisner was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

Kisner was charged by the investigating trooper for causing the accident.

LAST ELECTED COUNTY TREASURER TO RETIRE – Patty L. Glover, currently the supervisor of tax collections for the county and the last elected county treasurer, was honored at a retirement dinner last week for her 28½ years of service. More than 100 colleagues, past and present county employees, family, and friends filled the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The evening was emceed by Dave Martin and Tim Miller. Glover was honored with a watch from the county commissioners and three proclamations, courtesy of Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, and the Board of County Commissioners. Glover thanked her mentors Joseph H. Welch and Arzella Parsons, her past and present employees, family, and all employees of the county government. Welch, who had been county treasurer from 1954 to 1966, served as Glover's campaign treasurer for the first two terms and was "very instrumental" in her election. She said she has seen the tax base change from 7.8 to 23 during her tenure. "I would like to express thanks to the present and past Board of Commissioners for all the support and kindness shown to me through the years. My heart will never leave the employees of the Garrett County courthouse and the people of Garrett County who I have been privileged to serve for so many years. Also, many thanks to Jan Bernard who served as campaign treasurer for the last two terms. Thanks and God bless," said Glover. Pictured above, from left to right, are Commissioner Dave Beard, Glover, and Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday. Below, Glover is pictured with her staff, Sharon Everd, Cheryl Uphold, Barb Fike, and Lori Paugh.

Voting Machines May Have Led To Disenfranchisements, Group Claims

By Joseph Bacchus
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS–Crashing and freezing voting machines, oversensitive touch screens, incomplete ballots, and vote tally discrepancies may have left thousands of Maryland voters disenfranchised on Election Day, according to a report released by voting machine critics Tuesday.

The report, compiled from the findings of 403 TrueVoteMD poll watchers, details 531 incidents in 108 of Maryland's 1,787 precincts – 6 percent of the state's polling places.

TrueVoteMD is a grassroots organization that opposes the Diebold touchscreen voting machines used statewide for the first time in the presidential election. TrueVoteMD cofounder Linda Schade has said the lack of a paper record for votes makes the machines susceptible to error and fraud.

In October, TrueVoteMD asked a U.S. District Court for an injunction allowing its poll watchers within the 100-foot barrier designed to keep partisans away from voters, but the court refused.

Even if all the report's problems were addressed, Schade said, the greater problem of no paper trail to ensure accountability would still exist. "Blind faith has no place in the voting booth," Schade said.

Maryland elections' chief Linda Lamone said a quick glance through the report led her to a very different conclusion than Schade's, al-though she said she will comment more fully after she has time to thoroughly read the document.

"By all accounts, including theirs, it looks like we had a successful election," Lamone said. She noted that the majority of problems reported by TrueVoteMD were unrelated to the voting machines, and with an undertaking as large as a statewide election there's "nothing unusual about having a few hiccups."

Other problems reported by the TrueVoteMD poll watchers included election judges ill-equipped to assist voters' problems, and registered voters turned away from incorrect precincts rather than being given provisional ballots.

"At the end of the day, I was very disillusioned," said Liberty Rucker, a poll watcher in Prince George's County. "I felt that I lost faith in the system."

"People were not turned away – they were redirected," said Frank Bradley, an Arnold election judge who attended the news conference. Bradley said many voters showed up at the wrong precinct and were told where to go by election officials. He said many of the problems TrueVoteMD blamed on the state were better situated on the shoulders of its voters.

"Voting is a privilege, not a right," Bradley said. "With that privilege comes responsibility."

To Our Neighbors At Thanksgiving

During that first hard winter, the Pilgrims discovered that it took a lot of determination plus a little help from their friends to get by. In much the same way, we wouldn't be here without the support of good neighbors like you.
Happy Thanksgiving and many thanks from all of us.

Miller Won't Budge...

A jury in Tennessee yesterday ordered Daimler-Chrysler to pay more than $105 million in a litigation case filed by the parents of a baby who was killed in a car crash. The claim was that the seats in a Dodge Caravan were unsafe because the collapse of the front seat during a rear-end collision is what caused the baby's death.

This is a perfect example of a completely out-of-control tort system in this country. Our hearts truly go out to the parents of 8-month-old Joshua Flax, the victim in this case. There is perhaps no other experience that is worse than parents' having to go through the loss of one of their children.

This award will allow Joshua's parents to buy whatever material things they want, for the rest of their lives, but even $105 million will not restore his life. Neither would $105 billion or $105 trillion.

Now some will think little about this award. In fact, some will gloat. Chrysler is a huge corporation that, along with its insurance company, can easily afford $105 million; pocket change for them; serves them right. But in fact, the $105 million will be paid by each and every citizen in the country who buys insurance. This award, and scores of others like it, will be paid for in the form of higher rates for everyone. An insurance company is a business, a business that pays its claims with — guess what — the money it takes in from its customers, just like every other business.

The lawyers for the Flaxes claim that this verdict, and the size of the award, is necessary because it is the only way Chrysler will make its seats safe. "We didn't do it to get a check. We did it so some other people might hear about this and others wouldn't get killed," the lawyer said. (Excuse us while we chuckle.)

First of all, automobiles will never be made 100% safe for 100% of collisions/accidents. Secondly, in future cases when a dangerous defect in an automobile is discovered, we could have a system whereby the manufacturer would be issued first a warning and then a daily or weekly fine, levied by the government, until the defect is corrected.

Therefore, once again we stress the crucial need for some drastic tort reform in this country, and specifically in Maryland. As we reported last week, Garrett County Memorial Hospital is facing having to terminate its obstetrical services unless rates for medical malpractice insurance are brought under control. And the only way that will happen is for significant tort reform, which includes the capping of litigation awards.

The biggest obstruction right now in Maryland is Senate President Mike Miller, a trial lawyer by profession who, so far, absolutely won't budge on his stand against capping these awards. He is trying to come up with all sorts of ways for the state (the taxpayers) to help hospitals and physicians pay these enormous premiums, which would be nothing more than a band-aid fix anyway. He is primarily blaming the insurance companies for the extreme rate hikes. While they may not be squeaky clean in all of this, they are not the main culprits. Tort reform is the only viable, long-term fix. But Miller is apparently willing to sacrifice us, the people who are served by Garrett Memorial, in exchange for his "loyalty" to his profession and his fellow trial lawyers. This is obviously more important to him than the well-being of the citizens of Garrett County and, for that matter, all citizens of Maryland.

It's outrageous. It's infuriating. And it will be downright immoral if Miller and other key elected officials do not support the governor in his effort to pass major tort reform Maryland's 2005 General Assembly.

The letter to elected officials that appeared in last week's issue of this newspaper is on Page A-5. Those citizens served by Garrett Memorial (including those in West Virginia) who have not already done so are strongly urged to sign it, cut it out, and mail it to the hospital.

Non-Thanksgiving in Paris

Huguenots, French version of the English puritans, were massacred on St. Bartholomew's Day, August 24, A.D. 1572.

After a brief flirtation with religious freedom later that century, France became again a monolithically Catholic country, which it remains to this day, despite the rhetoric of secularism to the contrary. Any country that makes the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary into a public national holiday, and fills churches on that day as only at Christmas and Easter otherwise, is a Catholic country.

With such an historical background, how can one explain the American feast of Thanksgiving to France or, indeed, to any Catholic country? How can one explain the glories of puritanism to any Catholic?

There are professors at the Catholic University of America, where I am officially a graduate student, who refuse to read (not "refuse" really, they just never get around to reading) John Milton, whose Areopagatica is probably the finest treatise on the freedom of expression ever written in any language in any age or culture.

They are still holding what Cromwell did to Ireland (quelling rebellions is not a pretty thing) against all puritans. In fact, it is a grudge not too different from that of French Protestants against the Catholic Church for what happened on St. Bartholomew's Day 1572.

To tell the truth, something I am professionally obliged to do, it becomes increasingly difficult to explain the feast of Thanksgiving to Americans, so divorced is our country from our puritan heritage.

It should be an easy thing to explain a feast rooted in simplicity, sacrifice, mutual trust, sharing across every division, all bound together by a life-staked confidence in God's absolute providence. Football games, parades and limitless consumerism have intervened between the American people and their rightful inheritance.

It's a pity, because I don't think democracy is possible for long without those 17th century chappies in black and white with the funny hats. At home, at least, there is still the day, the feast, the red number on the calendar, and with it some remnant of what Thanksgiving fully was, and only 35 years ago.

Thanksgiving Day for me in Paris shall be just one more day of classes. This is the fifth Thanksgiving I have spent abroad. I have always experienced it as the loneliest of holidays. That is partly because my celebration of Thanksgiving has always been intertwined with family. It is also the case because the idea of Thanksgiving is as difficult to explain as it is wonderful.

Harvest festivals are universal, historically and culturally. In the past, urban populations rejoiced at the successful harvest, as did rural populations. Their lives literally depended upon the harvest this year. Those who celebrate, in America as well as in France, the arrival of the latest vintage of Beaujolais (November 18 was the big day here) continue that primordial tradition.

Thanksgiving, however, gives a theological twist to the ancient rite of rejoicing at the harvest. A day is set aside not only to give thanks for something (e.g., the harvest) but also to give thanks to some being (the one who provided the possibility of harvest).

The puritans (with small-case "p" puritan I include the Separatists like those on the Mayflower, Baptists like John Bunyan as well as Puritans proper) infused the Harvest Home festival with a Calvinist understanding of divine providence.

At Plymouth, in specific, half the settlers had died during the first winter. Thus, the first Thanksgiving was surely a solemnity as well as a celebration. The Pilgrims rejoiced at a harvest which promised survival of the coming winter, but only to those who had already survived the preceding winter. All the events of their brief history together, and the future they were to share as well, were embraced in and by the providence of God.

In this sense, Thanksgiving is more American than the Fourth of July. Every country, after all, has some patriotic holiday. Thanksgiving, America's first holiday – 155 years before Independence – declares our country's foundation upon the Calvinistic formulation of a Christian doctrine, that of divine providence.

The misunderstandings between the United States and France, in specific, and Europe, in general, may arise from this one point more than from any other. If so, then the task becomes all the more urgent: to explain Thanksgiving Day to the world after we have explained it again to ourselves.

Letters Policy

Readers are reminded that letters to the editor exceeding 400 words will be published only if there is adequate space available and, as with all letters, totally at the discretion of the editor. Among the lengthy letters that will likely be denied publication will be those that are repetitive, from the standpoint of subject, content, and the identification of the writer. We will continue, however, to be as fair as possible in providing space for opinions from all sides of the issues.

To the Editor:

Thank you for bringing to our attention the escalating insurance rates for physicians, especially those family practitioners who also offer obstetrical services. It is unthinkable that Garrett County's expectant mothers might have to go to Cumberland or Morgantown to deliver, especially during winter months.

We are already facing the loss of one such physician, Dr. Patricia Gotsch. She has been my doctor for the past four years and is, in my opinion, irreplaceable.

I hope that many people will take advantage of the form letter in last week's Republican in order to make their voices heard by the Maryland legislature. Everyone's health care stands to be jeopardized unless action is taken to control the insurance rates.

Deirdre Kildow
Oakland

To the Editor:

In "Mel Gibson and Albrecht Durer," your "View from My Window" columnist Jeffrey Wilson offers a fascinating comparison and contrast between a painter and a cinematographer; Martin Luther 500 years ago and a Catholic dean of theology today; how Luther's evangelical offspring praise an icon of Catholic piety even above Catholic masses; and his insights as a Protestant clergyman within a Catholic doctoral program.

Thanks for a thought provoking article. As religion has become an ever more overt part of public considerations and policy, cogent observations providing views not otherwise readily discernable are especially eye-opening. As Wilson noted, "The world has turned." But we also learn from that which has not changed, that which may be an eternal truth – "that the Biblical and theological imagination of artists" will always challenge theologians!

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey

To the Editor:

I think it is terrible that our soldiers are being put down like they are. These men and women are doing their job, and doing a good job.

I think the news media should not be allowed to travel with our troops. They are the problem here. This latest news about one of our men shooting an unarmed insurgent is causing a lot of trouble. Our troops cannot trust any of these insurgents, and we all know it. They strap bombs on their bodies. They are the ones who kill innocent people.

Take the media out of Iraq and leave our soldiers alone to do what they are trained to do. If the media wants to be there, let them go to the other side and see the awful things they do every day.

My dad fought in World War II, and we have a friend who fought in Vietnam. He said that when he got off the plane in America a woman spit in his face.

Is this how we should treat our heroes? Shame on us.

Wanda Beal,

To the Editor:

When I was a child, my mother taught me that sometimes good things need to be done, simply because they need to be done. Back in 1997, when Our Town Theatre was in its embryonic stage, Paul Sprenger and Jane Lang called and made an appointment with me to talk about the theatre and its mission. A few months later they sent us a check for an extraordinary amount of money so that we could bring our building up to code and open within the next year. Without their financial support and belief in what OTT is all about, we probably couldn't have opened our doors for several years. Paul and Jane did not place any restrictions or expectations on their monetary gift other than that it was to be used to improve our facility and get us started. In our case their motives were not self-serving. Our Town Theatre is living proof that they contributed to us out of the goodness of their hearts, their love of the performing arts, and their genuine affection for the community.

Sincerely yours.
Jane B. Avery
Artistic Director
Our Town Theatre

To the Editor:

My husband and I are "Lake People," or owners of property on Stockslager Road. We do not rent, and it is our goal to retire to Deep Creek. We, too, are very upset by the rampant development of the lake area. It seems to us to be happening without much thought to the cost, not only to existing residents, but to the environment and the future of the lake. There is a rush to develop without thought to roads, schools, hospitals, police departments, fire departments, traffic congestion, and impact on all of the residents and the beautiful lake we all love and want to preserve.

We would like to plead with the county commissioners to slow this down. The aim seems to be to please developers and not the citizens of the county. If we are not careful, we will ruin the very precious gift of the lake for the monetary gain of a few. We, on Stockslager, are being forced into using a water and sewage system we do not need and do not want, at great expense. The rules for marinas are being changed to accommodate a developer, not the lake, and this all must slow down to allow for the mistakes that may be made for all.

Sincerely,
Kathy Gelbish

To the Editor:

On any given day in Garrett County, in any given community you can walk down the street and hear people say:

"I am a cancer survivor."

"My mother is currently fighting cancer."

"A dear friend of mine died last month after losing his battle with cancer."

"My child's teacher was just diagnosed with cancer."

My neighbor's 5-year-old child is currently receiving cancer treatments."

"My community is serving a benefit supper for a young father of three who has cancer and is struggling with medical expenses."

"My family has been forever changed due to cancer."

"My co-worker just lost her hair due to chemotherapy treatments."

"I wish there was something I could do."

"I feel so helpless."

"I wish I could do more."

If you can relate to any of these statements, please consider getting more information about Relay for Life 2005.

You might think you need a lot of people and you have to have an elaborate campsite or you have to collect a specific amount of money. Well, all you really need is eight family members, co-workers, or friends who have designated a jar for their pocket change for the next seven months and they can each bring a comfortable chair...that's all you need.

We've heard people say, "It's just too much bother and it's a busy time of the summer. I just don't have time with Little League, soccer, Bible school, and all."

Please take it from us whose lives and family have been forever changed by cancer. Cancer doesn't discriminate. Cancer doesn't wait until it is convenient in your life. And trust us, cancer will inconvenience you longer than one day of Relay for Life.

Every person in Garrett County, in every community, has a reason to relay, whether it's a parent, spouse, teacher, child, friend, sibling, in-law, co-worker, or your own self.

So please don't say, "I wish I could do something to help." You can.

For more information, please call one of us, Debi King at 301-387-4872 or Debbie Workman at 301-746-8717, 2005 Relay for Life co-chairs. Thank you.

To the Editor:

At age 5 I lived in a small town in Illinois. Everyone in town was a Nazarene and, except for our family and one other, everyone was Republican. It was a little like living as a Democrat in Garrett County now. Anyway, in 1932 the big issue for evangelicals was that Roosevelt was going to end prohibition. A few nights before the election at a prayer meeting across the street from our house, a grandmother on her knees was fervently praying, "God, we know if you want Hoover elected, Hoover will be elected. And God, we know that if you want Roosevelt elected – God, we know you don't want Roosevelt elected." They needed Karl Rove.

Since then my side has lost a number of times, but what I feel about this election is different. I am stunned, but not because I was certain of winning. I was far from certain. Beyond being stunned, though, I wonder if my feeling destroyed might be an attunement to the possible, at least temporary, destruction of something more important than just I or my side.

My faith is in the long-term collective wisdom of citizens to appraise candidates. My worry is how that process can be temporarily undermined. Political spinning derives from the tradition in a free society of courtroom debate; anyone on trial deserves a lawyer who will make the best possible case. In a courtroom, however, if debate deteriorates into an effort to win by telling the best lie, detecting that lie is not simply left to the jury. There is a judge to intervene. In politics, discerning lies falls upon those to whom the lie is being told.

A too easy acceptance that all is fair in love, war, or politics hampers appraising the honesty of a candidate. Spinners do not tell you what they believe; they tell you what they want you to believe and what they want you to believe they believe. They viciously attack opponents–vicious not merely because they attack, but because of the knowingly malicious and relentless mischaracterization of an opponent. They insert wedge issues to incite an advantage. The triumph of this election was in inciting evangelical Protestants, devout Catholics, and dedicated conservatives – the very people one would expect to most effectively protest wrongdoing – to believe spinning is all right if it enhances the likelihood of achieving what is passionately believed to be a good cause. Perhaps, later on, good people on the winning side will come to be chagrined about a win that may have been by reason of dishonesty.

Joseph H. Smith, M.D.
Swanton

To the Editor:

As an attorney, I am in complete agreement with those who are horrified over the increased medical malpractice premiums. Our country suffers not only from greedy attorneys and their clients, but also from irresponsible jurors, who often award horrendous, unreasonable verdicts. Coupled with this is the problem of legislators who refuse to pass legislation setting a cap on jury awards. Greed is unconscionable and immoral, and its consequences affect all of us.

I have a suggestion for a solution, which would not require legislation, but would reduce insurance premiums to well below their current rates.

First, we must accept that, as human beings, physicians do sometimes make mistakes. (Of course, by law you cannot contract away negligence.)

Here is my suggestion: (This is a little involved; please stay with me.) When a patient comes into a physician's office, he or she would be presented with a contract in simple language. The contract would briefly explain that the physician is on a contractual basis with the insurance company and will comply with the schedule of benefits outlined in the insurance company policy. The prospective patient must carefully decide whether he or she wants to contract with the physician on the schedule of benefits, which will be made available on request. This schedule of benefits would set out specifics similar to those of a standard life insurance policy, which has a schedule of payments for each type of injury that may be caused by a physician's negligence. The cap would be, e.g., $250,000 maximum, for loss of life, due to negligence. I realize that no one can put a value on human life, but we must use common sense and also accept the fact that we will all eventually have a limit to our life span.

The beauty of this plan is that medical malpractice premiums would be much less than they are at present. The physicians would know that the patients are depending upon them as trusted medical providers; the patients would know that they are not going to become rich via a lawsuit. The legal system would not even be involved since physician and patient are operating under contract.

This would have to be a community effort – the old American way – where we all work together to reach a common goal. This new system could be phased in within a short period, even while the old medical insurance system is still in place.

Of course, the next question is what happens when there is possible negligence on the part of the physician? How should it be determined? By the same contract mentioned above, the patient agrees that a board of voluntary people would be presented with each case of alleged malpractice. That board could perhaps consist of three volunteer local lay people, three volunteer physicians, and three volunteer attorneys. Remember, they would be operating under an enforceable contract.

Nothing in the contract would prevent the patient from hiring an attorney to represent him or her once a claim is presented. However, the attorney's fee would come out of the scheduled payment and, therefore, not increase the costs to the medical provider. It would also be simple to factor in a contract between the physician and the insurance company declaring that multiple successful claims may exclude the physician from coverage.

As a person involved in missionary work in Honduras, I have seen firsthand how a completely different system operates. While driving a rented truck in Honduras, I have a $2,000 collision deductible, for which I cannot get coverage. If I hit a horse, cow or other animal (which is often walking on the road), I pay the $2,000 deductible, plus I also must pay for the loss of the animal! Do you begin to see the difference in our two systems? In Honduras, if a person is working for another and gets injured, that injury is often considered "tough luck." It may go untreated, or the person may be fortunate enough to get treatment at a clinic, but the "employer" does not pay. He simply hires another worker who is only to eager to have the job! We, in the United States, need to wake up, appreciate our good fortune, and begin to use our common sense.

We will never eliminate greed from the human race, but we have the ability to eradicate it from our own lives. We can solve this problem. I am sending a copy of this suggestion to several of my physician friends, who, working with the insurance companies and their patients, can overcome this dire situation and begin to practice medicine without the constant fear of lawsuits.

Very truly yours,
Thomas E. Doyle

The foundation announces the honorees during National Family Week (Nov. 21 – 27) to draw attention to "this remarkable work" and the critical need to improve the odds for the state's most vulnerable children.

"The continuing challenge is less about know-how than it is about will," said Ralph R. Smith, senior vice president of the Casey Foundation. "We need the willingness to care enough and do enough so that all families can realize their dreams for their children."

The other six organizations honored are: CASA of Maryland (Takoma Park); the Center for Fathers, Families and Workforce Development (Baltimore); the Family Center of the Cumberland YMCA (Cumberland); the Kent Family Center (Chestertown); New Song Urban Ministries (Baltimore); and Southern Maryland Tri-County Community Action Committee.

$10 a Flush

Everything is more expensive these days – we are aware of that. But here is something that has really shot up –the cost of a flush in Garrett County.

If you haven't heard the words "Sewer Boundary Expansion" you have been lucky so far. The odds are you will soon learn the meaning of those three little words.

Here is how it works. If you are a developer and own land that is not fully developable because it either doesn't percolate at all, or only percolates a little, you simply have the County execute what is called a "Sewer Boundary Expansion" and incorporate your property into the Sanitation District, or even just have the County run a dedicated sewer line directly to your property, called "service out of district".

For example, there is currently a development project underway where the property perked sufficiently to allow 10 units. This is a nice piece of property and the Units will sell for at least $500,000. So the project is worth $5 Million. When the County "expands the sewer service" they now can have 30 units! The developer will have to pay only $300,000 for sewer pipe, but now their project is worth $15 Million!

All the County has to do is hold a couple Public hearings to formalize things, put out some bids to install sewer lines and increase the capacity of the Treatment Plant.

Where is the money coming from to pay for this? You guessed it! The Taxpayers! You! All the taxpayers, whose property abuts the sewer line, have to pay to hookup to the system. This is mandatory and the cost is about $10,000. This is a one time, up front cost. Usage fees are extra and sewage fees are not based on actual usage – they are based on how many bathrooms you have.

Calculated for part time residents that don't utilize their houses that much - this could be as much as $10 a flush!

These proposed systems will have a significant impact on all County residents. On top of the steep installation costs the service fees for residents previously on septic and well systems, an additional $500 to $1000 a year will be required for water and sewage. Additionally, sewer systems permit much higher residential densities and a rapid increase in even more new development. More than 2000 units are planned on the Mountain Top alone, which will forever change Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County.

All this while areas with septic problems, such as Sky Valley with contaminated wells, get little attention.

We are beseeching the County Commissioners to rethink these currently proposed changes and ensure that the welfare of the entire County is taken into consideration.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital is in great jeopardy of losing its obstetrical/maternity services.

PLEASE sign, clip, and mail this letter–or send an original letter–to: Garrett County Memorial Hospital, c/o Public Relations Dept., 251 N. Fourth Street, Oakland, MD 21550. Copies will be made and delivered by the hospital to all three branches of Maryland state government.

Dear Legislative Representative:

As a citizen and constituent of Garrett County, I am shocked to learn that the obstetrical service in our community is at risk!

And the most shocking of all is that we may lose this service locally because of the increasing cost of the physicians' malpractice insurance. This is an issue that our representatives must address and resolve, and they must do so immediately!

Garrett County has four primary care physicians who provide obstetrical care. One of those physicians plans to leave the community soon. As a rural community with one hospital and three remaining physicians to provide obstetrical care, we cannot afford to lose any more of our doctors because of the lack of affordable insurance. We simply cannot lose this service entirely.

As American citizens we expect our legislative leaders to represent our interests and protect our quality of life. The lack of available physicians is definitely going to have both an immediate and long-term impact on our local healthcare system and ultimately our quality of life. The lack of obstetrical providers locally will mean little or no prenatal care, therefore turning every routine pregnancy into a high-risk pregnancy.

If our area residents are forced to seek obstetrical services in a neighboring community, you are talking about up to as much as an hour's drive–a drive that may be impossible in the winter months because of our average snowfall of 125 inches. If mother and child are lucky enough to survive the drive to another community, will the services be available there? Not likely, if the malpractice insurance crisis continues. How far WILL our residents need to travel to see an obstetrical physician? What are you going to do to help keep Garrett County mothers and infants alive and well? What are you going to do to resolve the Maryland medical malpractice insurance crisis?

You must find a solution that guarantees the availability of OB services in Garrett County. To do any less is both unthinkable and unacceptable.

Sincerely yours,

SERVICE "SPROUTS" AT CRELLIN SCHOOL – These kindergartners at Crellin Elementary School undertook a service learning project recently designed by teaching intern Jessica Cover, a student at Frostburg State University. As part of their studies about how the world's tropical rainforests are being cut down and destroyed, the children used critical thinking skills and problem-solving strategies to devise a solution – plant trees. However, with the rainforest out of reach, the students decided to plant trees and shrubs donated by Holland's Nursery and Green Acres to help restore the habitat around their schoolyard. To the Editor:

Phil Malone's latest uninformed letter about the wind industry represents a nadir in public discourse, attempting to distract attention from the genuine issue of irresponsible, carpetbagging development by attacking through innuendo and untruths two of the most productive, progressive people in the county's recent history. Contrary to Malone's assertions about the wind industry's promise to create a cleaner environment by mitigating pollution from coal-fired electricity plants, massive windplants here will not reduce the current rates for mining or burning of coal. In fact, coal executives are so concerned about their wind "competitors" that they are now making "equity investments" in the wind industry. With a technique pioneered by Enron, wind investors are using the concept of energy production to mask the real nature of their commodity: tax shelters worth tens of millions of dollars which can be sold and resold at huge profits–all subsidized by taxpayers and ratepayers. Malone's letter (and the others which will surely follow) is yet another stalking horse for the kind of investment which today gives capital a bad name.

Contrary to Malone's innuendo, the Sprenger-Lang Foundation did not plan or sponsor the recent mass mailing/public meeting on behalf of Friends of Backbone Mountain. Rather it was conceived and funded out of the desperation of ordinary citizens who are frustrated by the cheerleading efforts of our county commissioners to bring industrial windplants here without any public hearing or investigation, despite knowing these windplants will dramatically alter the natural landscape and create hardship for those who will live near them. Friends of Backbone Mountain consists of people from many walks of life–environmentalists and professionals from various disciplines–medicine, insurance, law, and education, as well as property owners in the presently targeted wind areas, along with one realtor. Only the latter stands to make any revenue from opposition to corporate wind, but that's because he knows professionally how windplants will devalue property. On the other hand, one should note that the two active wind developers live in Potomac and Annapolis–hundreds of miles from their proposed windplants–with full knowledge that any attempt to put a similar industrial facility in their neighborhoods would result in public outrage and censure.

Anyone concerned about the future of the county should indeed be distressed about the rampant sprawl of recent development, particularly at the lake. There are many who share responsibility for this, including especially county government. But not Paul Sprenger and his wife Jane Lang. Paul and Jane came to the county ten years ago. Here's a brief account of what I know about their accomplishments since then:

Nine years ago they created and continue to provide the sole financial support for a weeklong summer workshop in creative writing for county teens and preteens, in subsequent summers adding visual arts and acting workshops, all benefiting dozens of Garrett County's children.

They also became involved with the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and Paul served on the Board for several years. Through this relationship, they nurtured Music on the Mountain, the summer classical musical program that has brought such extraordinary musicians to the county, most recently under the direction of Maestro David Wroe. Hundreds of county residents attend these concerts every summer. Thanks to the generosity of Karen Myers and Wisp in providing a large and attractive venue for the programs, Music on the Mountain was able to accommodate audiences approaching 1,000 people in 2003 and 2004. Others in the county–including those whom Malone named–have also provided growing support for these programs. Sprenger-Lang seed money–well over a quarter of a million dollars–has enabled this program to grow healthfully.

The successful renovation and operation of Our Town Theatre was and is largely a measure of the support made possible by Sprenger-Lang, due in no small part to their respect for Jane Avery's determined charisma.

Sprenger-Lang also funded a special public-private partnership to clean up Cherry Creek. A doser they purchased and installed for the project is having the desired effect of reducing acidity in the water–trout populations are re-establishing themselves in the creek and Deep Creek Lake. Thanks to the continuing efforts of their partners in this venture, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, the Bureau of Mines, Trout Unlimited and Rock Lodge Trust, this appears to be a very promising contribution to the long-term reclamation of the lake.

A young family runs an organic farm rent-free on the land which Paul and Jane purchased in Pleasant Valley, in part because they put their money where their true sensibilities lay but also because they believe in stimulating economic activity there consistent with the area's rural history and natural beauty. They rightly have concluded that huge windplants are inconsistent with these ideas and inimical to the intentions expressed recently in the county's Heritage Plan.

They should be justifiably proud of their economic investment in the commercial section of Garrett County. For example, Traders Landing, which they acquired in 1997, has provided opportunities for Garrett County entrepreneurs to grow their businesses. Anyone who has enjoyed a meal at Brenda's or shopped at High Mountain Sports can testify to their extraordinary success. Moreover, the attractive and responsible development of the residential portion of that site after it had been abandoned by two prior developers should be an inspiration for other initiatives.

In an ideal world, Paul and Jane would require no defense, for doing so in such a forum almost demeans their accomplishments by calling unwanted attention to them. Sprenger-Lang's philanthropic efforts were done quietly to enhance others. The gossip transmitted by those like Malone has a distinctive feature: It is opinion unburdened with proof, hoping to gain power through repetition and a too complacent public. Malone's letter reflects an attitude that would, if taken seriously, discourage both philanthropy and appropriate economic investment in the county. As one of the last refuges for rural life and natural beauty in the state, Garrett County deserves the kind of sensitive leadership which Sprenger-Lang represents. It also should hearken to the concerns of Friends of Backbone Mountain, for unless the residents here make themselves heard loudly in opposition, remote corporate investors, like sharks in feeding frenzy, will ravage our beautiful ridgetops while making us poorer financially and spiritually.

For the record, neither I nor any members of my family own property near projected wind sites–and we don't receive funds from any source over this issue. My concern is that unless we act responsibly, we're likely to have in the near future coal plants still puffing away, many hundreds of windscrapers littering the landscape, and people getting sicker from breathing dirty air while paying more in taxes and utility rates.

MSP Gearing Up During Holiday Travel Weekend

Maryland State Police troopers across the state are taking to roadways in extra number during this Thanksgiving weekend, one of the busiest holiday travel periods of the year.

Extra staffing has been ordered at state police barracks which have interstate emphasis, and commanders are localizing travel assistance and enforcement programs for the weekend. Dozens of extra troopers are out working a variety of enforcement programs, with aggressive driving and criminal enforcement as priority assignments. Troopers will also be looking for speeders, and those who choose to drive under the influence, in an effort to curtail collisions involving speed and alcohol. Many of the additional troopers on patrol will be funded through federal highway enforcement grants. All of this is in addition to a full complement of patrol troopers statewide.

"Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. has made travel safety and criminal interdiction on Maryland's highways a priority," said MSP secretary Col. Thomas B. Hutchins. "Strict enforcement by troopers will reduce crashes and criminal commerce on our highways. We will also be out to assist those traveling in and through our state.

"During this Thanksgiving holiday, those who do not buckle-up will also be more likely to get a ticket," Hutchins added.

The Thanksgiving holiday is nationally recognized as one of the CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) holidays. State police agencies across the country that participate in Operation CARE increase the number of road patrol personnel by reassigning administrative officers to the highways throughout the holiday period. The areas of heightened enforcement in Maryland are seatbelt and child safety seat violations, speeding, and driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs.

Should motorists observe a suspected drunk driver, they are urged to obtain a license plate number and vehicle description, but are warned not to attempt to stop the vehicle. Dialing #77 on a cell phone will connect the call to the nearest State Police barracks, and the duty officer will obtain a vehicle description and location. The caller may also be asked to follow the vehicle at a safe distance until a trooper locates the suspected DUI driver.

For further information, persons may call the MSP barrack in McHenry at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

Adorable Adoptables

THIS VERY FRIENDLY large black Lab mix male, pictured above left, was found recently along Hutton Road and is available for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Also looking for homes are three friendly sister calico/tabbies whose elderly owner is no longer able to care for them. They are spayed and are indoor/outdoor felines. A large gray neutered male cat named Shadow was also given up by his owner. "He is quite the personable cat; come and meet him," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Last week's featured felines were adopted, but the two female beagles are still looking for homes. The variety of dogs and cats available at the shelter changes daily, so persons may call or visit to find out what other pets are available for adoption. "Cold weather is here, please put straw in you outdoor pets' shelters to provide extra warmth," said the spokesperson. "Access to drinking water is also important for them." The Humane Society also reminds residents that rifle season for white tail deer begins this Saturday in Maryland. "Please protect your pets by keeping them confined to your own property," said the spokesperson. The animal shelter is located along Oakland Sang Run Road. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

LL Church Choir Slated To Present Holiday Concert

The Loch Lynn Church of God Choir will present "Emmanuel Celebrating Heaven's Child" on Friday, Dec. 17, at 7 p.m. and on Sunday, Dec. 19, at 6 p.m., with a live nativity.

The church is located on First Ave. in Loch Lynn. Pastors are Ivan and Cindy Ackerman.

The public is invited to attend. Persons with questions may call the church office at 301-334-1237.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Eight couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. Two couples requested that their names not be published.

James Oliver Bolyard, 39, and Pamela Leigh Hinkle, 34, both of Oakland.

Andrew Lee White, 25, Wiley Ford, W.Va., and Tara Bernice Burdock, 26, Frostburg.

Austin Huffman Gardner, 27, and Staoey Lynn Curtis, 22, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Mark Frederick Harman, 38, Accident, and Thelma Elaine Paugh, 37, Oakland.

Adam Michael Warner, 18, and Amanda Lynn Hinebaugh, 16, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Glenn Kennard Ellifritz, 39, and Diane Elizabeth Miller, 31, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Loch Lynn Church To Host Annual Gift Giveaway

Loch Lynn Church of God's 3rd annual Great Gift Giveaway will take place on Friday, Dec. 3, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 4, from 9 until 11 a.m. in the church fellowship hall.

"The Great Gift Giveaway is blessing for blessing, ours to give and yours to receive," said a church spokesperson.

This outreach ministry helps individuals and families that are in need of clothes, shoes, toys, and games during the holiday season. Bags of nonperishable food items will also be available.

Because the ministry is designed to meet the needs of the community, the church requests that vendors not take advantage of the giveaway event.

"Please, no dealers," said the spokesperson.

The church is located along First Avenue in Loch Lynn. For more information, persons may call the office at 301-334-3221.

AURORA/EGLON

BLOODMOBILE DECEMBER 6

Another scheduled visit of the American Red cross bloodmobile will be made to the Union Ambulance squad hall, Aurora, Dec. 6, a Monday, with hours from 1 until 7 p.m. All eligible blood donors are urged to stop by.

GET-WELL CARDS SOUGHT

Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell, mother of the late Jan Shaffer, had gone recently to the home of her son, where she apparently fell and fractured her hip. Jan, wife of Carl Shaffer, and her mother are Bruceton natives, and Carl is from Eglon. It is hoped that those friends here might wish Mrs. Mitchell well by sending greetings to her, c/o Steven Mitchell, 2606 Sea Breeze Court, Orlando, FL 32805.

ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM FOR MOUNTAINEERS

The annual achievement program for the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club was held Nov. 10 in the basement of the Maple Spring Church. Members, leaders, and families met to recognize the accomplishments of the club and individuals for the 2003-04 4-H year.

Caitlin Roth, vice president, welcomed all who attended and led the group in saying the pledges. The officers gave devotions titled "A Simple Act."

Debbie Collins conducted a short business meeting for the secretary's and treasurer's reports, and a short report on Garrett County's 4-H Day was presented by Nathaniel Lawler.

Using the theme of 4-H trivia questions, Linda Lewis, leader, installed the new club officers after discussing "What does the motto 'To Make the Best Better' mean?"

Kaitlyn Schalker recognized Katelyn Harsh and Sara Lewis as members with perfect attendance. Jonathan Blamble, Debbie Collins, Nathan Cussins, Cody Hardesty, Nathaniel Lawler, Caitlin Norwish, Caitlin Roth, Jesse Schalker, Kaitlyn Schalker, and Trevor Spaid all had faithful attendance.

Linda Snyder recognized Sara Lewis as the club's outstanding member; Caitlin Norwish as the outstanding younger member; and Nathaniel Lawler as the outstanding first-year member.

Members recognized in other categories were: Kaitlyn Schalker, the first to complete her talks and demonstrations; Sara Lewis, first in turning in a completed project; and Caitlin Norwish for having the most outstanding demonstration. Also, two members, Tracy Teets and Sara Lewis, left the club to become students at West Virginia University and were recognized for this.

Debbie Collins, Nathaniel Lawler, Jesse and Kaitlyn Schalker, and Katelyn Harsh were rewarded for being members selling the most meat raffle tickets, which combined to a total of 150 tickets.

The club chose Richard Norwish as the "Friend of 4-H" for making the bluebird house kits which club members assembled in March.

This year's "H" award went to Jonathan Blamble, Head; Caitlin Roth, Heart; Debbie Collins, Hands; and Tracy Teets, Health.

Shari Lawler recognized Cloverbud members Danielle Blamble, Wesley Spaid, and Courtney, Justin, Katie, and Shannon Lawler, and invited others between the ages of 5 and 8 to join in the Cloverbud meetings, held at the same time as the regular 4-H on the second Monday of each month, at the Eglon Memorial Building, 7 p.m.

One new member, Chad Vandevender, was given a pin.

Club achievements were announced as reported on the club's yearly score sheet. Project folders were handed out. Door prizes were won by nearly everyone attending and were followed by finger-food refreshments. New and newly revised project books were displayed.

PERSONAL MENTION

Pastor Michael Ludle was a patient last week in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, but is now at home in Aurora. He travels to Oakland each day for treatments.

Barbara Stieringer of Aurora was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she underwent emergency surgery on Saturday of last week.

Richard, Mary, and Caitlin Norwish, Linda Lewis, and Claude and Jean Winters, all Eglon, traveled to Scottsville, Ky., this past weekend for a visit with Paul and Rebecca McCollum.

Christmas Events Set In Terra Alta

The fourth annual Terra Alta Christmas Celebration is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3. The event is sponsored by the Terra Alta Betterment Committee.

The festivities will get under way at 6 p.m. with a Christmas parade. Entrants are still being sought for the parade, and any interested persons are asked to contact parade chairman Tracy Keller at 304-789-5804.

The town Christmas tree will be lighted in a ceremony following the parade. Miss Fireworks 2004, Nicole Loughry, will light the tree.

The celebration will continue at the Community Park Building, where Santa and Mrs. Claus will distribute treats for the children. The family festivities will also feature entertainment and a petting zoo, and refreshments will be served.

Mt. Storm Church Schedules Tree Trimming Benefit

The annual tree trimming and bow service that is held yearly to benefit the local Toys for Tots program, the Mt. Top Food Pantry, and local veterans is set for 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 28, at the Mt. Storm United Methodist Church. There will be speakers, and refreshments will be served.

The event is open to the public. The Mt. Storm United Methodist Church is located along Route 50 in Mt. Storm.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

TERRA ALTA LIBRARY

The Terra Alta Public Library recently observed National Children's Book Week with the theme of "Let's Book." New books for children of all ages were displayed, volunteers read to students, the children participated in balloon games, and prizes were given to each student in attendance.

Thursday, Nov. 18, was "West Virginia Read To Me Day." Volunteers on hand to read at the library were Linda Powell, Judy Wiles, Edna Britton, and Tiffany Duckworth, and the children in attendance were Blake Hauser, Jenna Hauser, Jillian Keller, Sarah Hart, Savannah Sweeting, Stephen Hart, John Frazee, Mikey Hart, Megan Frazee, Alexis Hart, and Isaac Upole.

Patrons who donated library items recently were Donna Keener, Doris Metheny, Mary McLaughlin, Maurice Hoffman, Lawrence Sypolt, Cindy Cramer, Sally Boone, and Brian Schoolcraft.

The library will be closed on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 25 and 26, in observance of Thanksgiving.

CHRISTMAS PARADE, CELEBRATION

The fourth Terra Alta Christmas Celebration will begin at 6 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 3, with the Christmas Parade. Entries are sought for the parade, and interested persons may call parade chairperson Tracy Keller at 304-789-5804.

The Christmas tree lighting ceremony will follow at town hall, where Nicole Loughry, Miss Fireworks 2004, will have the honor of lighting the tree.

The festivities will continue at the Community Park Building, where Santa and Mrs. Claus will distribute treats to the children. The activities also include entertainment and a petting zoo, and refreshments will be served. The celebration is sponsored by the Terra Alta Betterment Committee.

DURHAM HONORED AT SHS – The Perkins Random Acts of Maturity December Student of the Month for Southern High School was Emily Durham. "Emily has shown rare maturity for a freshman student with her involvement in marching band and theater. Her dedication to the theater department in all areas has been exemplary. Emily has immediately made a positive impact on all those at SGHS with her willingness to do 'whatever it takes' to make her and others successful," said Principal Tom Woods. "Emily epitomizes the role model that all students should strive to attain." Durham (left) accepts her Perkins gift certificate from Ed Wildesen, administrative assistant.

Holiday Decorating Contest Slated In Mtn. Lake Park

The mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park will once again sponsor the annual house decorating contest on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 13 and 14.

Residents are encouraged to turn their lights on by 6 p.m. on those two nights, and judges will drive by the decorated houses and judge them in two categories, traditional and most creative.

Winners will be announced on Sunday, Dec. 19, at 2 p.m. at the Ticket Office on G Street, and in a future issue of The Republican.

First, second, and third place will be awarded in each category. Award amounts are $125, $75, and $50, respectively. An honorable mention in each category will also be named. Residents may receive first prize once every four years.

HUSKY Notes

•This year's fundraising for the class of 2006 is beginning and we need your help. From now until Thursday, Dec. 2, the junior class will sell Krispy Kreme doughnuts. Each dozen sold will earn $3 for the junior class. We hope to sell at least 500 boxes of doughnuts.

•The Counseling Center has received forms for outstanding students to receive a free ticket to see a Wizards game. Please stop by the Counseling Center to pick up a form.

•Tutoring will be held each Wednesday starting Dec. 1 from 3:30 to 6 p.m. For more information, see Ms. Harman, Mr. Nicklin, or Mr. Keel.

•A representative from the Army National Guard will be here on Tuesday, Nov. 30, from 10 to 11 a.m.

•A physical education badminton tournament took place on Nov. 24 during first, second, and third periods. The winners will be posted next week.

•Faculty members are participating in the Snowflake Challenge.

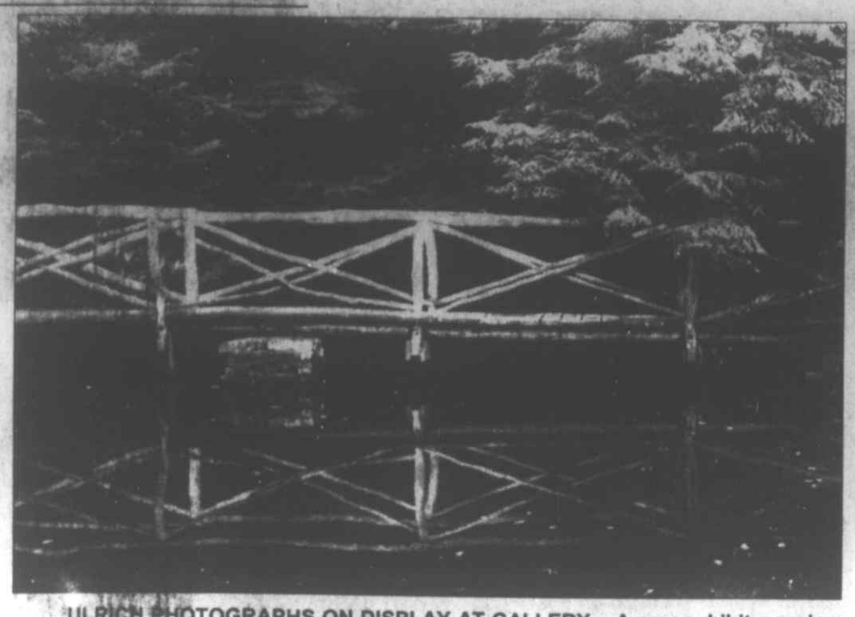
The Arts



ULRICH PHOTOGRAPHS ON DISPLAY AT GALLERY – A new exhibit opening on Dec. 3 at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council will feature photographs by Bonnie Ulrich. The collection includes shots from near and far, some taken close by, such as the one above in Pennsylvania, and others from as far away as China. The arts council will host an opening reception for Ulrich on Dec. 3 from 6 until 8 p.m. at the Gallery, located along Alder Street. The public is invited. See story.

OAKLAND TRAIN STATION PRINTS AVAILABLE – The historic Oakland Train Station is shown swathed in snow in this new limited edition print available at the Art Gallery in LaVale. The gallery has slated an opening reception for the artist, Charles Amos, on Saturday, Nov. 27. The Art Gallery is located at 927 National Highway in LaVale. For further information, persons may call the gallery at 301-729-8989, or e-mail artgallerylavale@aol.com.

Gallery To Host Reception For Bonnie Ulrich

The Garrett County Arts Council will host an opening reception for a new exhibit of photography by Bonnie Ulrich on Dec. 3, 6 to 8 p.m., at the Gallery in Oakland. The public is invited.

Ulrich's exhibit, titled "Garrett County & Beyond," will be on display through Jan. 3. According to the artist, the photographs of the exhibit were taken in Garrett County as well as various places to which the photographer has traveled, "over 45 countries since 1981."

Ulrich was born and reared in Sussex County in southern Delaware. She graduated with a degree in physical education from Eastern Illinois University in 1967 and taught for 23 years at different levels from pre-K through ninth grade, teaching 20 years at the Key School in Annapolis. Following her retirement in 1999, she moved to Garrett County with her husband Ed.

Ulrich began taking photographs on family trips.

"Retirement has allowed time to follow a long-time interest," she said, noting recent photography and basket-making courses she's taken at the Touchstone Center for Crafts in Farmington, Pa.

"Bonnie's photographs depict the ordinary and the exotic alike," said a Gallery spokesperson. "They document the travels and insights of an inquisitive mind."

The Dec. 3 Gallery reception will be held in conjunction with Christmas on Main Street. Additional information is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

Reception Slated Nov. 27 For Artist Collen DuBose

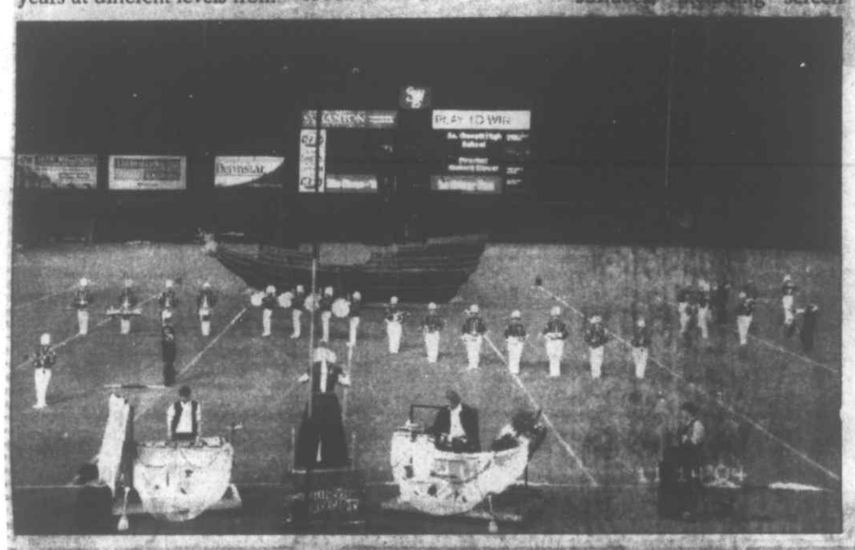
The Garrett County Arts Council will host an informal artist's reception for Collen DuBose at the Gallery in Oakland on Nov. 27 from 7 until 9 p.m.

DuBose's exhibit of contemporary art at the Gallery consists of recent works in a variety of media on various surfaces, including screen prints, digital prints, paint, markers, and pencils. The exhibit, which opened in early November, will close following the reception.

DuBose, a graduate of Northern High School, is currently a senior art student at the Columbus College of Art & Design in Columbus, Ohio. He was guest illustrator for the 2004 edition of Ginseng, the annual literary journal of the Garrett County Arts Council.

DuBose's Gallery exhibit is "both challenging and playful," said an arts council spokesperson. "We don't often display works painted on ceiling fan paddles and framed with blue duct tape! For Gallery visitors, DuBose's contemporary creativity offers a delightful departure from more traditional approaches."

Additional information about the exhibit and the Nov. 27 reception is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.



SOUTHERN BAND FINISHES REMARKABLE SEASON – The Southern Garrett Marching Band is pictured above as the members perform at the Atlantic Coast Marching Band Championships (ACC), held in Scranton, Pa., two weeks ago. The young musicians completed an impressive competitive season, garnering first place at both the state (first time since 1988) and chapter championships (first time since 1993), and finishing in 18th place at Scranton with a score of 85.25. This score qualified the band to receive a bronze medal in the event. (An 85 to an 85.99 score is bronze medal, up to 89.99 is silver, and 94 and above, gold.) Drum Major Allie Richter earned her highest drum major score at Scranton and finished 8th overall. For the season, she took the best drum major award in five out of seven competitions (one contest didn't offer a drum major award). The color guard placed 9th overall at the ACC, and for the season won the Best Color Guard specialty award in seven out of eight competitions. The percussion section ranked with the band at 18th place at the ACC, and during the season took the Best Percussion Award in five of the eight contests. The band is under the direction of Richard Clever, assisted by Duane Salisbury. Photo provided by Sheila Edwards.

Garrett College Thursday Night Art Group Creations On Display At GC

Several literature and arts special interest courses will be offered by Garrett College during evening hours in spring semester 2005. The spring semester is slated from Jan. 24 to May 16.

Fiction Writing (ENG 210) is scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 6:30 p.m. This course will focus on writing the short story and will follow a workshop format in which the instructor works individually with each student and lectures are minimal. Dr. Greg Jenkins, associate professor of English and author of numerous published stories, will teach the course.

Ceramics I (ART 207) will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Local artist and professor of art Ron Skidmore will teach the course, which will cover the materials and methods of ceramics for the production of functional and nonfunctional pottery and sculpture. Students will learn to manipulate clay through handbuilding and experiences in glazing, throwing, and kiln operations. The Ceramics II course (ART 247), given during the same hours, will involve advanced methods of creating pottery and sculpture.

A course offered for the first time, Music in Religious Thought and Practice (MUS 116), is scheduled for Thursdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m. The course will be taught by Gerald McGee, administrator of the music program and director of the Garrett Community Concert Band. The course is designed to heighten the students' knowledge of sacred music, plus various forms and styles presented through the genre's theological and sociological background.

Introduction to Stage Design (THE 204), a course in advanced stagecraft, will be offered on Mondays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m. Ben Sincell, professor of speech and theater, and technical director for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, will teach the course. Students will learn to apply two- and three-dimensional design principles to scenery, costuming, and lighting, and will acquire hands-on experience at Our Town Theatre in Oakland.

Students may register for these classes at the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. Persons interested in further information may call 301-387-3044.

Craft Market To Be Held At Our Town Theatre

Our Town Theatre will hold its first Christmas Craft Market on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 5, from noon until 5 p.m.

Ten artists will offer photography, oil paintings, designer knit scarves, handmade totes and handbags, dried and silk holiday arrangements, fused glass jewelry, hand-turned wooden ware, pottery, and many other items.

A "huge" bake sale will also be held.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-5640.

Our Town Theatre is located at 121 Center Street, Oakland.

Thursday Night Art Group Hosting Holiday Show

An exhibition of recent artworks created by members of the Garrett College Thursday Night Art Group is currently on display at the Art Gallery on the college. The show includes drawings, paintings, prints, and pottery, most of which are for sale.

The public is invited to a reception and holiday celebration in the gallery on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 7 to 9 p.m. The show includes artworks by current members of the Art Group: Elee Bookout, Mary Lou Bauer, Pam Snyder, Jane Moreland, Lynn Yoder, David Higdon, Tina Crabtree, and Ron and Lorie Skidmore.

The Thursday Night Art Group was launched 16 years ago as an avenue for local artists to work together in a relaxed atmosphere, and to share ideas and helpful criticism. It also provided an opportunity to experiment with techniques, learn from each other, and inspire creative energies. The informal art group has provided support for the college art department as mentors for students, resources of instruction, fundraising, and exhibitions in the gallery. It has also contributed to the arts community in Garrett County.

The group is coordinated by Ron Skidmore, professor of art at Garrett College. He has been teaching a variety of art disciplines for over 20 years, and has several different media on display in this exhibition.

Skidmore holds a bachelor's degree in art education from Frostburg State University and a master of fine arts in printmaking from West Virginia University. His recent endeavors have focused on experimental glazing and firing techniques in ceramics, and participation in workshops for professional development.

Lorie Skidmore is a GC graduate with an associate's degree in fine and performing Arts. She owns and operates a ceramic business named Laurel Ridge Pottery at her home in McHenry. Her work involves a wide array of functional and decorative pottery. She is especially proficient at firing a wood-kiln. Ron and Lorie together have recently completed several large drawings and many large pots as a commission for the newly renovated Residence of the Embassy of Mauritania in Washington, DC.

WEST COAST ATTITUDE. EAST COAST LATITUDE!™

WOLF CREEK SESSION will perform at the Purple Fiddle in Thomas, W.Va., this Friday, Nov. 26, at 8:30 p.m. The local group performs a unique blend of traditional Appalachian tunes, traditional and contemporary Celtic roots music, and original songs and stories. With the 2004 release of their debut recording Between Two Shores on the Falling Mountain Music label, the members are gaining recognition that is landing them on such prestigious stages as the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., an international tour to southern France, and a 2005 performance scheduled for the Charleston Cultural Center, as well as a variety of fairs and festivals. CDs will be available at the show or may be purchased online at wolfcreeksession.com. For more information, persons may call the Purple Fiddle at 304-463-4040. Pictured, left to right, are Alice Fleischman, flutes and whistles; Keith Pitzer, guitar, harmonica, mandolin, and vocals; Joan Pitzer, bass and vocals; and Mike Broderick, fiddle.

FSU Woodwind Ensemble Sets Winter Concert

The winter concert of the Frostburg State University Woodwind Ensemble is slated for 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 9, in the Pealer Recital Hall of the university's Performing Arts Center. The free event is open to the public.

The Woodwind Ensemble will perform works by Ralph Vaughn Williams, Franz Joseph Haydn, Norman Heim, and Gordon Jacob. The program also includes "Twas the Night Before Christmas," and there will be a performance by guest guitar soloist Todd Shelar.

FSU Chamber Choir Schedules Winter Concert

"A Choral Tapestry," the winter choral concert of Frostburg State University's Chamber Choir, will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, in the Pealer Recital Hall of the campus Performing Arts Center. The Chamber Choir is under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg-Sarnaker with Betty Jane Phillips, accompanist.

The concert will include "Songs for the Soul" with a setting of "Ave Maria" by Javier Busto, "A Hymn to the Virgin" by Benjamin Britten, and the seasonal spiritual "Here's a Pretty Little Baby" by André Thomas.

The second part, "Songs Without Words," consists of "Air" by George Frederic Handel and arranged by Ward Swingle, "Fäbodpsalm från Dalarna," arranged by Anders Öhrwall, and "Solfeggio" by Arvo Part.

Part three, "Song for the Spirit," features Stephen Leek's "Uluru," expressing the most sacred of all Aboriginal spiritual places. "Ayres Rock is where the creation of Dreamtime took place and it is here, for Australian Aborigines, that all life began," a spokesperson said.

The fourth section, "Songs for the Season," are settings of vocal jazz arrangements of "Christmas Time is Here," arranged by Tina Chinn, "A Child Is Born," arranged by Michele Weir and featuring alto Heather Footen, and Ward Swingle's "A Visit from St. Nicholas."

The Chamber Choir will conclude its performance with "Songs with a Swing," which includes "Straighten Up and Fly Right," arranged by Kirby Shaw, "Stachmo," based upon "The Entertainer" by Scott Joplin and arranged by Ward Swingle, and Manhattan Transfer's choreographed arrangement of "Trickle, Trickle," featuring tenor Daniel Durr.

Admission for the FSU Winter Choral Concert is $5 for adults and $2 for students. Tickets can be reserved by calling 301-687-7462, and will also be available at the door.

Library Offers New Book Club For "Tweens"

The Ruth Enlow Library is offering a new book discussion group designed for students age 11 to 14. The "Tween" Book Club will meet from 4 to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 16, to discuss Loser by Jerry Spinelli. Persons may stop by the Oakland library or call 301-334-3996 to reserve a copy of the book.

"From his first day at school, Donald Zinkoff stands out from the crowd," reads the publisher's description. "Not only does he giggle uncontrollably and wear a goofy giraffe hat, he actually loves everything about school – his teacher, his studies, and even the extracurricular activities. And when he answers every question wrong or serves as the butt of his classmates' jokes, Donald just laughs at himself right along with everyone else.

"When he arrives in fourth grade, however, everything changes as 'big-kid eyes' evaluate him with a harshness he hasn't yet experienced. When his clumsiness costs his team the championship on Field Day, he is saddled with a haunting name: Loser."

For further information on these and other book clubs, persons may call librarian Megan Shewach at 301-334-3996, ext. 105. The library also offers book clubs for teens and adults.

Art Group Hosting

Elee Bookout has been a professional potter for about 50 years. Her career in ceramics is extensive as a frequent exhibitor for 12 years at the Torpedo Factory in Alexandria, Va., and instructor at the University of Maryland, the Corcoran Gallery of Art, and in a Prince George's County high school. She now resides near Accident where she maintains a home studio and business named Bear Creek Pottery.

"Her work in clay and knowledge of glaze formulation and application has been a valuable asset to potters in the area and to the art department at Garrett College," Skidmore said.

Jane Moreland, a resident of the Oakland area, has been a member of the art group for over 10 years, and has taken every art studio course offered at Garrett College. She creates images relative to her surroundings and her interest in nature, and she enjoys working with oil painting and various printmaking techniques. This exhibit includes one of her paintings, and several of her prints, such as multiplate color etchings and a color-reduction linocut.

Lynn Yoder is a resident of Somerset County, Pa., and former student of Garrett College. He recently graduated from FSU with a bachelor of fine arts degree concentrating in painting and graphic design. He focuses his artwork on nature and the regional surroundings, as well as portraiture and genre figures. He is currently doing freelance illustration work for a publisher in Virginia, and teaches drawing and painting at the Mountain View Christian School.

Mary Lou Bauer began exploring watercolor painting a few years ago in occasional workshops, followed by individual instruction and critique from an artist friend and mentor. She now maintains a watercolor studio at her home on Deep Creek Lake. She is a graduate of the University of Maryland with a master of arts degree in sociology.

Having spent her career as a research sociologist in the Washington area, she was able to witness firsthand the work of the Washington Color School through the burgeoning watercolor scene of recent years. Her primary interest is color in combination with impressionistic effects in watercolor.

Pam Snyder, a resident of Mtn. Lake Park, has been making pots for the past 27 years. She is a graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor of science degree in interior design and a bachelor of fine arts degree with an emphasis in ceramics.

When she first came to Garrett County, she was a resident potter at Penn Alps Artisan Village for three years. She has owned and operated Jan Florist in Oakland for the past 24 years. Currently, her pottery work focuses on wheel-thrown forms, and her primary firing technique is raku.

David Higdon, a resident of Accident, is a graduate of Garrett College and currently a student at Frostburg State University. His favorite medium is drawing, and this show displays his work with pencil, colored pencils, and markers.

Tina Crabtree has been a craftsperson for a long time, particularly at this time of year. She has always done woodcarvings, mostly portraying Santa. Her latest artistic endeavors include making pottery, especially raku and woodfiring. After taking three classes in ceramics at Garrett College, she now has set up a clay studio in her residence near Oakland.

This exhibition is made possible in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the GC art department at 301-387-3024.

Lakers Whip Takoma Park, Dundalk, And Baltimore; 6-2

Going 3-0 in action this past week was the men's basketball team of Garrett Community College, as the Lakers coasted to a pair of victories over Takoma Park and Dundalk in their own McDonald's Championship Tournament Friday and Saturday, and then recorded a 78-70 Maryland JUCO victory over visiting Baltimore City Community College last night.

The three victories upped the Lakers' overall season mark to 6-2 and their JUCO Conference record to 2-0.

Coach Dennis Gibson's squad averaged just over 100 points in their two tournament wins, crushing Takoma Park on Friday, 103-72, and rolling over Dundalk on Saturday, 99-55.

Adam Morgan led five Lakers in double figures, as he recorded 21 points. Tauvon Pettiford netted 15 points, Ivan Funcic finished with 14, Doyle Brown scored 13, and Antoine Williams contributed 10. Funcic and Brown each grabbed six rebounds.

The Lakers took an early lead and never looked back, holding a comfortable 55-31 advantage at intermission.

"This was a great team effort," Coach Gibson said. "All 10 of our guys can play. We shot well and we played very well defensively."

Pacing Takoma Park in scoring was Nnandi Nnodili with 15 points. Neal Watson scored 11 and Derek Sesker finished with 10, plus four rebounds.

The Lakers dominated the boards, finishing with a lopsided 43-21 advantage in rebounds.

Dundalk nipped Rockingham in Friday's earlier game, 73-72, but was no match for the Lakers in Saturday's title match-up.

Once again, the Lakers produced a balanced scoring effort which ended with seven players in double figures.

Another strong defensive game by Garrett limited Dundalk to just 22 points in the first half, while the Lakers scored 40.

Doyle Brown led the Lakers' scoring with 17 points, followed by Pettiford with 16, Morgan with 15, Lavonti Jeter with 12, Tristan Largent with 11, and Funcic and Tyrice Watkins with 10 apiece.

Morgan provided the best all-around performance in the contest, as he had nine rebounds to go with his 15 points.

"This was another excellent defensive effort by our team," Gibson said.

Rashaad Petty and Theodoros Karatzakislis were the only Dundalk players who reached double figures, with 17 and 11, respectively. Petty also had a team-high seven rebounds.

Morgan, Jeter, and Largent were all named to the all-tournament team, as were Karatzakislis of Dundalk, Donta Wheaton of Rockingham, and Derek Sesker of Takoma Park.

Baltimore City CC arrived in McHenry last night (Tuesday) sporting an undefeated record of 4-0 overall and 2-0 in the conference, but the Panthers met yet another balanced attack by the Lakers and returned home with their first defeat.

The Lakers jumped out to what seemed to be a comfortable, 50-32 advantage by halftime, but the Panthers battled back to close that gap to just two points with 6:30 remaining in the game.

A driving lay-up by Tauvon Pettiford pushed Garrett's lead back to 10 at the 3:49 mark, but back-to-back buckets by Panther Devon Collier made it 73-70 with 53 seconds left. However, those two points by Collier would be the last of the evening for Baltimore.

A free-throw by Morgan, followed by four consecutive foul shots in the closing moments by Jeter iced the eight-point win.

LAKERS ON A ROLL — The men's basketball team of Garrett College won three straight games this past week, crushing Takoma Park and Dundalk Friday and Saturday in their own McDonald's Tournament, and then recording a 78-70 Maryland JUCO Conference victory over previously undefeated Baltimore City Community College Tuesday night. These photos were taken last night (Tuesday) during the clash with the Baltimore City Panthers. Above, leading scorer Lavonti Jeter (#42) goes up for two of his team-high 15 points while teammates Tyrice Watkins, left (#35), and Jeff Washington, right, look on. Below, Garrett's Tristan Largent drives against a pair of Panther defenders. Largent finished with 10 points, six assists, and two steals. The Lakers are now 6-2 overall and 2-0 in conference play. Photos by John McEwen.

Jeter paced five Lakers in double figures, netting 15 points, while Morgan and Pettiford each finished with 13, Doyle Brown recorded 12, and Largent added 10.

Largent also had a team-high six assists and a pair of steals, and Jeff Washington grabbed six rebounds for the Lakers.

The Panthers were led in scoring and rebounding by Collier, who recorded 13 points and pulled down a game-high seven rebounds. Co-scoring leaders were Donald Thomas and George Lawson, who each netted 13 points, while Quan Griffin finished with 12.

"Our defense has been outstanding the last three games," Gibson said. "Baltimore never quits, and they came at us with great defensive pressure. Even though we turned the ball over several times with less than confident passes, I can see how our team has matured.

"I always tell our players that I can call any play I want, but against good teams, players have to make plays. Largent, Jeter, and Pettiford did that tonight. They stepped up and hit shots and made free throws.

"Largent's three-pointer at the 5-minute mark when we had only a two-point lead was huge, because it stopped their run," he continued. "I was proud of his confidence. He is our quarterback and he has to make those kind of plays.

"Now we have to hope that this Thanksgiving break doesn't stop our momentum and we come back ready to keep improving."

The Lakers will return to action Monday when they host the junior varsity of Frostburg State University in a 7 p.m. clash. They will travel to the College of Southern Maryland next Wednesday.

GC Women Crush CCAC Tigers, But Edged By CCAC Cougars

The Garrett College women's basketball team stands at 2-1 after splitting a pair this week. The Lakers crushed the CCAC-South Tigers Saturday in their home debut, 79-38, before dropping a squeaker last night to CCAC-Allegheny, 58-57.

Sophomore forward Autumn Beavers paced Garrett over CCAC-South with a double-dozen of 12 points and 12 rebounds. Freshmen classmates Westia Russell and Natasha Robinson hit for 10 points apiece. Russell also snagged eight rebounds.

Last night's heartbreaking loss to CCAC-Allegheny came down to the wire. The Lakers held a 57-56 advantage with 25 seconds to go, but missed a pair of free-throws that could have forced a three-point attempt by the Cougars. The miscues gave the visitors an opportunity to win with a shorter, higher percentage shot, and the Cougars responded as game-high scorer Riddle hit a layup to win the contest. A likely contributing factor to Allegheny's last-second success was an ankle injury that dropped stellar Garrett guard Denae Kennedy to the floor in pain as the play was unfolding. GC never got another opportunity at the hoop.

Kennedy, a sophomore, led the Laker offense with 12 points, and freshman forward Eugenna Carson contributed 11 points. DeKresha Davis, a fellow frosh forward, crashed the boards for a dozen rebounds.

Riddle had 20 points for CCAC-Allegheny.

After the Thanksgiving break, the Lakers will return to action Wednesday, Dec. 1, to host the College of Southern Maryland in a 7 p.m. matchup.

LAKERS LOSE FIRST IN A HEARTBREAKER – Victory slipped from the grasp of the Garrett College women's basketball team in the final seconds of last night's battle with visiting CCAC-Allegheny, as the Lakers suffered a 58-57 defeat. Garrett put together a fine effort against the Cougars, as sophomore guard Denae Kennedy (#11) is shown above fearlessly challenging the much taller Allegheny center under the hoop, with GC teammates Eugenna Carson (#30), and Danyell Thompson (#31) heading for rebounding position. Kennedy led the Lakers with 12 points, but injured her ankle in the final seconds as the Cougars hit their winning layup. Carson, who netted 11 points, is pictured below hitting a layup of her own under heavy pressure. Kennedy, Carson, and Thompson all hail from the hoops hotbed of Baltimore. Garrett's next outing comes Wednesday when the College of Southern Maryland pays a 7 p.m. visit to GC's McHenry gym. Photos by John McEwen.

Special Olympics Slates Training For Ski Season

Special Olympics of Garrett County will begin ski conditioning and training for its athletes and volunteers next week. Practice will be held at Accident Elementary School on Friday evenings, Dec. 3, 10, and 17, and Jan. 7 and 14, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. The group follows school closings and cancellations.

Anyone interested in becoming an athlete or volunteering for service learning hours is encouraged to attend.

For more information, persons may telephone Charla Beiler at 301-245-4388.

Mtn. Top Hoops Results Noted

The Mtn. Top Basketball League played three games Sunday, each a hard-fought battle ending with narrow winning margins for the victors.

Condoerr won a tight game against Copeland's, 58-51, as Pete Brosnihan came up with a big steal and two free throws to ice the game with less than a minute to play. Brosnihan's heroics boosted Condoerr up from a 54-51 lead and put the contest out of reach for Copeland's. Ronald Rhodes paced Condoerr with a game-high 20 points, while Brosnihan contributed 12. Copeland's Bryson Paugh hit four three-pointers on his way to a 19-point tally.

In the second game, Bosley Construction outscored Mtn. Top Paving 36-32 in the second half on its way to a 68-58 triumph. Mtn. Top Paving's Jeremy Skiles nailed a trio of treys in the second half and scored 23 points in an attempt to erase the deficit. Jason Brenneman and Mike Harvey hit for 22 and 20 points, respectively, for Bosley Construction.

The day's final battle ended with the tightest margin, as a mere three points separated Team 6 from Coney as Team 6 took a 61-58 win. James Jones led all league scoring for the day with 26 points for the victors, while Brett Coleman tallied 20 for Coney.

The Mtn. Top Basketball League schedule for this Sunday's play at Garrett College is as follows: 1 p.m., Condoerr vs. Coney (scorekeeper Bosley Construction); 2 p.m., Copeland's vs. Bosley Construction (scorekeeper Coney); and 3 p.m. Mt. Top Paving vs. Team 6 (scorekeeper Copeland's).

Visitors can enjoy story telling in the Miller House and House of Yoder, and cookie decorating and story reading in the Compton one-room school. Each evening the Village Church will come alive with musical programs for the whole family. Allegany High School Madrigal singers will dress in period costumes and perform Renaissance ballads.

Other groups include St John's Bell Choir and the gospel band God's Ambassadors. A complete list of programs is available at www.spruceforest.org.

Grantsville will continue celebrating the holidays with a community Cantata Saturday, Dec. 18, at 7 p.m. at St. John's Church in Grantsville. Members of choirs from several churches in the area will perform, including the St. John's Bell Choir and Debbi Beachy, accompanied by Sean Beachy.

St. John's will hold a candlelight service on Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m. The bell choir also will play that night. Also, a Christmas Eve service will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church at 7 p.m.

FRIENDSVILLE

Friendsville will light its Christmas tree at the Town Center Parklet on Friday, Dec. 3, at 6 p.m. Friends and neighbors can join in the caroling during the annual light-up night. Santa Claus will bring treats to the Friendsville Elementary School on Friday, Dec. 10.

ACCIDENT

A cookie walk, billed as an "ever so sweet fundraiser," will be held in Accident on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Drane House will be decorated for the season. Homemade goodies including cookies and candy will be available to purchase with all proceeds supporting the ongoing programs at the historic house.

A Festival of Music will be held on Dec. 11 at Accident Elementary School. The Accident Concert Band, Community and Harmony Chorus, and United Methodist Church choir will perform as well as the Accident Elementary band and chorus. Refreshments will be available. A free will offering will be accepted for needy Garrett County veterans.

For more information about Accident's events, persons may call 301-746-6346.

Crashes Lead

An earlier crash occurred at 11:39 a.m. on Bumble Bee Road north of Negro Mountain Road as Christopher McDonald, 31, Grantsville, was driving north in a 1998 Dodge Ram. McDonald reportedly lost control of the truck for unknown reasons, and the vehicle left the roadway and came to rest in a field along the road.

McDonald was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. The Accident and Deep Creek VFDs assisted at the scene.

State troopers charged McDonald with failure to maintain control of his vehicle.

MASSIVE WINS BIG — The newly formed McHenry Massive Roller Hockey Club swept opponents at the Falcon Invitational Tournament in Pittsburgh on Saturday. Playing in their first tournament ever, the local squad crushed all three of their opponents, 8-0, 9-2, and 3-0. The team, which consists of Garrett College students and residents of Garrett County, is sponsored by High Mountain Sports and Perkins Restaurant of McHenry. Individual sponsors include Quality Marine, Stacy Miller, and Laurie Bougher. Massive will travel to Pittsburgh again December 18 to take on teams from that area. Pictured from left, front, are: Bubba Lemley, Amo Oliverio, Wes Spiker, J.P. Plauger, and Jason Lottman. Standing are: Frog Hughes, Brian Fike, Abe Van Meter, Mike VanBogelen, Mike Yommer, and Eric Savage.

PILGRIMS AND INDIANS were spotted recently at the Grantsville Park. Pre-K students from Route 40 Elementary School donned costumes and traveled to the park to gather nature items and create a Thanksgiving centerpiece. The group then walked to the Casselman Restaurant for story time and a family-style Thanksgiving feast. Pictured above are members of the group at the park. What's Happening At The Drane House?

by Becky Aiken and Sherry Georg

A special dinner was held at the Accident Fire Hall on Nov. 6 by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society for The Friends of the Drane House members. Pictured above is Eleanor Benedict who entertained with fiddle tunes and stories from her lifetime of making music. The Friends of the Drane House were treated to a family style turkey dinner with all the trimmings. We would like to thank Annie's Kitchen in Accident for providing the rolls.

Thanksgiving is a time for reflection and gratitude. The members of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society are most thankful for those visionaries who made possible the restoration of the Drane House.

If you have visited the Drane House you might not realize that it didn't always look the way it does now. At one time it was a dilapidated building with the roof falling in and the massive chimney only a pile of stone. In fact it was going to be set on fire for the fire department to practice. Thankfully Clark Kolb owned the property and would not allow it to be destroyed. Clark made it possible for the town of Accident to acquire the Drane House and property. Without Clark's generosity and foresight there would not be this piece of history for generations to enjoy.

The restoration of the House was the vision of Mary Miller Strauss. It was her research and vision that initiated the project. We are also thankful for the many people that made her vision a reality. It was with the leadership of Rev. William Carlson, Marjory Fratz, and Steven Schlosnagle, along with the help of countless volunteers, that we enjoy the lovely historical site that we have today.

The Accident Cultural and Historical Society is especially thankful for the Friends of The Drane House and all those of you in the community that through your help and donations help us to maintain the house and garden.

For more information on the Drane House and Garden or if you would like to join The Friends of the Drane House, contact Becky Aiken at 301-746-8427 or Sherry Georg at 301-746-8766.

•The Parks and Playground project has been completed and is ready for the final inspection, which is scheduled for Dec. 4 with John Braskey.

•The annual tree lighting and Christmas caroling will be held in the community on Dec. 10, starting at 6:30 p.m. All citizens are invited to attend, and refreshments will be served.

•A donation of $125 was given to the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department for its annual Holiday Christmas Cheer project. Food baskets and toys are given to needy families each year. Persons who know of someone who could benefit from this project may give their names to any member of the local fire company.

•A $75 donation was given to the Kitzmiller PTA for the children's Christmas treat.

•Council members agreed to meet on Dec. 27. A short meeting will be held Dec. 10 following the Christmas caroling.

Tree Tech Chief Visits Customers, Local Distributor

Tree Tech USA recently hosted Marcos Alves, chief engineer for Tree Tech Systemas Digitais Brazil, for an extended visit. Alves traveled to the United States to visit the offices of Tree Tech USA, the company's exclusive distributor for the U.S. market.

Owned by Derek Ashby, Tree Tech USA began operations at the Garrett Information Enterprise Center, McHenry, in September 2003.

After Alves arrived in the United States on Oct. 17, he and Ashby made customer visits from New York City to Los Angeles during an 18-day period. Highlights of the visit included an installation at Public Service of New Mexico's San Juan generating station in Farmington; presentations for Keyspan Energy, Allegheny Power, Southern California Edison, Constellation Energy and Conectiv; and an installation at San Diego Gas & Electric's 500kV Miguel Substation.

Alves and Ashby also spent four days in Las Vegas attending the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers conference for power transformers in which Tree Tech contributed documentation to be used in the International Standard for Online Monitoring of Power Transformers.

Alves was also able to spend one weekend in Garrett County, visiting some of the highlights of the area. Alves said that we should consider ourselves privileged to live in a place like Garrett County.

Tree Tech Systemas Digitais is located in Atibaia, Brazil, approximately 30 minutes west of Sao Paulo. The company has been manufacturing intelligent electronic devices (IEDs) and sensors for control, protection, and monitoring of power transformers since 1992. There have been more than 10,000 Tree Tech devices installed on transformers around the world, according to a company spokesperson.

More information about the company is available online at treetechusa.com.

THE SPONGEBOB SQUAREPANTS MOVIE

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 11/19/04

I have to admit, it's taken a while for SpongeBob SquarePants to grow on me. When the cartoon TV series debuted on Nickelodeon in 1999, my kids, like millions of others across the country, became instant fans, watching every Saturday morning, repeating ad nauseam the jokes and situations depicted, mimicking the behavior, and memorizing the dialogue. As for myself, I was amused by the title, but didn't think the show was particularly groundbreaking; I felt it was just another noisy, silly cartoon with goofy voices and silly plot lines. And of course it is. But there's something grown-up about the humor in SpongeBob. Despite the bright colors and silly antics, something about this show (whose creator, Stephen Hillenberg, a former marine biology teacher at California's Orange County Oceanic Institute who also produced the similarly sophisticated cartoon show Rocko's Modern Life), is giving us adults a wink and a nod.

Now the time has come, as is inevitable in the lives of popular kids' cartoons, for the members of the SpongeBob universe to graduate to the big screen. The film version, directed by Sherm Cohen and Hillenberg (with live action sequences by Mark Osborne), is really nothing more than a 90-minute version of the TV show, and the manic nature of it begins to wear out its welcome after the show's normal running time has elapsed. But it does retain that sense of intermittently adult-savvy comedy, and it also features a few notable guest appearances, such as Arrested Development's Jeffrey Tambor, Lost In Translation's Scarlett Johansson, Alec Baldwin, and David Hasselhoff in a somewhat disturbing turn as himself.

Anyone familiar with SpongeBob SquarePants (voice of Tom Kenny)—that square, yellow, ocean-dwelling sponge with the impeccably tailored cardboard pant/shirt/tie ensemble who lives in a pineapple-shaped home in the sea floor community known as Bikini Bottom—knows that one of the things he cherishes most is his job at the Krusty Krab, the aquatic diner owned by penny-pinching crustacean Mr. Krabs (Clancy Brown), for whom SpongeBob holds the utmost love and respect despite the fact that Krabs doesn't really treat him that well. Working there as a fry cook, making the famous Krabby Patties, with his conceited friend Squidward (Rodger Bumpass), is what makes life worth living for him. This is why he is so excited at the opening of Mr. Krabs's second restaurant, the imaginatively named Krusty Krab 2, which is located next door to the original. SpongeBob expects, you see, to be made manager of the new place, in return for all his years of hard work and his numerous honors as Employee of the Month. But when he discovers that he was overlooked for the position because he's "just a kid," he and his dim-witted starfish friend Patrick (Bill Fagerbakke) go on an ice cream bender.

SpongeBob's chance to prove everyone wrong soon presents itself, however, in the form of a national emergency. In a maneuver referred to as "Evil Plan Z," the crown of balding (and sensitive about it) ocean monarch King Neptune (Tambor) is stolen by Plankton (Doug Lawrence), a cunning and diminutive megalomaniac and Mr. Krabs's sworn enemy, to create a diversion so that he may steal Krabs's secret Krabby Patty formula and generate some business for his own restaurant across the street, The Chum Bucket. With some encouragement from Neptune's friendly daughter, Princess Mindy (Johansson), SpongeBob and Patrick must set out on a perilous journey to Shell City to retrieve it.

The first half hour of this movie is unequivocally hysterical, giving us a live-action prologue, an introduction of all the characters for those who are uninformed, and a fair dose of the absurd behavior and repetitive but clever jokesmanship that has made SBSP a success. Even the introduction of Neptune and Mindy, characters who seem out of place in SpongeBob land, has its witty moments. At some point, however, the novelty begins to wear off—as the inevitable feature-film conventions begin to force themselves awkwardly on our aquatic friends' lives, the humor begins to seem forced; especially toward the end, when a seemingly unending string of close-ups of David Hasselhoff's body hair makes even the most "metrosexual" of us male audience members shrink self-consciously into our seats.

Don't get me wrong, bible-thumpers: there is nothing "inappropriate" in this story; even the Hasselhoff part is all in good fun. There are some amusing songs, some hilarious action sequences, and lots of extremely silly behavior by all the characters. But there's only so much screaming, singing, hopping, shouting, and high-pitched voices, uttering repetitive phrases, that one can endure. There's no doubt that for those of us over 12, the appearance of the closing credits is not an unwelcome sight. ★★★★

Spaghetti Dinner Slated To Benefit Terry Artice

A spaghetti dinner will be held Saturday, Dec. 4, from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Oakland fire hall to benefit Terry Artice, 32, of Swanton. Artice is currently at Johns Hopkins University Hospital where he is undergoing treatment for a rare cancer in his heart and lung.

According to a family spokesperson, the cancer was successfully removed from his heart this week, but remains in the lung, with chemotherapy treatment scheduled to start in the near future.

A silent auction, with a wide variety of locally donated items, will be held, along with a 50/50 raffle. Cash donations are also accepted.

Tickets for the dinner are $6 for adults and $3 for children ages 6 to 12. Children under the age of 5 eat for free. Take-outs are also available.

For more information or to make a donation, persons may call Kelly Gover, 301-334-0675; Brenda Livengood, 301-533-4491, or Trish Wilt, 301-334-0927.

U.S. Air Force Airman Lora D. Teets has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches; and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Teets, who is a 2004 graduate of Southern High School, is the daughter of Mary Teets, Lynndale Road, and Jimmy Teets Sr., West Ashby Ellis Road.

Oakland Civic Club Busy With Annual Projects

The Civic Club of Oakland GFWC has announced the final funds raised in its annual Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show and Sale, and has noted a number of other service projects in which the members are currently engaged.

The antique show, which includes the annual quilt raffle and food concession as well as antique sales, netted the club over $7,000, which will be disbursed to a number of community organizations next spring. Last year, 21 different community groups, committees, and agencies benefited from the disbursement of these funds.

Representatives are reminded that letters requesting the funds for this year should be mailed no later than Dec. 31, 2004.

The winner of the quilt was Janet Jeter from North Carolina, sister of club member Rita Lancaster.

Club members are again this year much involved with Warm the Children, a program hosted by The Republican newspaper. Civic Club members have taken on many of the major responsibilities of the program, contacting families, lining up volunteer shoppers (mostly club members), completing the shopping trips, handling the paper work for the bill, and writing thank-you notes to hundreds of monetary donors.

Next month members will decorate Christmas trees at the Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, and will take gifts to the residents. For each holiday, the club's crafts group makes tray favors for two local nursing homes as well as for Salem Children's Trust.

Service ventures throughout the year in which the Civic Club of Oakland participates include the Linus Blanket Project, the March of Dimes Walk, and the annual Garden Show in May. The club also publishes the Quick Guide To Garrett County Resources directory, and members donate to a number of local service organizations, such as Hospice, Habitat for Humanity, the House of Hope, and the Dove Center, as well as to various veterans' hospitals.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain First Lien Deed of Trust and Security Agreement dated October 16, 1998 (the "Garrett Deed of Trust"), from Three Tees, Inc. ("Borrower"), to Kimberly A. Leaman, trustee ("Original Trustee") for the benefit of Greentree Financial Service Corporation (n/k/a Conseco Financial Servicing Corp.)("Original Lender") dated October 16, 1998, and recorded at Liber 753, Page 784 among the land records of Garrett County, Maryland (the "Garrett County Land Records"), and that certain First Lien Deed of Trust and Security Agreement dated October 16, 1998 (the "Allegany Deed of Trust") (the Garrett Deed of Trust and the Allegany Deed of Trust, collectively, the "Deed of Trust"), from Borrower to Original Trustee for the benefit of Original Lender and recorded at Book 827, Page 150 among the land records of Allegany County, Maryland (the "Allegany County Land Records"), said Deed of Trust (and the Note secured thereby) having been assigned to Textron Financial Corporation ("Lender") pursuant to a certain Assignment of Beneficial Interest of Deed of Trust dated March 6, 2000, and recorded among the Garrett County Land Records at Liber 799, Page 654, and among the Allegany County Land Records at Book 871, Page 381, and further by virtue of a certain Deed of Appointment of Substitute Trustees recorded August 24, 2004, by Lender to Gary K. Bahena and Donald B. Reynolds, substitute trustees, for the benefit of Lender and recorded at Book 1081, Page 420 among the Allegany County Land Records, and recorded at Book 1081, Page 854 among the Garrett County Land Records (collectively, the "Deed of Trust Appointment"), default having occurred under the terms of the Deed of Trust, and at the request of the party secured thereby and pursuant to Order to Docket Foreclosure of Deed of Trust filed August 30, 2004, with the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland (Case No. C-04-24039) and Order to Consolidate Trustee's Sales entered therein by such Court on September 2, 2004, and Order to Docket Foreclosure of Deed of Trust filed August 30, 2004, with the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland (Case No. 11-C-04-008542), and Order to Consolidate Trustee's Sales entered therein by such Court on October 18, 2004, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale at public auction (i) 2815 Chestnut Ridge Road, Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland (Tax Parcel: 3-013650). (ii) 10300 National Highway, NW, Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland (Tax Parcel: 06-004040), and (iii) 823 East Oak, Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland (Tax Parcel: 17-001779) (collectively, the "Mortgaged Premises"), at the main doors of the Courthouse for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, 203 South 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on December 15, 2004, AT 12:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

BEING THE SAME AS ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Allegany County, Maryland, and in Garrett County, Maryland, and more particularly described on Exhibit A to the aforereferenced Deed of Trust (and In the Deed of Trust as the "Deed of Trust Property"), which consists of three (3) parcels of land and improvements thereon.

Bidders will be allowed to bid on each Lot individually and/or all Lots jointly. Subject to the Trustee's right to switch the order of bidding, the Mortgaged Premises shall first be offered for bid jointly (i.e., all the Lots together for a single combined bid for all Lots) (the "Joint Bidding"). Promptly following the Joint Bidding, a second round of bidding will occur pursuant to which each Lot that is part of the Mortgaged Premises shall be offered for bid separately (the "Individual Bidding"). Subject to the terms below relating to the subsequent default by a successful bidder, in the event that the highest amount bid jointly for the combined Lots in the Joint Bidding exceeds the aggregate highest amounts bid separately for the Lots in the Individual Bidding, then the Mortgaged Premises shall be sold together to the highest bidder from the Joint Bidding. On the other hand, but subject to the terms below relating to the subsequent default by a successful bidder, in the event the aggregate highest amounts bid separately for the Lots in the Individual Bidding exceeds the highest amount bid for the combined Lots in the Joint Bidding, then the Mortgaged Premises shall be sold as separate Lots to the separate highest individual bidders from the Individual Bidding. In any foreclosure sale conducted as set forth above it shall be possible, depending upon whether the successful bidder(s)/bid(s) is/are successful on the basis of joint or separate bids, for there to be as few as one successful bidder and/or as many as three successful bidders and, accordingly, for there to be multiple and different scenarios under which one or more of such otherwise successful bidder(s) could default on their bid(s). Accordingly, and to eliminate the inefficiency and potential economic risk to Borrower and Lender from successive failed foreclosure sales, Lender shall have the right to declare "back-up" winners (the "Back-up Winners"). In the event that the Lender shall determine to select Back-up Winners, then the Lender shall announce their identity prior to the conclusion of the above-described bid and foreclosure process, it being the intent of the Lender to select as Back-up Winners that person, or those persons, whose bid(s) will yield the greatest proceeds without, however, exposing Lender to a potential second default by the same bidder. Only qualified bidders will be allowed to bid — prior to bidding, bidders must deposit cashier's or certified check in the amount of $50,000 for each Lot the bidder will bid upon.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash deposit of $50,000 per Lot to be paid at the time and place of sale, except no deposit shall be required by note holder, its successors or assigns, and the same cash deposit may be used for both the Joint Bidding and the Individual Bidding. The balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash at settlement, which shall be within thirty (30) days following the auction unless such period is extended by the Trustee, his successors or assigns, for good cause shown; time is of the essence; interest at the rate of 9.11% per annum to be paid on unpaid purchase money from date of sale to settlement. Property to be sold subject to all conditions, liens, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any, and to existing leases, if any, except that it is the intent of the Trustee that any such items as may be extinguished by virtue of the foreclosure sale be extinguished. In the event purchaser fails to settle when required, property will be re-sold at purchaser's risk and expense (with defaulting purchaser liable for any readvertising and trustee's and attorneys' fees and costs arising in connection with failure) (although Trustee shall also have the right to convey to appropriate Back-Up Winner(s), if any). Taxes, water and all other municipal liens are to be adjusted to the date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis to be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance to be borne by purchaser. Purchaser (as well as Back-up Winners, if any) may be required to execute a memorandum of sale at the time of sale. Back-up Winners' (if any) bids will be required to remain open for 40 days and deposits from Back-up Winners will be deposited and held by Trustee as security for their bids (and, if not used, will promptly be refunded).

Improvements being sold, 'as-is," whereas and without warranty, implied or express of any kind, including without warranty of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, and with purchaser responsible for all building and other code violations and all defaults (if any) by the landlord to existing tenants.

"Share The Road This Thanksgiving," Urges AAA, State Police, Truckers

TOWSON – Because one out of nine traffic fatalities is the result of a crash involving a large truck, AAA joined the Maryland State Police and the Maryland Motor Truck Association at an event at the West Friendship weigh station along Interstate 70 in Baltimore County this week, urging motorists to slow down and drive carefully around big rigs this holiday season.

Reminding motorists that they are at a great disadvantage in a crash with a large truck, AAA Mid-Atlantic's manager of public and government relations, John White, said it is critical for automobile drivers and truckers to share the responsibility for safety on the roads.

"In a crash with a large truck, the automobile often resembles a tin can smashed by a sledgehammer," said White. "Reducing crashes is a shared responsibility. Leave plenty of room between you and a truck, and give large trucks the right of way. Remember that it is much better to giveway than to get in the way."

In crashes involving large trucks nationwide last year, 78 percent of the fatalities were occupants of the other, smaller vehicle, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). Of the injuries that resulted from crashes with large trucks, 75 percent were sustained by occupants of other vehicles.

With more than 615,000 Marylanders driving to their Thanksgiving celebration, highways and the toll plazas at bridges and tunnels could be crowded at times, leaving motorists with less room for error, White said. If traveling out of state for Thanksgiving, Maryland motorists should be aware that the five states with the greatest volume of trucking are California, Texas, Ohio, Illinois, and Pennsylvania, according to NHTSA.

AAA Mid-Atlantic offers the following advice for motorists:

•Be aware that trucks create wind gusts. Keep both hands on the wheel when you pass a truck or when a truck passes you.

•Leave plenty of room between you and a truck when coming to a stop on a hill. Trucks may roll back as the driver takes his/her foot off the brake.

•Do not speed up when a truck is passing you. Instead, stay to the right and slow down slightly. Let the truck pass you. This will give the truck driver plenty of room to pass safely and get you out of the truck's blind spot quickly.

•If a truck driver is signaling to change lanes, give him/her room. An average truck changing lanes at highway speeds needs an 8-second gap (700 feet) that's the length of 2½ football fields.

AAA Mid-Atlantic serves 3.4 million members in Maryland, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Virginia. It provides a wide range of automotive, personal insurance, travel, and financial services through its 50-plus retail branches, regional operations centers, and the Internet.

More Than 3,000 Tires Collected At GC Amnesty Day

Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division, General Services Department, recently conducted a Scrap Tire Amnesty Day.

During the one-day event last month, Garrett County residents were able to bring tires free of charge to the Garrett County Fairgrounds for recycling. Approximately 367 vehicles brought in 3,256 tires weighing 50.17 tons from Garrett County residents and homeowners, according to a division spokesperson. No commercial, truck, or equipment tires were accepted.

"Approximately 5.6 million scrap tires are generated in Maryland every year," said the spokesperson. "Scrap tires, because of their size and shape and associated environmental hazards caused by improper management practices, present both difficult and costly disposal and recycling challenges for the entities responsible for overseeing their management. Maryland's response to the management of scrap tires is a nationally recognized success story."

Residents can help reduce scrap tire problems by purchasing retreaded tires, noted the spokesperson. Approximately 400 million gallons of oil are saved each year because of retreaded tire use.

Properly maintained tires also extend wear time, increasing the chance they can be retreaded. Additional helpful hints include keeping tires inflated at recommended inflation. Under inflation can waste up to 5 percent of a car's fuel. One should also repair punctures, maintain alignment, and rotate tires every 6,000 to 8,000 miles.

To avoid mosquitoes, residents need to prevent water accumulation in scrap tires. Those who have tire swings or tire dock bumpers, can puncture holes in the tires so that the water will drain out. Environmentally friendly mosquito repellents can also be purchased.

For more information on retreaded tires, persons may call the Tire Retreaded Information Bureau at 408-372-1917.

Information about scrap tires can also be obtained from the Maryland Department of the Environment web site at mde.state.md.us.

Additionally, information on tire recycling /disposal or any solid waste or recycling issue may be obtained by calling the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division at 301-387-0322.

POP-UP MEAT THERMOMETERS

Q. How does that little thing work that pops up and tells you that a turkey is done cooking?

This is a clever invention that takes advantage of a principle of materials. Like so many useful things that ind their way into everyday products, the device is extremely cheap and can be thrown away without a second thought. That's a lot different from the old days, when you had to jab a large meat thermometer into the turkey and read the temperature from it while peering through the window on the oven.

The device consists of a tube with a shaft inside, plus a spring that (when released) will eject the shaft from the tube. Pretty simple, and cheap. The trick comes in the part about "when released." As manufactured, the shaft is locked tight in some material, and cannot be ejected. But at a certain temperature, that material melts, and then the shaft is free to move.

In the case of cooking a turkey, the idea is to have the shaft pop up when the meat reaches a certain temperature, which everyone agrees to call "done." That is usually about 180° F, or 185° F, or 190° F not a wide range of variation. (Incidentally, 185° F = 85° C, by a conversion factor.)

Finding the right material that melts at exactly the right temperature is not all that hard to do. Just as ice melts at exactly 32° F (= 0° C), every other substance melts at a definite temperature. By mixing the right proportions of different materials, you can pick the temperature you like.

Here's a well-known example: pure tin melts at 232° C, and pure lead melts at 327° C, but tin-lead solder is a mixture of the two called a eutectic; "60/40" solder melts at a lower temperature of 190° C (= 374° F). There is a very wide range of temperatures that can be selected by alloying the right combination of metals.

In a similar way, various ceramics and plastics can be mixed to select a particular melting point accurately. aving it be cheap and non-toxic (some blockhead shoveling it in might swallow the whole thing) are the criteria driving the selection.

For those whose idea of "done" is a different temperature of the meat, a traditional meat thermometer can always be used. Some families prefer to remove the wings and drumsticks a little sooner, while others prefer to let them roast a little longer. But for most people, in most cases, the pop-up thermometer tells you what you want to know, close enough.

THE SUN–The sun spends the first 16 days of December in Ophiuchus, the 13th star group of the Zodiac. On Dec. 17 the sun enters the star group Sagittarius, where it stays about a month. The amount of daily sunlight carcely changes in December; the month opens with about 9 hours and 33 minutes of sunlight, and ends with 9 hours and 24 minutes of sunlight. In early December the sun rises about 7:21 a.m., and sets around 4:54 p.m. In late December sunrises are about 7:40 a.m., while sunsets are about 5:04 p.m. The sun's midday height during December stays approximately 27 degrees (about 30 percent of the way from the horizon to the top of the sky). In December, the length of twilight is about 65 minutes. This means that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-December, we have about 12.5 hours each night for star gazing.

THE MOON–As December begins, the moon shines in the late evening sky. After Dec. 4 the moon shifts into the morning sky, then most easily viewed at dawn. On Dec. 9 and 10, the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus and the dull planet Mars in the eastern dawn. On Dec. 11 and 12 the moon hides in the sun's glare. On Dec. 13 the moon reappears as a narrow crescent low in the western dusk. By Dec. 18 the moon has grown to half full (resembling the letter "D"), the best moon shape to view the craters with binoculars. The moon grows to full on the evening of Dec. 26, then shining among the stars of Gemini. On the next evening, the moon appears near the bright planet Saturn. As the year ends, the moon provides late evening moonlight for New Year's Eve celebrations.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM–Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steady, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus is spectacular as it hangs low in the eastern dawn in December. In early December, Venus nearly lines up with the dull planet Mars. The planet Jupiter is in Virgo and easily seen in the southeastern dawn. The planet Saturn is in Gemini, near the bright stars Pollux and Castor. Late in the month Saturn is high enough above the horizon for good telescopic viewing of its rings in the evening. At the end of December, the planet Venus and the innermost planet Mercury appear close to one another, low in the eastern dawn.

THE STARS–In December, the star group Orion is prominent in the mid-evening eastern sky. Orion's trademark is his belt of three stars in a row. To the left of the belt is Betelgeuse, a bright pinkish star in one of Orion's shoulders. To the right of the belt is Rigel, Orion's brightest star. The northeast evening sky features the golden star Capella, now the brightest evening star. Low in the northwest is the bright star Vega, flickering as it approaches the horizon. Above and to the left of Vega is the bright star Deneb, the head star of the Northern Cross. Below Deneb are three stars in a row that mark the cross's "arms." Far below is a star marking the foot of the cross. Each December evening, the Northern Cross hovers over the northwestern horizon.

NOVEMBER ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES—The Frostburg State Planetarium program for the Sundays of Dec. 5, 12, and 19 is "Yule Holy Days and Sky Sights," with public showings at 4 and 7 p.m. The planetarium is in Tawes Hall Room 302, and persons may call 301-687-4270 for further information and directions.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 17, at the LaVale Public Library. All sky gazers are welcome.

Study Says Maryland Seniors Need To Improve Diet, Exercise

by Linda Nishida
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland seniors are relatively healthy, but they need to eat more fruits and vegetables and engage in more physical activities like seniors across the nation, according to a report released this week.

The third annual report by the Merck Institute of Aging and Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention used a range of health indicators identified by the U.S. surgeon general to rate the overall health of people who are 65 and older. The indicators included oral health, obesity, mental distress, disability, and preventive health, among others.

Maryland got passing scores in seven of nine graded areas, including oral health, smoking, flu vaccinations, pneumonia shots, mammogram testing, colon screenings, and cholesterol checks. But Maryland, like most of the nation, failed when it came to physical activity and diet — two behaviors that experts said greatly affect health.

"It's a shame because what we see is while older adults are getting the message about preventative services, we're not translating the knowledge about healthy lifestyles into practice," said Michele Patrick, communications director at the Merck Institute.

Advocates said that certain obstacles, such as lack of opportunities for exercise, prevent Maryland seniors from doing all they should to maintain their health.

"Our communities are not made for walking," said Kelley Coates-Carter, spokeswoman for AARP Maryland. "It becomes a very, very scary proposition to walk in some of these communities."

Health officials said that all indicators on the report are important, but that exercise is critical because of its impact on overall health.

"It is the biggest issue we probably focus on for older adults," said Margaret Moore, public health adviser at the CDC.

"Physical activity is so important for reducing risk of chronic diseases," she said. "It could also assist with feelings of depression and anxiety, issues of controlling your weight, (and) maintaining healthy bones, which helps with preventing falling, a huge issue with older adults."

As for diet, Coates-Carter said that the high price of fruits and vegetables may make it difficult for many seniors to afford them on a fixed income.

"Fresh produce is very expensive, and if you have a limited income, one thing that would be the first to go would be fresh fruits and vegetables," she said.

Other groups have noticed seniors' diet problem, and are working to solve the issue. Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, for example, is working to change its menus for the homebound after the Maryland Department of Aging issued new dietary standards for seniors.

"Our clients will be getting more fruits and vegetables than they do now," said Toni Gianforti, spokeswoman for the organization. Maryland's performance varied widely in the other areas measured by the report. The state did relatively well in preventive health services for older men and obesity, ranking sixth and seventh in the nation, respectively. It also ranked 15th in occurrences of mental distress, and 17th in the number of physically unhealthy days.

But the state did poorly when it came to providing older women's preventive health services, such as vaccines and cancer screenings, ranking 41st nationally — a statistic that baffled officials at the Maryland Department of Agi...

One area the officials were not surprised about, however, was Maryland's poor performa...e in the diet and exercise ca...gories.

"We're focusing more and more on health issues — exercise and good nutrition — given the fact that we're going to face a virtual explosion of the (senior) population," said Maryland Department of Aging Secretary Jean Roesser. "It's imperative that we eat right and exercise regularly."

Medicare Approved Drug Discount Cards Available

Eligible citizens have the opportunity to enroll in a Medicare-approved prescription drug discount card program and earn a $600 credit, according to the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging.

Last December, President George W. Bush signed into law the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement and Modernization Act of 2003. The act provides Medicare beneficiaries with discounts on their prescription drugs as well as comprehensive Medicare prescription drug coverage effective Jan. 1, 2006.

As an important first step towards comprehensive Medicare prescription drug coverage, Medicare beneficiaries have the opportunity to enroll in a Medicare-approved discount card program (the discount card) that offers discounts on their prescription drugs.

ELIGIBILITY

Medicare beneficiaries are eligible for a discount drug card if they are enrolled under Medicare Part A or B, as long as they are not receiving outpatient drug benefits through Medicaid, including 1115 waivers.

Low-income beneficiaries are eligible for up to $600 a year toward their prescriptions if their income is not more than 135 percent of the poverty line ($12,569 for single individuals or $16,862 for married individuals in 2004).

To qualify, people must not receive outpatient drug coverage from other sources, including Medicaid, TRICARE, group health insurance, or Federal Employee Health Benefit Plans (FEHBP), Maryland Pharmacy Assistance or Maryland Pharmacy Discount Program – except if the drug coverage is through a Part C Medicare Advantage (formerly known as a Medicare+ Choice) plan or a Medigap plan. Generally, once a person qualifies for the $600, their eligibility status does not change until the new drug benefit begins in 2006.

NEW ENROLLMENTS

To enroll in a Medicare-approved drug discount card program, beneficiaries must first compare cards and then select the discount drug card that best meets their needs. Then they will submit basic information about their drug coverage status to selected discount drug card sponsors, such as zip code, drugs they are currently taking and how far they are willing to travel to a pharmacy. If the beneficiary applies for the $600 credit, they must submit income, retirement and health benefits information, and sign the form.

Applicants may obtain enrollment forms either by contacting the drug card sponsor they choose and having one sent to them or by getting a standard enrollment form through State Health Insurance Assistance Programs (SHIPs) at the Area Agency on Aging, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, or by calling 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or toll-free at 1-888-877-8403, ext. 140.

Centers for Medicare Services will verify the applicant's information and notify card sponsors about the beneficiary's eligibility and enrollment. The drug card sponsor will then notify beneficiaries about the status of their application.

Eligible beneficiaries who qualify may start obtaining discounts, and the $600 credit to purchase prescriptions – as early as the first day of the following month.

People who are determined to be ineligible for either the discount drug card or the $600 credit may request that their application be reviewed again and are also encouraged to contact the SHIP coordinator to determine eligibility for other State programs that they may qualify for.

CHANGING CARDS

People with Medicare can enroll in a discount drug card at any time in 2004, but can only be enrolled in one approved card at a time. The beneficiary will have the option of choosing a different card for 2005 during the Medicare open enrollment period, Nov. 15 through Dec. 31, 2004.

A beneficiary may change cards during a special election period under certain circumstances, such as if they change their residential status to or from a long-term care facility, move outside the area served by their current discount drug card, or decide to enroll in or withdraw from a Medicare managed care plan.

For further information, persons may contact the Area Agency on Aging at the contact listings above.

"Telehealth" Begins During Nat'l Home Health Care Month

from the Garrett County Health Department

November has been named National Home Care Month. Recent advances in the health care system have brought about shorter hospital stays and the emphasis that being home with family and friends speeds recovery, according to Linda Moe, director of the Garrett County Health Department's Home Health Agency.

This agency continues to offer a practical means of providing health care and related services to those in need with the expertise of a highly trained and efficient staff.

In recognition of National Home Care Month, the GCHD/HHA announces the addition of Telehealth care to qualifying individuals in Garrett County.

Telehealth is the process of using remote computer equipment to monitor the condition of a patient and relay information over a telephone line or wireless connection back to a central nursing station.

Two types of Telehealth monitors are available. One provides an audio connection between the patient, the other has full video capability so the patient can see the nurse and the nurse can see the patient.

The system is much like an ATM machine where a touch screen is activated and the patient is able to perform functions such as blood pressure, blood sugar, oxygen levels, and weight, which then are transmitted to a computer in the office of Telehealth. The nurse reviews the information and coordinates the findings with the patient's physician and the patient.

Through Telehealth, better patient outcomes are achieved by improving access to care and educating patients for long-term management.

The service can help stimulate important behavioral changes, and promotes patients and their families in participating in and making decisions regarding their care. Telehealth can decrease health care costs while continuing to improve patient outcomes and enhance their quality of life.

The new service, provided by a grant through the University of Maryland, is a wonderful opportunity for residents of Garrett County to take advantage of advanced technology and the changing trends of health care. Physicians like the accuracy and reliability of their patients being monitored, and patients like the security and dependability by knowing what to do and feeling well.

Garrett Telehealthcare will make the equipment available at no extra cost to the patient. Residents should ask their doctors if this is appropriate for them.

The Garrett County HHA continues to provide skilled nursing, home health aides, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, medical social workers, and nutrition consultations. To be eligible for Home Health services, individuals must be under the care of a physician, in need of intermittent, part-time skilled care, and be referred by their physician.

Persons can contact the GCHD/HHA nursing staff regarding information concerning the Home Health program and Telehealth. The Adult Evaluation and Review Service can assist with community resources and evaluations.

The Garrett County Health Department Home Health Agency has a professionally trained, licensed, and certified staff with years of home-health experience. The HHA is Medicare certified and licensed by the state of Maryland.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-7750, 301-895-3111, or fax 301-334-7751.

TRACY L. STUCK

The granddaughter of Deep Creek Lake and Frostburg residents is working her way up the leadership ranks of a major university and was recently recognized by the Columbus Business First central Ohio authority.

Tracy L. Stuck is now the director of the Ohio Union at Ohio State University in Columbus. She is the granddaughter of George and Jean Stuck, Deep Creek Lake, and Richard and Pauline Coddington, Frostburg. She is the daughter of Richard, a Southern High School graduate, and Ellen Stuck of Waynesburg, Pa.

She served as director of student activities from 1997 to 2001, acting director of student organization services and Greek life from 1996 to 1997, and coordinator of Greek life from 1994 to 1996.

Stuck has directed the Ohio Union at OSU since 2001. As director, she is responsible for operating the activities center for the university's 50,000 students.

She was recently chosen for the "Class of 2004 Forty Under 40." This annual Columbus Business First program aims to recognize "energetic and enterprising up-and-comers" from central Ohio's business community who are under the age of 40.

From a list of nominations, a panel of judges selected those who stood out in three key areas: career development and achievement, professional and peer recognition, and involvement with community and civic programs and initiatives.

According to Columbus Business First, Stuck's accomplishments include administering general, auxiliary, endowment, development, and gift funds exceeding $9 million for more than 40 operations; recruiting, selecting, training, leading, developing, and evaluating the entire Ohio Union staff; and creating and staffing the Union marketing department.

Stuck received an undergraduate degree in elementary education in 1998 from Westminster College (Pa.). In 1990 she earned a graduate degree in counseling and educational psychology from Slippery Rock College (Pa.).

Prior to her arrival at OSU, Stuck was the assistant director of admissions and director of student activities at Ohio Northern University in Ada.

Stuck is also active in her community. She as volunteer chair coordinating more than 200 people in connection with Major League Soccer's 2000 All-Stare Game in Columbus. She has also served in similar capacities for the 2004 NCAA women's regional basketball tournament and the 2002 NCAA Soccer Final Four.

She also volunteers in the information booth at Ohio State football games and at the Ohio Special Olympics.

Fund Drive Launched For Cancer Patient

A fundraiser has been launched to benefit a local cancer patient. Tom Compton, Backbone Mountain, has non-Hodgkins B-cell lymphoma and is undergoing treatments in Morgantown, W.Va.

Co-workers of Yvetta Compton at Garrett County Community Action Committee Head Start are sponsoring the fund drive.

"We need to make this a success to benefit the Compton family," said a group spokesperson.

Additionally, the Garrett County Chapter of Thrivent Financial for Lutherans Chapter #30966 will match funds raised, dollar for dollar up to $3,000.

Donations may be mailed to Bonnie Haenftling, P.O. Box 203, Accident, MD 21520. Checks may be made to Garrett County Chapter of Thrivent #30966.

For more information, persons may call Haenftling at 301-746-8741.

WARM THE CHILDREN
Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the eighth year, The Republican is asking for your help.
Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington and Bobby Andersen are the head coordinators, assisted by several other Civic Club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful.

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Please make your donations before December 3, 2004. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

DUI, DWI Cases Heard In Garrett Co. Circuit Court

Three alcohol-related cases were heard recently in Garrett County Circuit Court by Judge Jim Sherbin.

Gail Elizabeth Williams, 33, of Wilmington, Del., pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol. She was given a 30-day sentence in the Garrett County Jail, which was suspended, and was placed on probation. A $300 fine was also imposed.

Williams was charged by Maryland State Police in May after troopers responded to a single-vehicle accident along I-68, west of New Germany Road. Williams was determined to be the driver of the vehicle, and the officers observed signs that she had been drinking. Testing later determined that she was under the influence, noted the Garrett County state's attorney.

In an unrelated case, Chris John McCeney, 43, of Thomas, W.Va., pleaded guilty to driving while impaired. Sherbin imposed a 30-day sentence, which was suspended, and placed him on probation. A $400 fine was also assessed.

McCeney was stopped by sheriff's deputies in April after his vehicle was observed crossing the center line of the roadway as he was traveling on Garrett Highway south of Oakland. McCeney failed a series of field sobriety tests and was arrested.

Robert Vincent McKenzie, 40, Grantsville, also pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol. The judge sentenced him to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with 11 months of that sentence suspended.

McKenzie will be on probation upon his release from jail. A $500 fine was also imposed.

McKenzie was stopped by a Maryland State Police officer in October 2003 after his vehicle was observed weaving and drifting across the lanes as it was being driven on I-68, as well as the exit ramps.

According to the state's attorney, McKenzie failed a series of field sobriety tests and was arrested.

In other Circuit Court news, Dannie Allen Stemple 50, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty in two cases of inhaling harmful substances.

He was sentenced to six months on each charge, with the sentences running consecutively, for a total of one year. Six months was suspended, and Stemple will be on probation upon his release from jail.

He was charged in June and July of this year by sheriff's deputies who were called to Stemple's apartment complex for his causing a disturbance. On both occasions, when the officers spoke with Stemple, they observed signs that he had inhaled a harmful substance, according to the state's attorney.

Evidence was found at the apartment that corroborated the officers' observations, and Stemple was arrested.

AN EGG-CITING EXPERIMENT – Students of Bill Janoske's 8th grade science class at Southern Middle School recently had some fun with the study of motion. The teenagers were given the task of designing packages that would protect a raw egg from breaking after a fall from the top of the school. There is nothing quite like a hands-on experiment to learn such things as how falling objects pick up speed as gravity pulls them toward the Earth. Of the 60 participants' package designs, about two-thirds were successful in that the eggs "survived" the fall. (Perhaps the remaining third were all named "Humpty.") Ryan Hershman is pictured above with one of the "survivor" eggs, and Kimberly Michaels is shown below mourning a Humpty. Photos courtesy of Bill Janoske.

Lakeside Women Awarded Tell A Friend Trophy

The ladies of Lakeside Assembly Of God have captured this year's local Tell A Friend program trophy by contacting 140 other women and encouraging them to get their yearly mammograms.

The Tell A Friend program is an American Cancer Society initiative that is geared at encouraging women to get their yearly mammograms and educating them on the importance of the procedure, sources where they can get mammograms, and information for those who may not have insurance.

The program also trains women on how to talk with women they know to spread the word about proper breast health.

The women of Lakeside Assembly Of God were congratulated by the American Cancer Society last month. Esther Trautwein and Dorothy Bernard were recognized with Tell-A-Friend bears for their "outstanding" efforts. They each contacted 36 women.

Esther Trautwein was also recognized with a Tell-A-Friend shirt for being the team leader on this project.

The other members recognized were Zelma Bittinger, Dorothy Bowser, Mildred Skipper, Angie Rush, Mary Pat Thomas, and Dorothy Cathell.

"The American Cancer Society would like to thank these members for their efforts in reaching out into their community to help save the lives of women they know," said Tenna Taylor of the ACS Cumberland office.

She said the members' dedication resulted in not only 140 women being contacted, but five women getting mammograms because they were reminded of the importance of getting the test, not only for themselves, but for their families as well.

The group also found that 109 women had already taken the initiative to get their mammogram for the year, which means women are getting the message of how important it is to take care of themselves, Taylor noted.

The highlight of the project, she added, was that four women who had never had a mammogram got one scheduled and are beginning to take steps to ensure their continued health. The group was also successful in getting 22 women to begin working with their doctors to get baselines started.

Individuals, businesses, or organizations interested in becoming a Tell-A-Friend partner with the American Cancer Society or would like more information on how they can get involved may contact Taylor at 1-888-227-9979.

The Tell A Friend program is a free program courtesy of the American Cancer Society and all materials and training is provided free of charge.

TV PIPELINE

'24' and counting: Fox series returns soon

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Kiefer Sutherland

Q: Have we seen the last of "24"? I've seen no mention nor promotion of it. – D. Maurer, via e-mail.

A: Fear not. Counterterrorism agent Jack Bauer, still in the persona of Kiefer Sutherland, will return for more action when Fox launches the fourth season of the series with a two-hour episode Sunday, Jan. 9. The show will then air on Mondays, starting the next night. Part of the rationale is that Fox wanted to run the program every week until the TV season ends in May, instead of taking the long breaks that typified its earlier seasons. As a warm-up, Fox Home Entertainment is releasing a DVD set of the third year of "24" Dec. 7; it will include a preview of upcoming episodes.

Q: Are Susan Saint James and Angie Harmon related in any way? They look and sound so much alike. – P.W., Cortland, N.Y.

A: Well, we certainly agree on the sound. Those two women aren't related, but Saint James does have a niece who's an actress: Christa Miller Lawrence, the former "Drew Carey Show" co-star who's been a recurring guest star lately on NBC's "Scrubs." (Lawrence's husband, Bill, is that medical sitcom's creator and executive producer.)

Q: I hear my favorite show, "Alias," will be back on in January, but its previous time slot is now occupied by "Desperate Housewives." One of these shows will have to move, but which one? – Linda Perecz, Snohomish, Wash.

A: Nothing was firm yet as of this writing, but "Desperate Housewives" has turned the lights back on for ABC so dramatically in ratings terms, we're betting the network won't want to mess with it. "Alias" is likely to get a new slot, then, probably on Mondays after football season ends – unless ABC returns it to Sundays after "Housewives" and moves "Boston Legal" to Mondays.

Q: I've been waiting and hoping that "Boston Public" would reappear. What happened? – Helen Outler, Murrayville, Ga.

A: It wasn't a good sign when Fox kept pre-empting the school drama, and it was officially gone when the 2004-05 schedule was released. One problem may have been its move from Monday to Friday, when much of the show's audience was out of the house.

Also, creator-producer David E. Kelley wasn't involved as directly in the program anymore. His current series is "Boston Legal," the ABC spinoff of another show he lost last year, "The Practice."

Q: When will the "Nanny" reunion show be broadcast? I thought it was scheduled for October. – C.D., via e-mail.

A: It was, then Lifetime moved it. The cable network now plans to show the regathering of Fran Drescher and company on Dec. 6.

Maryland Public Schools Say "No Thanks" To Teaching About God

by Laurel Lundstrom
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland public school students are free to thank anyone they want while learning about the 17th century celebration of Thanksgiving — as long as it's not God. And that is how it should be, administrators say.

Young students across the state read stories about the Pilgrims and Native Americans, simulate Mayflower voyages, hold mock feasts, and learn about the famous meal that temporarily allied two very different groups.

But what teachers don't mention when they describe the feast is that the Pilgrims not only thanked the Native Americans for their peaceful three-day indulgence, but repeatedly thanked God.

"We teach about Thanksgiving from a purely historical perspective, not from a religious perspective," said Charles Ridgell, St. Mary's County Public Schools curriculum and instruction director.

School administrators statewide agree, saying religion never coincides with how they teach Thanksgiving to students. Too much censorship can compromise a strong curriculum, some educators said.

"Schools don't want to do anything that would influence or act against the religious preferences of their students," said Lissa Brown, Maryland State Teacher's Association assistant executive director. "But the whole subject of religious toleration is a part of our history and needs to be taught."

Brown, a former social studies teacher, said she was surprised to hear schools aren't teaching about the Pilgrims' faith in God. Teaching about a secular Thanksgiving counters the holiday's original premise as stated by George Washington in his Thanksgiving Day proclamation: "It is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of almighty God to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor."

Such omissions also deny the Pilgrims' religious fervor in the celebration of Thanksgiving, as related by Harry Hornblower, an archaeologist who spent years researching the history of the holiday.

According to the Web site Plimoth.org, dedicated to Hornblower's research, the Pilgrims "fell upon their knees and blessed the God of heaven who had brought them over the vast and furious ocean."

Thanksgiving, the site said, derived from their belief that "a series of misfortunes meant that God was displeased, and the people should both search for the cause and humble themselves before him. Good fortune, on the other hand, was a sign of God's mercy and compassion, and therefore he should be thanked and praised."

But researchers like Hornblower aren't mentioned in classrooms.

"We don't focus on religion, because it is not a part of our curriculum," said Sandra Grulich, Cecil County's elementary school curriculum coordinator. Opponents of censorship worry that by omitting such religious material from lesson plans, educators are compromising their students' education.

"School administrators need to get a backbone," said Joel Whitehead, president and lawyer at the Rutherford Institute, a constitutional rights defense organization. "We are in real danger of throwing out cultural heritage in our country if we don't know what Thanksgiving is really about."

Mentioning that the Pilgrims were Puritan is about as close as most administrators are willing to step to integrate religion into their curriculums.

"We mention they were Puritan but students usually just understand that they had a belief system and not much more than that," said Carol Williamson, Queen Anne's County associate superintendent.

Thanksgiving is usually taught as a part of social studies and emphasizes cultural immersion.

"The Pilgrim story is read in Spanish and English," said Alfreda Adams, principal at Mills-Parole Elementary School in Anne Arundel County where 70 Hispanic students attend. "We make sure that we celebrate all cultures."

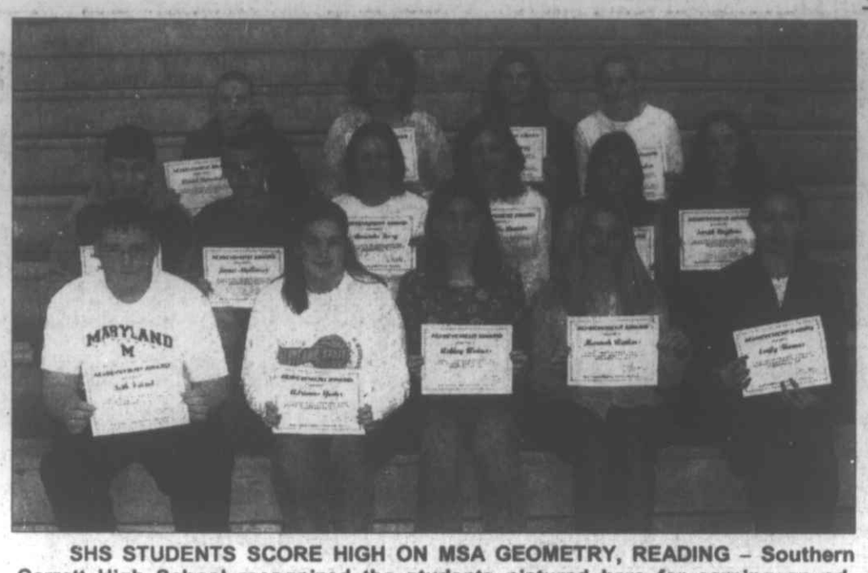
The Mayflower, Pilgrims, and Native Americans become enduring symbols to students before the two-day hiatus they are granted each year to spend time with their families.

"In elementary school we learned that the Pilgrims came to the Indians and they all had a feast," said Emmanuel Cobington, 13, and a seventh-grader at Annapolis Middle School. Cobington said his teachers never mentioned that the holiday was religious, but he learns about different denominations in some of his classes.

"We learn about different religions like Judaism and Christianity in our social studies classes," said Cobington.

Whitehead advocates for more classes like Cobington's and says it is harmful to students when administrators censor curriculums for fear of offending someone.

"Education is inevitably going to offend someone," said Whitehead. "We need to get beyond being politically correct, or everything will be glossed over."



SHS STUDENTS SCORE HIGH ON MSA GEOMETRY, READING – Southern Garrett High School recognized the students pictured here for earning an advanced score (the highest level) on the MSA Geometry test and the MSA Reading during the 2003-04 school year. The Maryland State Assessments in Reading and Geometry are required of all sophomore students as a part of the federal No Child Left Behind legislation. The tests are used as a measurement to ensure that all students are performing at an acceptable level. Additionally, all high school students must take state assessments in algebra/data analysis, English, government, and biology as a part of the state testing program. Above are the geometry test high scorers. In the front, from the left, are Seth Friend, Adrienne Yoder, Ashley Walters, Hannah Watkins, and Emily Thomas. In the second row are Warren Glotfelty, James Mullenax, Amanda Perry, Danielle Daniels, Meghan Flinn, and Sarah Stephens. In the back are David Bernard, Laura Viar, Hannah Gnegy, and Stacy Gordon.
